To start with, it should be clearly understood what constitutes a "war" stamp. Briefly, it is a stamp which owes its existence to the great war, issued during the war, or which has appeared since the Armistice as a result of the years of strife. A number of catalogue compilers have overlooked these essential details, and for reasons quite inexplicable have included numbers of stamps which, although they made their appearance during the years of the war, have nothing whatever to do with the case in any way. There would be no object whatever in merely collecting those stamps which happened to be placed on sale at the post offices between the autumn of 1914 and November, 1918. As ordinary philatelic specimens they have their places, but their historic value or interest is nil. War stamps owed their existence to the war, and it is with these issues alone we are at present concerned. Before proceeding, one other point should be noted. Certain dealers and philatelic publishers have systematically excluded all particulars of those stamps which were issued by Germany and her allies. The reason given is that it is not patriotic to collect enemy issues. This seems to be rather an absurd attitude to adopt, and collectors might just as well remove the pages devoted to the stamps of our late opponents from their collecting books. Stamps issued by the enemy are of considerable interest, and a collection of war stamps which did not include the issues of all the powers would surely be incomplete. It should, however, remain an open question, and collectors should be free to choose for themselves, and not be dictated to by the so-called patriotic stamp merchant. Really, the best line to adopt is to regard the question from an entirely neutral point of view.

When arranging a collection of war stamps, the first thing to do is to divide the different issues into groups, according to their importance. Here again the catalogues err in giving undue precedence to "War Tax" and "Red Cross" issues, which are of far less importance than many other emissions of the same period. Taking them in order of importance, and with due regard for their historic position as well, we have first those stamps which were issued by the belligerents for use in territory occupied by their forces, and this class may well be sub-divided into two sections—under the opposing groups of countries engaged in the war. Secondly, we have "War Tax," "Red Cross" and "Charity" stamps grouped in the same way, including of course those issues emanating from neutral countries. Our third group will comprise those new and revived countries or states which owed their independent origin as a result of the war.

 This is quite a large item, forming a collection in itself, and with which we must deal more fully later on. Then come the "Peace" and "Victory" issues, and fifth, and last, are included those stamps which came as an aftermath of the war, such as occupation issues necessitated by terms of the Armistice, Allied Commission issues, and Plebiscite issues.

Having obtained our five distinct headings, it will be found comparatively easy to arrange the stamps in such a way that not only will they be in chronological order, but will also be readily accessible when additional specimens are added to the collection. It now remains to deal a little more fully with these five sections and the class of stamps to be placed in each.

In our first group we have decided to include those stamps issued for occupied territory, and the following are very good examples: German colonial types overprinted and used in the Marshall Islands, New Guinea, and East Africa;
 Turkish stamps utilised in Mesopotamia;
 German stamps for the occupation of Poland, Roumania, and Belgium; Austrian stamps used in Roumania; and stamps of British East Africa issued for the captured German possessions in that region. These are all for use in districts taken by force of arms, and must not be confused with the occupation stamp of a later date, such as Eupen and Sarre, with which we shall come to in due course. Next, we have those stamps issued by the allied and neutral powers, which were sold at a certain amount above their face value, the extra revenue being given to the Red Cross funds. Closely allied to these are the Charity issues, and here the Central Powers are strongly represented. To complete our second group, we have the "War Tax" series of British Colonies.

Now we come to those new States which represent our third group, and includes German Austria, the new Hungarian Republic, Jugo Slavia, Finland, Poland, Esthonia, and Czecho-Slovakia.
 This is the Europe of the new era, and naturally has a place to itself. In the fourth section, under the heading of Peace and Victory, we must include the "Victory" issues of Siam, and New Zealand, and the "Peace" issues of Japan, Switzerland, Bahamas, and Germany. Now, in our fifth and last chapter come those issues which have appeared since November, 1918, and here should be included the Plebiscite issues of Schlesvig and Upper Silesia, the Allied

Commission emissions from Thrace, Allenstein, and Marienwerder, and the occupation issues for the Saar Basin, Eupen and Malmady, and the Belgian occupation of the Rhine districts.

These examples will be a very fair guide in arranging a collection of war stamps. There are, however, just one or two points which should be settled.
 For instance, what shall become of Russia and Wurtemberg? How shall we deal with those States such as Bavaria, which became Republics for a brief period and finally ceased to rank as stamp-issuing countries. Russia is now broken up into a number of Republics and semi-independent States, and these,
 of course, come within the limits of our third group; but there are a number of issues of Russia which were in use prior to the formation of these smaller Rus-sias, and these are rather difficult to place. The simplest way appears to be to include Russia as a special section of the third group, and let it be made up of those issues of the Revolutionary epoch, to be followed by Latvia, Lithuania, Georgia, Ukraine, Kuban Republic, Armenia, and those special Army issues about which we know really so very little. The "Volkstaat" and "Frei-staat" issues of Bavaria and Wurtemberg might also be included in the same group.—Philatelic Magazine.

EDITORIAL.

Interest.—We are gratified to learn that many collectors are giving attention to plans for instituting a philatelic propaganda; and the letters that have been received on the subject have been given due consideration. From the number of suggestions that have been made for effective missionary operations, we select those that embody ideas that are worth presenting. A somewhat refreshing proposal is the one that provides for the establishment of "philatelic reading rooms, after the fashion of the Christian Science reading rooms, but not on so extensive a scale." We wish that it were practical to do this, but any such schemes could not be promoted on funds that are collected by the voluntary subscriptions of stamp societies and stamp dealers. The maintenance of rooms in the manner indicated could not be done on any limited outlay, as the cost of rent, equipment and attendants would be prohibitive. Likewise, the use of "sign-boards", as one booster advises, could not be attempted before there was a sort of philatelic headquarters to which inquiries could be directed and from where, as a philatelic clearing-house, all sorts of knowledge concerning stamps would be imparted. The other new suggestion is one that would encourage the "big department stores to advertise stamp packets in their advertisements of children's goods or supplies". The writer does not tell just how the unemotional department store managers may be induced to thus recognize stamp collecting. We think that if our readers mull over ideas for the spread of philately, other schemes more direct and applicable may be whipped into shape for the execution of our ambitions to make the pursuit flourish so vigorously that the green bay tree will be put in the shade.

Displays.—Our line of thought on this publicity awakening is on the track of the stamps themselves. The stamps "themselves" are the best illustration of any injunction in text to collect stamps. Any plan broad enough in its outlines to be accepted in a general sense that will be a medium for the display of stamps will be the one that is going to bring the best results. If the advertising that is derived from the display of stamps even in front of the stamp dealer's shop was appreciated, there would be a greater desire to plan publicity with an eye to showing the stamps themselves for illustrations. We understand that the displays of stamps made in public places under the auspices of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society proved that they were not exactly cavaire to the multitude, but a theme that perhaps every tenth person could relish.

Seen.—We had the pleasure of a call from Mr. Schuman Kennedy, of Waukegan, Illinois, who received much newspaper attention by reason of his possession of a "stamp of 1873 valued at $10,000". The stamp was said to have been printed on both sides, and sure enough, Mr. Kennedy's stamp has an impression on two sides, but that on the reverse is an off-set. However, so remarkable an off-set is the printing from contact with the sheet that must have been below that from which the specimen was taken that it is easy to understand why, in their enthusiasm, some philatelists may have declared the stamp to be a double print. The impression on back of the stamp is strikingly clear, and reveals its character only after a close examination, in so far as the coloration itself is examined.

Strong.—We are amused by an extract from a letter from Prof. Forest Middleton, who is en route to Japan to take a splendid position in the Tokyo University. In a letter written on the S. S. Siberia Maru and postmarked at Honolulu, he says: "I have my pre-cancel collection, which makes friends for us everywhere. On the dock of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, we saw some precancels on packages bound for Hawaii or the Orient. There were strips of 50c Detroit; a block of sixty-five of the 5c San Francisco and blocks of the 9c and 11c of Toledo." The ruling passion is strong when the collector goes a-travelling on the well-known foreign strand. "What were your feelings as you entered the harbor of Sydney?" we asked a collector who has returned from a trip to Australia. "To tell the truth, the picture that I had in mind was the scene on a particularly fine one penny red, clear impression, Sydney view that I had in my collection, and I wondered if I would be able to get any good stamps on shore."

Opinions.—One of our advertisers, Mr. Elliott Perry, in passing through Chicago, called upon the editor, who took advantage of the opportunity to interview him on trade conditions. He said that while small stocks of old stuff were coming on the market, they were absorbed so quickly that the platter was always licked clean of these things. Granting that general business may fall off to some extent, the stamp business would escape unscathed, in his opinion. From his twenty years' experience, he would say that the stamp market was never immediately affected by the decline in business generally, and though it was something of a paradox, wealthy collectors found that they had some time on their hands when business slackened, and the consequence was that they were glad to turn to their stamps, which they were forced to neglect to some extent when their own business was booming; and the result was a greater philatelic activity. For some time past, it has been apparent that the army of collectors was increasing in size at a faster rate than ordinarily, and this condition is an added fortification for philately. Early U. S. will continue to be the prime favorites, and the demand for these stamps for purposes of study alone establishes the prices of them on a high scale. Mr. Perry is interested particularly in U. S. revenues, and he says that the intense interest shown in the regular issues is reflected "not unfavorably" on U. S. revenues, general issues and proprietary. The present season when in full swing will set a pace that has never been matched, it is safe to say.

RHEIMS, N. Y.

CANNON MATCH CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This die is the same as that of W. D. Curtis, excepting only that the firm name and address have been changed to read "Cannon Match Co., Stillwater, Minn." The change in the firm name may not represent a change in the actual ownership of the die, because Mr. Curtis was an organizer of and a partner in the Cannon Match Co., and may have retained legal ownership of the die while allowing the company to use it. In the Minnesota State Gazetteer for 1878-79 H. W. Cannon is listed as cashier of the Lumbermen's National Bank of Stillwater. The following quotation from a letter written by Mr. W. H. Cannon's secretary in December, 1918, is self-explanatory:—

"Since our recent conversation about the stamps, I have had a talk with Mr. Cannon, and he tells me that he cannot remember much about them, except that Mr. W. D. Curtis, who owned the die and was in the match business in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, entered into a partnership with a man in the wholesale grocery business in St. Paul, and as there were large lumber mills at Stillwater, the matches were made there from butt ends of logs.

"Mr. Cannon had no connection with the match factory, but as the head of the bank in Stillwater, he loaned these people money to purchase the revenue stamps, which were sold in quantities at a discount. The name Cannon Match Company was a compliment to Mr. Cannon, and as Mr. Curtis owned the die, the name was changed on them and used for the Stillwater company.

"Mr. Cannon says the match factory did not last very long, and he believes the men connected with it are now dead. He does not remember how the stamps were used, and has no recollection of their being used in series of three."

A collector living in Stillwater at the time the above letter was written, furnishes additional correlative data:—

"One of the buildings of the Twin City Forge & Foundry Co., who are making 155 mm. shells for the government, reposes on the site of the old Cannon match factory, which is near the old state prison. The match company was a small concern and was not in business more than a year. I believe it was started by some local men who were induced to go into it by Gropf & Berkey (or Berkley), wholesale dealers of St. Paul, who are not now in business, and who agreed to take all the matches manufactured.

"The matches were absolutely N. G. They would only flare up and go out. When the match company sold out, the St. Paul firm took a lot of the matches and a gas company of Stillwater took thousands of boxes of them. They were good to light the old gas lamps, for they would just flare up enough to ignite the gas. I heard the company sold out to the Diamond Match Co. President Davis of the First National Bank of Stillwater, who was an associate of Mr. Cannon, recalls that the match boxes had a picture of a wheeled cannon on them."

Of the Cannon stamp the Boston Book states:—

Die approved, Nov. 23, 1877.
 First issued, December, 1877.
 Last issued, 1878.
 1,131,520 issued on pink paper.
 221 stamps per sheet, (13x17).

The Cannon die was engraved by the National Bank Note Co., and the stamps were printed only by them. The shade is a trifle yellower than the bluish green shade of the Curtis stamps, and varies so little that there may have been only one printing of 5,120 sheets. The stamps represented a tax of over $10,000 net accruing to the government.

No revenue stamp ever issued by the United States has achieved greater popularity than this stamp enjoys among those who know it. The Curtis stamps are too scarce to be widely known, but the Cannon has been and probably always will be, fairly plentiful, and the price is likely to remain within the reach of the average collector. The beautiful design, together with the unique shape and the striking combination of color effected by the green ink on pink paper easily accounts for the firm hold this stamp maintains in the affections of collectors. And many collectors who confine their energies to postage stamps find the Cannon quite irresistible. If it were a U. S. postage stamp, it would readily command $25 to $50 instead of 25c to 50c—and many collectors who can possess it themselves now would have to enjoy it in someone else's collection.

The writer has never seen a specimen with original gum, but the condition runs so unusually good for match stamps that perhaps most of the copies in existence are remainders. Pairs, strips and blocks are known, and some students think it was used in strips of three for a 3c stamp. Proof of this contention is not available. More than twenty years ago a large block was displayed in the window of Capt. Hazeltine's store on South 17th St. in Philadelphia, and aroused a feeling of great longing in the heart of more than one of his school-boy customers. Perhaps one of those young philatelists more ardent than the others denied himself pretzels and chewing gum until he had saved enough dimes and quarters to acquire that gorgeous block. The writer doesn't know, and he hasn't seen that block since.

An essay of the Curtis-Cannon design with the name and address reading, "E. W. King, St. Paul, Minn.," exists in one or more colors. All known specimens are die proofs, and there is no information available as to whether King owned the die before it was used by Curtis, or after it was used by the Cannon Co., or whether Curtis sold it to King between 1873 and 1877 and repurchased it for the Cannon Co. to use. No E. W. King stamps are known, and there appears no record of a plate having been made from the King die. Possibly Mr. King was the St. Paul partner of Curtis to whom Mr. Cannon's letter refers. Stillwater is ten or fifteen miles east of St. Paul and about 200 miles west of Oshkosh, on the St. Croix river, which there forms the border between Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Advertising Contract

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS

Maximum of Service at a Minimum of Cost

WHAT OUR PROPOSITION MEANS:

We accept displayed advertising under this contract combining three rates.
 You use what you need and pay for what you use as follows:

6 lines (1/2 in.) $1.75 12 lines (1 in.) $3.00 24 lines (2 in.) $5.00

If you have any idea of doing a stamp business you need the Premier Stamp Paper of the World. Let us take the matter up with you.

The Advertising We Carry is Our Best Testimonial

De La Patria 9 de Octobre 1920" at the base, and 50c green, having the portrait of Sucre. All of the stamps excepting the 10c have also "Nueve de Octubre".

Mr. Onken also submits a copy of the 4c of the same set with the likeness of Vivero in the centre. The color is green.

GERMANY.—Mr. H. N. Haas has shown us a copy of the 3pf stamp of the 1906-11 type surcharged "3 Cent" in black in type similar to the style used on the Belgium occupation surcharges.

MOZAMBIQUE.—Mr. J. Robinson, Editor of the Union Philatelist, in the course of a lengthy and interesting letter, writes:—

"The Mozambique Company is keeping us going with new surcharged stamps; in addition to those mentioned in the June Union Philatelist, the following new surcharges have very recently appeared:—10,000 of 1/2c on 30c, 10,000 of 1/2c on 1 escudo. On pictorial issue.

"This value is used mostly for newspapers.

"The post office will only sell six copies to a stamp collector and three to other people at a time. Only newspaper people get large supplies. I have only been able to get a couple of copies of each of the above.

"Regarding the surcharged stamps
 mentioned in the June Union Philatelist, my Beira agent informs me that they were only sold freely for a couple of hours, and then you had to produce your letters and only got sufficient stamps for them; and my agent informs me that the speculators were too slow and did not 'corner' many of them, but I hear locally that philatelists got a fairly large supply of them. Of this surcharged issue the 4c stamps are reported to be obsolete already. Doubtless more surcharges will appear."

Meanwhile, our valued correspondent
 at Umtali, Mr. L. H. Rivers, says:—

"I believe the new stamps are now on the water, but I have before me

Um e Meio
 Centavos

sideways on 2 1/2 centavos, in blue:

Meio
 Centavo

—Stamp Collecting.

NEW HEBRIDES.—Mr. A. Brun advises that the current set, English currency set, has been surcharged at the bottom
 "1d" in black. The 1sh black on green, 2sh violet on blue, and the 5sh dark green on green has the same surcharge as these three values.

The New Hebrides Condominium on New Caledonia has been surcharged at the top "5c" on 50c red on orange and
 "10c" on 25c blue on blue.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. Frank F. Wills advises us that the stock of the 2c caribou type has been entirely exhausted and that it is not yet known whether new supplies will be ordered.

URUGUAY.—Mr. Fred L. Onken has shown us a copy of the 29c of the 1916 type surcharged "15" in red. The surcharge is in the centre of the stamp and blocks cover the former value in the upper corners and a heavy bar the words Veinte y Nueve at the base

SWISS AUCTION.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

The first philatelic auction to be held in Switzerland was pulled off in Zurich by Ernest Zumstein and Company of Berne, on September 4, 6, and 7, and was a howling success in every way, according to a brief report received from a correspondent who wrote immediately after the close of the last session.

The sale was held in the famous Zurich City Hall in connection with the First International Congress of Postage Stamp Dealers which assembled in that city, and was largely attended by British, German, and French dealers, with a scattering of Americans, Swedes, Spaniards, and Italians. Collectors were conspicuous by their absence, but it is likely that many of the dealers bidding were doing so as agents to their clients.

Of the 1400 lots offered, one-third were classic issues, including the choicest lot of Swiss Cantonal placed on the market in ten years. Unique blocks, strips, and bi-sects of these issues were the feature of this part of the sale.
 Other gems of the first water were old German States, Cape Triangulars, Two Sicilies, strips of postally used British Pound values, and a few of the greatest war rarities, like the 1sh on 1M Marshall Islands (85 copies issued) and the Togo Occupation 10pf inverted, used on cover (25 copies issued).

Singularly enough, but one U. S.
 item, a strip of three 10c 1851-56, was offered. Among the other foreign rarities sold were a copy of the 10k Trentino issue (11 copies known), the specimen offered being absolutely guaranteed,
 and the Levant Edward Head of 1906, 1 pia on 2d, Beyrouth issue. All these were sold at the first session.

Five hundred lots of unused German Morocco Agencies of 1905-1911, the CC issue, in quantities ranging from 10,000 of the 3c on 3pf brown, catalogued by Scott at 10c each, to the almost unbelievably large number of 3300 6p 25c on 5M, listing at $20 each, were disposed of on the second day.

The last session was devoted to the selling of another huge lot of German foreign office issues, these being the Levant issue, 1906-1912, in quantities ranging from 7500 copies of the 10pa on 5pf, listing at 40c each, to 1500 of the 25 pia on 5M, listing at $12 each.

A novel feature of the sale was that every lot was cried in both French and German. Interpreters to give assistance to those unaccustomed to the use of these tongues were available. Sales were made in Swiss Francs only. Buyers were charged a 5% purchasing fee to cover auction costs. All goods offered were the property of the Zumstein Company.

While my correspondent gives no exact prices realized, he states that "the items placed on the first day brought fabulous sums, all catalogue prices being consigned to oblivion. As for the wholesale offerings in German offices, these things brought much better prices than most of us, considering the numbers offered, had expected. With the placing of such immense lots, it is inevitable that the price for these things will be lowered for a time at least. But the market should absorb them all in the course of two or three years and then a return to present prices may be expected, providing always, of course, that further lots are not dumped by the Berlin government."

Our Celebrated War Packets

TUNIS.

Tunis is one of the Barbary States, once noted for their piratical propensities but now cowed by foreign domination into a semblance of propriety.
It was once the Roman province of "Africa" and contained within its borders the famous city of Carthage. For three centuries past it was more or less under the nominal suzerainty of the Ottoman Empire, but in 1881 France sent an expedition into the country to punish tribesmen who had been raiding across the border of Algeria, which lies at the western boundary and which has been incorporated with France since 1871. At the same time a French fleet appeared before the city of Tunis and the Bey, as the ruler was called, was forced to acknowledge a French protectorate over the country, which is still known to the French as the "Regency of Tunis".

Considerable difficulty was experienced in making the protectorate effective, and during this time the stamps of France were used, being cancelled with the round postmark having the name
"Tunisie" at the top preceded by the town name and the words "Trésor et Postes" below. By 1888 affairs had become settled and the postal service was taken over by the local government,

under the direction of French agents.
A series of eight stamps was hastily prepared by Mons. A. Casse and issued on July 1, 1888. They show the arms of the Regency within a Moorish archway.
The colors were the same as corresponding values in the stamps of France.
This set proved to be only of a provisional nature, for a new one, following the same design, was engraved by M.
Mouchon and printed at the French government factory, being issued three months later on October 1st. The two issues are readily distinguished, first by the ground surrounding the arms which is plain in the first issue and dotted in the succeeding; and second by the figures of value which are quite thin in the temporary issue and thick in the permanent one.

The same values appeared in the second issue as in the first with the addition of a 1 franc stamp, but the 5 francs did not appear until some time in 1889. The 15 centimes stamp was issued on the paper with "quadrille" design on January 1, 1893, following the adoption of that paper for the French stamps of the same value. On March 1, 1893, however, the domestic postage within the Regency was reduced from 15 centimes to 10 centimes and the new rate was represented by a new stamp in the proper French colors issued on that date.

In November, 1893, the 75 centimes stamp was issued with color changed from carmine on rose to violet on orange to correspond with the change in the French stamp of like value. A postal convention with Italy in 1898 made a reduction in the letter rate between the two countries from 25 to 20 centimes and a new stamp of this value appeared in September, 1898, although the Standard Catalogue gives the date as "1899". In February, 1899, the 5 centimes stamp was changed from dark green to the pale yellow green that France had adopted because by artificial light the dark green was apt to be confused with the blue of the 15 centimes stamp. This seems a rather late discovery in France after using the two stamps together for twenty years!

In 1900 France decided to print the 10 and 25 centime values of its Colonial issues in the Postal Union colors of red and blue, respectively, the 5 centimes already being in green. This necessitated changing the 15 centime value,
which was already in blue, to a gray.
The three new stamps for Tunis appeared together in February, 1901. On January 1, 1902, the series was augmented by two new values, 35 centimes and 2 francs, the former serving to combine the single letter rate of 10 centimes in Tunis with the registration rate of 25 centimes. The 2 francs followed the issue of that value in France to serve commercial convenience.

In July, 1902, Tunis became guilty of its first surcharge. The 15 centimes, blue, of which a stock evidently remained on hand when superseded by the gray stamp, was surcharged with the figures "25" over the arms and three horizontal lines over the old figures of value, all in red, to do duty as a 25 centime stamp in whose color it was printed.

Early in 1905 there were rumors of a new set of stamps to replace the arms type. They were to be pictorial and were stated to be from drawings by the painter to the Ministry of Marine, M.
Dumoulin, who accompanied the President of France on a visit to Tunis in April, 1904. The set was to be divided into four groups, each group having a common design, the designs to represent four periods in the history of Tunis—
the Punic era, the Roman domination, the Arab conquest and the French protectorate. The "Punic" design was used for the three values expressed in francs and was printed in two colors. The frame represented the portico of a palace on the hill of Byrsa, which was the citadel of Carthage, through which is seen a Carthaginian galley under full sail in the gulf of Tunis. Two statues in the castle of Bardo, near Tunis, are represented at the sides, the left hand being the goddess Tanit, and the Punic

The "Roman" design, printed also in two colors, is likewise framed by a portico through which is seen the ruins of the Roman aqueduct built by the Emperor Hadrian in the second century and which supplied Carthage. The view is taken near Utica, which was about 25 miles from Carthage. Sprigs of Roman laurel are seen below the vignette. The she-wolf suckling Romulus and Remus is seen on the base of the left hand pillar.

The "Arab" design shows through a Moorish arch the mosque of Kairwan, a city some 90 miles south of Tunis. This mosque, the Jamaat-es-Sehebi or "Companion of the Prophet," is the chief sanctuary of this holy Mohammedan city, which was in the middle ages the center of the religious propaganda of Islam.

The fourth design, representing the French protectorate, shows the Gallic cock perched on a rock at the left while a native is seen plowing (with a quite modern plow) and evidently being instructed by a French colonist. A bunch of grapes, two clusters of dates and an olive branch represent the "fruits of labor," so to speak. These new stamps were issued January 1, 1906.

In order to use up a large stock of the old issue, the 15 centimes, gray, and the 1, 2 and 5 franc stamps were surcharged respectively 10, 35, 40 and 75 centimes, the first two in red and the last two in blue in September, 1908. From that time until May, 1911, everything was quiet, but at the date mentioned the 15 centime stamps were surcharged "10" with four horizontal bars across the former value. This was due to the reduction of the single letter rate to France from 15 to 10 centimes which rendered the stamp of the former value of but little use. About March, 1917, however, in consequence of the raising of the domestic letter rate from 10 to 15 centimes again, as a war measure, the 10 centimes stamps were surcharged "15c" with four horizontal bars across the former value to supply a temporary shortage of the 15 centimes stamps. In November, 1918, a 3 centimes stamp was added to the set and a 30 centimes stamp in November, 1919.

Besides the regular postage stamps, enumerated above, Tunis issued charity stamps during the Great War in common with all the French possessions. These were as usual overprinted with a "red cross" to denote the object to which the charity fund was applicable. In February, 1915, the remaining stock of the 15 centimes stamp of 1906 was overprinted with a red cross only, thus denoting that 5 centimes was for that purpose and that the stamp was good for postage for the amount of but 10 centimes—the local letter rate. The work was done locally to the amount of 380,000 stamps.

In February, 1916, the 5 centime stamps were overprinted with a red cross and two bars through the value. These had no franking power and the whole proceeds of the sale went to the Red Cross Society; they should therefore not appear in a postage stamp catalogue.

On August 7, 1916, a more pretentious effort was made by printing the stamps from 15 centimes upwards in different colors from their regular ones and then surcharging them with a red cross and "10c". These were sold at their face value, but the postal value of all was but 10 centimes as indicated, the balance going to the fund for the relief of French prisoners of war in Germany. After the local letter rate was increased to 15 centimes, the stamps, beginning this time with the 20 centimes value, were again printed in different colors from either the regular series or that surcharged "10c", and were then surcharged "15c" with a red cross below and two horizontal bars over the old value. These were issued on September 20, 1918, and not in 1917 as the Standard Catalogue states, were sold at face as before but were only receivable for postage at the surcharged value of 15 centimes, and the balance went to the Prisoners of War Fund, as in the case of the previous issue.

On May 5, 1919, a special stamp for aerial post was issued, being the regular 35 centimes stamp surcharged "30" with three horizontal bars over the old value and the words "Poste Aérienne" at the bottom of the stamp. There was a weekly post by airplane between certain towns in Tunis which it was intended to extend. The postal rates were double the ordinary rates for letters, being therefore 30 centimes for the first 20 grammes. This was the reason for the value of the surcharged stamp; the other reason was to distinguish mail intended for the air route by a special stamp, and in use but one such stamp was to be placed on the missive—if further postage were required the balance was to be supplied by ordinary stamps. A first printing of 100,000 stamps was made.

Postage due stamps were not at first issued in a separate design in Tunis. When postage was to be collected the regular postage stamps to the amount required were perforated with a large "T" (for "TAXE") made up of holes varying in size and number according to the punch used, apparently. These are listed in some catalogues but are now omitted from the Standard Catalogue. On April 1, 1901, however, a set in a design similar to that of France was issued up to 50 centimes. A 1 franc stamp was added in 1902 and stamps of 2 and 5 francs in 1903. The 5 franc stamp was surcharged "2 francs" in two lines in blue in October, 1914. In January, 1917, the regular 5 centimes postage stamp was overprinted with a "T" in an inverted triangle and used as a postage due stamp as was done in France at about the same time.

Concurrently with the pictorial series of postage stamps on January 1, 1906, was issued a set of large sized stamps for postal packets. They show one of the mounted mail carriers on the interior routes approaching a settlement. At the left of the frame is seen a cactus and at the right a "century plant" in bloom.—New England Stamp Monthly.

A LOYAL COLLECTOR.

After 30 years of business, Jacob Kellar leaves Detroit to take up his residence in Oxendon, Ont.

For over 50 years Mr. Kellar has been a most enthusiastic collector, having started as a boy in Europe; and during this time he has accumulated a wonderful collection: specializing in Early Europeans and covers, he had one of the finest in the country. Other foreign countries are equally as well represented, many countries practically complete. Used stamps of early issues are his hobby in single, pairs, and strips. His U. S. are also a fine lot.

His knowledge of stamps is such that many collectors came to him for information and advice.

His place of business was a collectors' meeting place where the boys met and talked over stamps—bought and traded. Mr. Kellar never sold stamps; young collectors got a start from him as he gave them duplicates.

The boys are sorry to lose him, but all wish him success.

HAITI: SURCHARGES DURING THE AMERICAN OCCUPATION.

By EVERETT A. COLSON.

The new and, it is to be hoped, permanent "Agriculture and Commerce" issue was placed on sale some time ago, bringing to an end the numerous surcharges which commenced very soon after the American occupation and which have characterized its existence from a philatelic standpoint. The surcharges were issued to meet postal necessities, and toward their end the postal authorities endeavored with some degree of success to prevent speculation, by limiting the numbers sold to a single individual to ten and, in the case of one stamp, to five. While these stamps are perhaps not entitled to the same consideration as those issued in Cuba during the American occupation, as the native government of Haiti still functions within certain limitations, the Haitian occupation is merely another of the benevolent big-brotherly ventures of the United States in the Caribbean, and some day collectors of the United States will awake to their interest and the rarity of some of them.

For many years prior to July, 1915, Haiti was a country afflicted with chronic revolution. Within a few months it had seen three chiefs of consecutive and successful revolutions "elected" president in due constitutional form for terms of seven years. This condition culminated on July 27 and 28, 1915, in a massacre of more than a hundred defenseless political prisoners at Port au Prince, in the violation of the French Legation where the president had taken refuge from the wrath of the populace, and in his assassination and horrible mutilation, and promptly resulted in intervention by the United States. During the night of July 30 marines landed and seized the arsenal.
Additional troops followed to occupy other portions of the city. The present president, Sudre Dartiguenave, a civilian and at the time of his election presiding officer of the Senate, was elected president of Haiti on August 12. Later in that month the American squadron under Admiral Caperton entered the principal ports of Haiti and took possession of the custom houses, and the occupation was an accomplished fact.

Shortly thereafter a convention was negotiated and signed September 16, 1915, between Haiti and the United States, whereby among other things the president of Haiti appoints upon the nomination of the president of the United States a financial adviser, a general receiver of customs, and engineers in charge of public works and sanitation, and a constabulary officered by Americans is created. The convention is for a period of ten years and may be extended at the option of either party for a like period. A force of American marines is maintained in and about Port au Prince and at Cap Haitien. There is an American superintendent of schools and an American director of the postal service. Legislation is subject to the approval of the American government. Revolution is no longer lucrative and glorious, or safe, the marines attending to that phase of the matter.

Since 1906, when stamps of the 1898
type were overprinted "en piastres fortes" for foreign postage, Haiti has had two series of stamps used concurrently, one in centimes de gourde (a gourde formerly fluctuating in value but now having a fixed value of twenty cents in American money) for domestic postage, and one series in centimes de piastre (dollar) for foreign postage.

One of the blessings of the American occupation being the maintenance of a stable currency, Haiti will have henceforth but one series of stamps, available alike for foreign and domestic postage.

No discussion of the surcharges which have so annoyed the philatelic fraternity would be complete without some mention of one of their principal causes, the series of stamps most of which bear the portrait of General O.
Zamor, he of the "7 Fev. 1914" surcharges. This series was never placed on sale for the reason that before its delivery to the postal officials, the cases containing the new stamps were broken

into in the custom house and a quantity of most of the values stolen in February, 1915. This series therefore belongs in the category of stamps prepared for use but not issued. They are said to exist obliterated, but however that may be, they were never available for postal duty, and any obliterations which exist may safely be said to have been applied through the complaisance of some postal clerk. Some of the stolen stamps were recovered, and after considerable hesitation as to whether or not this series should be placed on sale, it was decided not to do so and to destroy all those which had been delivered to or recovered by the government. They were accordingly publicly burned in the Place de la Paix of Port au Prince on July 24, 1916. Full details of the theft and the destruction are given in the "Moniteur," or official journal, of July 29, 1916. For those to whom these stamps may have added attraction because all those in existence are stolen property, the following figures are given showing the numbers stolen and not recovered by the government up to the date given, these figures like all others given herein, being taken from the official journal mentioned: For foreign postage, 1c, 100,000; 2c, 500,000; 3c, 150,000; 5c, 500,000; 7c, 150,007; 10c, 250,000; 15c, 100,000; 20c, 80,000; for domestic postage, 2c, 100,000; 5c, 50,000; 7c, 100,000. Some of these were recovered later and also burned, details of numbers and values so recovered not being available. It will be noted that the above list includes two values for foreign postage, 2 centimes red and black with head of Zamor, and 20 centimes in the arms type and the color of the 10 centimes of the same issue, which apparently were not disposed of by the thieves, as they have not been catalogued. Some collectors in Haiti are said to have them, but they are extremely rare. There were also stamps of 1 and 3 centimes for domestic postage, all of which were destroyed. The statement recently published that mere possession of these stamps is a crime in Haiti is incorrect; so long as the collector does not attempt to use them for postage, he is not molested.

Had it been deemed practicable to place this series on sale, the surcharges might have been avoided. The series was received early in 1915 and no surcharges were necessary until October of that year. It will be noted that, with the exception of the two 7 centime surcharges in 1914, it has always been the 1 and 2 centimes exhaustion of the supply which has necessitated surcharges. The supply of 1 centime stamps for domestic postage having become low, the unsurcharged remainders of the 1904 issue, including those overprinted "Poste Paye", were surcharged in carmine or blue with a handstamp having a large figure of value in a rectangular frame very nearly as large as the stamp design. The numbers of each variety issued and the dates on which the surcharging was completed in each case are given below:

On Issue of 1904 (Nord Alexis).
10,000 June 27, 1916, 1c on 5c dark blue (C).
74,143 June 13-27, 1916, 1c on 10c orange brown (B).
35,050 June 20, 1916, 1c on 20c orange (B).
197,770 Oct. 19, 1915, 1c on 50c claret (B).

On Issue of 1904 overprinted "Poste Paye".
11,044 June 20, 1916, 1c on 20c orange (B).
8,297 Oct. 19, 1915, 1c on 50c claret (B).
933 Oct. 19, 1915, 1c on 50c claret (C).

The last stamp above listed, which was among the first placed on sale, is the rarest of the surcharges. These surcharges met the need for stamps of one centime for over a year, when resort was had to the 1906 issue as follows:

On Issue of 1906 for foreign postage.
248,668 Nov. 19, 1916, 1c on 7c gray (C).

The date given is that of the first installment of 150,000; an additional lot, bringing the total up to the amount given, was completed on April 3, 1917. The next stamp in the order of its appearance in the catalogue is the 2 centimes de piastre; a handstamp was prepared containing a figure of value in the center of a rectangular frame, in the upper corners of which are diagonally placed the letters "S" and "D", the initials of the name of the president.

On Issue of 1906 for foreign postage.
134,400 Oct. 4, 1919, 2c on 1pia claret (R).

Stamps of 1, 2, and 5 centimes de gourde for domestic postage being required, new handstamps were made with the value in two lines in a rectangle. As the supply of stamps of these denominations became low, surcharges were placed upon various stamps for foreign postage of the issues of 1906 overprinted and regular (Nord Alexis), and of 1910-11 and 1913 (Simon), the latter series being so called because the stamps of the issue of 1906 bearing the portrait of Nord Alexis were replaced in the years given by stamps bearing the portrait of Simon and the colors of the remaining values were changed. Following are the numbers surcharged and the dates of surcharging:

The colors of some of these surcharges are rather difficult to determine. After commencing the surcharging of the 1c on 10c red orange in black, the surcharging committee stopped operations at the figure given, reporting in its minutes published in the official journal above mentioned that the bad quality of the ink rendered the work defective, that the oil in the ink spread over the stamps and the inscription became illegible, and that they had decided to change to blue ink. Thereafter black ink was not used, except for the 5c on 10c red brown, though a number of the stamps are catalogued as surcharged in black. This so-called black of the catalogue is a very dark brown and is reported by the surcharging committee as chocolate. The surcharging committee does not recognize the blue surcharge on the 5c on 10c red brown, reporting it as black. The surcharge on this stamp sometimes appears to be a combination of blue and black inks and sometimes a combination of blue and brown, but never a pure black. All of these indeterminate colors are probably the result of a number of different inks used on the same stamp pad.

It will be observed that the above lists are not arranged strictly in chronological order of issuance of the surcharges, but of the series which was the subject of the surcharges. The next variety of surcharge differs from those preceding it in that there is no rectangular frame. The surcharge is in two lines, the first line containing three figures of value, one of these upright in the middle and the others horizontal with bases toward the figure in the middle, the second line containing the figure of value and the word "gourde." The remainders used for surcharging were those of the already overprinted series of 1914 ("Gl. O. Z.—7 Feb. 1914"). Following are the details of these surcharges:

On "O. Z." stamps of 1914.

27,000 Mar. 13, 1919, 1c on 15c slate green (R).

100,000 Apr. 7 1919, 1c on 20c blue grn. (R).

37,000 Mar. 1, 1919, 1c on 20c yellow green and black (R).

135,000 Jan. 3, 1919, 1c on 1pia claret (Br.).

10,000 Dec. 21, 1918, 1c on 1pia claret (R).

45,000 Jan. 4, 1919, 5c on 1pia red (Br.).

This type of handstamp was discarded and the old types again placed in use, except for the one centime, of which no further surcharges were required. It will be remembered that a new permanent issue had been delayed pending decision as to whether or not the series of which large numbers had been stolen should be placed on sale. When it was decided to destroy this series, placing an order for a permanent series was delayed pending the utilization of the enormous stocks of remainders of the various foreign postage issues by surcharging, and also pending the enactment of a law reorganizing the postal service by which it was intended to fix higher rates. Under this law, which was promulgated September 12, 1919, the minimum rate was fixed at three centimes de gourde, for postal cards, unsealed printed invitations, greetings, and the like, and an order for the new series was placed. Stamps of this value of former emissions being quickly exhausted, a new handstamp was made, differing from the others in that the word "gourde" reads upward at the right of the frame. The following are the details concerning these surcharges, which include the two-centime values surcharged before the minimum rate of three centimes became effective:

was used for the single rate on foreign letters, finally became exhausted and a handstamp similar to that employed for the "gourde" surcharges was employed, the word "piastre" being substituted:

On "O. Z." stamp of 1914.
75,000 Jan. 14-27 1920, 5c on 10c orange red (M).

The remainders of the ordinary postage stamps having been nearly exhausted by the surcharging operations above mentioned, remainders of the postage due stamps were surcharged for ordinary postal use by a handstamp consisting of three lines in a rectangle, the corners of which are rounded, reading "Poste—5 cts—gourde."

On Postage Due Stamp of 1906.
1,698 Mar. 15, 1920, 5c on 50c olive gray (B).

On Postage Due stamps of 1906 with "O. Z." overprint.

38,000 Apr. 8, 1920, 5c on 10c violet (B).
38,302 Mar. 15, 1920, 5c on 50c olive gray (B).

5,000 Mar. 15, 1920, 5c on 50c olive gray (M).

All the dates given herein are those on which the surcharging was completed; the dates on which the stamps were actually placed on sale are not of record, but are probably from a few days to a month or more later. In those cases where dates are not given they have not been found in the official journal previously mentioned, but the quantities are believed to be correct. The new permanent series placed on sale in April, 1920, brought a halt to this procession of surcharges. It will be noted, however, that the new series consists of but five values, the highest of which is equivalent to only five cents in American money. This series will probably be extended eventually by the addition of higher values.

THE RAG HOLLOW MATCH STAMPS.

There is considerable similarity in the history of the match factory operated at Rag Hollow, Connecticut, for more than twenty years and the history of the factory founded by William A. Clarke at Woodbridge, about ten miles distant from it. The reader will note that in each case the ownership of the business changed several times, as is recorded in the sequence of the different stamps used.

Although it was a comparatively small concern, there were more die varieties of stamps used at the Rag Hollow factory than at any of the many factories at which match stamps were used. These die varieties number no less than six, and as one of them was issued in two distinct colors even if we do not consider the varieties of paper upon which they were printed, there are seven Rag Hollow match stamps.

Rag Hollow is a narrow cleft high in the hills a few miles south of the direct line between Waterbury and Meriden, Connecticut, about ten miles from Meriden, in the northwestern corner of the town of Prospect and close to the border line of Prospect and the adjoining town of Cheshire. The Meriden & Waterbury Railroad crosses Rag Hollow close to the site of the factory. A gentleman who worked in the factory states that it was originally built by a man named Wilcox, who previously had made matches on Prospect Hill in the town of Prospect. The building itself stood for many years, and not long ago was sold for $50, moved to Waterbury, and made into a dwelling. At one time there were three match factories in the Rag Hollow locality, and at this date it is difficult to decide at which of them the first stamp was used.

The New England Business Directory, for 1856, lists the firm of Tyler & Bronson at Prospect, Ct., and the Connecticut Business Directory for that year lists Edwin R. Tyler at Prospect. In 1865 Edwin R. Tyler is listed as a match manufacturer at Prospect, and in Talbot's Directory for that year as a hardware manufacturer at the same location.

The first Rag Hollow match stamp is an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size. The center is a circular disk bearing a large, shaded five-pointed star. A circular band surrounding the disk is inscribed "U. S. Internal Revenue" above and "Matches" below. A curved band at the top reads "One Cent", and in a small panel at the bottom are the initials of the proprietor—"E. R. T." Ornamental panels at the upper corners each bearing numeral "1" and small circular disks in the lower corners each have the same numeral. The design is filled out with conventional ornamentation.

The Boston Book states of the Tyler stamp:

Die approved September 18, 1866.
First issued September, 1866.
Last issued August, 1875.
12,613,020 issued on old paper.
14,709,000 issued on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The stamp is listed in yellow green and blue green on thin old paper and in blue green on silk paper, and occurs in a variety of shades, ranging from a pronounced pale yellowish green to a deep yellowish green in the printings of the first issue, and also occurs rarely in pale bluish green on the old paper. A few copies which appear to be on the experimental silk paper of 1870 have been noted. Most of the stamps on the full silk paper are in a yellowish green which varies slightly, and blue green shades are scarcer, especially a very dark blackish green, of which only two copies have been noted. The Tyler stamp was engraved by Butler & Carpenter in Philadelphia and all were printed there. The number issued indicates there were three plates.

The writer is informed that after Mr. Tyler sold the business to Ives & Judd he went to New Haven and, although he had been in the match business for many years and was accustomed to handling phosphorus, he let a pan of this extremely inflammable substance become dry and carelessly attempting to scrape it, the phosphorus caught fire and his death resulted from the burns he received.

Ives & Judd.

In regard to the second Rag Hollow match stamp the Boston Book states:—

Die approved October 23, 1875.
First issued November, 1875.
Last issued September, 1878.
9,680,000 issued on silk, pink and water-marked paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

"This firm is first heard from on May 30, 1870, when they order $2200.00 worth of stamps 'from E. R. Tyler's die'. From this time until Aug. 31, 1875, they continue to receive stamps from the old die, which, up to that time, had not been altered as above."

The firm of Ives & Judd is listed in the Connecticut Business Directory for 1871 at West Cheshire (Prospect) and continuously thereafter up to and including 1876 at West Cheshire. The reason the address used by the factory appears as West Cheshire instead of Prospect was that the most convenient post office and railroad station was in the nearby village of West Cheshire. The firm was composed of Howard C. Ives and Henry Judd. Mr. Ives came from Meriden, was Postmaster at West Cheshire and was also interested in a hardware factory and a general store there. Henry Judd, manufacturer of Paris buttons at Prospect, is so listed in Talbot's Directory for 1865-6.

The house in which Mr. Judd lived, near the Rag Hollow factory, is still standing and when the present occupant of the house first moved into it a few years ago his chickens ate heartily of a whitish substance left on the premises by the former occupant, which later proved to have come from a can of the composition used in making match heads. The hens could not successfully digest such a heavy meal of phosphorus and practically all of them failed to survive the attempt.

The second Rag Hollow stamp differs from its predecessor by having a curved label inscribed "Ives & Judd" between the numerals at the bottom of the stamp in place of the small panel which bore Tyler's initials. The plate of the Ives & Judd stamp was made by the National Bank Note Company and all were printed by that concern. The imprint is of the type first used by that Company. The stamps vary little in shade, being mostly dull to bright clear greens in hues tending toward bluish. The yellow greens commonly found on the Tyler stamp do not occur on its successor.

It is evident that there was only a small printing of the watermarked variety. The watermarked paper did not come into general use until three months later than the date (September, 1878) given in the Boston Book as when the Ives & Judd stamp was last issued, and if the data given is correct, this variety was the first private die stamp printed on the paper watermarked U S I R. The rarity of the watermarked stamp was little appreciated twenty-five years ago. It was cataloged at 50c until 1900, in which year the quotation was raised to $2.00; in 1903 a further advance to $5.00 took place, and in 1911 the present quotation—$7.50—became effective.

Judd withdrew from the business about 1876, selling his interest to Chas. R. Bagley. The firm of Ives & Bagley is listed at Prospect in 1877 and continued to operate the business until the death of Mr. Ives. Many of the Ives & Judd stamps on silk paper and all of those on pink and watermarked paper were used by Ives & Bagley, but were made and sold under the old firm name of Ives & Judd.

PUBLICATION DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

It is with sincere regret that we are obliged to announce another raise in prices of our line of books. Recent advances in costs of production have, however, left no alternative.

The following prices are effective as of October 1st, 1920, and we will ask our customers to make special note of these quotations. We trust that no further increases will have to be made but owing to peculiar conditions now existing in the printing and book binding industries we can give no promises.

All prices quoted are subject to change without notice. Advance orders for books out of stock will be accepted only on the understanding that price will be as of date of shipment.

The following list comprises our complete line of Albums, Catalogues, Stock Books and Accessories. Items mentioned in previous lists but not listed herein have been discontinued.

EDITORIAL.

Cautionary—It is not alone necessary for the collector who spends a considerable amount of money on his stamps to give thought to present conditions; he must for his own peace of mind take heed of the probabilities of the future. The real philatelist who has a regard for all stamps of reasonable origin is inclined to be tolerant in his views and not likely to see the smoke that indicates a flicker, if not a fire. The stamps of the new European establishment have received cordial attention in this country and occasional suspicions founded on reports from private and public sources did not deter a general indulgence for the stamps. This circumstance was not to be wondered at as the historical interest and novelty possessed by the stamps made them distinctive; and this fact, combined with the seemingly fair prices that have prevailed gave them an easy entrance into the grace of collectors. All this is regular enough let it be said but we cannot ignore the warnings that come to us from disinterested correspondents abroad who, while not specific in their charges, denounce some of the recent emanations and declare that there is a probability that the worst is yet to come. We have always maintained that the collector who proceeds to fill in his spaces one by one and who patronizes reliable dealers is in a position of relative security; and we cannot conceive of any losses of magnitude being inflicted upon him. Here and there, a debit appears but on the contrary, there are items on the other side of the account. However, we bespeak increasing caution on the part of dealers here to buy their supplies from exporters in middle Europe whose reputation is not known to be defiled. A large importer when asked how he steered clear of the rocks said that anything that came from dealers whom he knew to be reputable, turned out to be merchantable by the dealer here who has a conscience; and he merely avoids the stuff that comes through suspected channels.

Again—To get at the heart of another development of the Neuropé question, we are in duty bound to admonish collectors not to speculate in these stamps as so many collectors are doing. From friends and correspondents abroad, a good number of collectors here have bought quantities of Neuropé stamps with expectation albeit somewhat vague of turning them at a profit here. We have seen several huge lots have been acquired in this manner and we must add that the calculations of the inexperienced buyers who tried to re-sell the lots were decidedly upset. The collector of Neuropé issues who is content to get the stamps singly for his album is on safe ground, but the speculative collector has made a poor choice. It is a problem for him to market stamps to advantage if he is not a dealer. Really, we do not like to see a collector try to deal unless he is willing to make something of a business of stamp selling. We are not thinking of any likelihood of loss in a monetary sense, but it follows that the purity of collecting interest is clouded by sporadic financial ventures. When the charm of collecting pleasure is disturbed by thoughts of material gain, the chances are that a professional interest will replace the amateur one, and then the collector has shattered the vase. It is a good thing to deal in stamps, but in our opinion it is a better thing to collect them.

change in name of British East Africa and Uganda: "According to notice received from the British postal authorities, the territory formerly known as British East Africa and Uganda shall hereafter be known as Kenya Colony and Protectorate and Uganda. The postal authorities of the Colony request that letters be addressed 'Colony of Kenya Africa', formerly known as British East Africa until the expiration of a year, when reference to British East Africa and Africa may be omitted."

Bokhara—Our London contemporary, Stamp Collecting, in commenting upon the report that Bokhara, a country rather well-defined at least in the rug-collector's mind, lying north and east of Russian Turkestan in Central Asia has proclaimed itself a Soviet republic, refers to the stir that was once made by the appearance of Bokhara labels about thirty-five years ago when new issuing countries were the exception. In 1886 Bokhara, under the dominion of Russia, was said to have issued three stamps, and so artfully were they exploited and so plausibly were they touted in different ways that for five or six years they had their partisans, who subsided only when the evidence against the three stamps was too formidable to stem. There is a bit of fascination about the various issues of bogus stamps by philatelic adventurers and some of these fanciful emissions made a deep impression on us; and years ago, when we first saw the venerable fraud of the late '60's, the "correos cinco cent" Guatemala, showing a harbor scene, it was impressed on our mind, never to be forgotten. This label was placed on the market four or five years before Guatemalan stamps were issued.

Card—From Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., we have received the notice: "We should be greatly obliged if you could inform collectors, through your columns, that, owing to circumstances over which we have no control, the new edition of Gibbons Catalogue, Part I, British Empire, publication of which has been announced for the middle of September, will not now appear until about the end of October."

Echo—The past of philately as recorded on the printed page exercises a spell over many collectors, we know by the frequency with which we are shown early catalogues and other print by readers. Mr. George Soulman sends a catalogue circulated in 1875 by Mr. J. A. Pierce, then at 79 S. Clark St., Chicago. Parenthetically, we may say that Mr. Pierce is still living in Chicago in a remarkable state of good health considering his advanced age; it must be remembered that it was about forty years ago when he flourished most as a dealer. There were over five hundred "types" illustrated in the catalogue, which, though of pretentious size, is chiefly interesting today by reason of the prices that were quoted. The five cent of '47, U. S., was listed at 5c and the ten at 30c. The one cent 1869 was offered for one cent, but the 90c was esteemed at 50c. For a cent, the 12c 1871 could be had. The 1871 issue was described as with or without embossing. The penny black Great Britain was priced at 3c; Poland, No. 1, at 15c; Denmark, No. 1, at 30c; Dutch Indies, No. 1, ten cents; Norway, No. 1, ten cents; and so on. The U. S. department stamps were held at good prices and dealers were eager to buy them, as at that time they were not to be had, practically, in unused condition. The unused stamps of the 1857-60 set, U. S., were still offered at some concession from face, even at this time, so far as the 12, 24, 30 and 90 cent were concerned.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUG. 24, 1912.

Of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, published weekly at Portland, Maine, for October 1, 1920.
 State of Maine.
 County of Cumberland, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public, in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared William W. Jewett, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Bus. Mgr. and part owner of the MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:
 Publisher, Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., Portland, Me.
 Editor, Charles E. Severn, Chicago, Ill.
 Managing Editor, Willard O. Wylie, Beverly, Mass.
 Business Manager, William W. Jewett, 226 Federal St., Portland, Me.

2. That the owners are:
 Charles E. Severn, 713 Oxford Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
 Willard O. Wylie, Beverly, Mass.
 William W. Jewett, 226 Federal St., Portland, Me.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state). None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed through the mails or otherwise to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is (not required).

WM. W. JEWETT,
 Bus. Mgr. and Treas.

Sworn to and subscribed to before me this 1st day of October, 1920.

YVERT & TELLIER 1921 EDITION CATALOG

Cloth Bound $2.25 Post Paid

THE ZURICH CONGRESS.

We have received greetings from L. W. Charlat and C. S. Watson, both of whom are attending the International Dealers Congress at Zurich. We quote from Mr. Watson's letter to the man-aging editor:—

"I had very much hoped I would meet you here in Zurich at this affair because of its magnitude, but evidently your ship had sailed on time and you were homeward bound when the Con-gress started. I did meet Mr. Charlat of New York here and the two of us represented good old United States amongst several hundred Europeans.

It has been a most wonderful educa-tion for me, and I have learned much from European sources. The stamps we only read about in America are here, but the 1921 price, I fear, will put a damper on the real stamp collector—the American school boy. In case my letter arrives ahead of the new French catalogue, let me warn you not to be startled. It is now like the other Euro-pean editions, based on foreign ex-change alone.

The Swiss people have given us a very fine programme and our stay here has been most enjoyable. Will be pleased to tell you more from this In-ternational meeting on my return home, but for the present only send greetings from the Congress. Am sailing for America on the Olympic Sept. 29th and soon again will be in the thickest of America's stamp fame."

THE NEW PILGRIM SET.

Proofs of the Pilgrim Tercentenary stamps to be issued by the Post Office Department show that the one cent stamp will be green, with a picture of the Mayflower in the centre. On one side will be the hawthorn, the may-flower of England, and on the other the arbutus, the mayflower of New England. At the top will be the words "Pilgrim Tercentenary."

The two cent stamp, similar in gen-eral design, will bear a picture of the Landing of the Pilgrims. Its color will be red.

The five cent stamp, which will have as its centrepiece the "Signing of the Compact," will be blue.

NOTES AND NEWS.

DANZIG.—We have now been able to obtain a limited number of the 5 marks stamps, as well as the new 1½ mark. A stamp of 3 marks was also issued and withdrawn the same day, for what reason is not stated. During a shortage of 10 and 25pf stamps, provisionals were made by overprinting the 20 and 30pf stamps with large numerals "10" and "25" respectively, and stars in the upper corners obliterating the original values. The surcharge is in red on the 20pf and green on the 30pf stamps. The sale of these provisionals was strictly limited to fifty copies for each applicant, who had to sign a certificate that the stamps were intended for postal use. A new series of definitive design is about to appear, when the surcharged German stamps will be withdrawn. The denominations of the new stamps will range from 10pf to 10 marks.

FALKLAND ISLANDS.—There has been a fresh printing of the 1sh "War Stamp" on the new shade of brown, which we are sending out, together with two new shades of the ordinary 1sh stamp, quite different to the first printing.

HUNGARY.—By a decree of the Minis-ter of Commerce, the exportation of postage stamps from Hungary is pro-hibited. A remittance of 17,400 Hun-garian crowns which we sent to Buda-pest, in February last, for a supply of stamps of the new issue has been im-pounded and up to the present we have been unable to get either stamps or re-fund of our money. This is one of the delights of running a New Issue Service.

MALTA.—The whole of the stock of 3d "white back" stamps which were sent out some time ago have been destroyed, none of them having been issued to the public.

MARIENWERDER.—A new set of stamps was issued in July, of the same design as the last, but with inscription altered to "Plebiscite" at top and "Marien-werder Kwidzyn" at foot. These stamps are already obsolete, as the Inter-allied Commission left Marienwerder on Aug-ust 16th.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.—Last month we distributed to all new issue subscribers to 10sh limit, a copy of the 12 pesetas on 10sh pale blue stamp. These were of the De La Rue printing, now obsolete, and we understand that only 800 copies were overprinted, so our subscribers may congratulate themselves upon hav-ing secured a real gilt-edged bargain; this stamp is now changing hands at £3 each and upwards.

SPAIN.—A new stamp of 1 centimo has been issued of a simple design, similar in execution to the ¾c stamps, which it probably supersedes, but larger. Numeral of valu: in centre, "Espana" beneath a crown at top, "centimo" at foot, and "Correos" on each side, color green.

SWEDEN.—On July 1st all postal rates were increased, and as there is now no rate requiring a 3 ore stamp, the re-cently issued stamp of this denomina-tion is to be discontinued. On the same date all official stamps were withdrawn from use. A special postage stamp of the value of 20 ore has been issued to commemorate the establishment of the first regular State post in Sweden, which event took place on July 28th, 1620, when a weekly service was inaugu-rated between Swedish ports and Ham-burg. The new stamp bears a quaint portrait of King Gustavus Adolphus, and the dates 1620-1920. It is to remain on sale until the end of the year. All val-ues of the new issue are sold only in coils for automatic machines, and are therefore perforated at the sides only. —Whitfield King's List.

I CAN DO IT

—yes I can! I can supply many of the hard-to-get match and medicine stamps in fine condition at reasonable prices. All you have to do is write me for a selection and enclose satisfactory reference. The selection I will submit on approval will be such a selection as you probably never have seen before.

For $5, you can get a sweet little lot—all different—that will catalogue between $10 and $15. It is weak in the common varieties but strong in the stamps most collectors do NOT have. My price for the stamps separately is about $7.50 and you would be lucky to duplicate them for $10. Slip me $5—do it today.

Note—This offer is good only for orders postmarked before Nov. 15th.

WARD'S U. S. NEW ISSUE SERVICE.

If you want all of the new things when and as issued you cannot afford to fail to investigate my service. I furnish you with blocks of four or more of the many interesting main as well as minor varieties turned out by this government from time to time. You tell me what you collect and I will endeavor to send you only those varieties of interest.

Mr. Hollowbush, an advanced specialist of U. S. issues writes under date of Sept. 28th, unsolicited "Were I to tell you how pleased I was with the first selection of your new issue service, it would read like a Peruna testimonial. In brief, your first distribution contained in one month more varieties than I received from a New York service in six months. The fine centering of the varieties was particularly gratifying."

I aim to please. I know of no better investment than late U. S. in blocks at a small percentage over face. A postal will bring a circular, a deposit of $25 will start the music. I have been a collector of U. S. stamps for about 25 years and have never sold out of my U. S. collection. I know what the collector wants in the way of condition for I have always been a condition crank myself. When I pick out a block for my own collection, I pick out a block for you at the same time.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—The Pilgrim Tercentenary stamps are at last on the way and while the Post Office Department seems to desire to keep the whole matter quiet, why I cannot say, I am able to furnish some details. As mentioned some weeks back the department submitted to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing early in August a number of designs to be considered in connection with this issue. Certain ones were selected and dies of the proposed stamps were made. Proof from these dies have been taken and have been approved and the Bureau is now making every endeavor to get out the finished product without delay.

There will be three denominations, namely, a 1c, a 2c and a 5c. The 1c will be in green and will show an illustration of the famous "Mayflower" on its way over. The 2c will be in red and being the most used value will show the most important scene connected with the event to be celebrated, namely "The Landing of the Pilgrims." The 5c in a deep blue will illustrate the "Signing of the Compact" aboard the Mayflower. The stamps are the size of the current issue but have the long side horizontal. Figures of value are on either side of the center design and while I have not seen the proofs I understand that they are real works of art. It is to be hoped that when the stamps finally reach us that they will come up to our expectations.

New provisional envelopes are daily coming to hand and this week we learn through the kindness of Messrs. J. R. Allen Thompson and Edgar Cantrell that the city of San Antonio has started the overprinting. Mr. J. Hull Wilson sends several new ones from Detroit, Mr. Richard Friedlander one from San Francisco, while Mr. A. Hermann has located several unchronicled varieties in New York. Mr. Chas. Huscher received one in his mail from Denver that has not been listed, Mr. H. W. Lindaman finds two new envelopes in Chicago, while Mr. L. D. Peaslee sends me two more from Milwaukee. Mr. George P. Smith has not only located a new window variety from Philadelphia and two new overprints from Seattle but has found a variety that was not only surcharged with the 2c envelope die but was also surcharged with the 1c postal die. One of the Seattle varieties, by the way, is on blue, the first colored envelope we have seen from this city. It had a private return card so is evidently some old stock overprinted for a local concern. Mr. C. J. Hohenstein sends the first we have seen from Minneapolis.

BARBADOS.—We are indebted to Mr. Frank P. Brown and Mr. F. W. Mason for the first look at the new Peace stamps so long looked for. The set is very attractive and one that will make a fine appearance in many collections. The values and colors are as follows: 1/2d bistre and grey, 1/2d yellow green and grey, 1d vermilion and grey, 2d light grey and dark grey, 2 1/2d ultramarine and blue, 3d lilac and grey, 4d grey green and grey, 6d orange and grey, 1sh yellow green and black, 2sh brown and black and 3sh orange and black. The first eight values show a side view of the winged goddess of Victory with "Barbados" at the top and "Postage" at the base. In each lower corner is figure of value and above the left figure is Victory and the right, "1919." The three high values picture the same image standing on a round surface with a wreath in her right hand and a palm in her left.

BRITISH OFFICES IN MOROCCO.—The 10sh new printing has been surcharged MOROCCO AGENCIES at the top and 12 pesetas at the bottom in red.—Economist Bulletin.

CAMEROONS.—The West-End Philatelist points out that the new edition of the French War stamp catalogue makes mention of a hitherto unrecorded series of occupation stamps from the Cameroons. It comprises the values from 3pf to 80pf of the ex-German "Kamerun" set, overprinted CORPS EXPEDITIONNAIRE FRANCO-ANGLAIS, like the French Congo stamps issued in November, 1915. A very small number of these little known War stamps is said to have been prepared at Brazzaville, but was withheld from circulation on account of the withdrawal of the British portion of the Expeditionary Force and the taking over of control by the French in 1916.—Stamp Collecting.

Dear Friends and Others—

The honor and pleasure of serving on the Recruiting Committee of the A. P. S. has again fallen upon Yours Truly. Headed by the man who made Herrin more famous than herring, said committee is going to hump.

Now this ad costs real money, and the American Philatelic Society doesn't pay for it, either. However, such a wringing appeal should arouse at least fifty philatelists to write for more dope—serious, logical stuff. When the fiftieth request arrives, the check in payment for said advertising will slip suddenly from St. Louis. But should fifty answers not be forthcoming—boy, page Mr. Wylie, please—I feel sure the WEEKLY'S boss will take pleasure in burying the bill in Beverly.

Cordially yours,

C. GORDON FENNELL (A. P. S. 5421).

For the discriminating collector we have prepared a series of Approval Books of these issues—Nineteenth Century for the greater part—arranged by countries. The condition ranges from good to fine, and priced accordingly, and reasonably.

We will be pleased to submit any of these to those interested. Satisfactory references, of course, asked from first customers.

We have in preparation a similar series of the stamps of Old Europe, of which we hold an excellent stock, Early Austria in particular.

stamps. They are the 40 red brown and 60 blue. The Economist Stamp Co. submits copies for chronicle.

DANZIG.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the 20pf stamps of Germany with the Danzig surcharge with the added overprint "10" in red and with stars in each upper corner.

ESTHONIA.—Mr. Frank P. Brown and the Economist Stamp Co. has shown us copies of the new 2m blue stamp. The type is of the 35p, described in our issue No. 1536, and is like the former value printed on very thin paper. Mr. Brown also has shown us the 35p surcharged "1 m".

FALKLAND ISLANDS.—There has been a fresh printing of the 1sh "War Stamp" on the new shade of brown. —Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

GAMBIA.—Mr. A. H. Wooldridge shows us a most extraordinary freak of the current penny adhesive; on it the head of King George is very "fuzzy", having two beards and two necks—evidently the result of the paper shifting during printing operations.—Stamp Collecting.

GUATEMALA.—The 1919 issue 30c and 60c stamps have recently appeared surcharged "1920 2 centavos" and "2 centavos", respectively. The overprints are in black and the former is of two lines. The 60c has also the added surcharged "1920" in red. The Economist Stamp Co. submits copies for chronicle.

JOHORE.—The $5 and $10 values have been added to the current series, colors green and yellow, and green and black, respectively. They are printed on heavy multiple watermarked paper.—Economist Bulletin.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. Frank F. Wills and Mr. M. P. Hynes send us copies of the recently issued provisionals which have been issued to replace the temporary shortage of the 3c stamp. The 15c Cabot Issue and the 35c value of the same set have been overprinted "Three Cents" in two lines in black with a long horizontal bar at the top and base of the stamp. Our correspondents advise that the stamps were placed on sale the 12th inst; and that not more than five were sold to any one person, but later we learned that stamps were only sold to persons producing foreign letters to be sent. Mr. Wills informs us that the S. S. Sachem with a new supply of the 2c and 3c Caribou is due the 23rd and the shortage will be relieved. Mr. Hynes calls our attention to the existence of two types of these surcharged stamps one with wide space between the lines and the other somewhat narrower.

SAMOA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us copies of the recently issued Victory set of New Zealand surcharged "Samoa". The 1/2d, 1 1/2d and 6d are overprinted in red and the 1d, 3d and 1sh in blue.

This is an Unusual Offer of BARGAINS

SPAIN.—On account of the recent increase in the Spanish inland postal rates, there has been an unprecedented demand for certain values, and from the middle of May to the middle of June there was a dearth of 1/4, 2, 5, 10, 15, and 20 centimos postage stamps, and all stocks of the 20c on hand at the post offices were sold out within a short time of the coming into effect of the higher rates. Under the circumstances the public was allowed to use almost any kind of stamp of the face value required, such as telegraph and receipt stamps and other fiscals, and even the halves of 2c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c (green), and 30c denominations.

A new 20c stamp has now appeared, this being typographed in the same design as before, but in violet instead of green. (It has the appearance of a lithograph, but the Spanish and Press papers call it a typograph). Mr. L. Rowe, of Barcelona, and Mr. Maurice Bawtree, of West Drayton, have shown us postally used copies, on which we note the numerals are taller than before, and the second "O" of "Correos" is unshaded.

The various non-postal stamps used temporarily as substitutes for labels during the period specified include the 5, 10, and 15c telegraph stamps, also the 30c telegraph bisected, the 15c orange cheque stamp, the 10c green "bill" stamp, the same bisected, the 5c black, the 10c brown, 15c carmine, and 20c lilac "moviles" stamps, and the 10c of the same series cut in halves.

The Times says:—
 "The new definite postage stamps of the Spanish air mail service promise to be the most striking series of aerial stamps that has so far been issued. The designs are to symbolize the rise and progress of aerial navigation. They will shortly replace the present provisional issue overprinted 'Correo Aereo' of which only 20,000 sets have been prepared. Three particular postage stamps are to be issued by the Spanish Post Office on the occasion of the seventh convention of the Universal Postal Union in Madrid in October. A new low value—viz. 1 centimo—is about to be added to the current Spanish postage stamps, and the design of the express letter stamp is also to be changed."
 —Stamp Collecting.

IT'S A CASE OF REAL GENIUS!

Of course we receive many bouquets as the months go by and we appreciate all such favors. It remains for a new subscriber, Hugh H. Thomsen, to point out that our subscription price is all out of proportion to the service we render. We know it, but we are content to let our advertisers bear a portion of this expense item. Writes Mr. Thomsen:—

"I can't understand how you can continue to run a weekly of the high character yours evidently is, in the present unsettled condition of commodities in the printing trade, for only $1 a year. However, I am not kicking. To the contrary, I wish you the best of continued good luck."

has no business tackling the early U. S. in superb condition. I am looking for the man with a few dollars surplus, say $25 to $100, who can be content with average specimens, at attractive prices. Cut this ad out, draw a circle around the ones you are lacking, give reference and I'll show you some stamps that will please you, or you need not buy them.

Here are the kinds I can furnish: 1847, 5, 10; 1851, 1, 5, 10, 12; 1857, 10, 12, 24, 30, 90; 1857, 5c red brown and 5c brick red; 1861, 5c buff, 5c red brown; 1868, 1, 10, 12, 15, 24, 30, 90; 1869, 1, 6, 12, 15, 15 (var.), 24, 39, 90. Good looking copies at prices far below those charged for superb specimens.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"I enclose one dollar ($1.00) for an extension of my subscription for an other year, hoping you have not discontinued the same. Last summer you were forced to reduce to six pages, but this summer you kept up the regular size, even though it had been made larger. I am sure that it made you many friends, because a paper which can do that, especially in this paper shortage when so many publications are suspending and combining, is worthy to be congratulated. The psychology of it would convince an outsider that it must be worth while to be able to do such a thing."—K. E. PARKER.

—The publishers of the Canadian Stamp Collector have been burnt out.
The loss is heavy, but publication will be resumed in six weeks, which is as soon as new machinery and new quarters can be arranged for.

—"I have received from Holland two new surcharged stamps which are 10gld orange, Scott's No. 93 and 10gld, Scott's
No. 108 surcharged 2.50 in black thin type figures 6 1/2 millimeters high. Also saw a postal from a government official of Rotterdam saying that none were to be had at the post office as they were all sold out.

While I was in Stockholm last July
I bought the Sweden coil stamps imperforate horizontally and perf. 10 vertically: 3, 5, 10, 15, 20, and 30 ore dark brown, same design as the 5 ore green, and am submitting a copy of the 30 ore.
Having talked with a few dealers in Stockholm, they told me that they expect the coil stamps to be issued in the higher values. I have not received any as yet, and will let you know when I receive them."—I. GOLDSTEIN.

THE STAMPS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER I.

Introduction.

Newfoundland, Britain's oldest Colony, is an island of North America lying at the mouth of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, separated from Labrador on the north by the Straits of Belle Isle (eleven miles wide). It is roughly triangular in shape, having Cape Bould on the north, Cape Ray on the southwest, and Cape Race on the southeast. It is 370 miles in length and 290 miles in breadth and has an area of 40,200 square miles. Its population, numbering about 250,000 altogether, is densest in the peninsula of Avalon in the southeast in which is the capital, St. John's.

Its fisheries are world famous and date back as early as the beginning of the 16th century. By 1578, 400 vessels, 50 of them English and the rest chiefly French and Spanish, were engaged in fishing. When the island was ceded to Great Britain in 1713 the French retained the right, extended in 1783, to catch and dry fish on a certain defined part of the coast. By the Anglo-French agreement of 1904 the French renounced their troublesome claim to these exclusive rights on "the French shore", which until then had been a constant source of friction and a hindrance to its development.

The island presents a wild and sterile appearance. The mountains in the Avalon peninsula, connected with the rest of the island by a narrow isthmus three miles wide, rise to a height of 2000 feet. The number of lakes and ponds is remarkable, and about one-third of the whole surface area is covered with fresh water. The longest river is the Exploits, which extends some 200 miles from its source to the sea. The coast line is rugged and rock bound but is everywhere indented by bays and inlets running far inland which afford numerous safe and commodious harbors.

While the fisheries are the Colony's most important industry and give employment to about one-quarter of its population, its mineral resources are very great and are gradually being developed. Until recent years but little attention was paid to agriculture, but there is now considerable cultivation along the seaboard of the settled districts. There is abundant timber, especially in the west, and the manufacture of paper pulp is now a very important industry.

Newfoundland was discovered in 1497 by John Cabot and visited by the Portuguese Cortereal in 1500. In 1583 Sir Humphrey Gilbert took possession of the island in the name of Queen Elizabeth but no permanent settlements were formed until 1621, when Sir George Calvert, (afterwards Lord Baltimore), settled in the Avalon peninsula. The French relinquished their rights in 1713 and in 1855 full responsible government was granted to the Colony. The administration consists of a governor, appointed by the crown, an Executive Council of seven members, a Legislative Council of 15 members appointed by the crown, and a House of Assembly composed of 36 members elected by the people.

CHAPTER II.

Postal Rates and Notices.

Although Newfoundland had obtained control of its own postal service from the Imperial Government at the same time as the other colonies in British North America, it was the last but one to issue postage stamps. In fact, so negligent was the Colony in this regard that it did not even bother to enact a Postal Act that would place it on the same footing as the other Colonies. True, a Postal Act was passed on May 31st, 1851, but, as Mr. Donald A. King points out, this was solely for the purpose of establishing Inland Posts, and related more to the regulation of mail routes, tenders, and pay for postal service, than to the establishment of a uniform rate, or a service with the other Colonies. The only portion of this Act of interest to us as philatelists is the following:—

"AN ACT FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT AND REGULATION OF INLAND POSTS IN THIS COLONY.

"X.—And be it enacted, that a uniform rate of threepence currency shall be paid on every letter, not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by Post as aforesaid in this Colony, and an additional threepence for every additional half ounce; and for all Books, Periodical Publications, and Pamphlets at the rate of twopence currency per ounce up to six ounces in weight, over that weight the sum of threepence currency per ounce up to sixteen ounces in weight, beyond which weight no books or pamphlets aforesaid shall be transmitted through the said post, provided always that all Letters, Despatches, and other Documents, from and to any of the Public Offices on Public Business, and all papers ordered to be printed by either Branch of the Legislature, and all Returns, Writs, and Processes, to and from the Sheriffs and their deputies, and all Newspapers shall be transmitted Free of Postage."

This Act was amended from time to time and the first amendment made and passed on June 14th, 1852, authorised postage stamps to be issued. The sections relating to stamps are as follows:

"I.—Be it therefore enacted, by the Governor, Council, and Assembly, in Legislative assembly convened, that it shall be lawful for the Governor in Council to give orders for the preparing and distributing Colonial stamps for the prepayment of all letters and packages, which stamps shall be evidence of the Prepayment of Postage to the amount mentioned on such stamp; for making, authorizing, sanctioning, or giving effect to any arrangement that may require to be made with the postal authorities of the United Kingdom, or any British possession, or of the United States, or any foreign country, with regard to the collecting and accounting for postage.

III.—And be it enacted, That for avoiding doubts, and preventing inconvenient delay in the delivery of letters, the Postmaster General, or Postmasters, shall not be bound to give change, but the exact amount of the postage on any letter or packet shall be tendered or paid to him, or them, in current coin, or Colonial postage stamps."

While this act authorised the issue of postage stamps, no attempt whatsoever was made to get them. This seems to have been due entirely to the economical policy actuating the local Government and not to any lack of interest on the part of the Postmaster General. Indeed, the Postmaster General was a strenuous advocate of their issue and use and it is probably due to a proposal made in his Report for 1851 that the above amendment was made. He says:—

"I now beg respectfully to draw your attention to the following suggestions which, if embodied in the Postal Act, will, I am of opinion, facilitate the means of posting letters throughout the Island, will add to the revenue of the office, and further will operate beneficially in an extended correspondence.

I would propose that Colonial stamps to the value of threepence currency, for the prepayment of postage upon letters posted in any part of this Island, be introduced, and that such stamps as are issued in the other British North American Colonies shall be allowed in this Colony as evidence of the prepayment of Colonial postage in these Colonies, respectively, on the letters or packets to which they are affixed and which have been posted there."

As this proposal was considered of sufficient importance to be embodied in an amendment to the Post Office Act and was approved by the Post Office Committee, it would naturally be inferred that postage stamps would soon be issued, but the "powers that be" did not do business in that hasty fashion, and the matter was apparently shelved indefinitely. Nothing tangible having resulted from his proposal, the Postmaster General again refers to postage stamps in his Report for 1853:—

"Having recommended in my report before referred to, the expediency of the use of Colonial postage stamps for the prepayment of postage upon letters, which was adopted by the Legislature, and inserted in the Postal Act of 12th June, 1852, I would submit the necessity of authority being given for their immediate introduction."

Evidently this pointed reference to the all-important matter of stamps was as unproductive of results as the Postmaster General's earlier efforts, for in July, 1855, he again found it necessary to appeal for the stamps, the issue of which had been sanctioned three years before by the Legislature and the Post Office Committee. Seemingly, this appeal must have met with a little more encouragement, for a more extended and elaborate scheme was now submitted as follows:—

"I further beg to submit the following suggestions and alterations, which, after due consideration, I am of opinion may be acted upon with advantage, and by which public convenience would be greatly promoted.

First, the immediate introduction of Imperial, Provincial and Local postage stamps. The former to be of the value respectively of one penny and sixpence. The Provincial of the value of fourpence, sixpence halfpenny, and one shilling, and the Local of the value of threepence."

This recommendation appeared to be merely more wasted effort on the part of the Postmaster General, though we have grounds to believe that the Post Office Committee were showing some signs of life inasmuch as a new Postal Act, more in conformity with those effective in the neighboring Colonies, was passed on May 12th, 1856, viz.:—

"AN ACT TO REGULATE THE INLAND POSTS OF THIS COLONY.

Whereas, etc.,

VIII.—In conformity with the agreements made between the Local Governments of British North America, the Colonial postage on Letters and Packets, not being newspapers, or Printed Pamphlets, magazines or books, entitled to pass at the lower rate hereinafter referred to, shall be at the rate of threepence currency per half ounce, for any distance within the Colony, and the increase of charge on Letters weighing over half an ounce shall be regulated according to the British rule and scale of weights.

XVII.—Printed Books, Magazines, Periodical Publications, and Pamphlets may be transmitted by Post, within this Colony, at the rate of twopence per ounce, up to six ounces in weight, and threepence for each additional ounce up to sixteen ounces, beyond which weight no Printed Book, Publication, or Pamphlet shall be transmitted by Post, but the Governor in Council may, by order, alter, modify, and reduce the rates of Postage on said Printed Books, Periodical Publications, or Pamphlets.

XVIII.—The Packet Postage for Letters shall be sixpence sterling the half ounce, fivepence of which shall belong to the English Post Office, and one penny to the Newfoundland."

The Postmaster General was evidently so discouraged with the small results of his efforts that he made no further mention of postage stamps until they had actually been issued. Then in a Report dated January 25th, 1857, he announced that:—

Bagley & Dunham.

The third Rag Hollow match stamp, like its predecessors, is a green 1c adhesive bearing the familiar five-pointed star. The label at the bottom now reads "Bagley & Dunham", but otherwise there is no change in the design.
 The plate was made in New York by the National Bank Note Company and the first printing was done by that concern. A later printing by the American Bank Note Company is indicated but cannot as yet be proved.

Of this stamp the Boston Book states:
 Die approved October 22, 1878.
 First issued November, 1878.
 Last issued June, 1880.
 1,414,160 issued on watermarked paper.
 210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The firm of Bagley & Dunham was composed of Charles R. Bagley and Edw. P. Dunham and is listed in the Connecticut Business Directory for 1879 at West Cheshire. Mr. Bagley came from the nearby town of Southington.
 Mr. Dunham was brother-in-law to Howard C. Ives—Mrs. Howard C. Ives being Dunham's sister. In talking of his recollections of the business, Mr.
 Dunham says that one winter when he was a boy, school was closed because of the illness of his teacher; that he went over to West Cheshire to visit his sister, Mrs. Ives, for two weeks and stayed twenty-five years. He helped his brother-in-law in the match factory and in the office, as at that time Mr.
 Ives was not only Postmaster, but also ran the general store. Mr. Ives died in 1878 and Mr. Dunham acquired, or represented, the Ives interest in the new firm of Bagley & Dunham.

Confirming the date of issue of the third Rag Hollow stamp given in the Boston Book as November, 1878, the following letter, addressed to Messrs.
 Bagley & Dunham, West Cheshire, Ct., in a Treasury Department envelope from the office of the Internal Revenue Stamp Agent, at the Cooper Institute,
 New York, bearing a 3c Treasury Department stamp and postmarked October 28, 1878, is of value and interest:—

"UNITED STATES INTERNAL REVENUE, Office of Stamp Agent with National Bank Note Company,
 New York, 28th Oct. 1878.

Gentlemen:
 Yours of — date recd The stamps referred to will be shipped to you tomorrow.

Respectfully

A L McCrea
 Messrs. BAGLEY & DUNHAM
 West Cheshire
 Ct."

This letter undoubtedly refers to the first shipment of Bagley & Dunham stamps and indicates they were issued immediately after the date given therein.
 The Bagley & Dunham stamp varies little in shade and if there are two printings at the present time it is impossible to separate them. Good specimens are not difficult to find and quite likely many of these stamps now in existence are remainders or other copies which were never used. From 1885 to 1900 the catalog price gradually increased from 15c to 50c, and since 1903

 the quotation has held firmly at $1.50.
 This last price may be considered a liberal estimate of the stamp's value during periods when the demand for match stamps is not unusual.

Bowers & Dunham.

Green—1c—Blue.

The fourth and fifth Rag Hollow stamps were printed from a plate made by the American Bank Note Company and differ from each other only in color.
 The blue variety is the only Rag Hollow stamp printed in a color other than green. The curved label at the bottom now reads "Bowers & Dunham" in block capitals. The two curved lines below these letters are of equal thickness and there are indications of slight alteration, or retouching, in other parts of the design.

Regarding the Bowers & Dunham stamps the Boston Book states:—

Die approved July, 1880.
 First issued 1880.
 Last issued June 23, 1881.
 3,765,000 issued on watermarked paper.
 210 stamps per sheet (14x15).
 "It is impossible to state the numbers issued in each color."

The Connecticut Business Directory
 for 1881 lists B. O. Bowers as a match manufacturer at Cheshire, but does not mention the firm of Bowers & Dunham, and excepting on the stamps themselves
 no reference to such a firm can be found.
 The reader may be interested to learn that at the time this article was written Mr. Bowers and Mr. Dunham were both living and were interviewed by the writer. Their recollections of the business were rather meagre and to some extent conflicting, especially in regard to the stamps, so that it was impossible to obtain much pertinent data additional to that given in the Boston Book. It appears that before the Bowers & Dunham stamps were used Bagley had dropped out and the Rag Hollow factory was owned, or controlled, entirely by Mr.
 Edw. P. Dunham. During at least part of the time when the Bowers & Dunham stamps were in use, the real owner of the business was Benjamin O. Bowers, a commission merchant of New York City, who resided in Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. Bowers has no recollection whatever of the Rag Hollow stamps and all of his records regarding the business
 there were destroyed many years ago.
 His connection with the business was brought about through a wholesale grocer named Buell in New Haven who knew Dunham and suggested to Mr.
 Bowers that there was an opportunity for profit in match manufacture. The association with Dunham probably lasted less than a year and resulted in the withdrawal of Mr. Dunham from the business, whereupon Bowers moved the machinery of the plant to New Jersey and set up a new factory there. It seems

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Interrupted.—Here is a little story that has a seasonable flavor. Senator Sadler of Illinois was making a political talk and it happened that the editor of the WEEKLY was right in front of him. The Senator transfixing us with his glittering eye (he was discussing the League of Nations), thundered directly at us, as we smugly imagined: "Does any one know where Hedjaz is? Do you?" As we saw the forefinger pointed at us accusingly, we burst forth: "Yes, I do; it is a slice of Arabia on the Red Sea." The Senator was too seasoned a campaigner to be taken aback at this and he countered, "Well, you are about the only one who knows," or words to that effect. After it was all over, we thought of the opportunity we had missed to throw out our chest and say, paraphrasing the immortal (slurring the word somewhat) phrase of Senator David B. Hill, "I am a philatelist." We may add that we had recently been reading about Hedjaz, the Land of Pilgrimage.

Traders.—We notice that our friend of many years' standing, Mr. H. E. Deats, one of the "firsts" of philatelists, offers: "Two 6 cent, 1861 entire, unused envelopes on buff paper for one on white paper." Mr. Charles F. Rothfuchs, for so many years a dealer in Washington and then in Boston, wants to exchange "rare stamps." It is just as well to write to these gentlemen first, however, as we notice unfamiliar addresses connected with them. Mr. Deats identifies himself with Pittstown, Hunt-ardon Co., N. J.; and Mr. Rothfuchs, with Providence, R. I. It may be added that this information is lifted from "The Union Exchange List" for June, 1883, published by George A. Bogart, Evanston, Cook Co., Ill., with its department of Philately conducted by W. F. Smith, 406 47th Street, New York. Mr. L. J. Flerlage sent us the copy of the paper in question.

Arrived.—The convention number of the American Philatelist with the report of the Providence convention proceedings last August, has been received and the early appearance of the convention story is appreciated, as if it is to appear at all, it should come in due season. Too often, long delays in publishing the report have impaired the interest of members, but now the book has the virtue of timeliness. The volume is well worth the eye of members, who may gain a good idea of the workings and present condition of the organization from a perusal of its pages. Too, the September number of the American Philatelist covers the convention in a readable way and the experienced editor, Mr. William C. Stone, has never been in finer fettle than he is these nippy days.

Gone.—A subscriber asks "What has become of the old-fashioned collector who 'knew the congressman from his district so well' that he wrote him for sets of proofs of U. S. stamps,—and got them?" Our correspondent's memory dates back a good many years. P'raps, this o. f. c. is somewhere telling his philatelic cronies about the time he got a letter from President Grant thanking him for his good wishes in asking him to run for a third term, franked with a three cent Executive Department stamp, on an envelope with "Executive Mansion," beautifully engraved in the corner.

Venture.—One of our philatelic friends writes a letter that is too long for insertion here but which deserves some attention. He thinks that a short cut to philatelic publicity could be achieved by the preparation of a book to be published in paper covers and at a reasonable price, in which stamp collecting would be described in all its allurements. This is something that has never been done before, he believes, although he understands that in England there are philatelic hand-books and publications to be had on news-stands and railway stalls. Rather optimistically, he pictures the jaded traveller who seeks a new sensation as having his curiosity piqued by the subject of the book. He buys, he reads; and behold, he embraces the philatelic faith. It is assumed of course that the book be cleverly written and full of human interest "entwined around the postage stamp." We agree that a lively dissertation on stamp collecting encompassed between paper covers would make converts, if it were a foregone conclusion that those who are eligible to philatelic honor would read the book. We say that it is to be questioned that any considerable number of the traveling public, for instance, would invest in the paper-covered stamp story, or for that matter, a coin, old book, Indian relic or other specialized story. We wish that a book of the kind would be attempted and given a fair trial and if it moderately was successful, we should be among the first to throw up our hats.

Previously.—We are reminded that the reader who made the suggestion incorporated in the foregoing paragraph is in error in saying that no paper-covered stamp story intended for the general reading public has been published. Lewis Robie's "Stamp Hunting" was issued in one of the "monthly libraries" of a large general publishing firm; and the book was introduced into the stands at the railway stations. As Mr. Robie was a traveling salesman, he had an idea that many of his fellow travelers would buy the book, read its pages and become imbued with the collecting spirit. Before he published his book, Mr. Robie conferred with us (and others, no doubt) about the reception a work of the kind would receive from the public. This was twenty years or so ago, but we distinctly remember Mr. Robie's enthusiastic predictions. As the publishing of the book cost Mr. Robie a good sum, he hoped for profitable results; yet to do him justice, he was gladdened at the thought that he would help philately through his book. While Mr. Robie was an entertaining and experienced writer, his book was not a financial hit; on the contrary, it cost him a pretty penny. We believe that some converts were made by the volume that Mr. Robie so expectantly offered, but the public is a fickle jade and does not know always what is good for it. It is possible that a better story than the one that Mr. Robie told could have been written, but the answer would have been about the same. A new generation has appeared since Mr. Robie was in his hey-day; and it may be that a similar idea would be more graciously received now, than Mr. Robie's was twenty years ago.

Quotations.—There are a good many of our readers interested in old catalogue quotations, judging from the number of them who send us copies of old price lists, etc. As we have access to stamp papers and catalogues dated from 1863 downwards, we may of course copy from them prices that were current almost at any given time during the past years. However, we are not inclined to do this, but when some reader discovers an old and little-known list of prices, we are interested in his compilation. Recently, a subscriber sent a page or two from an old catalogue that from the context was published about

POSTAL PRINT COLLECTING.

By SYDNEY R. TURNER.

Of late years philatelic literature has received considerable attention at the hands of collectors, who, strange to say, seem to have ignored the existence of an extremely interesting side-line of philately in engravings and prints of postal interest. Many of these engravings, particularly those published in the early part of the nineteenth century, which were hand-colored, are really artistic productions. They are often of considerable value apart from their philatelic interest. In this short article it is only possible to mention some few of the earlier English prints, as the subject would require very considerable space to do it justice. A collection of postal prints would be divided into several sections under the following heads: portraits, postal buildings, mail coaches, packet boats, maps and caricatures. In the first section, that of portraits, engravings of many of the Postmasters General are obtainable, as well as those of other persons who were connected directly or indirectly with the administration of postal affairs. In this section also would be placed portraits of such men as Ralph Allen of Bath, Palmer and Williamson of the Edinburgh penny-post. In the second division is what is probably one of the earliest English postal engravings. It was published about the middle of the eighteenth century, and shows the inner court of the General Post Office, which was established in 1678 in the house formerly occupied by Sir Robert Viner in Lombard Street. Messrs. Ackermann of 101 Strand produced in 1809 a work called the "Microcosm of London," in which is a hand-colored aquatint illustration by Rowlandson of the Sorting Room at the Lombard Street General Post Office. Some few years later another hand-colored print was published of the exterior. It is a night scene and shows the loading of the mails into the coach which is preparing for its outward journey. This print has, I believe, been reprinted, and it exists in more than one state. There are several engravings of the St. Martins Le Grand General Post Office, which was opened in 1829. The earliest show the mail coaches arriving and departing. At this period a considerable portion of the country mails were despatched from inns in different parts of London. Colored prints of these houses exist with the mail coaches in front of them. There is also an interesting series showing the mail coaches as they appeared on their journeys on the country roads. In the latter part of the 19th century the packet boats had many exciting experiences on their journeys across the sea and during the long years of the war. There is an interesting print of the engagement between the packet "Hinchinbrook" and the American privateer "Grand Turk" on May 1st, 1814. A reproduction of this is given as one of the illustrations to "The Historic Summary of the Post Office," published in 1911 by the Postmaster General. This publication also contains reproductions of other scarce postal prints. Maps have been issued at various times, both by the Postmaster General and the Government. Those accompanying the "Reports of the Select Committee on Postage" in 1837 and 1838 are of considerable value to the philatelic student. They comprise maps of the District of the London Twopenny and Threepenny post; the Penny Posts of England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland; and one of France issued by the French Postal Administration in 1834. The Postmaster General issued in 1858 a list of the principal streets and places in London and its environs as divided into postal districts with eleven maps. There are numerous caricature prints, the earliest probably being issued about 1768 during the Bute administration. This shows a Scotchman dispatched to London under cover of a franked envelope, which is addressed to The Majority, St. Stephen's, Westminster. Another extremely scarce print was issued at the time of the passing of the Stamp Act for the American Colonies. In this print are shown reproductions of the stamps that were prepared for use. Rowlandson, and later Cruickshank, were both responsible for satirical sketches of the postal administration. No doubt the sketches of this type that have appeared of late years will be familiar to philatelists, particularly those caricatures of the design of the frame of the first die of the current penny stamp.

 To the philatelist who is weary of the unending deluge of unnecessary stamps of the last few years, the collection of postal prints offers a new field for study in which he is likely to find much of interest.—Stamp Collectors' Annual.

NEW EUROPE -- SCANDINAVIANS -- BELGIUM, ETC.

You will find on this page many offers of stamps seldom found in dealers' stocks. The kind worth having. Prices are based on cost, not on Nos. 201 to 213 on application. Please remember we have one of the largest general stocks in the New World and our offers here only cover a small variety of such as we think we have enough of to adv.

I CAN DO IT

—yes I can! I can supply many of the hard-to-get match and medicine stamps in fine condition at reasonable prices. All you have to do is write me for a selection and enclose satisfactory reference. The selection I will submit on approval will be such a selection as you probably never have seen before.

For $5, you can get a sweet little lot—all different—that will catalogue between $10 and $15. It is weak in the common varieties but strong in the stamps most collectors do NOT have. My price for the stamps separately is about $7.50 and you would be lucky to duplicate them for $10. Slip me $5—do it today.

Note—This offer is good only for orders postmarked before Nov. 15th.

United States New Issue Service

Have you sent for a bulletin describing in detail a plan whereby investing a few dollars per month your collection of United States stamps in blocks of four will be kept thoroughly up to date? Not only the large collectors, but some dealers, are subscribing to the service, for it enables them to pick up varieties at a little over face, which are not likely to be found in sufficient quantities to warrant being advertised.

Everyone receiving the initial selection was thoroughly pleased, and I would like to have the opportunity of sending you a bulletin regarding same.

Always in the market to buy anything unusual in early or late United States stamps. Good prices for good things.

THE STAMP SHOPPE

ALLEN C. SEARS HARRY B. MASON
300-301 1413 G., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—We have just received a communication from the Post Office Department relative to the new Pilgrim stamps which confirms the information which we gave in our Chronicle of last week. They officially inform us that there will be the three denominations mentioned, that is the 1c, 2c and 5c, and that these will be in the same colors as the current series. Of course, the ruling of the Universal Postal Union prevents them from issuing these three stamps in another color. The designs will be as enumerated before.

Every effort is being made to get these stamps out as promptly as possible, and just as soon as definite information as to the exact date of issue can be obtained, our readers will be posted.

Mr. A. M. McFadden has shown me a very unusual block of four of the 24c aeroplane stamp wherein the extreme left of the center aeroplane extends 2 mm. beyond the left of the outer red frame line. Many of these stamps with poorly placed centers have been seen before, but nothing to compare with this block.

Mr. B. K. Miller brings my attention to the fact that the 2c surface printed stamp is now coming out on a much thicker paper than heretofore. He has found the northwest pane from sheet No. 11552 on very thick stock.

Our readers will be interested in knowing that a complete listing of the surcharged envelopes will shortly be available, and that it has been decided by the envelope collectors to classify the surcharges under five types. Type I is what we have known as the recut die, type II, is the overprint with the horizontal lines, such as is used in Washington, St. Louis and Chicago, type III is the variety with the spaced vertical lines used in Cleveland, New York, etc.; type IV is the closely spaced vertical lines such as Pittsburgh, Detroit, etc., and type V is the Duncan overprint. Under types II, III and IV we will have sub-classifications for each city. In all, we believe that about twenty-five dies have been made, so that there will be twenty-five different cities to collect.

During the last week, Dr. L. G. Tedesche has sent me some of the new overprinted envelopes from Cincinnati which have just been placed on sale in that town. These are type IV. Mr. Harmon Wendell, as well as Mr. E. C. Barron, has found some new varieties from Detroit, and Dr. W. L. LeCron has located two unchronicled specimens in Milwaukee. Mr. G. P. Smith has found a further window envelope from Philadelphia, as well as some new varieties from Boston. We wish to thank Mr. H. D. Watkins for some of the first from Atlanta; also Mr. H. L. Jones for a new amber type from Los Angeles. There has been placed on sale in Washington new extra quality envelopes with the 4th Washington overprint, and we wish to thank Mr. H. W. Porter for sending us the first of these that have come to our attention. In the Cincinnati Post Office quite a few with the Chicago overprint were sold, and one variety that has not been known from the home city was located by Dr. Tedesche, and will be chronicled under the Chicago heading.

The first 2c return postal, overprinted 1c has just been received from San Francisco through the courtesy of the Hilton Stamp Company. The die used for printing the one side was used for the other.

 and all of one size except the 10k, which is considerably larger. All values are printed on tinted paper and show a variety of views. The values are at the top and the words "Fverstentvm Liechtenstein" at the base. The colors and values are as follows: 5h bistre, 10h
 red orange, 15h blue, 20h red brown, 25h olive, 30h grey, 40h red lilac, 50h
 green, 60h brown, 80h red, 1k grey lilac, 2k light blue, 5k grey, 7½k dark green, 10k yellow. At the same time we are also shown a set of postage dues, the 5h to 80h inclusive, being red, the 1k and 2k grey green and the 5k blue. These stamps are also printed on the same class of paper and the figure of value is within an oval with the same words as mentioned in the set above and also the added word "Porto".

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. M. P. Hynes

Increased Prices on ALBUMS and ACCESSORIES

It is with sincere regret that we are obliged to announce another raise in prices of our line of books. Recent advances in costs of production have, however, left no alternative.

The following prices are effective as of October 1st, 1920, and we will ask our customers to make special note of these quotations. We trust that no further increases will have to be made but owing to peculiar conditions now existing in the printing and book binding industries we can give no promises.

All prices quoted are subject to change without notice. Advance orders for books out of stock will be accepted only on the understanding that price will be as of date of shipment.

The following list comprises our complete line of Albums, Catalogues, Stock Books and Accessories. Items mentioned in previous lists but not listed herein have been discontinued.

across the former values. Mr. Hynes adds that these were placed on sale the 23rd of September and the sale restricted. Not more than five copies were sold to a person. The stamps were overprinted in blocks of twenty-five as were the other two surcharges recently placed on sale.

PALESTINE.—Mr. Benj. Cohen advises that the regular E. E. F. (Palestine) stamps have been surcharged "Palestine" in three languages (Arabic, English and Hebrew-Jewish). The color of the surcharge is very light silver color on the 1p dark blue.

PARAGUAY.—The U. T. K. Stamp Co. has shown us a copy of the 1918, 30 on 40c, rose with no stop between the 0 and 3 of 0.30.

SALVADOR.—Mr. Fred L. Onken has shown us the 50c slate of the 1916 issue surcharged "35 Treinta y cinco" in two lines in black. A heavy bar at the top covers the former value and at the base a narrower one obliterates the word "Cincuenta". At the same time Mr. Onken sends a copy of the 1919, $1 stamp surcharged "60 CENTAVOS" in red. The former value is covered by large blocks of the same color.

SIAM.—The Echo records two new values in the type of the 5sat, issued recently, viz.:—15 satangs blue on azure and 25 satangs purple-brown.—Stamp Collecting.

SPAIN.—A new stamp of 1 centimo has been issued of a simple design, similar in execution to the 1/4c stamps, which it probably supersedes, but larger. Numeral of value in centre, "Espana" beneath a crown at top, "centimo" at foot, and "Correos" on each side, color green.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

TURKEY.—Five new stamps are foreshadowed by Messrs. Yvert & Tellier, viz.:—

1 piastre orange (Cruiser).

2 piastre blue (Torpedo-boat).

5 piastre green (Torpedo-boat).
10 piastre brown (Dreadnought).
30 piastre brown-red (Cruiser).
Not a peace-loving series this! —Stamp Collecting.

URUGUAY.—Mr. F. W. Paul has shown us the recently issued 5c stamp surcharged "Oficial" in black. The overprint is in black and similar in style to the 1915 official stamps only larger in size.

"MADE-IN-PHILADELPHIA" U. S. REVS.

By JOSEPH WARD.

A printing plant in the Quaker City, capable of turning out many thousands of dollars in United States liquor revenue stamps, was "visited" recently by Secret Service men and now the business of printing in that shop simply isn't.

The shop, located at Fifth and Pine Streets, in a thickly settled part of the city, is charged with operating with the bootleggers, inasmuch as they provided the seals to top the bottles, giving them the appearance of government inspected liquor.

Besides the stamps, the government men found cuts for printing government franked envelopes. These read Treasury Department, Federal Prohibition Director, Philadelphia, Pa. Whiskey labels bearing the name of a Baltimore distillery were also found.

Thru the unexpected arrival of the raiders, the liquor peddlers are out a considerable in money and prospective trade. The stamps were printed to seal the bottles. These bottles for the most part were of the fancy cut suggesting high price "souses", but were filled with cheap whiskey, diluted whiskey, alcohol or even cold tea. The seal was the high sign and they were sold with the wink as "good stuff."

The stamps certify that the liquor was bottled in bond and gives a date. The proprietor and three helpers were arrested, and now are held.

Until 1873 the rates of Packet Postage fixed by the Postal Act of 1865 remained unchanged but in that year they were greatly reduced—a much needed reform, as for years the rates had been excessively high. The Postmaster General refers to this in his Report for 1873, viz.:—

"The rate for correspondence between the United Kingdom and Newfoundland, either by direct boat or via Halifax, has been reduced from twelve cents to six cents per half ounce letter, and that to and from Canada, Prince Edward Island, and the United States from thirteen cents to six cents, while that grievous anomaly which has existed since the establishment of Postal communication with this country, viz., the collecting of British and American postage on all letters passing to and from the United States and Newfoundland, has been happily done away with, for under the present arrangement any letter prepaid six cents per half ounce in Newfoundland is delivered in any part of the United States without further charge and vice versa."

MR HAWORTH'S COMMENT.

(It was a distinct pleasure for me to meet Mr. W. B. Haworth upon my recent visit to London. He has recently become the editor of the "Philatelic Journal of Great Britain", a magazine towards which I have always entertained a high regard. Under his management the paper will no doubt fully sustain its old-time reputation. The notes that follow appeared in two different sections of the September number of the Journal.—W. O. W.)

A small, but select, gathering of the Stamp Scribes met at the Café Marguerite, Oxford Street, on Monday, the 30th August, at an informal dinner to Mr. W. O. Wylie, the managing editor of America's premier stamp journal, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. Under the shadow of "Old Glory" they discussed the excellent menu provided by the management, and the affairs of philately in general. Mr. Wylie was in great form and talked well, not only on matters stampic (though of course pride of place was given to this topic), but also on the political position in America and on prohibition. His remarks on the latter subject bore instant fruit, since we noticed that before the end of the evening two at least of the gentlemen present were drinking water—neat! Candour compels one to admit that there were long faces when he explained that it would not be possible, for many years to come, if ever, for the existing "dry" laws to be repealed.

The time passed all too quickly, and the little party had to break up early owing to the fact that most of the scribes had to catch trains out to their respective baronial halls, and trains, be it known, like unto the proverbial Father Time, wait for no man—at least, not in our part of the country. And so we parted, chatting lightly of "Laibachs" and Bushires, and many other things, and wended our respective ways homewards, all, without exception, wishing that Mr. Wylie would pay more frequent visits to our tight little island and give us the excuse for further similar delightful dinners.

We were very glad to have the opportunity of meeting Mr. Wylie. It is now six years since he was in Europe, he having been caught in the general confusion which followed on the outbreak of the Great War in August, 1914. However, Mr Wylie has been making up for lost time. In the past fortnight he 1855 issue.—All types used and unused.

1856 issue.—Numerous singles and pairs on covers.

1859-63 issues.—Full sheets of some values, unused and used blocks of all, shades and covers. A remarkable lot.

1868-74 Habilitados.—Very strongly represented including the only known copy of No. 38a.

1870-86.—Complete in singles and blocks unused and used.

1881-88 Surcharges.—The most remarkable and extensive lot of these ever gathered together. Includes many unique and uncatalogued items.

1887-98 Issues.—Complete in singles and blocks, used and unused.

U. S. Issues.—A wonderful lot including practically every known variety in blocks and on covers as well as in singles. Includes a superb copy of the rare 5c invert (No. 216a) and a block of four of the 10c, 1903-4, two without surcharge, (No. 233a), the latter being absolutely unique.

has "done" Scandinavia, Germany, Belgium, Holland, and France, as well as visiting five sectors of the French battle line and learning to play golf in Scotland! "Some hustle."

We wish him the very best of journeys back to Beverly, and look forward to our next "merry meeting," which we hope will be very soon.

Mr. Wylie paid his respects at the ancestral tomb of the MacTavish family, and shed a silent tear at the sad fate of the late Angus. A rumour has reached us that the clan is far from extinct and that the mantle of the prophet has fallen on a younger scion.

INTRODUCING MR. TURPIN.

We take great pleasure in announcing a new advertiser in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, the firm of F. B. Turpin, 161a Strand, London, England. Our readers may be assured of upright treatment upon the part of Mr. Turpin, who has long been established in the stamp business and has a very fine general stock. His advertisements will be found in every number of the WEEKLY for an indefinite period.

FORGED REVENUE STAMPS.

BUFFALO, Oct. 8.—Arrests are expected to be made shortly by prohibition agents of members of the whiskey ring which is believed to have been selling moonshine whiskey as high quality bonded goods by using fake labels and counterfeit government revenue stamps, it was learned today. A raid was made by agents yesterday in which a quantity of fake whiskey labels and counterfeit revenue stamps and two stills were found in a basement of a building in the Italian section. No arrests were made at the time of the raid. Agents had long been puzzled and had been unable to apprehend the parties who were believed to be selling fake "bonded" whiskey.

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

1 column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you wish to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without the best advertising medium in the country. It is impossible to guarantee advertisement in this department and patrons must take themselves as to the reliability of the persons with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

1.50—30c per line, cash in advance. No money allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

BAVARIA.

The erstwhile Kingdom of Bavaria was the first of the German States to adopt the adhesive postage stamp some nine years after its introduction in Eng- land. Being next to Prussia the largest among these states, and having kept its own postal system all the years while the others merged theirs into the Im- perial system, we have a continuous ex- hibit of its postal issues from the be- ginning to the present day, which have not been unduly numerous and which have been common enough for almost all collectors to possess.

The first stamps were issued on No- vember 1, 1849, in three values, the 1 kreuzer for local letters and printed matter, the 3kr for letters not exceeding 1 loth (1-3 oz.) in weight up to 12 miles distance, and 6kr for a longer distance. The 1kr was printed from a plate made up of 90 clichés in type metal taken from an engraved steel die and was rather unsatisfactory, as the impression was flat like a lithograph and the numeral did not show up any too well from its background. A new plate of brass clichés was later constructed, from which the impressions were made in an intense black. The 3 and 6kr stamps had the center numeral on a circular ground of solid color, the circle being broken by the frame lines of the four labels sur- rounding it, and were likewise printed in sheets of 90 from a plate of brass clichés and on the so-called "Dickinson" paper containing a silk thread, which was used for some of the early British issues.

On July 1, 1850, a 9kr value was added, being the single rate on corre- spondence exchanged with Prussia, Sax- ony and Austria. This was similar to the 3 and 6kr but the circle containing the numeral was perfect, not being cut into by the frame lines. The 1kr being not wholly satisfactory either in design or color, was changed on October 1, 1850, to the type of the 9kr with the numeral in the perfect circle and printed in rose. New clichés for the 6kr in the "perfect circle" type were made, prob- ably in 1851, and the earlier "broken circle" 6kr is therefore a somewhat scarce stamp used and a real rarity un- used. The 3kr was never altered to the "perfect circle" type. On August 1, 1854, the 18kr stamp was issued on ac- count of the need of a higher value, according to the government notice. This was also in the "perfect circle" type. Finally, on July 1, 1858, the 12kr appeared, due to that rate being fixed with France for a letter not exceeding 10 grammes in weight.

The above six values completed Bava- ria's first series of stamps, but in 1852 the government decided to bring their colors into harmony with equivalent values of the other German states, so the 3kr (taken as equal to 5 Austrian neugroschen or 1 silbergroschen) be- came rose, the 6kr blue, and the 9kr light brown. This necessitated chang- ing the colors of the three remaining values as well.

On January 1, 1867, a new design took the place of the numeral issue, showing the royal arms embossed. The matrix die, as before, was engraved at the Royal Mint, the numerals were added on the secondary dies, and the clichés for the printing plate then struck in brass. The sheets were of only 60 stamps and the paper was, as before, the Dickinson "silk thread" paper, which is probably the reason the stamps were not perforated, as the silk thread had to be cut. The values were as before and the colors the same, except that the 1kr took the green of the 12kr and the latter became violet. There is a well-known variety of the 1kr with the figure in the right hand upper corner showing a cross stroke in the middle, apparently due to a flaw in one of the clichés.

On January 1, 1868, a postal arrangement with the North German Confederation, Baden and Wurtemberg created a letter rate of 7kr which was extended to Denmark on May 1st and Belgium on September 1st of the same year. On October 1, 1868, therefore, a new value of 7kr in blue was issued and the 6kr consequently changed to light brown, while the 9kr was withdrawn from issue.

The advantages of perforation led the government in 1870 to abandon the use of the silk thread paper and adopt a watermarked paper for protection, so that the stamp could be perforated. The stamps were announced for July 1, 1870, but were in reality only issued as stocks of the unperforated ones were used up. The colors and values were the same as before. The watermark was of crossed lines, giving the effect of "lozenges," which is the usual term applied to it, and there are two types, one being 14 mm. long and the second 16 mm. long. The perforation is 11 1/2.

A single letter rate of 9kr having been made with France, Great Britain, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Constantinople and the United States, via Bremen or Hamburg, and of 10kr to Italy, Russia, Sweden, Turkey, Alexandria and the United States via Cologne, these two values were added to the series on January 1, 1873, and the 12kr, which was but little used, was withdrawn at the same time. In November, 1875, a new form of watermark consisting of horizontal parallel wavy lines 8 1/2 mm. apart, was introduced, but as the kreuzer stamps were succeeded by the pfennig stamps on January 1, 1876, only the 1, 3, 7, 10 and 18kr values were issued with the new watermark.

On August 5, 1874, a stamp of 1 mark was issued for the special purpose of prepaying articles sent by parcel post. It is of very similar design to the kreuzer stamps, but in larger size and printed in sheets of 50. It was issued imperforate at first, because there was no perforating machine to fit it; but one was procured and the stamps perforated 11 1/2 issued about April 1, 1875. This stamp is notable as being perhaps the one that had the longest life of any in Europe, at least, having been issued unchanged in design, though varying in watermark and shade, from 1874 until 1911.

On January 1, 1876, new stamps were issued in the recently adopted Imperial mark currency. The pfennig values were of the same design as the 1 mark already in use, but reduced in size and printed in sheets of 60 as before on the horizontal wavy-line watermarked paper. A 2 mark stamp was added, printed in sheets of 50 like its companion 1 mark. The interior rates of postage for letters were of 10pf up to 15 grammes, and 20pf from 15 to 250 grammes. For local letters they were 3pf up to 15 grammes and 5pf from 15 to 250 grammes. In January, 1879, the 5 and 50pf stamps were changed in color as stocks of the previous stamps ran out, and new printings of the mark stamp were made on the horizontal wavy-line watermarked paper for the first time, the stamp being issued in November.

A new paper manufacturer was employed in 1881 and a new watermark introduced in consequence. This consisted of parallel zig-zag lines 7 1/2 mm. apart and the printing was done so that the lines ran vertically on the stamps. In 1887 the sheets were changed so that they had 100 stamps instead of 60, the former being better adapted to the decimal currency. This resulted in the paper being cut differently, so that the watermark ran horizontally under the new arrangement, instead of vertically. At the same time a new perforating machine was used with a gauge of 14 1/2. In February, 1890, the colors of four values, 3, 5, 25 and 50pf, were changed, and in 1900 six new values were issued 2, 30, 40 and 80 pfennig, and 3 and 5 marks. The latter two stamps were printed like the 1 and 2 marks, so the watermarks ran vertically, and in 1911 the 5pf was printed in the same way. But in 1910 the four mark stamps were all printed with the watermark horizontal, like the lower values.

Prince Leopold, Regent of the kingdom, was 90 years old on March 12, 1911, and being very popular, the event was celebrated throughout Bavaria, a new series of stamps bearing two different portraits being one of the manifestations. This included three new values of 60pf (issued in September) and 10 and 20 marks. The new series was a striking one, being produced by a photolithographic process in color on tinted papers.

Prince Leopold completed the 25th year of his regency on June 10, 1911, and two commemorative stamps of a most bizarre appearance were issued for internal use on that date. They were of large size, unwatermarked and perforated 11 1/2.

Prince Leopold died in 1913 and was succeeded by his son Ludwig as Regent. Soon afterwards King Otto, who had been insane since 1873, was formally deposed and the Prince-Regent proclaimed King as Ludwig II. On March 30, 1914, a new set bearing his portrait in two different positions was issued in the same values as the previous set. They were produced by a mezzotint process, which gave a very "soft" impression and were printed in well chosen and striking colors. Increased tariffs during the war caused the issue of three new values in 1916, one a surcharge of 2 1/2pf on 2pf, the latter value not being issued without surcharge until 1919.

At the close of the war the Kingdom was overthrown and a Socialist republic set up, which surcharged the stamps "Volksstaat Bayern." The Socialists were later overthrown and both the Bavarian stamps and those of Germany surcharged "Freistaat Bayern." A lithographed set in "poster" designs followed these, but since April 1st of this year the postal system is supposed to have been merged into the German system.—N. E. Stamp Monthly.

BREAD OR STAMPS—WHICH?

MR. INGRAM in Stamp Collecting.

Mr. Willard O. Wylie, at the recent dinner at which he was the guest of the Stamp Scribes, told us that such is the fascination of stamp collecting in his own prosperous country that a man would rather go hungry than miss the chance of obtaining a wanted specimen. He did not tell us that the same man would be just as ready to go thirsty in the same cause, but then, of course, the individual would have no choice! Mr. Wylie, we may add, is and has always been, a staunch prohibitionist and non-smoker, and is proud of it. He evidently would have us realize that what millions of men have wasted in strong drink and futile smoke could have been devoted to the acquirement of a valuable array of postage stamps and the consequent benefits of a sound investment.

to master the stamps they are collecting, widen their knowledge by reading philatelic journals and literature mostly written in national languages. In my opinion, the exact opposite is the case. The quotation is from a Japanese philatelic journal. How many philatelists read Japanese? Before the war I corresponded regularly with Russian, Swedish, Czech, Danish, Polish, Belgian, Spanish, Hungarian, and other philatelists. Do many philatelists read these national languages? Since the war I have resumed with Russia (only recently), Sweden, Czechoslovakia, and Belgium, and have obtained valuable information as to the issues and varieties of the stamps of these countries. As an example, let me draw your attention to a slight change in the 1920 addition of the current 2, 5, and 15c Belgian, small issue. In the early issues the upper of the two curves in the ornament on each letter of the word 'Belgique' has a coloured diagonal line across it; in the 1920 edition this is quite absent. This is only one of very many valuable hints I have obtained through Esperanto."

British Columbia Philatelic Society.—Our Vancouver correspondent, Mr. Stephen Golder, reports fine progress with this young but aggressive Society, of which he is Secretary and Treasurer. He writes:—

"Your issue of July 31st to hand. I wish to congratulate you on the good work you are doing for the coming generation of stamp collectors.

I am wondering if you can help me out. Our Society is flourishing in every way, but there are lots of youthful collectors, too young to join us. They want me to start a junior branch, and there is lots of material to work on, and about thirty youths are ready to enroll their names.

Now, have you any literature left over that I could use to circularize the different high schools, &c.? I want to start off with a big meeting in about two months' time, and give a talk. Then let the boys appoint their own officers to act under the parent society.

We have discovered some wonderful collectors since we started. One man astonished me the other day by showing me a marvellous collection of early Swiss. Hence I am enclosing you remittance for the book on Cantonal stamps reviewed in your recent issue."

A parcel of propaganda literature has been promptly consigned for the edification of British Columbia tyros.

Indian Native Feudatory States.—A fine new series of six volumes of these quaint and interesting stamps has just been made up by Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd. They include all the Native States from Alwar to Wadhwan. All the stamps of these States from Sir J. A. Clark's collection have been included, and the result is a really good set of books with many rare and interesting pieces.

We understand that during the last eighteen months the demand for the issues of all these States has much increased. Collectors will find in these new books many very desirable pieces, and early application should be made by those who are interested.

Original (Chewing) Gum. Loquat

"Beachcomber" in the Daily Express:—"If you wish to cause a mild revolution just mention chewing-gum to a stamp dealer. You cannot see the connexion? In pre-war days philatelists sold American dollar stamps at 2s each. Then came the war and, in course of time, the American troops. Tens of thousands of parcels of chewing-gum also began to arrive, each with a dollar stamp affixed. To-day every stamp dealer has sacks of them and cannot get even waste-paper prices for his wares."

Bahamas: A Curious Variety.—Mr. Geo. C. Brown shows us a mint block of four of the 1d "Staircase" stamps of Bahamas, overprinted with a Red Cross and "1.1.17", the lower left stamp of which has the right-hand ornamental frame entirely omitted from the level of the top of the overprinted date to the right of the word "Postage." The portion which has been cut out appears to have had something placed diagonally across it, stretching on to the adjoining stamp at right, the left-hand frame line and two upper ornaments in that frame being omitted.

Belgian "Aerial Post."—"What can one do to a man who palms off Belgian parcel post stamps ('Wings and wheel' type) as Belgian aerial post stamps in exchange for one's small change?" The query comes from an esteemed reader in the provinces. Our advice would be to demand the goods advertised and paid for.

"The Postage Stamps of France."—At last there are definite signs that a shameful gap in the bibliography of philately will be filled up. Mr. W. Ward's handbook on "The Postage Stamps of France" will be (to use the approved announcement) "ready shortly"—paper, printers, and publisher volenté. The book will be absolutely up to date, comprising about twenty-five chapters, and will be sold from 89 Farringdon Street. No such work has been previously attempted in English, and we understand that the comments of several prominent specialists and editor-philatelists who have read the manuscript are very eulogistic.

Dotty Rhodesia.—Mr. J. W. Smith, of Edgbaston, tells us that he has a vertical block of the 2½d cobalt of the issue of April, 1909, for Rhodesia, the right-hand stamp of each pair having a dot beneath the letters "S" and "I" of the overprint. Has such a variety been noted before, we wonder?

Auction Prices, 1919-1920.—Messrs. Plumridge & Co. have favoured us with a copy of their nicely printed and illustrated "Résumé of Prices" for the season 1919-20. Among the many notable events which took place in their spacious auction room during that season was the disposal of the "Latham" collection, whereby hangs a tale. When one of the very desirable lots in that collection was first offered at £150 it failed to find a buyer, but when split up into smaller lots the same stamps were sold for £180—and to a buyer who had the chance of them at the lower amount!

The Collectors' Journal (U. S. A.).—That sane, pleasing Connecticut philatelic and ornithographic magazine, The Collectors' Journal, unfortunately is not so redolent of philately as was formerly its wont, but is evidently inspired with high hopes, for we read that it has now absorbed the Metropolitan Philatelist, which was for many years the house organ of the J. W. Scott Company. That old-established concern has recently changed hands with Mr. John E. Holloway, Editor-in-Chief of the Collectors' Journal, as Treasurer in the American metropolis.

Bermuda "Var Tax."—A mint pair of the 1d War Tax stamp of Bermuda, shown us by Mr. Geo. C. Brown, has on the left-hand specimen the curious and hitherto unrecorded error "V" for "W", so that the overprint reads "Var Tax."

An Indian Pioneer.—With regret we learn of the death of Mr. E. Sassoon Gubbay, one of the original members of the Philatelic Society of India.

Peru: 1915 and 1916 Provisionals.—In the September edition of the house organ published by Messrs. Charlack & Richards we find a reference list of the numerous overprint varieties which emanated from Peru five and six years ago. The list is the work of Mr. Thos. G. Richards, who, in his introductory notes, says:—

"Much doubt has been thrown on the necessity for the surcharging of the various stamps of this country in the years 1915 and 1916, and many have

UNIQUE STAMP CO., 900 1/2 Filbert St., PHILA., PA.

A REGISTER OF THE "POST OFFICE" MAURITIUS STAMPS.

Philatelic propaganda is educating the public of today, so that more or less information concerning the hobby, as well as stories of particular stamps, of "finds", of special "issues" and the like, is part of the equipment of those who aim to be au courant with the topics of the times. Some years ago, when stamp collecting was still looked upon as child's play, if anyone knew aught concerning it who was not within the "charmed circle," he was almost always found to possess the one fact that the "Post Office Mauritius" stamp was the most valuable stamp in the world. That such was not actually the fact was never disputed to any particular extent, though the knowing ones of the cult are aware that a good many stamps are actually of greater rarity; but the "Post Office Mauritius" got the lead and has since travelled on its reputation.

Our French contemporary, M. T. Champion's Monthly Bulletin, contains an interesting history of the known copies of these most famous stamps, which they are without dispute, from the pen of M. Georges Brunel. From this we have culled the following facts, which we are sure will prove of interest to our readers. It might be said that M. Moens published a similar history in Le Timbre-poste some twenty years ago. M. Brunel's article now brings the history up to date.

The first copies known of the "Post Office" Mauritius, the 1 penny and 2 pence, both used, were bought by Moens in 1865 for 200 francs—forty dollars! They came from the collection of a young man which was sold to a Bordeaux merchant, M. Gimet, for 600 dollars. Moens resold the pair to Judge Philbrick of London for 100 dollars, and afterwards they passed into the possession of Ferrary of Paris, when he bought the Philbrick collection for twenty thousand dollars. They are still in the Ferrary collection, which is now awaiting disposition by the French government, which seized it upon the death of the owner while in Switzerland during the war. Ferrary had bequeathed it to the Berlin Museum and the collection was sequestered as enemy property.

The third copy, an unused 2 pence, was sold in 1866 by Madame Dubois of Bordeaux to M. Lalanne. Its further history is bound up with the copy of the 1 penny known as number ten.

The fourth copy, a used 1 penny, was found in 1868 by a merchant of Port Louis, Mauritius, a M. Noirel, who really found two among a lot of old newspapers. But he unfortunately forgot and left one in his vest when it was sent to the laundress and it was thus lost to posterity. The remaining copy was sold to M. Lionnet, who sold it to Moens in 1870 for forty dollars. The latter immediately resold it to M. de Rothschild for 100 dollars.

Copy number five was a cancelled 2 pence in the collection of a M. Rae, who had received it from a friend. The collection was bought for 3,600 dollars by M. Roussin of Paris in 1889, and the Mauritius stamp sold to M. Perrissin for 800 dollars. The latter became faint-hearted over his purchase, and fearing that the stamp was not as rare as had been represented, sold it for 700 dollars to the banker Dorsan Astruc, who sold it to the late Paul Mirabeau for 750 dollars. The stamp is on a piece of the original showing the name of the addressee, M. Caunter of Port Louis, Mauritius.

The sixth copy came from Madame Dubois, was an unused 2 pence and was sold to Moens for twenty dollars, who resold it to Dr. Legrand for 50 dollars. It remained with him until 1897, when Lemaire purchased it for 3000 dollars and sold it to Bernichon for 4800 dollars. It then went into the Duveen collection at 6000 dollars. When this was sold to Peckitt of London in 1909, he passed the Mauritius stamp on to Manus of Amsterdam, but the price in this transaction is not recorded.

The seventh copy, a used penny, came also from Madame Dubois, being sold to Moens for forty dollars in 1870, and likewise passed on by him to Doctor Legrand for fifty dollars, thus giving the famous Doctor the famous pair! It was purchased with the companion 2 pence by Lemaire in 1897 for 3000 dollars, or 6000 dollars for the pair, to be more accurate, and sold by him to Bernichon for 3500 dollars. In 1898 it was sold to the Berlin Museum through Kosack for 4000 dollars.

Copies eight and nine were 1 penny and 2 pence unused from Madame Dubois again, bought by Moens in 1870 for sixty dollars and sold to M. Perinelle for 200 dollars. They were repurchased by Moens for 600 dollars in 1881 and immediately "snapped up" by Ferrary for 1100 dollars.

Number ten, an unused 1 penny, was obtained by Madame Dubois in 1870, and sold to M. Lalanne for probably about forty dollars. This gave M. Lalanne an unused pair with number three, purchased in 1866. He also obtained a used pair from the same source in 1870 for forty dollars. In 1893 M. Piet-Lataudrie purchased Lalanne's collection, the four "Post Office" stamps costing him 4800 dollars. Lataudrie was content to retain the used pair, numbered eleven and twelve, and sold the unused pair, copies three and ten, to Stanley Gibbons for 3400 dollars, who resold them to Avery for 3500 dollars. The latter sold them to Peckitt in 1909, who immediately "placed" them in the Duveen collection, but the prices of these transactions are not known. Upon the death of Lataudrie the used pair were sold in 1896 to Mors for 8400 dollars, a record for that time, but since beaten by Th. Champion, who purchased them this year for 32,000 dollars!

Copy thirteen, a used 2 pence, coming as usual from Madame Dubois, was sold in 1872 to Moens for twenty dollars and resold to M. de Rothschild for 120 dollars. This gave the latter a used pair with copy four, purchased the previous year.

Number fourteen was found in a collection bought by Madame Dubois for 100 dollars. It was an unused 2 pence but was slightly torn in one corner. However, Moens paid 60 dollars for it in 1875, and it was sold to Ferrary for 120 dollars, as he had at that time no "Post Office" in his collection. After Ferrary purchased his unused pair he sold this 2 pence in 1890 to Mr. Tapling for 200 dollars and it now rests with the latter's collection in the British Museum, together with the next.

Number fifteen, found at Port Louis in 1878 by Major Evans. This was a 1 penny on the entire cover, which was in a small collection bought by the Major. It is one of the covers which bore the invitation of the Governor to his reception on September 21, 1847, which used up so many of these stamps. Tapling purchased the cover in 1884 for 375 dollars and it is of course now in the British Museum.

Copy sixteen was a damaged copy of the 1 penny, used. It was obtained by M. Schyler in 1865 and purchased with his collection in 1897 by M. Pouget. It was sold to Kirchner for 2000 dollars but failed to please the latter and he sold it to Lentz for 1600 dollars, who later sold it to Kosack for 1200 dollars. This is a rare case of a "Post Office" decreasing in value. However, Kosack sold it for 1600 dollars to a collector who died two years later, when Kosack repurchased it for the same amount, reselling it some time later to a collector, who is unnamed, for 2000 dollars.

The seventeenth copy is a cover like the fifteenth, with the 1 penny stamp. It was found in 1898 by the widow of M. Duivivier, to whom it bore the invitation, while looking over old papers when removing from Mauritius. It was bought by Peckitt for 3000 dollars and sold to M. de Kindore for 5000 dollars.

Numbers eighteen and nineteen occur as a pair of 1 penny on cover sent to Bombay, where they were found in 1897 by a Mr. Howard, who paid 250 dollars for them. He sold them to Peckitt for 6900 dollars, who sold them to Vernon Roberts for 9000 dollars! They went to Peckitt with the latter collection in 1905 and were sold to Worthington for the price appears to have been a denial.

The twentieth copy was a used penny, purchased by Lemaire in 1897 for 3400 dollars, sold to Peckitt for 4000 dollars, and by him to Duveen for 5000 dollars. It came into Peckitt's hands again in 1909 and was sold to Mars.

Copies twenty-one and twenty-two were a 1 penny and 2 pence on the same cover addressed to Bordeaux. They were unearthed by Lemaire in 1902, who paid 8000 dollars for them and sold them to M. Brunte de l'Argentiére for 9000 dollars.

Copy twenty-three was likewise purchased by M. Lemaire in 1902. It was a used 2 pence and cost him 6000 dollars but he sold it to the Berlin Museum through Kosack for 8000 dollars.

The twenty-fourth specimen, famous unused 2 pence, found in small boyhood collection by Mr. Bonar in 1903. It was sold at auction in London and bid in for the then Prince of Wales, now King George V, who paid 8450 dollars in competition for the agent of the Berlin Museum.

The last copy found, number twenty-five, was offered to Lemaire in 1902. It was found in an old box of stamps had been carelessly thrown away. It was a 2 pence, used, in poor condition and was sold to Mr. "Anonymous" at an anonymous price.

A résumé of these twenty-five specimens gives us the following details: two unused copies of the 1 penny, eleven used copies, together with each of the 2 pence in unused and used condition. The 1 penny thus has one specimen all told over the 2 pence, and so far as known these twenty-five are all that are left of each of these stamps that were known to have been printed in 1847!—N. Home Again -- Choice Offerings from Europe

Again we have the pleasure of offering a raft of good things to MEKEEL'S readers. Our manager has returned from his second European trip this year and offers choice numbers of European stamps particularly at prices made possible only by the great decline in foreign currency. Owing to the continued demand on us for Austria and Bosnia stamps we have decided to offer a complete line of this stock once again. Our future policy which will be of interest to every reader we have outlined elsewhere and ask your careful perusal.

AUSTRIA.

We have again a most complete line of this country and will be pleased to fill out lists for numbers not listed here.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We wish to announce to the trade that we have established European agencies to be under the personal management of our Mr. Watson. In this way we can accept want lists of rare stamps and also wholesale goods, which will be forwarded to Europe where stamps can be easily and much more cheaply obtained. Business can also be done on a small profit basis and we advise you to be on our steady customer list. Orders can be sent direct to Europe if preferred and this office will supply particulars. Let us receive your wants, old or new issue service, wholesale and retail. In the meantime why not receive some of our bargains on approval. Our goods have just arrived. What do you need? Approval sheets of all grades to send any collector.

Magnitude—For some time past, a further instalment of Mr. Ritchie's work on United States cancellations has not appeared nor have we had anything to say to account for the omission. It certainly is time for us to reassure our readers that the delay is not one that is due to any relinquishment of the history, nor is one that wrecks the enterprise in any way. Let us make a brief preliminary announcement in order that followers of this splendid series may be informed of the circumstances up to the moment. When Mr. Ritchie began his work, he had formulated plans that seemed to be comprehensive enough to encompass the details of his subject, but after two or three instalments of the article had been printed, it was seen that the work had grown beyond all bounds and to an extent that one man could not master it. The burden resting on one man's shoulders had become too great, and unless he could share his labors with other enthusiasts, he would have to shift the load entirely. Happily, Mr. Ritchie is resourceful and he has submitted conditions under which the work can be finished; and that is through the instrumentality of "a membership corporation" known as the "American Cancellation Society, Inc." For some time, we have had the particulars of the plan at hand and after making this announcement, we shall defer until next week, the important details of the idea.

Criticism—From a gentleman whose acumen is not to be denied and from whom we have at times sought advice, we have received a letter that must not be ignored, even though it brings up a subject that is not altogether new but one that has not been debated in the forum for some time past. Our correspondent has just got through reading the American Philatelist with the convention proceedings; and he asks if the expenditure of the money for the report is justified. Would it not be better, he inquires, if the quid pro quo had been used for publishing a hand-book. The question is like that: "Do you still beat your wife?" in that it cannot be answered yes or no. There is much in the Year-Book that is not germane to the subject, but after all, it affords a glimpse of the working of the machine. We have heard members say that they liked to read the convention proceedings even to the trivialities, and others who skimmed over the report said that it was not worth publishing in its entirety. If we have the money in the A. P. S. for the purpose, the Year-Book probably can be justified, but if economy is to be the key-note, the convention report in its completeness is ill-advised from a business point of view.

Kind—The Chicago Evening American in its issue of October 12th, 1920, has the following notice prominently displayed, top of column, where it arrested many an eye: "3,000 Rare Foreign Stamps Await Invalid Child. The Chicago Evening American is seeking an invalid boy or girl who is particularly interested in the collection of foreign stamps. One of the big-hearted members of the Chicago Evening American family came to the office to-day and brought with him about three thousand rare foreign stamps collected from all parts of the world. He suggested that some child be given the stamps to place in his album. The Chicago Evening American will give the collection to the child who is most interested in them and who can inform us of his or her interest in the same. A large stamp album will go with the collection." Here is a little incident that stands out in pleasant relief against the background of momentous news; and we commend the donor for his kindly instincts and the newspaper for not overlooking in the march of the strenuous events of the day a chance to make some afflicted child happy. We shall be curious to hear of the results of this public offer and our friend, Mr. Justin H. Forrest of the editorial staff of the American, has promised to give us the story when it has reached its close.

Rate—We have not seen recently one of the schedules issued by the post office department showing the postage rates to this country from foreign countries in the monies of the respective countries. The covers coming from some of the European countries show all sorts of variations in rates. The cover enthusiast gives attention to this detail, as he likes to understand the problems that may be presented by the combinations of stamps that are used on mail to this country. Recently, we had an envelope that just came from Russia bearing a block of five of the five roubles, imperforate of 1917-18, and we are at a loss to account for the use of so much postage on a single letter.

Russia—We have interviewed a gentleman, interested in stamps, who recently returned from Russia and he has furnished us with particulars of the postal service there. While the demoralization of the service is admitted yet, after a fashion, local delivery is maintained. Incoming mail for Americans in the cities is carried from the ports where received by the Russian post office, but the outgoing mail is handled in a loose way. The Russian stamps are given various values, according to the political aspect of the section from which the letters on which they the postage originate. However, our informant says that if a reign of comparative tranquillity comes, it will not be long before a rehabilitation of the postal system will be noticed.

Italy—In the Phila. Stamp Club Bulletin for October, 1920, we find in correspondence from Florence, Italy, from Mr. S. W. Woodhouse, Jr., whose home is in Philadelphia, an interesting reference to Dr. Emilio Diena of Rome, who is known universally as a great student of philately and an authority on Italian issues. Further, Dr. Diena for many years has been in touch with philatelic developments in this country and has corresponded with some of our leaders. Mr. Woodhouse says that Dr. Diena has a library of considerable size of American Philatelic literature. We quote: "He showed me certain values of Modena and Parma in cancellations of one town in which he would have the complete lot by day, month and year, so that he could find anything in doubt by the authentic one, determining if the cancellation was of a wrong period, color, etc. He has most such things complete as to towns, but it's only on some that he has worked it out in days, months and years. He is a

Ives & Judd Match Co.

Among the many match factories bought out by the Diamond Match Company about 1882 was the one at Rag Hollow. The purchase of the factory led to a disagreement between the parties thereto, and did not result in Mr. Dunham's retirement from the business. He not only obtained possession of the building again, but within a year managed to acquire the necessary machinery and material with which to resume business. The new concern, which was the last to operate the Rag Hollow factory, issued the stamp bearing the above title, and was composed of Edw. P. Dunham and his sister, the widow of Howard C. Ives. To one familiar with the history of the Rag Hollow factory in the early eighties, the seventh and last Rag Hollow match stamp bears interesting evidence of the disagreement mentioned above.

Of this stamp the Boston Book states: First issued November 10, 1882. Last issued March 3, 1883. 2,625,000 issued on watermarked paper. 210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size and is one of the last of the Bureau productions. In each corner is a small circle enclosing the numeral "1" and connected by marginal labels at the sides reading "One Cent" at the left, and "U. S. Inter. Rev." at the right,—just reversing the position of these inscriptions as found on the sixth Rag Hollow stamp. A curved label across the top reads "The Ives & Judd" with "Match Co." immediately beneath, and at the bottom a colorless label is inscribed "Of West Cheshire—Conn." in two lines. The central portion of the stamp is occupied by a female figure with flowing robe, grasping a sword in her right hand and upholding a balance in her left hand. She is not blindfolded, and, it appears, was intended to represent a cross between the Goddess of Liberty and the well known figure commonly represented as symbolical of Justice. But it certainly is a pretty stamp, and there is little ornamentation to draw one's attention from the idea it was intended to represent.

The color is quite uniform, and as the entire issue consisted of only 12,500 sheets, and was in use only a few months, there may have been only one printing. The imprint is of the fourth and last type used by the Bureau and occurs beside the seventh, eighth and ninth stamps in the first and fourteenth vertical rows. The vertical pane line occurs between the seventh and eighth vertical rows and the horizontal pane line crosses the sheet between the eighth and ninth horizontal rows.

It is rather interesting to note that the Connecticut Business Directory for 1884 lists E. P. Dunham & Co. and the Ives & Judd Match Co. at West Cheshire and also the firm of Ives & Judd at Prospect. The second time the Rag Hollow factory was sold to the Diamond Match Company they bought it for keeps and no reference to it is found later. Perhaps one may be pardoned for speculating pleasantly upon the design of an eighth Rag Hollow match stamp, had there been one, as perhaps there would have been if the match tax had remained in force long enough to permit a third sale of this Fifty Dollar shack in the woods to the immensely powerful Diamond Match Company.

Probably a great many of the copies now in existence came from some remainders, of which Mr. Dunham has given away, or sold, small quantities at various times. He remembers having had a sheet, or part of a sheet, but disposed of the last some time ago. Very few of the copies seen appear to have been used. None of the last nor any of the other six Rag Hollow stamps are known to exist with original gum. Mr. Dunham states the stamps were always ordered ungummed and that just before they were used the sheets were laid face downward and gummed by running a whitewash brush, or large paint brush dipped in paste across them. He states that two girls employed at the factory would affix as many as $500 worth of stamps in one day.

The match boxes used in Rag Hollow were made by hand. Flat sheets of cardboard were cut out and sent through the neighboring country to farmers' wives and other people residing in the vicinity who folded them into shape in their homes, and then a horse and wagon was sent around to collect them and bring them back to the factory. Boxes containing 60, 100, 200, 300, 400 and 500 matches were made at the Rag Hollow factory, and as all the stamps used there were of 1c denomination, they must have been used rather frequently in multiple. Nearly all of the multiples seen by the writer do not appear to have been used and are evidently remainders.

DEATH OF WILLIAM H. VOAS.

We are pained to record the recent death of William H. Voas. Many of our dealing patrons will remember Mr. Voas, his collecting interest having extended over many years, and included both U. S. and foreign stamps. He resided at Buffalo, N. Y., where for years he was connected with the fire department. His death occurred September 6, from Bright's disease, at the age of 66 years. He leaves a widow and one son. The fine collection made by Mr. Voas will doubtless come on the market.

NEWS CLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from:—R. E. Wade, Jr., Samuel J. Rowland, C. Lat. Wilhelm, C. M. Breder, Michael Miller, Urban Quirk, George R. Rankin, A. S. Davenport, James M. Kennary and Charles H. Miller.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Twin City Philatelic Society was held at Minneapolis Club Room on Saturday evening, Oct 9th. 34 members were present. The main feature of the evening was an auction sale, in which 73 lots were sold.

—"I was up to the main Seattle post office yesterday and found they are selling 10c Canadian Special Delivery stamps to be affixed to letters that are to be sent into Canada. They are charging 15c for the stamp. The girl at the window also informed me that it was not an official act, but they had obtained them on their own responsibility, as so many people had asked for Canadian Special Delivery

The last edition of our British Empire Catalogue was published in 1916, since when we have been deluged with inquiries for a new edition. Shortage of skilled staff, in consequence of the War, has delayed publication, but the New (12th) Edition is

NOW READY

Owing to the lapse of four years, coupled with increasing demands, we have had to revise the prices of practically every stamp in the Catalogue. There are increases in price in the enormous majority of stamps, in MANY INSTANCES amounting to 100 PER CENT. AND MORE, so that the New Edition of the

will be indispensable to all Collectors. It will be right UP-TO-DATE, including all War and Peace issues.

A WORD AS TO ITS COST.—When the last edition was published paper and print were cheap. Now these are several hundreds per cent. dearer, and the price which we have fixed for this latest production of the house of Bright is

$1.00 (INCLUDING PACKING AND POSTAGE.)

The book will be strongly bound in red cloth boards, and can now be booked for early delivery from

I CAN DO IT

—yes I can! I can supply many of the hard-to-get match and medicine stamps in fine condition at reasonable prices. All you have to do is write me for a selection and enclose satisfactory reference. The selection I will submit on approval will be such a selection as you probably never have seen before.

For $5, you can get a sweet little lot—all different—that will catalogue between $10 and $15. It is weak in the common varieties but strong in the stamps most collectors do NOT have. My price for the stamps separately is about $7.50 and you would be lucky to duplicate them for $10. Slip me $5—do it today.

U.S. 2c on 3c Provisional Envelopes

An interesting souvenir of the great war. Many who have never collected envelopes before are taking these as a side line to their collection. They are not only interesting but are an excellent investment. Wait until the check list is out and you will see the scramble. Many of the rare ones have been distributed in my service, those that the dealers are now offering to buy. My charge has been 10c each as they run and in many cases I have received the entire supply which has amounted to less than 50 of a kind. It is not too late to start. Wise people are getting them at this time rather than wait until the supply is exhausted and then watch the prices. I have distributed at retail, not in quantities to dealers, over 12,000 surcharged envelopes. I imagine that is just about three times as many as anyone else. I do not pick the rare ones out and sell them separately—you get one of each at 10c. Send as much as you want from 10c to $15 and you will receive as many varieties as ordered. I am the headquarters for these stamps and those who have been with my service since the first have received in excess of 300 varieties.

WARD'S U. S. NEW ISSUE SERVICE.

Also remember that I am following the U. S. adhesive stamps even more closely than the envelopes, if such a thing is possible. If you want blocks of all the new things you better write for a circular. You get exactly what you want and the condition is as near superb as possible to obtain.

ALLEN C. SEARS HARRY B. MASON
300-301 1413 G., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. W. L. Preston sent for inspection some weeks back a copy of the 3c envelope overprinted in black with a very small figure "2" which he had obtained from Frederick, Oklahoma. This was casually mentioned in our Chronicle at the time but before giving definite information, it was our desire to investigate the standing of the issue. I now learn that the postmaster in this town followed the lead of the Duncan postmaster and not only overprinted the stamped envelopes in his own town, but overprinted those from the small surrounding cities in a similar manner. Frederick is the central accounting office for the immediate territory and consequently surcharged the envelopes for these towns. Most of the varieties that I have seen have the private return card in the upper corner of some local firm. I found but one size without this card. All sizes were on white with the exception of a size 8 on amber. I have not learned of any on blue or buff being on hand. In a small lot, however, a couple with a double overprint were noted.

Mr. W. J. Stanton sends a variety from San Diego which was overprinted in Los Angeles that has not been listed heretofore. Mr. H. D. Watkins remembers us with more from Atlanta and mentions that none on colored papers have been issued as yet. The Famous Stamp Company has found two new overprinted provisionals in Detroit and curiously Mr. Henry R. Buck has found in Hartford two lots of envelopes, one of which was received by the Hartford Post Office from Chicago and one from Indianapolis. The Chicago type has not been chronicled before, but the Indianapolis was previously found in that city. Mr. J. M. Bartels has shown me one of the second Chicago overprints which was purchased from the Boston Post Office.

Mention has been made in the Chronicle of small initials found near the plate numbers of some of the 2c surface printed stamps. These are etched upon the plate, and it has been the general impression that these are on before the plate first goes to press. Mr. G. G. Ruder now produces evidence which would lead one to believe that these are etched in after the plate has been used, for he has located two north-east panes from sheet 11606, one showing a small "W. B." near the right plate number and the other from the exact position, without it.

Mr. L. G. Barrett has sent for inspection a very wonderful lot of oddities of the 2c surface print, but I desire to work with them a little longer before presenting the information to our readers.

We wish to thank the following for notes of interest: Messrs. John E. Fast, Chas. Hiaumet, J. A. Bell, W. F. Palmer, L. A. Boone, V. H. Ford, A. H. Westphol, John M. McClun, George R. Rankin and Royce Robertson.

AITUTAKI.—The new pictorial stamps, briefly reported last week, comprise the following:—

On thick wove paper. No wmk. Perf. 14x13½.

1½d sepia. Captain Cook. 3d blue. Coconut palm. 6d brown (centre) and slate-blue. Native settlement.

1s black (centre) and marone. Rarotonga Harbour.

The inscriptions in each case are "Postage", in small capitals—at the top of the ½d, 1d, 6d and 1s values, and immediately above the central design of the 1½d and 3d—and "Aitutaki", in larger fancy capitals, with the denomination in words at the foot and numerals of value in the two lower corners. The 6d and 1s stamps are transverse oblong in format, and the others upright rectangular. Our description of the designs of the ½d and 1s stamps is conjectural, for there is no other evidence to guide us at present.—Stamp Collecting.

ALBANIA.—Mr. John M. Harvey has shown us the 8h red surcharged "15 Qind Postat" in two lines and in purple at the top of the stamp. There is also an overprint at the base but the printing is indistinct and it is not possible to make out the exact wording. At the same time Mr. Harvey sends a cover with a copy of the 10g on 8h used as 5g. The stamp has been cut diagonally and the half stamp has been used in connection with the 20g on 16h to frank the letter.

BAVARIA.—Mr. Henry Woelfel advises that he has a copy of the 20pf on 3pf old type with surcharge inverted. He adds that these are said to be quite rare.

BELGIUM.—Guest's New Issue Service sends us a copy of the 65c mentioned in issue No. 1549. In each corner is the figure of value and at the top "Belgique", while the base has "Belgie". Just below the centre figure are the words "Termonde Dendermonde".

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the following values of the recently mentioned set: 50h crimson, 185h orange. This is the same as the 30h, showing again with arms outstretched and kneeling the left knee.

DANZIG.—Mr. E. H. Gammar has shown us copies of the 5pf, 20pf, 25pf stamps of Germany, German surcharged "Danzig" diagonally in type. The colors of the overprint, black, blue and red, respectively, each value has also a heavy bar at base obliterating the former watermark. Mr. Gammar also shows us a copy of the former 30pf surcharged stamp with the added overprint "25" and stamps the two upper corners. The color surcharge is green.

DOMINICA.—We are indebted to Economist Stamp Co. for the first of the 1½d on 2½d stamp mentioned in issue No. 1548.

GERMANY.—The Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. E. H. Gammar have shown the following new colors in the German type stamps: 5pf red brown, 20pf red, 30pf dull blue and 40pf carmine.

ICELAND.—Mr. Delbert N. Johnson calls our attention to the 5a of the issue with inverted watermark.

stamps briefly chronicled on page 672 of last week's number comprises the following—in the same respective designs as those for Aitutaki, noted above:
 $\frac{1}{2}$ d black (centre) and green.
1d black (centre) and red.
 $\frac{1}{2}$ d black (centre) and vermilion.
3d black (centre) and pale blue.
6d brown (centre) and green.
1s black (centre) and grey-brown.

PENRHYN ISLAND.—The new set of six pictorial stamps, briefly chronicled on page 672 of last week's number, comprises:—
 $\frac{1}{2}$ d black (centre) and bright green.
1d black (centre) and red.
 $\frac{1}{2}$ d black (centre) and deep mauve.
3d black (centre) and orange-brown.
6d brown (centre) and dark brown.
1s black (centre) and grey-blue.
All in the same respective designs as those for Aitutaki, noted above.—Stamp Collecting.

RAROTONGA.—The colours of the six new pictorial stamps, briefly chronicled last week, are:—
 $\frac{1}{2}$ d black (centre) and sage-green.
1d black (centre) and red.
 $\frac{1}{2}$ d black (centre) and blue.
3d black (centre) and brown.
6d brown (centre) and orange.
1s black (centre) and violet.

RHODESIA.—The Stamp Lover calls attention to the appearance of the 5sh stamp, blue and green, in a new perforation. It is now perforated 15.
Messrs. H. E. Harris & Co. send us
the following that they have received from a correspondent in Bulawayo:—
"In re the $\frac{1}{2}$ d on 1d provisional stamps (Rhodesia) I am fully convinced that this overprint has been forged and I am going to publish the particulars.
The ink used in the forgery or forgeries is quite different and some varieties of missing letters which I have heard of
are not genuine, as no such varieties were allowed to be sold, but were destroyed by the Postmaster at Livingstone." Dealers should be warned not to accept quantities of these stamps until further details are known.

SWEDEN.—We have been shown by Joseph A. Steinmetz a very interesting cover posted from Stockholm. It has four airmail stamps with a "Luftpost" label indicating the service rendered.
The four stamps referred to are a 10
ore overprinted on the 3 ore brown, 20 ore on 2 ore orange (2), and 50 ore on 4 ore magenta. Large numerals are upon either side of the stamps effacing their original values, while the word
"Luftpost" in circular form is overprinted in the upper half of the stamps.
It is a striking contribution to air mail history and we presume that the service was between Sweden and England.
Specimens of these stamps have been shown us also by W. T. Wilson who adds that the stamps are also available for ordinary letters. Date of issue September 18.

The Economist Stamp Co. has submitted for chronicle copies of the following new values of the same type as mentioned in issue No. 1551: 60o plum, 80o dark green, 140o grey black. These values are also for use in the coil machines.

TURKEY.—The Economist Stamp Co.
sends us copies of the 10pa and 1pia of 1913 issue on what appears to be a watermarked paper. We also note that the color of the 1pia is considerably different than formerly, the shade being much more of a grey blue. At the same time the 10pia of the 1916-18 set is shown us printed on a greyish paper and of very deep green color.

THE ZURICH CONGRESS.

L. W. Charlat writes from Paris that he will probably return to New York around October 15. He has been attending the Dealers' Congress at Zurich and we thank him for the following information:—

"Having attended the first International Congress of Stamp Dealers, I take advantage of the earliest opportunity to send you these few notes.
The Congress convened at 9 A. M. Saturday, Sept. 4, in the beautiful Tonhalle at Zurich, with about 250 persons present, consisting principally of Swiss, German, Austrian and Scandinavian dealers. Messrs. Turpin and Smith of London represented the English trade, while Messrs. Champion, Bernhard and Montaigne of Paris represented France.
Mr. Watson and I were the sole Americans present.

A fine banquet was held in the evening and interesting addresses were made by the president of the Congress, Mr.
Kumin Beul, and others. Much was said about reconciliation and forgetting about the war, but it was evident that it would probably be many years before the French and English stamp dealers would trade freely with their late opponents.

On the following day, Sunday, Sept.
5, the members of the convention enjoyed a fine excursion over Lake Zurich on a boat especially engaged for the occasion. Monday and Tuesday were given over to trading and a very large amount of business was transacted.
About one hundred tables were reserved by the various dealers and there was hardly a table where a rushing business was not transacted. An astonishing amount of fine material was on view, including heaps of rare Swiss, old Germans, Italian States, Mauritius, Sydney views, etc, but no U. S. The prices asked were full Yvert & Tellier-Champion 1921 quotations and more, and in addition, payment had to be made in Swiss francs without regard to the current exchange.

The Congress provided an excellent opportunity for the dealers to become better acquainted and doubtless resulted in many valuable connections being affected. The Congress will be an annual affair and the second meeting will no doubt take place in Zurich in the early part of September, 1921."

STAMP DEALER ACCESSORIES.

For the present—enuff!

With our columns fairly bursting with advertising, we don't need to do any missionary work in the making of new scions of the trade.

Our remaining stock, which is very limited, will be closed out in 500 lots only at the following prices, and please remember that on reverse side of each piece is a very polite and inoffensive invitation to subscribe to the "King of Stamp Papers". As items are sold out they will be dropped from the list:—

500 approval sheets in black and red on thin bond paper (20 stamps),	$2.50
500 discount approval report blanks on heavy stock, well printed,	2.00
500 net approval report blanks similar to preceding form,	2.00
500 order blanks suitable for both dealer and collector in daily use,	1.75
500 blanks "Request for Approval Selections", for dealers only,	1.75
500 Coin Mailers and Order Form, a fine combination for only	1.75
500 Pocket Approval Cards at a rock bottom price, 3 packets,	6.25
We have several thousand of each lot.

TOPICS OF THE WEEK.

thought that the host of varieties so surcharged could only have been done with one object in view—namely, the exploitation of the complacent philatelic fraternity.

"From a close examination of the facts on the spot, I am fairly well satisfied that the only speculation which took place was on the part of a few people who managed to corner the 1915 issue as soon as it was placed on sale, previous knowledge having been gained that the issue of some of the values would be limited. That there was no speculation on the part of the Government I am convinced, though individual officials may have been parties to the cornering. Though at first prices ruled very high, they soon fell to what may be considered a fair level, taking into account the comparative rarity of some of the stamps."

Peruvian Plunder.—It would appear (says Mr. Richards) that the Post Office Department at Lima, in the latter half of 1914, called the attention of the Executive to the fact that the stock of stamps of the values of one and two cents was running dangerously low, and that difficulty was being experienced in renewing the stock owing to various causes connected with the European war. On October 14th, 1914, the Executive authorized the Post Office Department to surcharge any of the older issues which had been withdrawn from circulation, and which were still on hand, with new values of one and two cents up to a total issue of 350,000 stamps. Of some stamps of the older issues there appears to have been a fairly good stock on hand, but of others the quantity was almost negligible, and, in view of subsequent criticism from the unlucky dealers and collectors who did not get what they considered their share of the plunder, it would have been far better not to have used up these stamps.

Mr. Richards continues:—

"Peru has never been a country to exploit the locally-made article, with its inevitable graft and innumerable varieties, and there is much to be said in favour of the decision to surcharge and use up old stocks of previous issues, rather than to have recourse to the dangers of a home-made issue. I know for a fact that suggestions were made to the authorities that stamps could be produced locally, which would fill the requirements of the country until such time as the world war was ended, and supplies could again be obtained from the old sources, but the suggestions fell on stony ground, for the Government had before it the baneful results which had attended the local manufacture of stamps in the neighbouring republics."

The number of stamps surcharged in 1915 was as follows:—

No. 386, 1c on 1c,	1,200
No. 387, 1c on 1c,	26,300
No. 388, 1c on 2c,	14,000
No. 389, 1c on 10c,	22,900
No. 390, 1c on 4c,	9,000
No. 391, 1c on 10c,	162,000
No. 392, 2c on 12c,	96,000

British Provisionals.—Although the regular British postage stamps have remained unaffected by the revised rates of postage, the special stamps issued by the railway companies for payment of supplementary fees on train letters have not escaped so lightly. These railway letter fee stamps originally came into use in February, 1891, under authority from the Postmaster General, and actually constitute a legitimate branch of the British postal issues. Under the new rates certain companies have found it necessary to surcharge the old 2d railway letter stamps. A recent writer, discussing these, heralds them as "the first provisional stamps that have appeared in Great Britain for many years past."

The statement is hardly correct, and evidently the writer had momentarily overlooked the "Additional Medicine Duty" provisionals, which were issued five years ago, and were chronicled and illustrated in the October 23rd, 1915, number of Stamp Collecting. Certainly these were not postage stamps when so overprinted, but they were provisionals for all that.

To "Philatelist."—In reply to your anonymous letter, we are sorry to say that your suspicions have every foundation, but we are always careful not to accept advertisements from such "black sheep" as those to whom you obviously refer. May we also point out that we do not as a rule take any notice of anonymous communications? Name and address should be given, to prove good faith.

A Window Catch.—That enterprising publisher, Mr. Herbert Jenkins, confesses that one form of booksellers' advertising that has always appealed to him is the dodge of affixing a small card to the window with just a few words, announcing a new book. The most curious of animals, the human, cannot resist a small piece of paper, a press cutting, or a card affixed to a tradesman's window. Instinctively he stops and reads it. We do it ourselves. We can pass a glad eye or a pub; but we can't pass that piece of paper. Why not try it on when you want to advertise a new stamp?

Philatelic Missals.—No, Cuthbert, we did not say "missiles," and are therefore not referring to "woodblocks," as you suggest. When you so discourteously interrupted we were going to tell "M. C." readers of the wonderful illuminated albums which are offered us from time to time in the course of business. In the leisurely Victorian era it was apparently the fashion to illuminate the pages of one's stamp album by hand. We have seen two specimens in the last few months in each of which every page was magnificently decorated with appropriate borders and headings in gilt and colours or in ink. The labour involved must have been enormous, but the results achieved fully justify it. One album contained specimens of the illuminator's art from medieval manuscripts, as well as a border drawn from the title-page of "Punch"! In such an album as this the stamps are dwarfed by their setting, but collections of the period when hand decorated albums were fashionable, usually contain little but those cut-square specimens which are the despair of the modern treasure-hunter. We are not likely to witness a revival of the illuminating craze in these days of hustle, though even the most confirmed cinema fiend could hardly fail to be attracted by the albums we have described.—Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Circular.

German Stamp Trade.—In the course of an announcement lamenting the "difficulties arising in stamp dealing between Germany and foreign countries," a certain wily Teuton dealer remarks that it is a positive fact that stamp dealing in Germany has become one of the most important factors to-day. Enormous sums of money are invested daily, and the prices paid are not far behind the quotations in London, Paris, New York, &c., in spite of the financial crisis in Germany. But it is also obvious that no one is willing to sell again the collection of stamps he has obtained, because it rather means a safer investment of capital than many other objects on the market today.

This fact encourages the German dealer to say:—

"Therefore, no foreign dealer or collector should run away with the idea that he could buy stamps here at very favourable prices, reckoning with the present rate of exchange. It even happens frequently that many German dealers and collectors were offering far better prices than any foreign stamp dealer or collector would do."

id investment of capital to-day,

foreign dealers and collectors think that Germany possesses ous stocks of stamps, which they obtain at most favourable prices.
ny esteemed friends, just consider ere in Germany lawless trading has going on since the revolution broke Lots of stamps were bought in order sold again in Germany at fabulous Therefore it is only necessary ny stamp dealing house, standing in business connections with foreign countries, would require an enormous capital in order to satisfy all customers, complying with their wishes in every direction. Some time ago I received orders from five first-class American firms at the amount of nearly half a million marks. Unfortunately, it was impossible for me to accept these orders, because no ready cash could be transferred within a limited time.

"It is also a fact that nearly all banking houses are not interested in stamp dealing, and to receive credit at any amount is rather impossible. Therefore lots of stamp dealers have to arrange business affairs in a certain way, which sometimes might seem ridiculous to all foreign customers. I have mentioned already that at times it is rather impossible for me to hold a very large stock of stamps, and it often happens that sets of stamps which I have offered in papers, &c., to foreign customers were sold before an order from America, England, &c., could reach me."

A Central American Conspiracy.— Nicaragua's postal director, a person blessed with the name of Toribio Tije-rino, has issued a circular addressed to the chief postal officials at Costa Rica, Honduras, San Salvador, and Guatemala. In this document he purposes that the four countries and Nicaragua issue jointly, in 1921—the centenary of the independence of those regions from Spanish rule—a series of postage stamps.
The description as translated from Spanish into German, and thence into English by an American firm, reads:—
"Stamps at two cents, which are used most extensively, to bear the insignia of the Central American Republic with the inscription 'Republica de Centro America, Estado de —' (here follows the name of the particular Republic issuing the stamp).

"The one cent stamps are to carry the portrait of the celebrated Jose Cecilio Valle, the author of the Act of Independence.

"The five cents stamps are to carry the picture of General Manuel Jose Arce, first President of the former Central American Republic, and later leader of the first campaign of liberation in San Salvador in the year 1811.

"On the stamps of other denominations are to be portrayed other representatives who signed the Act of Independence.

"Every Republic has the right to determine the picture of which one of the representatives is to be placed upon the stamps.

"Costa Rica already has given its agreement to the proposal. As is well known, the date of the Independence is September 15th, 1821."

Oil Rivers Rarities.—One of the rarest stamps in the world was knocked down for £175 at Harmer's Bond Street Galleries last week. It was issued by Sir Claude Macdonald, as H.B.M. Consul-General for the Oil Rivers Protectorate, in December, 1893, and only one other specimen is known.

The face value of the stamp is 20s, and, like the majority of great philatelic rarities, it constituted a provisional issue to meet a temporary demand. The value is surcharged in large figures on an ordinary 1s British postage stamp of Queen Victoria's reign, already overprinted "British Protectorate—Oil Rivers," the figures being impressed in black ink, by hand.

Two copies only out of a total of eight thus surcharged were done in black, and the balance in violet or vermilion. This particular specimen came recently in a private collection formed by Mr. C. J. Lucas, and is accompanied by an autograph letter from Sir Claude Macdonald commenting on its extreme rarity.—Daily Express, September 22nd.

We understand that the purchasers were Messrs. Charles Nissen, Ltd.

Mr. Hugo Griebert.—Our readers will be sorry to know that, through overwork, that highly respected and erudite professional philatelist, Mr. Hugo Griebert, has suffered a nervous breakdown,

as a result of which he is unable to give the same amount of time to the study of stamps as in former years. He has been strongly advised to take things easier, and, as a consequence, is afraid the publication of future numbers of his "Notes and Offers" will be liable to delay. We are glad to know, however, that he proposes to issue that always interesting and instructive house organ at least four times per year until his health has improved. Meanwhile, Mr.
Griebert thanks his clients all over the world for their patronage and goodwill, for the continuance of which he is ready —and worthy; and we sincerely trust he will speedily be restored to that robust health which has enabled him for so many years to put in a full twelve hours' work every day. Mr. Griebert's fortnightly announcements on our front cover are as essential a part of Stamp Collecting as he himself is in the stamp trade.

THE DECLINE AND FALL OF STAMP COLLECTING.

(The article below appeared in the Worcester, Mass., "Telegram" Friday, October 8.
We reprint it for the purpose of showing how ridiculous an editor can appear when he writes about a subject concerning which he knows nothing. If the "Telegram" thinks that there really is a "decline and fall of stamp collecting", he should have a look at the columns of our publication during the past two years. Clippings at hand from H.
C. Murdock and Frank E. Wood.—W. O. W.)

A "Centennial" stamped envelope turned up in the Boston post office the other day—and the younger generation, who probably never had and never will have a stamp collection, held up the antique messenger until "postal officials O K'd the quaint envelope." What memories that bit of news brings back to the boys of the last generation who "collected"; memories of the stamp album which cost a dollar, and of the "1000 varieties for 25 cents," and of the education in color so that today "puce brown" is a recognized shade; memories of the day when a complete set of "the Columbians" was the desire of every boy's heart, and had to be put in the back of the book because there were no spaces for them; memories of "pro-prietaries," and "war departments" and
"state departments," and of "embossed" issues.

But stamp collecting went the way of all good things when the specialists got hold of it. These meticulous individuals promptly found not 57 but 1000 varieties of each issue. Their venture into the envelope field knocked the amateur collector flat. They found more differences of shade, color and previous conditions of servitude in the early issues than could be crowded in a book of 1000 pages. They promptly pronounced these "Confederates" which were the joy and pride of many a boy, "counterfeit," or "reprint." To them it was nothing at all to purchase at any post office a 90 cent "unused" of the current issue.
They got sheets from Mekeel or somebody out in the wild West which gave them anywhere up to 75 per cent discount. They wrecked a perfectly good market, and took all the joy out of life.
What was the use of trying to equal the collection of a man who could spend a dollar a week on his stamps?

And so stamp collecting, like many another harmless, educational and interesting hobby, went by the boards, wrecked by the money god. Today not one boy in a hundred could tell what was on the design of that Centennial stamped envelope, yet in the album of any boy of the eighties each of the three spaces (one for each shade) was filled with the shield bearing on its upper half the pony express rider of the plains, and on the lower the picture of the first locomotive operated in Pennsylvania—
"white on vermilion." They have gone, together with the bewhiskered gentleman on the 90 cent stamp and the caravels on the Columbians, retired to an innocuous desuetude—until some "expert" of the present day takes down the old album and goes into ecstasies over something the boy of that generation paid anywhere up to 10 cents for—and thought himself not getting "value" because it wasn't "unused."

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—A subscriber whose paper had been discontinued writes us expressing surprise that we had stopped the paper without first sending bill. No subscription is discontinued without a notice to the subscriber. First, there is a notice on the wrapper and enclosed is a bill calling attention to the subscription expiration. Added to this we have during the past months given weekly publicity to our method of promptly discontinuing on expiration. No subscriber can find fault with us for stopping the paper in view of the pains we are taking in this matter. All he needs to do is to keep track of the Whole Number on his wrapper as compared with the Whole Number on the first page of the WEEKLY. Our present system of discontinuing immediately upon expiration is absolutely necessary.

—Lawrence H. King, 818 Fox St., N. Y. City, sends us a glowing account of the activities of the Bronx Philatelic Society. Regular weekly meetings were resumed Sept. 15. The club has forty members. We might suggest that a good field for the operations of the Society would be to weed out the approval sheet frauds that infest New York and Brooklyn. We have a list of fifty names that we could furnish.

—E. Moore Parrish suggests that the first week in December be made a stamp collecting publicity week. He urges that stamp men everywhere, whether collectors or dealers, plan public exhibitions of stamps and that dealers take space in local publications to advertise their stamp business. The idea is a good one.

—Herman Boers informs us that James D. Hubel has purchased the stock of stamps of the late Charles Wells of Detroit. Mr. Wells' death was reported in the WEEKLY a few weeks ago.

—The Rubber City Stamp Club of Akron, O., extends an invitation to anyone residing in or near that city to happen in any Wednesday evening to the rooms of the club in the Permanent Title Bldg., corner of Mill and Main Streets. The Secretary, D. R. Heath, may be reached at 116 Hall St.

—The Portland (Me.) Press states that the C. S. Watson Co. has brought action against Axel J. M. Johansen of South Portland to recover two valuable lots of postage stamps. The value is placed at $2,000.

—The London Illustrated News every week has space devoted to philately under the title of "The Cult of the Postage Stamp", by Fred. Melville. The most recent novelties are illustrated, making it much appreciated by the American philatelist who can get a copy of this English weekly at his local library. Quite recently it has pictured full pages with stamps.

STAMPS WORTH FORTUNES.

Under this heading a very fine featured article appears in the Public Ledger of October 10 from the pen of Geo. M. Emery. We have had occasion to refer to Mr. Emery's splendid publicity work several times in the past and the current contribution ranks well up with any preceding effort. It occupies an entire page and is finely illustrated with entires showing early post office stamps and carriers. No doubt the article appears in various other papers simultaneously, and Mr. Emery's work in this one instance will prove of far reaching value to our hobby.

Retail or Wholesale Approvals

Approvals have been a main feature with us for over 25 years. Grades of selections suitable for every collector or dealer, large or small. Profit by the experience of the older and "wise" collectors-dealers of yesterday and today by investigating our Emco Approval Service without further delay—now is the time to get acquainted. We don't claim to be the cheapest but do say that "It pays you to be well served and it pays us to serve you well." Reference from new customers, please—that's essentially for your benefit as well as ours.

THE PONY EXPRESS.

By JOSEPH WARD.

Perhaps the most picturesque figure of the old trail was the pony express rider.
The overland stage proved too slow for mail in its flight from the Missouri and Pacific. True, it had cut down the months of the ox team to twenty-five days, and still there was the demand that the east and west be brought closer together, and it was done. The pony express cut the time to ten days, and even less as the service was perfected.

It was in 1858 that Senator Gwyn of California, known as "Duke" Gwyn by reason of title conferred on him in Mexico, conceived the idea of transmitting the mails across the plains on swiftly running ponies. Gwyn figured that the coast deserved a better mail service than the stage coach coming by way of Los Angeles offered, and accordingly went to Washington with his mind full of ideas for a pony express directly across the country, over what was known as the central route. He was laughed at by his colleagues, however, and was told that an all the year around service across the Rocky Mountains thru Colorado, Nevada and Utah was simply an impossibility. Nothing daunted, Senator Gwyn sought Colonel Russell, who spent much of his time in the Capitol.

In the fall of 1859 the plans were well underway. It must be recalled, however, that in the year 1859 there was not a mile of railroad west of the Missouri. Saint Joseph, Missouri, was the western terminus for the then railroad lines. Between that city and the Golden Gate stretched two thousand miles of wild territory infested by very war-like Indians. It was thru this very uninviting country that it was proposed to send mail and riders thru.

The route briefly stated was due west from Saint Joseph to Fort Kearney, up the Platte to Julesburg, thence to Fort Laramie and Fort Bridget, to Salt Lake City, and thence to Camp Floyd, Ruby Valley, the Humboldt, Carson City, Plac-erville and Folsom to Sacramento and on to San Francisco by boat.

It was the intention of the pony express, formed under the lengthy name of Central Overland, California, and Pike's Peak Express Company, to carry

letters only, and not more than ten pounds to a trip. It was decided that the safest and easiest mode of carrying them was to make four pockets in a mochila, a covering made of leather for the saddle, used by the expert horsemen of Spain and Mexico. The mochila was transferred from horse to horse and was only opened at authorized stations and military posts en route.

The letters were written on sheets of tissue paper for lightness and compactness, and were wrapped in oiled silk to protect them, but even this precaution failed. When rivers were to be crossed horse and rider swam together.

The entire system was worked out to the minute. Along the route were stations on the average of twenty-three miles apart. Each rider averaged seventy-five miles a day. In the service were 190 stations, 200 station keepers, and nearly as many assistants, eighty riders, who received $100 to $125 for their services, and nearly five hundred horses, or ponies, to be correct.

From Saint Joseph to the Golden Gate, ten days were reckoned on: ten miles to the hour—exactly two hundred and forty hours. The schedule read:

To Fort Kearney,	34 hours
Salt Lake City,	124 hours
Placerville,	226 hours
Sacramento,	234 hours
San Francisco,	240 hours

The firm of Russell, Major and Waddell had for a number of years operated a four-day schedule between New York City and Saint Joseph, and now with their new enterprise, the country was linked with a fourteen-day coast-to-coast communication. Quite an improvement over the Panama route of twenty-two days.

For urgent needs, however, there was still a faster service. One could telegraph the message to Saint Joseph and it would go west with the next rider.

Tuesday, April 3rd, 1860, was a great day in the town of Saint Joseph. About 7.30 the mail, consisting of news dispatches for the Sacramento Union and San Francisco Bulletin, forty-nine letters and five private telegrams, was brought out by the Mayor of the town

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

and given to the rider, amid the cheers and shouts of the crowd. The rider then left in a cloud of dust to begin one of the most memorable undertakings in the history of the country.

He left Saint Joseph in a mad gallop, and this was the speed maintained in the mad rush across those two thousand miles of unclaimed land. Of course physical features of the land compelled him to slow down in some places, but this he made up where the going was better.

Along the route the riders were met by the few settlers and given a hearty greeting. At Placerville guns were fired and several lengthy speeches were made. At Sacramento the Legislature adjourned, shops and houses were gay with flags, the people blocked the streets. At five o'clock, April 13th, the rider arrived, followed by several score horsemen who had gone out to meet him on the plains and escort him back.

Rider and pony went down the river to San Francisco, where the militia met them and escorted them in a torchlight procession.

The eastward trip was equally honored. April 3rd the messenger left San Francisco and went to Sacramento by boat, by coach to Geneva, and there got a pony and began the dash eastward. April 13th Saint Joseph had the mail. The city was illuminated and citizens followed the town's brass band. Fireworks burned and all was frolic. The last hundred miles were made in eight hours.

It was with this regularity that the service operated.

There was little delay in the changing of ponies; that was prepared for from the first. The rider, when half a mile from his station, would give the "coyote yell," and whether day or night, the keeper or his assistant would have a fresh animal out, and it was but the work of a moment to change from one mount to another, and he would be off again.

The men themselves had to be strong and hearty, for theirs was no easy occupation. They had to possess the courage to face the dangers that beset their trail. Over arid deserts, mountains and prairies, thru ice, rain and sunshine, their duty led them. Also, they had to be expert horsemen, for it was required to get all the strength out of their mounts without overtaxing them.

Now and then the Indians would succeed in killing a rider, and quite a few of the men lost their life in this manner. When the rider in question did not arrive at his appointed meeting place, the connecting rider would go on with the message that rider and mail had been lost. Take, for instance, the rider due in Saint Joseph May 28th. The rider did not come until the 30th, and he carried a letter from Salt Lake City that read:

"The rider has just come in. The Indians have chased all the men from the stations between Diamond Springs and Camp Valley. The pouch, rider and express matter are lost."

Letters posted in New York City as late as 5 P. M. Tuesday reached Saint Joseph in time to dispatch them on the 11 P. M. Saturday trip for the Pacific. Thus New York and San Francisco were linked with a fourteen-day mail service.

In 1860 President Buchanan's last message was carried into San Francisco in eight days and five hours, but this was even beaten when President Lincoln's inaugural address was received in the Golden Gate City in seven days and seventeen hours.

At the beginning of the service, five dollars the ounce was charged, but later this was reduced to a quarter-eagle.

The pony express was in operation a little over two years. At the end of that time an enterprising American, a citizen of Omaha named Edward Creighton, completed a telegraph line across the continent to the Pacific, and the swift pony was replaced by a swifter lightning.

Some claim that the pony express was a losing venture, but at least it opened the way across the continent for the telegraph and railroads.

One of the riders whom we have heard much of recently was W. F. Cody, known as "Buffalo Bill". His route lay thru the region of the Black Hills, as bad a trail as could be selected. On one occasion he found the rider who was to have met him at the end of his trip slain by Indians, and he was called on to take up the dead man's trail. This he did, making a ride of 384 miles without stop or rest except for the two-minute changes of horses. He made the trip in twenty-four hours and changed mounts thirty-six times.

THE "DUVEEN" COLLECTION.

The stamp collection formed by the late Henry J. Duveen, the famous art expert, who died in New York on January 15th, 1919, ranks third or fourth amongst the great stamp collections of the world. Its intrinsic value has been estimated at between £250,000 and £300,000, and it includes a large number of standard rarities.

The Mauritius collection, in particular, is of first importance, with its matchless pair of unused 1d. and 2d. "Post Office," acquired from the Avery collection in 1910 for £3500; a block of four 1d. "Post Paid," valued at £1000, and many other fine pieces.

Next in importance is the magnificent display of early "Cantonal" stamps of Switzerland, prominent amongst them an unique block of 5c. "Double" Geneva, a part sheet of the 5c. "large Eagle," 1847-8, and a block of 15 Basle "Doves." Scarcely less notable is the magnificent display of the crude "Native" issues of British Guiana, in which the chief gem is a pair of the circular 2 cents of 1850 on original cover. There are two copies of the 4c. 1856 on blue "sugar" paper and reconstructed plates of the 1862 provisionals.

In New South Wales the collection is strong in "Sydney Views" and "Laureates," including a superb mint block of 15 of the 3d "View." West Australia is another strong section with a used copy of the rare 4d "Inverted Swan."

Other highly specialized countries represented are: Great Britain (plate numbers and hair-line varieties). Japan (special feature of syllabic issues). Tasmania (early issues and rare perforations). Transvaal (early issues, including errors, arranged according to printings, papers and roulettes). German States (a magnificent array, all unused, including many unique blocks). Turks Islands (reconstructed settings of provisional surcharges). Nevis (entire and reconstructed sheets). Tuscany (including all the rarities). Portugal (strong in early issues). Portuguese India (paper varieties of first issue, errors and large blocks). Buenos Ayres (complete, used and unused). Chili (illustrating printings of first type). Finland (unused, including blocks and errors), etc.

The scope of the "Duveen" collection is practically confined to fine imperforate, line-engraved and the earlier issues of the countries represented, and few (if any) twentieth century stamps find place in it. At the New York International Stamp Exhibition of 1913 the several sections of the "Duveen" collection entered for competition gained for their owner the Grand Prix trophy presented by the Collectors' Club for the exhibit of the greatest merit. Portions of the collection had previously obtained high

THE STAMPS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.
 CHAPTER III.
The Pence Issues.

The continual prodding of the lethargic Legislature by Postmaster General W. L. Solomon finally resulted in permission being given him to order the long needed postage stamps. He ordered the stamps through Mr. Edward Stanford, the well-known publisher of Charing Cross, London, and Mr. Stanford entrusted their execution to the famous firm of Perkins, Bacon and Company, Limited. The resulting stamps are among the handsomest of the many beautiful series emanating from this well-known printing and engraving establishment. The series consists of nine different values, so the postal needs of the Colony were more amply provided for than was the case of any of the other British North American Colonies as regards their earliest issues. The values are 1d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 6½d, 8d and 1s, of which the 1d and 5d are perfectly square and alike in design. The 3d is triangular in shape and the other values are upright oblongs, all of the same size but differing from one another in more or less prominent details.

The design of the 1d and 5d is almost exactly like that of the first stamps for New Brunswick, but with the central Crown set straight so that the whole is square instead of diamond shaped. In each corner are small squares containing numerals to denote the value, and around the outer edges of the stamps, between these corner squares, are four narrow tablets inscribed "St. John's" at left, "Newfound" at top, "Land" at right, and the value in words at the bottom. The Royal Crown in the centre is within a small octagonal, concave-curved frame, and in the four spandrels, set diagonally in relation to the crown, are roses at upper left and lower right, a shamrock at upper right and a thistle at lower left, these being the heraldic flowers of the United Kingdom. Each flower is set on an eight-pointed star and around the whole design is a white curved line forming a conventionalised four-leaved flower, probably taken from an English fleur-de-lis. The tips of the leaves just touch the corner squares, and between the leaves at the sides and top are flowers, while at the bottom the word "Postage" is shown on a small tablet, the ends of which encroach slightly on the outline of the large flower.

The 3d stamp is triangular in shape, and in small diamond shaped ornaments at each angle small numerals "3" are shown. Between these small diamonds are straight labels of solid color inscribed "St. John's" and "Newfoundland" on the upper sides and "Postage. Threepence" along the bottom. In the centre are three circles conjoined with a rose in the upper one and thistle and shamrock respectively in the lower ones. This centrepiece rests on an engine turned background.

The 2d value is upright rectangular in shape, with rose, shamrock and thistle engrafted on one stem in the centre. The flowers are on a plain circle with an engine-turned pattern above and below and this centrepiece is enclosed within a wide oval band of engine-turning broken in its upper half by a curved band of solid color on which is engraved "St. John's Newfoundland". In each of the four corners is a numeral "2", the upper ones being enclosed within a pearled frame, while between the lower ones is "Postage—Twopence" in two lines. The design of the 1s is similar except that there are no numerals in the lower corners, and the spandrels, including those upon which the upper figures rest, are composed of conventionalised leaf ornamentation. The 4d, 6d and 8d follow the plan of those already described in broad particulars, but differ in having "Postage" at the top and again differ from each other in the spandrel ornamentation and the little discs or tablets on which the corner numerals are placed. The 6½d shows more variation than any of the others, for while the centrepiece is similar, the word "Postage" is shown in small letters above the heraldic flowers, and the value is inscribed above and below, viz.—"Sixpence" at top, and "Halfpenny" below.

The plate for the 1d value contained 120 specimens arranged in ten horizontal rows of twelve stamps each; the 5d plate was composed of 40 stamps in five horizontal rows of eight; the 3d plate contained 80 stamps arranged in pairs, in five horizontal rows of eight pairs; while the plates for the 2d, 4d, 6d, 6½d, 8d and 1s contained only twenty stamps, which were arranged in four horizontal rows of five. The dies and plates were all of steel and from the records of the manufacturers it is known that all the plates were finished in September, 1856.

In a valuable article which appeared in the London Philatelist for November, 1894, Mr. E. D. Bacon gave a list of all the consignments of stamps sent to Newfoundland by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., and as this list is of the greatest interest, we make no apology for reproducing it in its entirety:—

Member of the A. S. D. A.

While there was never any doubt as to the lake stamps being the last to be issued for many years, it was a much debated question as to whether the scarlet or orange stamps were issued first, or, indeed, whether both colors were included in the same consignment or not. However, the discovery by Mr. D. A. King of a letter sheet franked with a 6 1/2d scarlet and postmarked early in 1857, together with the publication of the above quoted list of consignments in 1894, settled the matter definitely. While the colors of the first consignment are not given in Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co.'s books, judging by those given to later supplies, this omission is of little consequence. There can be absolutely no doubt that the 2d, 4d, 6d, 6 1/2d, 8d and 1s values first sent out were the scarlet stamps. To start with, there was only one other lot of the 8d denomination—the 10,000 in the fourth consignment, which must have consisted of the lake stamps, and as this value was never printed in orange, it follows the first supply were in scarlet. Then we have the evidence of the dated cover franked with a 6 1/2d scarlet already referred to and the fact that this value, also, was never issued in orange.

The first consignment, therefore, contained all the scarlet stamps, the second supply contained those printed in orange, and the other two consignments the lake stamps, and a study of the above quoted figures, together with present values of the different colors, proves the correctness of this statement conclusively. It is small wonder that some of these stamps are so scarce and high priced when we find that of the 6 1/2d and 1s scarlet only 2000 of each were printed, while of the 2d there were but 3000 and of the 4d and 6d 5000 each. Of the 1s orange there were only 1000, which is only twice the number printed of the famous Mauritius 1d and 2d "Post-office" stamps. Compared with the $5000 or more that one of these Mauritius would realise the present catalogue quotation of $200 for a used copy of the 1s orange Newfoundland seems exceedingly modest.

There were only two consignments of the 1d value, and as three colors are usually recognised for this stamp, it would appear that the first and larger supply (70,000 stamps) must have consisted of two shades, and the small supply of November, 1861, was composed of the red-brown stamps only. The classification adopted by Scott, ascribing two shades to the 1857 stamp, would appear to be more correct than that of Gibbons, in which two colors are given under the date of 1861-2.

While more 3d were printed than any other denomination—some of this value being included in each of the four consignments—it is priced higher than several of the lake stamps, of which much smaller quantities were printed. All the 3d were in the same color, but those included in the first consignment were printed on a different paper from those of the later supplies—a point we shall refer to a little more fully later. As there were only 16,000 in the first supply and a total of 76,000 in the other three, it would seem that the values given to the two varieties by Gibbons are out of all proportion to the ratio of the numbers issued. Another curious fact about the 3d is that while from early post-office accounts more of this value were sold than of the others, it is now valued as high or higher in used condition than some of the other varieties.

Supplies of the 5d values were included in three of the four consignments, and four shades are usually recognised for this denomination. Scott lists two of these with the first series and two with the lake series, while Gibbons also gives two shades among the lake set and splits the others with the scarlet and orange stamps. While this value was included in the first two consignments, it would appear that Gibbons are probably correct in their classification so far as two of the shades are concerned, but if the fourth consignment of 10,000 stamps covered both the orange-brown and red-brown shades, then there is something radically wrong with the catalogue values apportioned them.

Mr. Bacon tells us that "the paper used for the first consignment was soft, stout, white wove, while all the other supplies were printed on a thin, hard, greyish-white paper". All the scarlet stamps are undoubtedly on a thicker paper than the orange ones, and it is therefore only reasonable to presume that the other values printed at the same time show the same paper characteristics. But the lake stamps and those in concurrent use with them, are not always on thin paper, though other varieties are scarce. In regard to this, Mr. King says, "nearly all the values can be found on paper exceptionally thin or thick. I have a sixpence on paper as thin as pelure, and the one shilling almost as heavy as bristol board, and they run between the two extremes".

The stamps printed on the thinner paper may occasionally be found showing a watermark consisting of part of the papermaker's trademark, viz.:

STACEYWISE
1858

The letters are in large capitals, and specimens showing parts of this watermark are quite scarce.

While a supply of 10,000 of the 8d stamp was printed in lake and sent to the Colony with other values in the consignment despatched from London on November 30th, 1861, there was so little demand for this particular denomination that the lake 8d was never placed in circulation. Used copies are, therefore, not known, and the variety should rightly be classified as one prepared for use but not issued.

Some of the 6 1/2d were printed in orange, but we have not been able to trace when or how many of these were printed. None were ever sent to the Colony, and while the variety is exceedingly rare, it also belongs to the category of stamps prepared for use but unissued.

A somewhat mysterious variety is the 1s orange printed on thick laid paper. This seems to have been entirely unknown until 1893, when a report was circulated that a few specimens had escaped from the custody of Perkins, Bacon and Company. Although it is a variety of the greatest rarity, it cannot be considered as anything more than a proof.

Proofs of all values are known and are described by Mr. Bacon as follows:—

proofs, and also plate proofs, in soft white card, are known of values, and I have seen plate

proofs in black of the one penny on white paper and of the threepence on pale bluish paper.

Mr. David Gill, of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., Limited, possesses a proof impression in black of the original die of the one shilling. This impression differs from the stamp as issued in the following particulars: The triangular shaped blocks in the lower spandrels, instead of containing foliate ornaments, are divided into two equal parts by a thin diagonal line, the upper portion of each block being filled in with fine vertical lines, and the lower with similar horizontal ones. The blocks in the two top corners also have similar fine lines on either side of the numeral of value. It was afterwards determined to substitute foliate ornaments instead of the straight lines in all four of the blocks. These alterations were made on the original die, which Mr. Gill tells me he has carefully examined, and it distinctly shows traces of re-engraving in these four places. The proof belonging to Mr. Gill, which is believed to be the only one now in existence, is interesting, as it shows the design of the one shilling as it was first intended to be printed. The substitution of the foliate ornaments certainly added to the beauty of the stamp."

Whether the plates employed in the production of these pence stamps are still in existence or not, we cannot say, but the original dies are (or at least were a few years ago) still in the possession of Perkins, Bacon & Company.

In the following reference list we have given the colors adopted in Gibbons' catalogue in most cases, as these are more correct than those listed by Scott. The numbers in parenthesis refer to the quantities sent to the Colony.

Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

FOREIGN POSTAGE RATES.
By JOSEPH WARD.

Philatelists admit with the masses that the War has done considerable towards bringing us into closer contact with foreign people. American magazines and newspapers now display ads of foreign merchants, our banks are opening foreign branches, and thus it goes. It is increasing with tremendous momentum.

American philatelic publications now house ads of Egyptian, Turkish, French, or Malaysian dealers, collectors, or traders. It is the answering these ads that I pen these lines. How about the amount of postage you put on these letters.

Postal conventions have mixed things up a bit, that is true; but every post office clerk is ready to inform you of anything in his department, plus the fact that the Department issues monthly sheets giving data on postage rates, parcel post exchanges, etc.

Putting a two cent stamp on a letter addressed for delivery in Argentine, France or India, and having double the remainder collected, certainly is not giving the foreigner a favorable opinion of Americans.

The writer recalls an incident which happened when the war-time postage rate was effective. I affixed one of the purple labels on a letter addressed for delivery in Calcutta, India. Two cents were short, and four were to be collected from the addressee, or two annas (two pence) in his money. He refused to accept the letter and it came back to me and I paid the four cents.

Our standard of living is on such a level that for the time we forget the other fellow. Four cents is next to nothing, we throw that much away in a day; but in India the standard of living is quite a bit lower, less money in circulation, etc., so that the two annas looked quite the size of a two dollar bill to us. Perhaps a day's pay. Having no statistics of Indian wage earnings, I am not responsible for statements to that extent, but my point is this: It's a boomerang to prospective business.

Then to come closer to home. A reader of this magazine while in Bermuda advertised stamps of that island. It was quite an attractive ad and reasonable, and soon he received quite a few letters, but—

A couple of issues later there was an open letter in these columns by the editor, calling attention to the fact that the postage rate to the Bermudas was five cents and not two.

Double the missing amount is collected from the receiver and you can see the inconvenience and the cost as well this caused, not in these two cases, but hundreds of others as well.

To the following countries one can send a one ounce letter for two cents, (all others require five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce or fraction):

- U. S. Possessions
- U. S. Agency at Shanghai
- Canada
- Cuba
- Mexico
- Panama (Zone and Republic)
- England
- Ireland
- Scotland
- Wales
- Bahamas
- Barbados
- British Honduras
- Dominican Repub.
- Dutch West Indies
- Leeward Islands
- Newfoundland
- New Zealand
- Trinidad
- Windward Islands
- Germany (A. E. F. only)

You have the other three cents, put it on! If you are not sure of the postal rating, inquire! A little stroke of carelessness like that may tell in your business.

Always provide return postage. For out of the country use the International Reply-Coupons.

EDITORIAL.

Given—Last week we told of the interest shown by the Chicago Evening American in a lot of loose stamps and an album that had been brought in by a reader. The stamps and album, by request, were to be given to some little person who is an invalid and a stamp collector. In the issue of the American for October 19th, there is a picture of Tillie Hillebrand, 244 N. Campbell Ave., Chicago, with her wind-fall and, incidentally, her crutches. The picture is headed: "Stamps Are Her Hobby"; and the story has the head: "Little Girl is Made Happy with Stamps." We quote: "Tillie is a very little girl for 11, with large blue eyes and a captivating smile." She was injured by a fall while roller-skating..... "I just have a cast on my leg and use crutches; I'm no cripple." Tillie's brother helps her collect, but somehow, the combined efforts of the two were not remarkable, as the collection that she had consisted only of U. S., with the exception of two Roumanian which were given her by the letter-carrier. She was entranced when she received the bulky envelope with the stamps but "the fairy story achieved its climax when she also was presented with a stamp book in which pictures of the stamp of every country appeared. It was more than she could stand. She threw her arms around her mother's neck and squealed her delight. She didn't know why there should be tears in her mother's eyes; getting such a grand present wasn't anything to cry about." Mr. Justin H. Forrest of the American staff told us that there are many requests for the stamps from deserving little invalids with the stamp fever and that a decision in this case was arrived at only after much consideration.

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN COMPANY

33 WEST 44TH STREET,

NEW YORK CITY.

Airplane—From Mr. J. P. Coveleski, Ancon, Canal Zone, we have received a cover bearing the two cent, 1909 of Panama, surcharged Canal Zone, in the customary two vertical lines of black impression farther apart. Mr. Coveleski says that 200,000 of the stamps were surcharged at the Mount Hope, Canal Zone printing plant but 1900 were rejected because of faulty printing. The cover that Mr. Coveleski sends is a first trip cover, and bears the special postmark-cancellation: "Cristobal, C. Z., Oct. 6, 6 A. M. Transit. Air Service-First Dispatch-Canal Zone-U. S. A." The cover has the additional impression: "Aviator encountered impossible weather conditions nearing Jamaica, compelling return. Mail re-dispatched by steamer." Mr. Coveleski says that so far as he could learn, only twelve pounds of mail "are to be taken on this special aero-mail flight; two cents postage for this special trip." The current five cents stamps, Canal Zone, also were surcharged in the manner of the two cents, it is added by our correspondent.

Outdone—Never let the two cent Jackson, 1862, U. S. be acclaimed, somewhat sinister-like, the most unhandsome stamp says a correspondent. "Lamp the new Fiume, head of D'Annunzio, and admit that beyond this there can be nothing," he says.

Exhibition—In his trade sheet, George W. Linn has a few things to say under the heading "Prohibition." His mental processes are revealed by the following burst of verbiage: "Mr. Wylie has been active for many years in the interest of the Prohibition movement which has forced many of us to 'make our own'." The success of this movement, as is proven by items in the daily press, has led some fanatics to suggest the Prohibition of the use of tobacco and other things which are a source of pleasure to the users. Give these people a free rein and they will try to force you to do what they want you to do whether such things agree with your plans or not; they achieve success in one thing and swell with enthusiasm and feel that they own the earth and that they can use their Prohibition dope and be ruler over all things by simply saying, 'that can't be done.' After forcing our fascinated mind away from the foregoing homily, we proceed to the bill of particulars, whose first item sets forth that our assistant, acting in Mr. Wylie's absence, wrote, apropos of one of his ads: "The second piece, offering subscription to your house organ, is rather questionable."

We make it a practice not to accept advertising of papers until they have secured second-class rates." This is a fair ruling, speaking generally, and one that the experience of our readers justifies. Its enforcement is for the protection of subscribers, and it is one advised because of the failure in a great many instances to keep faith with those who sent in their subscription money. There was no willful attempt to defraud, but the burden became too heavy for the publishers to carry. However, since the appearance of this ad, which was held up some weeks, is assured, we shall proceed to "the second and most serious offence." It is based upon holding up copy for a quarter-page ad for two issues. The statement is played up that the offers in the ad were so cheap that the "preferred advertisers" would writhe in agony of spirit at being so markedly undersold. Consequently, it was our duty to temper the wind to our lambs by the simple expedient of rejecting the advertisement. It was pointed out that the ad would have to be held over for the third number. "We insisted on its being run or copy returned." The copy has been returned." In explaining to Mr. Linn the reason for this condition, it was said, in effect, that it was inadvisable to enlarge the paper just now and that the advertising pressure was unexpectedly heavy. He did not see fit to accept our statements, which it happened were not made for our own amusement.

Wrong—Let us pursue the thrilling vein opened in the foregoing paragraph. It is said of Mr. Wylie: "He proudly prints a clipping from Mr. Roessler's paper in which Mr. Roessler says as regards MEKEEL'S: " * * Most people buy it for the ads—to our mind the ads are quite as good as the editorial matter—if not better." Mr. Wylie did not see the clipping in question until it was printed, as it was sent in by the editor weeks before as a "filler." By the way, the scrap in its entirety read: "What Everybody knows. Everybody knows that there is one paper which pays no matter what sort of ad you put in—that's MEKEEL'S. Most people buy it for the ads—to our mind the ads are quite as good as the editorial matter—if not better." The managing editor has formulated rules for the acceptance of advertising that have been approved by the proprietors. They have been the result of observation extending over a good many years, and are not adopted to tickle our vanity, but to safe-guard philately. As for the young dealers, they are gratuitously insulted, and when we remember how some of the leading dealers of today were the

What else do you want in Hungary, both regular and occupation stamps?

APPROVAL DEPARTMENT

We believe we have one of the best series of books, etc., out for the average collector. Selections suitable for all classes of collectors whether able to spend $5 or $5000. An enormous variety, mounted in books by countries or groups of countries, and priced at reasonable net prices. The list below gives only a partial idea of what we can supply. We will gladly send any books wanted to serious, responsible collectors, who mean business and are prepared to make reasonable purchases. Prompt returns and business treatment are all we require. Strangers must give us some proof of their responsibility. Those who have dealt with us before and we know are O. K. need give no references.

WANT LISTS are the best way to buy. Costs you no more, you get just what you need. Saves our sending you $50 worth of goods to make a $10 sale and tying up $40 worth to no advantage. If you have time, or are well filled up on certain countries, by all means send us a want list. Where only a few items are needed it's a small chance you'll get them out of an approval lot. Tell us just what you want and save everyone bother. Prices usually about half cat. If more you can depend on it the goods are worth it and the price fair in every case. You also get best copies in stock. Big lists of 2c and 3c stamps not wanted, but we are willing to supply a fair proportion of them with higher priced items. Such lists do not pay for clerk hire on them. If not prepared to spend over a certain amount at one time, please tell us the limit to send from your list. Want list blanks supplied to those who want them.

TERMS Business treatment of us and our selections and returns within 10 days of receipt.

approval selections contain medium grade and rare U. S. postage, revenue and foreign stamps priced reasonably, and are sent to really truly collectors who ask for them and submit satisfactory references. Almost any responsible collector willing to part with $5 or more at a time can receive these selections. I would gladly accept business in smaller units from good fellows who cannot afford to invest so much at a time if I could do so profitably. Just to help me serve you well; what stamps are you seeking?

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. Louis G. Barrett has called my attention to a new variety of the 2c surface print which is evidently the result of the photograph for the normal type II being retouched. Before explaining what this seems to be, a few remarks regarding how these plates for the surface printed stamps are produced may make my later explanation clearer.

To produce the 2c surface print which we now know as type I, it was necessary to take a proof from the original die for the engraved plates. This proof was photographed, enlarged and one or two lines were strengthened. This was then reduced, and from this smaller print, a small negative was made which is flashed 400 times on a photographic plate giving us a negative for a 400 subject zinc plate. To a print from this large negative, guide lines and arrows, as well as plate numbers, are added and from this the zinc plates are made. For the type I as well as type II several of the smaller negatives for flashing were made, resulting in the possibility of these stamps varying very slightly in size. Several of the large negatives were also made, and as the guide lines were added each time, they vary one from the other, so that we have groups of plates with the same lines, etc., made from the same negative.

From what Mr. Barrett has located, it looks that somewhere along plate No. 11608 the master photograph of type II had a line or so strengthened. For instance, the figures "2" have the upper part of the lower stroke heavier and running further to the left, giving the figure the appearance of the upper part being severed from the bottom by a red, curved line. This peculiarity is common to all of the late plates, and is, therefore, not simply a plate variety. There is a question, however, as to whether this change was made in the master photograph or in the small negative. If the former, it should be listed as type III; if the latter, type IIa. Inquiry is being made of the Bureau, and additional information will be given in an early number. So far, the lowest plate that I have seen is No. 11608, but I have but little in the way of plate numbers on hand to compare.

Mr. Percy M. Mann has called my attention to the fact that he has obtained a block of the same stamp from plate

No. 11936 wherein each stamp is slightly larger than normal. I have explained above how this variety could occur. I understand that about a half dozen or more small negatives of each type were made, so that there is a possibility of their being distinguished one from the other.

Type II was produced exactly the same as type I except in this case, all lines of the master photograph were carefully gone over. The lettering was outlined, additional lines were added in the lower ribbons, and all parts were strengthened.

Still they come, and the end is not yet in sight. Mr. E. H. Draper sends me some 2c on 3c provisional envelopes from Des Moines on buff and amber. Heretofore we have had but white and blue from this city. He found some doubles in the lot, which, by the way, bear the return card of his firm. The Hilton Stamp Co., our active and untiring correspondent in San Francisco has found a new one in that city on blue. Mr. John G. Tyler has also picked up some unlisted San Francisco overprints in the smaller California towns. Dr. L. G. Tedesche has been following the Cincinnati office carefully and sends the first on colored paper from that city that we have seen. Dr. W. L. LeCron finds another in Milwaukee, Mr. C. J. Hohenstein several in Minneapolis, Mr. J. H. DuBoise some in Atlanta, Rev. C. L. Young and Mr. H. W. Lindermann a few from Chicago, while through the courtesy of Mr. J. R. Allen Thomson, we add another to our list from San Antonio.

Since my last chronicle, Omaha has started to overprint in type IV and it is through the promptness of Mr. F. S. Poteet that we can give early information on the subject. He sends four varieties overprinted in that city, as well as several that are being sold in Omaha, although overprinted in Chicago. Mr. Poteet states that there are no colored envelopes in Omaha to be surcharged, although some may be returned from the surrounding territory.

Mr. Thomson sends us one of the San Antonio overprinted postal cards, and Mr. Hohenstein one from Minneapolis.

Collectors who read our advertisements occasionally drop in and express their interest. To these out of town visitors we never attempt to sell stamps unless they demand them. Getting acquainted takes our time, but in the long run it pays most excellently. A friend or an acquaintance is an asset. The more friends one has, the more he enjoys the fruits of life.

So, likewise, in our advertising we endeavor to increase our acquaintanceship by mail. We do not quote many bargains, because we do not fancy the "bargain-counter-bound" who buys only those items that are offered at cost. Not that we do not offer good stamps at from one-third to one-sixth of catalog—these are reserved for our regular customers and are sold through the medium of our house organ the

have to thank our old friend Mr.
 D. Bliss for a "First Despatch" ail cover coming from the Canal
 o the United States. This cover he regular postmark in black read-Cristobal, Canal Zone, Oct. 6, 1920,
 "M". In addition, there is a green urk consisting of a circle and four horizontal lines reading "Cristobal, C. Z.

 Transit, Oct. 6, 6 AM, Air Service, First Despatch, Canal Zone—U. S. A." There is also a rubber stamped impression in red, in six lines, enclosed within a square, reading, "Aviator encountered impossible weather conditions nearing Jama-ca, compelling return, mail redispached by steamer."

ALBANIA.—Mr. Henry J. Perry has shown us copies of the 20q surcharged on 16h cut vertically in the centre and used as 10q. On the same envelope was the 15q surcharged on the 8h. Mr. Perry adds that he has received four of these bisects, both the right and left half, and assures us that it is not an accidental thing.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has shown us the following new parcel post stamps: 10f brown and 90c red lilac.
 Mr. Hooreman adds they were issued
 September 29th.

CANADA.—Mr. William Shafer calls attention to a new Canadian cancellation that is appearing. It is "Safety Week October 10-16, 1920. Be Careful and Prevent Accidents."

CARINTHIA.—Special stamps are being used in Carinthia during the plebiscite which is being taken there. This is the Austrian province of which Klagenfurt is the capital. The period during which the plebiscite stamps will be in circulation is short; they appeared on September 16th and will go out of circulation on October 10th. Mr. Fred J. Melville informs us that the stamps consist of nineteen values of the current Austrian types overprinted KARTEN ABSTIM-MUNG (Carinthia voting), but most of the stamps themselves are in editions which are new to him. For example, the low values—5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50 and 60 heller—are all printed on coloured paper; the 80 heller, 1 and 2 kronen are in new shades; and the 2½, 3, 4, 5, 7½, 10 and 20 kronen stamps are in new colours and are not perforated. These may be special printings for the plebiscite issues, or they may indicate a complete change impending in the current Austrian stamp series.—Stamp Collecting.

CHINA (Italian P. O.).—A postal agency has been opened in the Italian Consulate at Shanghai, and is supplied with the current Italian stamps, overprinted SHANGHI diagonally, and new values in Chinese currency as follows: 2c on 5c green, 4c on 10c rose, 8c on 20c slate and 20c on 50c purple.—
Scottish Philatelist.

FIUME.—The Economist Stamp Co.
 has shown us a new set of stamps for this country. At the top is "Fivme" and at the left, "Franco Bollo", while at the right, "Postale". In the centre is the head of Gabriele d'Annunzio. On the right is "Optime", and the left, "Hic ManebiMvs". At the base are the figures of value, with "Centesimi di Lira" between. The values and colors are as follows: 5c green, 10c red, 15c gray and cream, 20c orange, 25c blue and cream, 30c red brown, 45c olive, 50c purple and cream, 55c bistre, 1L black and cream.
 Also a 30c blue and 50c red express stamp showing a horseman riding at full speed and a triangular newspaper stamp, 1c olive.

FRANCE.—We thank our Paris correspondent, Monsieur M. Bouée, for the under-noted novelties:—

Current 5c and 15c ("La Semeuse") adhesives, overprinted in black sans serif capitals:—"POSTES-PARIS-1920".

These are for use on newspapers classified and circulating in the Paris district only. They are not sold over the counter, but are affixed by the postal employees on the sacks of newmail. No other values have been issued up to the present with this overprint.—Stamp Collecting.

ITALIAN SOMALILAND.—A new series of postage stamps is expected to be issued shortly, and are of a pictorial na-

JAPAN.—Referring to the special issue to commemorate the taking of the Census in this country, Mr. William Shafer and Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz have showed us copies of these new stamps. There are two colors, one red and the other purple, and show the likeness of a native seated at a table with pen and scroll before him. Japanese characters are on the entire left and right sides, and at the lower right are the values, the purple stamp being 1½s and the red, 3s. Mr.
 Ragatz adds that they pay both foreign and domestic postage and were issued September 26th.

MEMEL.—Mr. Frank P. Brown has shown us the 5, 10, 15, 20, 30, 40, 50, 60, 75pf and 1m, 1m50, 2m and 2m50 stamps of Germany, Germania type, surcharged "Memelgebiet" in black at the base of the stamp.

MESOPOTAMIA.—The Stamp Lover announces the appearance of a 1½ annas on 5 paras purple brown. The surcharge which is on the 5 paras of the 1913 pictorial issue of Turkey is "Iraq in British Occupation 1½an." The printing is in black.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. Frank F. Wills
 has sent to us copies of the new printing of the 1c, 2c and 3c Caribou type stamps. The paper is much lighter and whiter, and the 2c value is in a brighter shade of red. Mr. Wills adds that these will replace the recently issued provis-ionals and that the 2c on 30c was only on sale a few hours and was issued primarily for use on checks, receipts and bills of lading.

NEW HEBRIDES.—We have been shown by Dr. Moore and others another surcharge, that of 1d in figures on the 1sh value, black on green. By the postmarks, it appears as if these stamps were issued at the beginning of June last. In our last number we referred to the 10c on 25c. These surcharges have appeared unheralded, and so far unsung. The perpetuator is probably still unhung.—Australian Philatelic Record.

PALESTINE.—Mr. Michael Miller has shown us the 1m stamp surcharged in Hebrew, English and Arabic.

ROUMANIA.—A Victory series of postage stamps will be placed on sale following the ratification of the Peace Treaty.
 This series will comprise nine values, viz., 1, 5, 10, 15, 25, 40 and 50 bani, 1 and 2 lei.—Scottish Philatelist.

ST. THOMAS & PRINCE ISLANDS.—Our special correspondent informs us that a number of obsolete postage stamps, of the 1898, 1902 and 1905 series, have been locally overprinted with the word RE-PUBLICA diagonally in Roman capitals.

CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA.

By DR. E. W. FLOYD.

A Paper accompanying a Display at the Junior Philatelic Society's Meeting on April 17th, 1920.

When war broke out between the North and South the Confederate States did not seize the stocks of stamps of the U. S. held by the various postmasters, but gave instructions that all postmasters were to render accounts made up to May 31st, 1861, to the U. S. Government at Washington, D. C., and to forward therewith "all postage stamps and stamped envelopes remaining on hand belonging to the P. O. Dept. of the U. S.", but that all revenue accrued up to June 1st should be retained to meet the amount due by the U. S. Govt. to the Confederate States Govt. for mail service within the Confederate States.

I show some covers sent from the Southern States before the war to Scotland, and also some just before and even after the commencement of hostilities. One dated May 15th, 1861, came to Glasgow via New York, so that the U. S. Govt. probably followed the example of the Confederate States up to June 1st.

Two of these letters are interesting, as one describes some of the incidents previous to the declaration of war, and the other shows that profiteering is no new vice. The writer tells his firm to "take all our tobacco off the market. We cannot lose much by doing so, and may make considerable if Civil War spring up between North and South."

As the U. S. stamps were sent back to Washington and no new stamps were available, postage had to be paid in cash, and in many places the local postmaster had stamps printed for use locally. Most of these were only printed in small numbers, and few have escaped and need a very long purse for their acquisition. The only comparatively common ones are those issued at New Orleans, Mobile and Memphis, and these are rapidly advancing in price. There are many forgeries of all these local stamps, dating back frequently to the decade after the war, so that even if found in really old collections they are not above suspicion and need to be purchased with discretion. I show a few from the towns mentioned and from Knoxville and Macon. All the New Orleans can be plated.

The Government found great difficulty in getting supplies of stamps printed from engraved plates, and an account of their endeavors will be found in Mr. Melville's handbook or in Mr. Poole's articles in the Philatelic Gazette, to both of which I am much indebted. Tenders were asked for perforated engraved stamps, but finally the Government had to be content with imperforate and lithographed stamps, and these were not issued until Oct. 15, 1861, and even then only in limited numbers. They were printed by Messrs. Hoyer & Ludwig of Richmond, Virginia, who continued to print the stamps for nearly a year. The 5 cents was first issued and then the 10 cents, but the 2 cents was not issued until some months later. As there were no paper mills and no ink manufacturing in the Southern States, all the paper and ink had to be smuggled in from the North or by sea, and so effectually was this done that there was enough paper to fill a room 100 feet by 60 feet on May 20th, 1861.

The new stamps of the 5 cents value were first issued on Oct. 16th, 1861, at Richmond. They were green in color and bore a portrait of President Davis, which the Richmond Despatch calls a "very excellent bust." Early prints in the darker shades are fine-looking stamps, but most copies are badly printed and blurred and far from attractive looking. They were printed in sheets of 200 stamps, two panes of 100 each (10 horizontal rows of 10) placed side by side. There was an "intermediate stone" of 50 subjects (5 horizontal rows of 10) and the large printing stone was made by transferring four transfers of this setting of 50 to the stone to make the full sheet of 200. These stamps can be "plated"—there being 50 main types with 4 varieties of each type. The distinguishing marks are given in Mr. Poole's articles.

I might here apologise for the arrangement, or rather lack of arrangement, of the collection. Like Topsy, it has "grown" and often the growth has been very irregular and I have not had time to re-arrange it. In my younger days every story not only had as hero a "good boy", but also a "bad boy", who was held up as an "awful example" in order to point a moral, and I think some of the pages and specimens shown may serve a useful purpose in helping Mr. Melville in his attempts to train the young idea in Philately as "awful examples" of how not to do it! As a matter of fact, most of the badly damaged copies came from a dealer's stock I bought practically entire, and I kept them as showing shades or postmarks or minor varieties until better copies turned up, but they have not yet done so.

The next stamp issued was the 10 cents in blue. This is a really fine stamp if one can get an early printing, but the "if" is a very big one, as most of the copies are blurred and indistinct and greatly detract from the appearance of a collection. They seem to have been printed in sheets of 200 like the 5 cents, and produced from an intermediate stone of 50, and these too can be plated. They were first printed by Hoyer & Ludwig.

A 2 cents stamp, also in green, was issued probably about March, 1862. The design is a head of Andrew Jackson. It is becoming scarce unused, and used is getting quite rare—with a genuine postmark. This also was printed in sheets of 200 similarly to the other values, also by Hoyer & Ludwig. The printing is smudgy and it is difficult to pick out details so that it has not yet been "plated," or rather no type marks have been able to be given, though complete panes are known.

Early in 1862 the colors of the two high values were changed. The 5 cents was printed in blue and the 10 cents in carmine or red. In regard to this printing Mr. Poole writes:—"In Major Evans's article . . . it is inferred that these 5 cents blue stamps were printed from the lithographic stone previously employed in the production of the green stamps. Mr. Melville makes a positive statement on the point, viz.:—"The same stones were, of course, used as for the stamps in their original colors." I can find no evidence at all in support of this contention; on the other hand, everything seems to point to an entirely new stone having been used. It is possible there may have been printings in blue from the old stone, but diligent search has not resulted in the discovery of even one stamp as evidence of this possibility."

This is Mr. Poole's view, but I am showing to-night three stamps in blue, together with a copy in green in each case (and in one case two copies in green) of the same transfer variety. These show that the same stone must have been used, or, at any rate, the same intermediate stone, though the former is the more likely. It is probable, however, that a new stone was subsequently employed, as large blocks are known which do not coincide, according to Mr. Poole, with a complete sheet of 200 of the green stamps which he had for comparison.

Mr. Poole gives the plating marks for the 50 types, but a subsequent article in the same magazine by Mr. Curtis varies the order by making Mr. Poole's top row his 2nd row and Mr. Poole's 5th row his 1st row. I have a copy from the top of the sheet, which proves that Mr. Curtis' arrangement is the correct one.

Probably about March, 1862, the 10 cents was changed to red. These stamps are quite rare in fine condition. They were printed from the same plate as the blue stamps and I show two well-matched plate (or, rather, "stone") varieties, one in red and in blue.

Mr. Poole states that the paper was usually a fairly thick soft wove paper, but a thinner and much harder paper was also found; but please don't try on stamps, as handling does not improve them!

The authorities disliked lithography stamps as being liable to be forged, so made a contract with Messrs. De La Rue & Co. to produce typographic stamps. Plates for 1 cent and 5 cent stamps were made and sent to the Confederate States, though one counterfeit was captured by the U. S. Govt. and a large number of stamps were sent, nearly 2 1/2 million arriving in February, 1862. The 1 cent stamps were never issued. They were printed in orange, varying from yellow-orange to orange-brown. The sheets were 100, ten rows of 10, with plain margins. The color is usually rubbed and the only showing up well in the darker shades.

The 5 cents was printed in blue on surfaced paper. It shows a 3/4-face portrait of Davis. The workmanship of the De La Rue prints is poor compared with their other work and shows frequent flaws in the plate. Only one stamp was shipped to the States, but at least eight plates seem to have been used in England. These stamps were issued at the same time as the lithographed stamps of 10 cents in red. In 1862 the contract for printing the 10 cents stamps was transferred from Hoyer & Ludwig to J. T. Paterson & Co. of Augusta, Ga. He began by printing the 10 cents in blue again instead of in red. New stamps were made for this printing and stamps can be told from the previous ones in blue. The A of States in Paterson's printing had no cross-bar, while the Paterson printing an attempt had been made to add one. In Hoyer's printing the colored line above STATES is broken, but is usually complete in the second printing. The paper is pale and very dark shades in each line. There is a colored line across the top of the word "America" in Paterson's printing, which is very characteristic and is easily told. Toward the end of 1862 Paterson's began to print the 5 cents from the De La Rue plates. They are readily told, being on porous paper and roughly printed with yellowish gum. They are much softer than the London prints.

In 1863 the printing contracts were handed over to Messrs. Archer & Daly of Richmond. The 5 cents stamps printed by them are very like the London prints except that the surface is not so highly glazed and often it is most impossible to distinguish them.

The Government had always wanted to have line-engraved stamps, and for the first time Archer & Daly were able to produce them. The first line-engraved stamp was the TEN cents value in words. This has always been a fairly scarce stamp, as it fell into disfavor and was quickly superseded. It was issued early in 1863, or possibly in April. The price is of Davis. The size of the sheet is not known.

A new type was then adopted for 10 cents, with the value in numerals and a new type of head. A plate was made from this die, each stamp separated from the next by a line. The die is different below the value from that of the commoner stamps, and so can be told even if the frame lines have been cut away. This stamp unused is the rarest of all Confederate States Government stamps and is rare used. It was in use only a short time and really "mint" copies are very rare indeed. For some reason the design did not give complete satisfaction and four new plates were made. The 1st and 2nd are very similar in design to the lower portion of the stamp hitherto re-drawn. The 3rd and 4th plates have been still further re-drawn, the elements in the top corners being filled in. This series is the most interesting

the issues. When first issued they were printed by Archer & Daly at Richmond and bore an inscription in the plate below the sheet. In the first only the plate number was shown. Plates were of 200 stamps in two sheets of 100 set side by side, and the number was shown under each stamp. In Plates 1 and 2 it was under the 6th stamp from the left in the right pane and under the 6th stamp in the left pane. In Plate 3 it was under the 5th stamp in both panes. In Plate 4 it was under the 6th stamp in right pane and under the 5th and 6th in the left pane.

In the second state an inscription was added: "Archer & Daly, Bank Note Engravers, Richmond, Virginia," under the 6th stamp in right pane and under the 5th and 6th in the left pane. Only Plates 1 and 2 are like this, but 3 and 4 have probably existed in this state. In the third state "Archer & Daly" was scored through with horizontal lines in Plate 2, whilst in Plate 3 the same words were erased but "Engravers" was still in the plate. Plate 4 is not known in either of these states, but is known in a fourth state without any names—simply "Bank Note Engraver, Richmond, Virginia." The third word is known in three states: "engraver," "engraver," and "engrave." The state is only known in Plate 4.

Richmond was evacuated the stamps were handed over to Messrs. Perkins & Ball of Columbia, S. Carolina, they added their name and initials, "S. C." to the inscription, erasing the words "Archer & Daly" and "Richmond, Virginia," making the fifth state. All four plates occur in the state. Probably Plate 4, State 4, printed by them, and it is quite different from the unaltered plates with the "Archer" alone may have been printed by them at first, as many of the printings with the name "Archer" have brown gum and similar paper to the Columbia prints.

Now specimens of nearly all the states of this stamp. Mr. Poole that State 1 of Plate 3 with the No. only was unknown, but I have a large block in the pale blue color of Plate No. 3 without any other inscription. Plate 3 and Plate 4 are the retouched die. Plates 1 and 2 are original die.

The same time as the 10 cents was a 20 cents in green was printed in large sheets, and a 2 cents in red. The 20 cents has a portrait of Andrew Jackson and was printed in two panes each. They have no marginal inscriptions and are notable for the large number of re-entries on the plate, there are over 20 of them. They are very common used, though one has to be careful of forged postmarks on these

20 cents is in sheets of two panes and is usually without any inscription but a few blocks are known with the imprint of Archer & Daly. There are several re-entries. It was later printed by Messrs. Keatinge & Ball on cheap paper, but no inscription was

Keatinge & Ball stamps are all common used. They are found with postmarks. Before the stamps were obsolete, essays at perforation were made, but no regular issue was lithographed stamps are known with a very fine pin perf. I show a copy of the 5 cents, green. This is a genuine, though rare.

The 10 cents, engraved, is frequently perforated, but most, if not all, are forged. I show several, but don't know any of them, and one (perf.) is certainly a forgery.

I show a copy of the 5 cents on a sheet with perforations. This also is a genuine as well as the postmark. I have a pair on piece with the same postmark (Goliad, Texas) and the same I believe all known copies are the same date.

I have seen several singles and blocks of 10 cents, engraved, and 20 cents on a single and on entire with the postmark, but I think they are all wrong. Those on entire I have seen were certainly wrong.

I show also several forgeries and bogus stamps. The only dangerous forgery is the litho. of the 5 cents in green and in blue. In fact, one of these forgeries was at one time on show amongst the genuine copies in the Tapping collection. It is readily told by the right lower ornament, which is circular instead of being oval.

I also show several bank notes printed by Messrs. Paterson, Hoyer & Ludwig and Keatinge & Ball, the printers of the Confederate stamps. The poor notes of the Paterson printings are reminders of the poor quality of the 5 cents stamps printed by the same firm, but it is rather astonishing to see the fine work of Keatinge & Ball on the notes when their stamps are recognised by the poor work of their workmanship. In fact, their notes compare well with one shown engraved by Toppan, Carpenter, Casilear & Co. (The Adrian Mace Co. Note), the printers of the 1851 issue of United States stamps, and printed before the war.—Stamp Lover.

THE "BRITANNIA" TYPE OF THE BRITISH COLONIES, 1848-1878.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

The study of first issues has, for the philatelic seeker-after-knowledge, a peculiar fascination. The beautiful Penny Black of Great Britain, the Mother of postage stamps and its derivatives of the same design, has long been the subject of diligent research and prolific writing on the part of a distinguished coterie of student philatelists. But until comparatively recent years a certain element of mystery has surrounded the initial issues of the British Colonies in the familiar "Britannia" design. Some light was thrown upon the origin and method of transferring the die by an instructive article by Mr. E. D. Bacon, entitled "A Rare Die Proof of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co." published in the "London Philatelist" for April, 1914, which established the fact that the matrix die was engraved with the name tablet at the foot left blank, and that subsidiary dies were constructed for the stamps of Mauritius, Trinidad and Barbados, produced from it. It is obvious, therefore, that in preparing this die the printers had in mind the use of a general type for the stamps manufactured by them to the order of Colonial Governments, with the mere alteration of the name of the issuing Colony. The project was in all probability an economical one, akin to the system of general key-plates instituted by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. forty years later. Apparently, however, it did not commend itself to many Colonial administrations, and thus we find the stamps in the "Britannia" type limited to three colonies.

Until the discovery last year of a number of miniature drawings executed by Henry Corbould, F. S. A., the artist of the Penny Black, even the identity of the creator of this design was in doubt, and the name of the engraver of the die is still unrevealed, although circumstances point to Fredk. Heath, as the collaborator, as in the case of the first British stamps.

Amongst the Corbould relics sold at Hodgson's Rooms in July, 1919, was an item which formed an important link in the history of the "Britannia" die. The catalogue description was as follows:—

"Mauritius Postage Stamp—The original Miniature Drawing of 'Britannia' beautifully executed in Water Colours for the 1854 (sic) Mauritius Postage Stamp, with pencil note by the Artist. 'The Engraver with a magnifying glass (such as I have not) can finish the toe nails rather more,' and the word 'Mauritius' written in pencil beneath the drawing (size 5/8x3/4), together with an engraver's proof of the stamp (before the lettering) on thin white paper, impressed on a card."

The date 1854 is, of course, an error, as the Mauritius die was engraved in 1848. This drawing and proof confirm beyond all question Mr. Bacon's theory as to the original die being engraved with blank tablet, and further that "a secondary die for each Colony would be made from it by taking a roller impression and transferring this to two flat pieces of steel on which the names 'Mauritius' and 'Trinidad' would be engraved respectively." The article in the London Philatelist refers to proof impressions of the Mauritius die (in the collection of H. M. the King), of the Barbados die (belonging to Mr. R. B. Yardley), and of that of Trinidad (Mr. Henry Grey's collection), thus proving the existence of four "Britannia" dies, or rather one matrix and three transfer dies.

There can be little doubt that the "Britannia" design was first invented with the requirements of the Mauritius government in view, for as early as May, 1848, the Colonial Secretary of that island had approached Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. (then Bacon & Petch) with reference to the supply of postage stamps for use in Mauritius, which should be "so different from those in use in the Post Office in England as to be easily distinguishable, but otherwise to have as much resemblance as possible." About the same time an order was received for postage stamps for use in Trinidad, and consignments for both Colonies in the same type, but with different inscriptions, were actually despatched from London on the same day—December 21st, 1848.

Subsequently when asked to furnish stamps to the Barbados Post Office, Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. wrote in December, 1851, "that having the original die without any name prepared for Mauritius and Trinidad, the same could be used for Barbados." This was agreed to by the Crown Agents; an entry in the books of the firm showing that the engraving of a die for the Barbados stamps was completed on December 15th, 1851. The following differences exist between the Barbados stamps and those of Mauritius and Trinidad due to a defective transfer of the design on to the roller, viz. (i) the addition of a small white spot of irregular shape on the cap of the figure of Britannia, which has the appearance of a second star; (ii) the waves of the sea beneath the ship are broken up and show uncoloured patches.

The omission of all indication of value from the early stamps of the three Colonies in the "Britannia" design was presumably intentional, in order to reduce the number of plates required to one for each Colony, and not, as has been suggested, an oversight. The practice of distinguishing the different denominations by colour only proved, however, unsatisfactory, and the Colonial authorities requested that future supplies should have their respective values engraved on the stamps. In response to this demand the modified "Britannia" type with the name of the Colony in a semi-circle of block letters above the central figure and the value inserted in the tablet at the foot was evolved in July, 1854, in the case of Mauritius, some months later for Barbados, and in December of that year for Trinidad, and used for all future printings on behalf of these Colonies. It is believed that in laying down the requisite plates, impressions were taken from the original flat die (with blank tablet) and the additional inscriptions added on the roller.

The "Britannia" design, the precursor of all British Colonial postage stamps, had a life of nearly thirty years, remaining current in Barbados and Trinidad as late as 1878. Two plates may be recognised of the first Barbados series (without value), whilst in the second (modified) type of both this Colony and Trinidad the differentiation of the printings made by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. prior to, and by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., after 1862, affords an interesting study.

A plagiarised version of this classic design survives to this day in the modern surface-printed stamps of Trinidad and Tobago.—Stamp Collectors' Annual.

SIX "DON'T'S" FOR ADVERTISERS.

Don't build up the catalog value of a packet with such trash as punched Philippines stamps or Ecuador revenues. A satisfied customer is better than a single sale.

Don't offer any premiums for a certain number of "first" replies to your advertisements. There is an element of chance there that the postal authorities dislike. If the premium goes to every patron, "chance" disappears.

Don't reflect in any way upon the advertising of your competitor. Every tub should stand upon its own bottom, and your prices will speak for themselves. Buyers are cautious of dealers who seek to rise by riding rough shod over their neighbors.

Don't advertise a stamp with fiscal cancellation and quote catalog price for a postally used copy. Let alone the moral aspect, from a business standpoint, honesty is the best policy.

Don't advertise a stamp at the catalog quotation when the revised prices mark it down to a fraction of the original amount.

Don't wait until Thursday to mail ad copy. Have it in our office Thursdays. These "don'ts" MUST be heeded.

Remember that though we offer to refund any unsatisfactory packets less than half of one per cent, are ever returned speaks for itself.

From a public official:

"Received EMCO packet 124 (1,015 varieties at $3.75) some days ago, and had time looking them over. Secured 25 stamps for my collection of 3,700. I traded 43 duplicates, so really secured out of 1,015. Replaced over 100 that were better specimens than those I had. I saw any stamps in such good condition as a poor one in the lot."
T. J. H., City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

A new customer writes:

"Stamps received O. K. They were value and I picked out 471 that I don't have in my former collection of 3,400. Thank you."
C. W. D., Buffalo, New York

A repeat order:

"Cheque enclosed for packet No. 124 in packet which I received was a whizz, and want this one to give to a friend who appreciates good stamps."
C. A. B., Brenterton, Wilt.

Our 10,000 variety packet at $350.00:

"Use the U. S. Bonds sent you for recently—the packet proved to be satisfactory."
F. M. B., Chicago, Ill.

This man sold his duplicates for extra packet:

"When I bought packet 124 I said I would let you know what I got out of it. I had 316 stamps to my collection of 3,200 counting premium. I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-ones already in my album. Then I added up the balance of the stamps in my packets and sold them to a beginner $3.00. I got so much fun out of the pile over that I am converted to post from now on."
F. M. G., Cambridge, Mass.

Wants more:

"Recently I bought your EMCO packet 126 (2,000 varieties at $12.00) and added 1,200 to collection. Please let me know what other packets you can offer of the same value."
M. C., Wallingford, Conn.

A doctor's son writes:

"Received packet 126 (2,000 varieties at $12.00), and am more than pleased with it. It has raised my collection from 1,800 to 2,800."
H. O., Bensonhurst, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE EMPEROR'S HEAD ISSUES OF BRAZIL

By PERCY C. BISHOP.

As a sequel to the repeal by Brazil of the decree banishing members of the Imperial House, the body of Dom Pedro II, who died in 1871, is to be conveyed from Lisbon back to Rio de Janeiro.

The kindly features and full beard of Dom Pedro II, last Emperor of the Brazils, are clearly recognizable by visitors to the burial-place of the House of Braganza, in the cloisters of the Church of St. Vincent Without-the-Walls at Lisbon. They are also familiar to stamp collectors, whose interest in the "Emperor's Head" issues of Brazil is widespread. For this reason we believe that our readers will welcome the following notes on these issues, which formed the subject of a paper by Mr. Percy C. Bishop read at a meeting of the Junior Philatelic Society in 1906, and published in Vol. XVII of the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

Extra topical interest surrounds these by reason of the fact that Brazil has just celebrated the 98th anniversary of its Declaration of Independence (September 7th, 1822).

Mr. Bishop's paper follows:—"We have it on the authority of Mr. W. S. Penley that Brazil is the country where the nuts come from, but for my purpose to-night it is simply the country where the stamps come from—the most interesting (or among the most interesting) postage stamps in the world. I do not think it necessary to go into the history, or the geography, or the natural phenomena of the country. Everybody knows that the United States of Brazil, to give the country its present official style, is a very large country situated in the top right-hand portion of the map of South America, and that is just as much as a good many people do know. However, the exact size of the Republic, its population, and essential facts as to history, may be found in Whitaker's Almanac and similar works of reference.

"It has been stated again and again, until I am afraid most philatelists are nearly sick of hearing it, that Brazil was the first country, after Great Britain, to adopt the adhesive postage stamp. I do not know whether this is to be accounted a very great point in Brazil's favour, but it is interesting as evidence that Brazil, under the Emperor Pedro II, was governed in an able and enlightened manner; and many will agree with me that it is extremely doubtful whether Brazil would be able to point to the same good records in postal matters had the Republican form of Government been in operation at that time.

"The imperial decree ordering the first postage stamps of Brazil bears date November, 1842, and in the following year the large numeral stamps made their appearance.

"Numeral types, as you are all aware, continued to be used for over twenty years—namely, from 1843 until 1866—but what is, I think, not so widely known, is the fact that the original intention was to place the head of the reigning Emperor, Dom Pedro, on the first stamps of Brazil. I recently discovered in a file of one of the old stamp journals a letter written by a philatelist of Rio de Janeiro in the year 1867. He wrote as follows:—

"The first idea was to reproduce, as in England, the Sovereign's features; but a zealous director of the Mint at Rio de Janeiro, fearing the respect due to his Emperor would be wounded were the postage stamps bearing the sacred effigy obliterated, made representations to that effect in a letter dated February 13th, 1843. The Minister yielded to his reasoning."

"Philatelists are aware that a similar line of reasoning was brought to bear upon the question of a suitable postmark for the stamps of Sicily. There, again, a zealous and very loyal official was filled with horror at the idea of the head of his sovereign being banded with an ordinary hand stamp, probably wielded by some common person. He evidently thought that such desecration would be enough to set Etna in eruption, and he made haste to devise a peculiar frame-like obliteration which would effectually cancel the stamp without touching his Majesty's head. The king, we may be sure, was very grateful for the delicate forethought of his minister, and we philatelists also have good cause (though for quite another reason) to bless the memory of the Sicilian courtier, for we owe it to his ingenuity that so many used specimens of the extremely beautiful stamps of Sicily are preserved to us in such excellent condition.

THE EMPEROR'S HEAD ISSUE OF 1866.

"It is a noteworthy feature of these series, and also the later issue of Emperor's Heads appearing in 1878, that each value differs materially from all the other stamps of the set in the design of the frame, though the head of the Emperor is the same full-face portrait for the whole series, except the 20 and the 300 reis stamps, which bear a profile portrait. Another point worthy of attention is the varying area of the stamps' surfaces, as follows:—

10 reis and 80 reis: 20 x 26 millimetres. 20 reis: 23 x 29 millimetres. 50 reis: 21 x 26 millimetres. 100 reis and 500 reis: 20 x 26 millimetres. 200 reis: 22 1/2 x 29 millimetres.

"It will be obvious that the dimensions given represent the actual size of the printed stamp and not the distance from perforation to perforation. If we adopt the latter method of mensuration, we shall find many more combinations of width and height.

"In October, 1866—that is to say, three months after the first issue of the Emperor's Head series—the initial supply of these stamps was exhausted, and in this emergency a number of the 'upright numerals' issue were supplied to the public with perforation 13 1/2. Whether these perforated stamps of the numeral type were originally issued in the early part of the year 1866, or only made their appearance in October of that year, pending the receipt of further supplies of Emperor's Heads, remains to this day one of the unsolved mysteries of the story of the stamps of Brazil.

VARIETIES OF SHADE.

"The colours of the stamps of the 1866 issue are fairly constant, but there are many variations of shade, which I suppose were inevitable in an issue of stamps remaining current for a period of twelve years. The most marked of these variations are as follows:—

- 10 reis, vermilion, vivid vermilion, red-vermilion.
- 20 reis, red-lilac, darker red-lilac, mauve and brownish lilac.
- 50 reis, blue, dark blue.
- 80 reis, dark mauve, grey, slate.
- 100 reis, green, yellow-green, and shades.
- 200 reis, grey-black, black, intense black.
- 500 reis orange, yellow-orange, orange-vermilion.

"The 20 reis presents the greatest colour contrasts of all, and the 80 reis stamp is a most difficult one to classify in the matter of shades.

"While the paper used for these stamps was an invariable wove, there were distinctly two or more 'weights' of paper employed, and a practised hand can distinguish very readily between the thick and the thin. The colour was white or yellowish, but certain of the values were supplied by the printers on blued paper. The 10, 20, 50, 80, and 100 reis stamps are known in this condition, but whether the blued paper can be accepted as genuine original blue is in some cases open to doubt. In this connexion, it is as well to remember that one of the nostrums employed by the Brazilian and other governments to guard against the cleaning and fraudulent reissue of postage stamps—namely, prussiate of potash—will cause a stamp to take on a bluish tinge when immersed in water. In the case of the 50 reis stamp, there are many specimens apparently on blued paper which really owe the bluish tinge to an absorption of the printer's ink by over-damped printing sheets.

THE ROULETTED SERIES.

"For some reason, never satisfactorily explained, the Brazilian Government abandoned perforation as a means of separation, and adopted rouletting. The change was made while the Emperor's Heads of 1866 were current, the rouletted specimens making their appearance gradually as fresh requisitions for particular values were sent to the manufacturers in New York. The dates generally assigned to the rouletted series may be given here as having some bearing on the relative scarcity of the two sets:—

- 10, 20, 50, 80 reis July, 1877.
- 100 reis July, 1876.
- 200 reis January, 1877.
- 500 reis June, 1877.

"The perforated series of 1866 must, in the ordinary course of affairs, be far commoner than the rouletted, since they enjoyed a life eight or ten times as long. That they are commoner the stamp dealers' catalogues show; but on the question of rarity I think it could be demonstrated that the Emperor's Head issues of Brazil generally are by no means appreciated at their true worth in the present catalogue quotations.

THE 300 REIS OF 1878.

"This, the only bi-coloured postage stamp produced in Brazil during the Empire, must be classed as an issue quite distinct from either the series of 1866 or the series of 1878-79. Yet it is obvious that the value was intended to supplement the stamps of 1866 (there being no 300 reis value in that issue), from the known fact that it was first prepared and made ready for issue, not in the year 1873, as has been so frequently stated, but at a very much earlier date. In fact, this stamp was first described in a transatlantic magazine, the American Journal of Philately, as long ago as 1871. The paragraph in which it is mentioned presents many interesting points, and is well worth repeating:—

"Brazil.—We are pleased to note a very beautiful addition to the postage stamps of the country. The design consists of the head of the present Emperor in a very handsome oval frame of engine-turned work. This is printed in green; the outer frame is printed in a rich violet. The value is 300 reis. From the appearance of this stamp, we are led to expect a new set, as it is not likely the Government would employ such a handsome stamp for this value when the higher value [the 500 reis] is so much plainer. The newcomer is from the atelier of the Continental Bank Note Company; the old set, and also the Revenue stamps, are the work of the American Bank Note Company."

"The colours of the stamp are given in this excerpt as green and violet, whereas the actual colours are green and yellow. This, however, was a slip of the pen on the part of the American scribe, for in the British Stamp Collectors' Magazine of two months later it was pointed out that the colour of the outer portion of the stamp was yellow, and not violet, as stated. Thus we have it fairly well established that this stamp, though not actually issued until August, 1878, was ready for issue in 1871. The explanation is simple. There had been left on hand an ample supply of the 'numeral' postage stamps of the value of 300 reis, and the Stamp Collectors' Magazine of August, 1873, (in which issue appeared an illustration of the bi-coloured stamp) told its readers that the stock of the new 300 reis stamp supplied from New York to Rio de Janeiro in 1871 was still lying at the Rio de Janeiro Post Office, 'awaiting the entire exhaustion of the old small-figure 300 reis stamp.' In conclusion, it is curious to read in the late E. L. Pemberton's 'Stamp Collectors' Handbook,' published in 1878, the following terse description of this most interesting Brazilian stamp:—"1874: 300 reis, green and orange (never issued)." Probably before that famous book was ever published the long delayed 300 reis label had made its official appearance.

"Whether the same stamp was ever supplied rouletted is a point never satisfactorily settled.

ISSUE OF 1878-79.

"The story of the stamps of this series, issued at various dates in 1878 and the following year, may be far more briefly told. Here, again, the stamps represent the work of the American Bank Note Company. All are rouletted, and the paper is the same white and yellowish wove as was employed for the 1866 series, showing thick and thin varieties. The size of the impression in this series is a uniform measure of 20 millimetres wide by 26 millimetres high. The dates of issue for the various values may be given chronologically as follows:

- January, 1878, 10 reis, red.
- May, 1878, 20 reis, violet.
- July, 1878, 100 reis green.
- August, 1878, 260 reis, brown.
- August, 1879, 80 reis, carmine.
- August, 1879, 50 reis, blue.
- September, 1879, 200 reis, black.
- October, 1879, 700 reis, red-brown.
- December, 1879, 1,000 reis, grey.

"The shades of colour are fewer less conspicuous than in the 1866 issue. There are the usual shades of blue, green in the 50 and 100 reis stamps respectively, and the violet of the 200 reis label varies considerably in depth.

"The postmarks of Brazil during period under notice are of remarkable variety, both in form and colour. Among my specimens of the 100 reis green—one of the commoner values—I think I can muster about fifty different varieties of postmark—possibly more.—Stamp Collecting.

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.
By FELIX COHEN.

Since my last "Notes," philatelic events in Asia Minor had also, on account of our hot climate probably, a reduced activity.

In Syria the usual O. M. F. thick type stamps valued in Syrian currency are still in use and the only value which remains short in the various P. O. is the 100 piastres, although this stamp has been reprinted twice at 750 copies but once as the printer's assistant had his lot of 750 pieces printed in black instead of red, so we have to chronicle another scarce stamp for this region. High values of Syria, be it in Egyptian or Syrian currency, are all scarce.

The 25 centimes stamp on 1 centime of France has been overprinted on the new grey-blue 1c of France.

Hereafter are the official numbers of the 3 prints of Syria's 5th issue:

O. M. F.	1st.	2nd.	3rd.
25c	150,000
50c	200,000
75c	30,000

This issue is about three months in use, an unknown record for the Syrian postal administration, so the rumour that, on account of the signature of the Peace Treaty by Turkey, this region will stand under French mandate, two more alphabetical letters will next become familiar in advertisements and albums. It seems that the projected new issue will bear M. F. in surcharge, which means "Mandat Francais", or French Mandate.

This country is still troubled by political agitations, so nearly every village has its own idea about politics. Difference of folks, religions, etc., makes the administration a very trying question. So far I am informed the French seem to be disposed to divide Syria in the following independent regions: Alep, Lattaquiah, Damascus, The Great Lebanon and coast Hauran.

Whether every region has to have six or seven issues of stamps is yet unknown, but we hope that a definitive set of stamps will be printed in Paris for the whole country as soon as everything will be politically settled and that the ruling future of this country will be known.

Syria No. 2 under the Emir Faisul rule exist no more. The daily American press will surely have been informed about the occupation of Alep, Damascus, Homs, Hama, etc., by the French troops and the expulsion of the Emir Faisul from these territories where he proclaimed himself King of Syria, etc. What the future reserves to this King cannot be foresaid. Anyhow, he reserved for philatelists a collection of stamps of about 100 varieties. The four towns mentioned are using up to date the last Faisulian stone print issue consisting of 3 stamps: 1/10 of piastre brown, 5 milliemes rose and 1 piastre blue. The French occupation of the country brought no new issue.

Cilicia has still her O. M. F. thick type issue "still going strong". There, too, the next novelty might be the M. F. overprint, but nothing is definitely known, as the country which is inhabited by many Armenians may have a special autonomy under French-Armenian rule.

The official figures of actual Cilician stamps O. M. F. thick type are the following:

	1st.	2nd.
5pa on 2c	100,000
10pa on 5c	100,000
20pa on 10c	75,000	100,000
1pi on 25c	100,000	50,000
2pi on 15c	40,000	30,000
5pi on 40c	20,000	15,000
10pi on 50c	8,000	10,000
50pi on 1fr	4,000	3,000
100pi on 5fr	2,500	100

The settled political condition in Palestine brought us the complete E. E. F. set of stamps with surcharge "Palestine" in the three official languages: Arabic, English and Hebrew. The overprint is black on all values from 1 millieme to 20 piastres except the dark blue 1 pi, which has the overprint in silver. On the first days of sale in Jerusalem only five complete sets were given to buyers. The low values (1 to 5 milliemes) being soon exhausted, ordinary E. E. F. stamps came again on sale and these are still used. The 3 milliemes overprinted seems to be scarce and several dollars have been paid here for a copy. Rumours are current that a definitive Palestine set with Biblical illustrations will be issued in October. No official figures of overprinted stamps could be obtained.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—H. F. Smith, Estacion B. Larroude, F. C. O., Argentina, in renewing his subscription, calls our attention to the merits of the Argentina Exchange Club and the Revista which it publishes. He will be very glad to send particulars of the merits of this club to any interested parties.

—A nice pricelist is at hand from Olaf Grilstad, Trondhjem, Norway. Dealers interested in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Iceland and Finland should by all means possess this list.

—Mrs. Alice P. Hendricksen in renewing her subscription informs us that there is a very live stamp club in Red Bank, N. J. Meetings are held every Thursday evening and there are some very fine collections belonging to the members.

—We have received from Harry Ioor pricelist No. 1, consisting of eight pages. It is well worth perusal and collectors will no doubt be favored with a copy on request.

Plebiscit Issues

Of especial interest owing to the peculiar and unusual circumstances of their issue. We have others not listed here but too few to offer. Tell us what you want. Indications are that most of these will rise in value and are as cheap now as they ever will be.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Columbia Stamp Co. of N. Y. City has changed hands. Formerly owned by A. Holdenreid, the business has now been purchased by B. A. Turner, who has been dealing in stamps for a number of years. We wish the company under its new management a large measure of success.

—Will the subscriber in Oakland, Cal., who desires the Panama premium send to this office his name and address?

—"I enclose used copies of some Siamese novelties which have just come to hand, and which I have not yet seen formally chronicled. They are the new 2, 3, 10 and 50 satang stamps, and the first issue of the 'Wild Tiger,' or 'Scout Fund' stamps. This issue is very rare, and I paid ten times face for mine whilst in Bangkok, and even at that price, no more were to be had when I left. I note that you have not yet chronicled the second set. If the sight of these be a necessity before chronicling, I can send you unused and used sets, the latter used on international mail matter sent to and by me. The 2 satangs of each set was sold for 5 satangs, the 3 for 5 satangs, the 5 satangs for 25 satangs, the 10 for 15 and the 15 for 20. The tical was sold at 1.25, according to the notice which I copied at the time at the Post Office window. To quote from a valued and careful correspondent in Bangkok (a philatelist of no mean attainments): 'I enclose herewith . . . a set of the Wild Tiger stamps which the King had printed during the manoeuvres at Prapatinu.' I also refer you to my last article, where I described these at length."—HENRY H. HART.

—"Perhaps you will be interested if not amused by the following excerpt from the Spanish section of the course of study of the High Schools of Indiana: 'It is worth while to display Spanish relics, coins, postcards, posters, paintings, postage stamps, newspapers, natural and manufactured products, theatrical programs, souvenirs of bull-fight programs, menus. . . . It helps the student to visualize the life and customs of Spain and Spanish America.'"—GEO. R. RANKIN.

—C. G. Dietrich has removed his office from Nutley, N. J., to 17 W. 42nd St., N. Y. City. Correspondents will kindly take notice of the change of address.

—A new wholesale pricelist featuring the stamps of Europe has just been issued by the C. S. Watson Co., Inc., of East Dedham, Mass. Mr. C. S. Watson, the manager and treasurer, has just returned from a second visit to

BILL'S BLUE BOOKS

General collectors, having from two to ten thousand varieties, are finding them full of the hard-to-get stamps they've been looking for. The books are not filled with ordinary stamps. Of some items, I have only one in stock. That's why they will appeal to you, if you are a general collector. P. S. I believe in fair prices and quick sales.

Europe and in a statement to the trade claims to be able to furnish the American market with the stamps of Europe at a nominal profit. The list runs to sixteen pages and prices stamps per ten and per hundred.

—Lindsey Brothers call our attention to an error in price, and the policy they have pursued in relation to the same. As this is the first error in this direction that the firm has made, we publish it with the hope that dealers will use every precaution so as to prevent disappointment upon the part of our subscribers:—

"In our advt. on page No. 554, Oct. 23, we have made an error in pricing the Liechtenstein 27 var @ 60c. These stamps cost us almost twice the amount asked. However, we will fill the first five orders at the price but cannot fill more for less than $1.30. We are very sorry for the trouble we have made."

BIG ADVERTISEMENTS!

Our patrons will please note that Dec. 4 is the first issue open for a big advt. The two issues of Nov. 20 and 27 are all sold out.

If you want a half or full page Dec. 4 apply early. First applicants will be given Dec. 4 and we shall accommodate to the extent of 16 pages only.

IS THIS YOU?

By L. H. BRIGHAM.

Burr-r-r rang the buzzer. Mrs. John answered the ring and the postman handed the good lady several letters of more or less bulkiness and a neatly folded paper in a plain manila wrapper.
Mrs. John placed these upon Mr. John's desk and hastened preparations for the evening meal.

Mr. John came hurrying in shortly after, hastily greeted Mrs. John, and passed into the further room without even stopping to remove his top coat.

"John," shrieked his wife, "never mind your mail now, dinner is ready."

"All right, my dear," replied an absent-minded voice from the inner room,
"coming right out this moment."
Mrs. John sighed, said no more, placed the dinner on the table and sat down—alone. Mrs. John usually did sit down alone on this particular evening of each week, but being wiser than a great many Mrs. Johns, had come to accept the situation with fairly good grace.

The table was being cleared as Mr.
John emerged in great haste from "the room."

"Did I understand you to say dinner was served, my dear?" questioned Mr.
John, with seeming sincerity in his voice.
"Yes, you did—some thirty minutes ago," tartly replied his wife.

"That's all right, my dear, that's all right—not hungry anyway—don't bother to set another place—didn't realize the time had gone by so."

"Oh, don't stand there reeling off any more of those fairy tales to me," began Mrs. John, thoroughly provoked. "I want you to understand that hereafter on Tuesday nights I shan't bother to cook dinner. A woman's time is just as valuable as a man's."

Burr-r-r rang the buzzer again.
"John," called Mrs. John, "answer the bell, my hands are all suds."

Mr. John replied nothing, but groped his way out to the dark hall, a scowl upon his brow and a curse in his heart for the unknown interrupter of his evening's intentions.

"Hello, John, old top," grinned the visitor, "thought I heard you come in.
Get the head piece and come out and roll me a couple of strings."

"Awfully sorry, Brown, old man," lied Mr. John with a very sincere expression upon his face, "but the fact is I have some very important business I must finish—can't very well get away from it, you know;—some other night—"

"All right, now, never mind the alibis," interrupted the caller, "I know your failings. See you later;—will dig up Jones," and Brown was gone.

Mr. John hastily closed the door and was half way back to the "den" when he was again halted by a cautious knock at the back door. Mrs. John responded.
"John," called his wife, "Mr. Jones wants to speak to you."

"Oh, curse Jones," muttered Mr. John, continuing on to the kitchen, "why didn't

Brown nail him a few minutes earlier?"

"Say," invited Mr. Jones, lowering his voice and taking hold of Mr. John's arm and pulling him out into the hall,
"can't get away for a couple of hours
can you? Little game on downstairs.
Jinks brought over a little Scotch and we can have a bully time."

"Nope, nothing doing, Jones," replied
Mr. John in a slightly sorrowful voice.
"A awful temptation and all that, you know, Jones, but fact is I've got a little business that I can't very well —. Any night but tonight."

"Say," suddenly broke in Jones with enlightenment written upon his face,
"tonight is Tuesday, isn't it? Forgot all about it. Should have known better than to ask you. It's all O. K., John, old man—sorry I bothered you. See you later;—night."

Mr. John shut the door and went back to his desk.

The hands of the clock slowly ticked themselves around the dial several times.
Mrs. John put out the lights—and incidently the family cat, and went off to bed.

Some little time later Mr. John wrote his last check, addressed his last letter, leaned back in his chair, stretched, and heaved a great sigh of satisfaction.

"Should have been in bed hours ago," he sleepily remarked to the ceiling, "but it's the early bird—. Only three copies of that 'inverted 5 cent error' offered.
Guess I'd better put a 'special' on that letter—might get delayed."

Mr. John had just finished going over the multitude of attractive offerings in his last issue of MEKEEL'S.

STAMP DEALER ACCESSORIES.

For the pre-ent—enuff!

With our columns fairly bursting with advertising, we don't need to do any
missionary work in the making of new scions of the trade.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Scare.—Our friend, August Lueders, president of the board of election commissioners, Chicago, was a victim recently of the evils besetting the path of the philatelic deserter. A gang of rampant Italian partisans of the candidate Fosco resenting Mr. Lueders' decision to leave Fosco's name off the ballot, as an aspirant for a seat in the State legislature, descended upon Mr. Lueders and with wild yells and whirling fists made at him. Mr. Lueders fled incontinently, if wisely. Time was when he could have repelled the enemy's onslaught with a barrage of plethoric stamp albums, but since he has disposed of his fine collection, excepting the stamps of a single country, he is low on ammunition. Then, as Christopher Morley's bookseller said, after the bomb explosion in his shop, "Books make good shock absorbers."

Foil.—The oldest judge of the superior court, Chicago, in years of service, we believe, showed us an album published in Brazil containing a fine lot of stamps of that country, meanwhile discoursing on his pleasure in stamp collecting. "Come to see me at any time and talk stamps," he said. "Yes, but you are very busy," we interposed. "Just come into my chambers, anyway," he said. We do not know just what the point of this incident is unless it is that philately is an introduction into high places or that stamps are a tranquillizing agency for the judge after he sentences a man to be hanged, for instance.

Fabled.—We once noticed that a writer included the "dragon" in his list of animals in the philatelic zoo, and the other day a boy collector asked where the "unicorn" was to be found in his native haunts. Opportunely, we happened to hit upon the following interesting account of "the gallant co-defender, with the lion of the British crown." "Very probably the unicorn myth was derived from a horned animal belonging to one of the numerous families of mammals which possess these appendages. We certainly know of no living or extinct animal which possessed a single horn springing from the middle of the forehead. The rhinoceros certainly possesses one or two unpaired horny appendages, which, however, are borne on the nasal bones; and it has been suggested that the 'one-horned' or Indian rhinoceros represents the unicorn of the ancients—the progress of the myth through the classical ages duly shifting the horn from its somewhat unusual position on the nose to a decidedly more elegant position on the forehead. But no conjecture may be offered with a view of reconciling the heavy body of the rhinoceros with the light, elegant form of the unicorn; the exact descent of which from an actual form may, as already remarked, be reasonably doubted."

Franck.—We are reminded that the beloved pilgrim, Harry A. Franck, whose recent account of his "vagabondage" through the West Indies is one of the book successes of the day, had a most amusing commentary on the postal methods employed by the functionaries in one of the Colombian post offices. He hits off to a nicety the workings of the official mind in grappling with the postal problems that arise in "Vagabonding Down the Andes," the Century Company, New York, 1917. As stamps play an important part in the description, we are writing the Century Company for permission to publish the several pages devoted to the incident.

Cited.—It is becoming, too, that we mention that our early postage stamps are introduced in one of the chapters of Frederick S. Isham's, "The Strollers," page 142, Grosset and Dunlap, publishers. Hark: "Could she have spoken more plainly if she had written with ink and posted the missive with one of those new bronze-hued portraits of Franklin called stamps by the government and 'sticking plasters' by the people? Undoubtedly she had hoped the manager was following her when she intrusted the message to that erratic postman, Chance, who plied his vocation long before the black Washington or the bronze Franklin was a talisman of more or less uncertain delivery." Mr. Robert Loeb sends the fragment, but, not having more of the context, we shall omit any comment.

Copied.—We are under obligations to that puissant philatelist, Erastus Dusenfelder who, busy as a man, trying not to overhear the conversation of the dealer with the man who has just come in with a fine collection to sell, has yet time to copy for us the salient features of "The History of the Express Business" from Harper's New Monthly Magazine, August, 1875. An account is given of several of the pioneer letter and express carriers and there is much in the article to attract the attention of the one who likes this bit of Americana. We shall make place for this copy in a coming issue. Meanwhile, Erastus intrigues us with the following observation: "The Young Lady across the Way, in the Chicago Daily News, stated that she was unable to see what entered into the making of a two cent stamp that made it cost twice as much as a one cent stamp. Can you enlighten her?"

* * *

Lincoln.—Collectors are familiar with the 3 by 5 inches index and library postal card, issued in carmine, early in 1910, with portrait of Lincoln, but they may not know that due to the kindness of Mr. L. G. Muller of Chicago the use of the particular portrait of Lincoln that it bears was made possible. At the time, the Third Assistant Postmaster General reported: "Acknowledgment is made to Mr. L. G. Muller of Chicago who courteously authorized the use of his copyrighted portrait of Lincoln as the subject of the U. S. postal card."

True.—"The (Post Office) Department profits very largely from the sale of postage stamps to collectors, as few stamps bought for this purpose are redeemed by the department in service. The collecting of stamps seems to be considerably on the increase. Large sums, even considerable fortunes in some instances, are invested in collections. The issuance of new stamps of the series of 1908, the Lincoln, Alaska-Yukon, Pacific, and Hudson-Fulton commemorative issues, as well as the various unperforated stamps, has apparently contributed in no small degree to the increased interest in philately, judging from the increasing inquiries and orders received from collectors and dealers."

THE NEW COOK ISLANDS PICTORIALS.

By CHARLES SIDNEY THOMPSON.

The expected bi-color pictorials for Aitutaki, Niue, Penrhyn, and Rarotonga have at last been issued, and will doubtless awaken interest in the stamps of these islands, all of which may be considered as members of the Cook group. One set of stamps would probably have answered all postal purposes for all of them, but collectors will probably do little complaining at the four sets, all of which are beautifully produced in copper-plate engraving. The designs are similar for all four sets, the frames differing slightly; the colors, on the other hand, are different in each series.

Four of the designs (lower values) are rectangles, two are oblongs; all measure 21.5x24 mm., and are perforated 14. Printed on unwatermarked paper, they appear to have been produced by Perkins, Bacon & Co., though the writer has no information regarding this.

The design of the 1/2d stamps apparently represents the arrival of Captain Cook in 1773. A landing beneath a group of coco palms is shown, a brig and mountains appearing in the distance. As Cook is said to have had two ships, the insertion of a brig into the picture is somewhat anachronistic. The word "Postage" appears at top, below which is the name. The value is expressed at bottom in both words and figures, "1/2 One Half Penny 1/2."

The 1d shows a wharf, at which are moored a two-masted schooner and what is evidently intended to be a barkentine, but the engraver's nautical information ran out on the wharf. On the beach, in the foreground, is shown an out-rigger canoe. Inscriptions at top as before, except in the case of Niue, which has the name diagonally upward, with "Postage" at the right. "1 One Penny 1," below.

The 1 1/2d pictures Captain Cook. Name of island in curve at top, "Postage" below, except in the case of Niue, where both words are conterminous. This arrangement is of course due to the shortness of Niue. Below, "1 1/2 Three Half-Pence 1 1/2."

The 3d depicts a nipa palm, Nipa fruticans, from whose leaves thatch is made. Its sap is rich in sugar, and is consequently used to produce that substance, as well as to make palm wine. In the 3d value the name is in a semicircle, with "Postage" below. At bottom, "3 Three Pence 3."

The 6d figures a close-up of natives and huts, and might have been taken anywhere in the South Seas. Inscriptions arranged as in the 1/2d.

The picture on the 1sh appears to be Rarotonga. Inscriptions as on the 6d, except in the case of Niue, which has "Postage" in a scroll at top left, with "Niue" in larger letters at top right. Lettering on the shillings is in solid characters, while other values have the lettering colorless on a solid ground (1 1/2, 3 and 6d) or a mixture of both colored and colorless letters. The 1/2 and 1d, to conform to postal union requirements, are framed in greens and reds of varying shade. I am unable to give the shade of the 1d Rarotonga, as my correspondent inadvertently omitted sending a copy.

Aitutaki.—1/2d, dark green and black; 1d, dark carmine and black; 1 1/2d, dark brown and black; 3d, dark blue and black; 6d, dull violet and red-brown; 1sh, violet-red and black.

Niue.—1/2d, yellow-green and black; 1d, deep red and black; 1 1/2d, red-orange and black; 3d, green-blue and black; 6d, yellow-green and red-brown; 1sh, dark brown and black.

Penrhyn.—1/2d, emerald and black; 1d, brown-red and black; 1 1/2d, purple and black; 3d, orange and black; 6d, dark brown and red-brown; 1sh, deep blue and black.

Rarotonga.—1/2d, intense green and black; 1d, ———; 1 1/2d, deep blue and black; 3d, chocolate and black; 6d, orange and red-brown; 1sh, purple and black.

The Cook (or Hervey) Islands have an area of about 150 square miles, and a population of perhaps 10,000. There are six large islands and many islets and reefs. Rarotonga, the largest of the group, has an area of 31 square miles.

The inhabitants are nearly all Polynesian Christians, and many of them can read and write, and consequently use postage stamps. Correspondence is mainly with New Zealand.

Rarotonga is situated almost exactly on the meridian of 160° W., and about 50 miles south of the parallel of 20° S., while Aitutaki is about the same distance north of that parallel of latitude. Niue is ten degrees farther west, or 500 miles away, while Penrhyn is over 600 miles north of Rarotonga, in the Manihiki archipelago. For administrative purposes, all these islands are included in the Cook group.

Captain James Cook, whose portrait is shown on the 1 1/2d stamps, is regarded as one of history's greatest navigators and explorers. As a cartographer he was especially accomplished, and his first work was done in North America, on the coasts of Labrador and Newfoundland. Later he circumnavigated New Zealand, visited the coasts of Australia, and proved the separation of that continent from New Guinea. His discoveries resulted in his being made a commander, and in 1772 he set out on his three years' cruise, on which the islands named for him were discovered. On a later voyage he surveyed much of the Pacific coast of North America, and the next year, 1779, he was killed in the Hawaiian Islands, on the fourteenth of February. Thus Cook is as much entitled to the admiration of Americans as of that of his own countrymen, as our debt to him and his genius is great. A monument was erected to Cook's memory in Hawaii in 1874, on the spot where he met his death.

approval selections contain medium grade and rare U. S. postage, revenue and foreign stamps priced reasonably, and are sent to really truly collectors who ask for them and submit satisfactory references. Almost any responsible collector willing to part with $5 or more at a time can receive these selections. I would gladly accept business in smaller units from good fellows who cannot afford to invest so much at a time if I could do so profitably. Just to help me serve you well; what stamps are you seeking?

20 CENTURY UNITED STATES.

I have on hand a wonderful lot of late U. S. in blocks, singles, etc. If you do not know the different types of the 2c, 3c, etc., let me pick them out for you. If you are willing to spend $5-10 at a time go over your Scott's catalogue and let me know what you want. Also have a wonderful lot of coils. Now is the time to get them for they will never be cheaper and even a small demand would exhaust the available stocks of many varieties.

Of course if you really want all the new things in blocks the best way to get them is to subscribe to my new issue service. It has started well on greased wheels and in a short time it may be necessary to raise my rate to new comers as I find it difficult at times to pick out sufficient well centered blocks. Of one stamp, recently located it was necessary to break up 13 sheets to get what my subscribers required. You know some sheets contain only one or two fine blocks and I aim to pick out blocks for you the same as I do for my own collection.

Look up my last week's adv. for a list of U. S. at reasonable figures including that elusive 1914 $30 vermilion revenue at less than half catalogue. Only one to a customer and when these are gone I have no assurance of more.

Will pay the highest prices for good things in the way of U. S.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—In my Chronicle of last week mention was made of a third variety of the 2c surface print which was similar to what we know as type II but differed somewhat from this type in the strength of the center line of the figures "2". Mr. P. M. Mann now calls my attention to another variety somewhat like the last but with the small ball of the "2" missing. In viewing these varieties as well as stamps from plate No. 11939, which are one-half millimeter larger in each direction than the normal stamps, I am lead to believe that they are all caused by the small master negative, if we may call it such, rather than to any change in the original photograph. It will therefore be more logical to designate these as sub-types rather than main varieties. As several of these small negatives were made from both type I, as well as type II, there is a likelihood of there being more varieties to be located. My conclusions are further strengthened by the fact that plates bearing much higher numbers than the sub-varieties, have been located in type II, showing pretty conclusively that the change was not made in first photograph which corresponds to what we call the die in the case of the engraved plates.

Mention was made in a recent chronicle of the locating of two sheets from the identical position of the same plate, one of which showed a "W. B." near the plate number and the other without it. I have now learned that this change in the plate is due to the fact that often one man will start the work of printing from one plate and in order that the next man using it will not be responsible for the other man's work, he scratches his initials on the plate to show what is his.

Through the courtesy of the Hon. James L. Wilmett, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we are able to publish a list of several hundred plates, made since our last list. This brings the records of the Bureau up to October 28, 1920.

Our many valued correspondents throughout the country are continuing to favor us with new varieties of the provisional 2c on 3c envelopes. It is only through their co-operation that we can hope to make our final list complete. From experiences right here in Philadelphia I know it to be a fact that the very same station will have one variety today and another tomorrow. It is therefore hoped that our readers will keep in constant touch with their Post Offices and keep us fully advised of any new variety placed on sale. Mr. George P. Smith has shown us a new one from Atlanta as well as several from Cincinnati. Mr. H. C. Hitt has located an unchronicled variety from Seattle, while Mr. T. L. Newton has found another from the same city. Mr. H. B. Agard sends one being used in Reading but overprinted in Philadelphia, which is new. Mr. J. R. Allen Thompson, our valued San Antonio correspondent, sends a new variety from that city. Mr. R. T. Molitor shows us one from Cleveland on blue, the first to come to hand on this color paper. We are waiting patiently to hear from Birmingham, New Orleans, Dallas, Jacksonville and the other larger cities of the South. So far most of the larger northern and western offices have been taken care of.

We also wish to thank Mr. C. H. McBride for showing us the first of a second type of overprinted 1c on 2c postal card from Washington. This overprint reads "1 Cent" in one horizontal line, different from any of the others. This is similar to the rejected die envelopes in appearance and may turn out to be a rejected die postal overprint.

Mr. H. W. Porter, as well as Mr. McBride, has sent samples of the first Washington postal. Mr. Ferd. Jorres sends one from Kansas City, which city, by the way, has not started to use surcharged envelopes.

Mr. Charles C. Keller sends for my inspection a very curious envelope sent out by the Aeronautic Library Inc. of New York. It seems that in sending out their mail they desire to advertise the subject of aeronautics and consequently try and have all of their letters forwarded via aeroplane where possible. They have therefore had a little rubber stamp made and put an impression from this stamp on each letter. The design consists of a winged rec-

NO SECRET ABOUT OUR SERVICE.

You, as well as those who are already getting new and recent issues through will wonder at our lower prices. We shall use care in our importations and purchase and pass out everything we receive slight advance over cost. Your only objection is that you will make one-weekly turns. You'll agree that, at our prices things must be kept moving.

subjects are the same as listed for Aitutaki but the colors are changed in some of the values. The colorings are as follows: 1/2d yellow green and black; 1d carmine and black, 1 1/2d red and black, 3d blue and black, 6d green and brown, and 1sh brown and grey.

PALESTINE.—Mr. Dicranian calls our attention to the 1p dark blue, E. E. F. issue, recently received from Jaffa with the three inscriptions that have been appearing on other values of this issue.

PENRHYN ISLAND.—Mr. Hugo Griebert sends us copies of the new issue of stamps placed on sale last month. The subjects are the same as Aitutaki but the colors are somewhat different. In this set the 1/2d is bright green and black, 1d carmine and black, 1 1/2d violet and black, 3d orange and black, 6d brown and brown-red, and 1sh blue and black.

RAROTONGA.—Mr. Hugo Griebert advises us of the new set that was recently in this colony. The subjects are the same as Aitutaki and of the following colors: 1/2d green and black, 1d carmine and black, 1 1/2d blue and black, 3d brown and black, 6d orange and brown, 1sh violet and black.

SPAIN.—A 1 centimo unperforated bearing a crown, ESPANA CORREOS in green has appeared. It seems to be type set. We have also received the 2c brown and 20c purple lithographed. —Economist Bulletin.

SPANISH MOROCCO.—Owing to a shortage of 5c, 10 and 15c values, a small quantity of large revenue stamps have been surcharged with these new values. We can supply sets of the following values: 5c on 5pt, 5ct on 10pt, 10ct on 25pt, 10ct on 50pt. All these are surcharged in red. The 15ct on 100pt and 15ct on 500pt have been surcharged in green. These stamps are perforated through the center and each half are surcharged the same. —Economist Bulletin.

SYRIA.—Mrs. Grace E. Smith has called attention to the appearance of the 25c stamp of France with the surcharge of "O. M. F. Syrie 2 Piastres" overprinted in four lines in red.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. A. B. Meeker has shown us the new 1 1/2d stamp of this country. The design is the same as the other stamps and is of a brown shade. The perforation is 14.

"GENERAL" NOT "GENUINE".

A very annoying error occurred in the advt. of M. J. Fenster, issues of Oct. 9 and 16. Mr. Fenster was made to say "I also carry a large stock of genuine foreign". Naturally he objects to the intimation that any dealer carries stamps that might not be genuine. The word needed was "general" and we apologize for the error.

Latest Advice to Stamp Collectors

Invest your money in stamps you could realize on readily if a pinch came. Buy early U. S. and B. N. A. Just because I have a stock of these it may appear I am trying to boom my own business, perhaps I am, but the advice is sound, and I would hand it to my own brother.

I have everything in U. S. and B. N. A. excepting the great rarities.

I have several grades of books ready, fine, ordinary, slightly damaged (latter cheap, and not culls either). Write me, and if possible give me your want list and I will do my best to serve you.

NEWFOUNDLAND PROVISIONALS.

MR. INGRAM in Stamp Collecting.

Thanks to the perspicacity of our Special Correspondent in Britain's oldest Colony, we have already been able to furnish our readers with much exclusive and valuable information concerning the latest philatelic sensation in Newfoundland. Now, through the good offices of the same alert reporter, we are able to publish some further illuminating data. The stamps were surcharged with the intention that they should be placed on sale in the usual way, and on Saturday, September 11th, they arrived at the G. P. O. At that time there were only three orders on hand for the stamps—viz., an order for five hundred for the Central Post Office, an order for a hundred from a small shop in the central part of the town, and one for fifty from a shop in the west end of St. John's. These orders were filled on the Saturday, as the stamps were to be placed on sale the following Monday. However, the small store in the west-end which had the supply of fifty, placed the stamps on sale on the Sunday intervening; that day a large stamp vendor happened to go there for stamps, and, finding the surcharged 15c, sent in to the G. P. O. first thing Monday morning for twenty thousand. As only 26,000 had been surcharged, the stamp clerk went to the P. M. G. to know if he should supply the 20,000. The P. M. refused, and asked for a list of what had gone out; he then gave orders that they were only to be sold from the stamp window of the G. P. O., and had the stamps recalled from the Central Post Office. However, he only got back four hundred, the other hundred having been sold. An employé of the post office managed to get information about the other two orders that had been filled, and started off for the west-end, where he got five—all that were left; he then went to the other store, where he succeeded in getting seventy-five—all that remained of the hundred supplied to that shop.

The stamps had only been on sale two days when the 35c was put on sale.

It is hardly likely that all the stamps were sold, as one only was sold to each person the first day, when very few people knew about them; the second day you could only get them by passing your letters to the clerk, he stamping and dropping them in the box, provided they were for places abroad.

If, as stated, the stamps were sold out, then someone in the employ of the G. P. O. must have them, as several of the stamp clerks are also stamp dealers and are responsible for the "cornering" of the 15c "Trans-Atlantic" stamp and the 6c "Caribou."

Our correspondent had a sheet of twenty-five of the surcharged 35c offered him by an employé for $1, and he was glad to get it, as he had been asked $2 a sheet for them by a clerk a short time before.

The next discontinuance of subscrip- tions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1555 to 1559 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinu- ance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must under- stand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

THE "SMUTTS" TRIANGULARS.

A perusal of Mr. Phillips's description in his firm's Monthly Circular of the famous "Smuts" collection of Cape stamps makes one inclined to ignore the tenth commandment, which, by the way, would probably have included "thy neigh- bour's stamp collection," if it had been drafted in more modern times!

Of the 1853 issue on blued paper, there are—12 (one pair) unused, and 216 used, in blocks (one of 12), pairs and singles of the One Penny; and 10 unused, and 162 used, in blocks (one of six), pairs and singles, of the Four Pence.

The 1885-8 set on white paper com- prises 49 unused, in blocks (one of 17), pairs and singles, and 345 used, in blocks (one of 8), pairs and singles, of the One Penny; 58 unused, in block of 4, pairs and singles, and 1,127 used, in blocks (one of 12), pairs and singles, of the Four Pence, 33 unused, in blocks (one of 5), pairs (2 on blued paper) and singles (6 on blued), and 199 used (26 on blued), in pairs and singles, of the Six Pence; and 49 unused, in blocks (one of 11), pairs and singles, and 191 used, in pairs and singles, of the One Shilling.

Then, of the rouletted set, there are one, nine (2 pairs), and five of the 1d, 4d, and 6d respectively.

The "Woodblocks" are 231 in number; 8 unused and 79 used (including 4 blocks of 4) of the One Penny; 6 unused and 129 used (including 4 pairs, 6 "re- touched" and 15 dark blue) of the Four Pence; and no fewer than NINE of the errors—4 of the Penny and 5 of the Four Pence.

Messrs. De La Rue's printings are equally well represented: 157 unused, in blocks (one of 28, one of 25, and one of 21), pairs and singles, and 112 used, in blocks (one of 8), pairs and singles of the One Penny; 123 unused, in blocks (one of 33), pairs and singles, and 324 used, in blocks, pairs and singles, of the Four Pence; 63 unused, in blocks (one of 18), pairs and singles, and 45 used, in pairs and singles, of the Six Pence; and 30 unused, in blocks (one of 8), pairs and singles, and 58 used, in pairs and singles, of the One Shilling.

In addition, there are two pairs of the One Penny from the trial-printing on Crown "CC" paper.

In the immense accumulation of the rectangular stamps, we note the fol- lowing:—

Nov., 1868.—4d on 6d, with "n" of "Pence" inverted, an un- chronicle variety.

Nov., 1879.—"PENCE", two unused.

Aug., 1880.—Thick "3" inverted and unused.

Thin "3" inverted and used. Two used vertical strips of three—top, thick "3", middle, no surcharge; bottom, thin "3."

Messrs. Stanley Gibbons are to be congratulated on the acquisition of this superb collection.—S. C. Fortnightly.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

BULGARIA.—The Minister of Finances has given an order to Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. for a complete new series of postage stamps, in ten denominations from 10 centimes to 10 leva. Three of these values, 25c, 1 and 10 leva, will bear a portrait of King Boris, the others will depict views of Bulgarian scenery. The new stamps are expected to be issued early in 1921. The number to be printed is 140,500,000, so there will be enough to go round!

COOK ISLANDS.—A new and permanent series of stamps has been issued, a separate set for each of the four islands, Aitutaki, Niue, Penrhyn Island and Rarotonga. The new stamps have been engraved and printed by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., and are of six denominations; the 1½d value shows a portrait of Captain Cook, whilst in the other values appear views of native scenery. In our consignment we found one sheet of the 1½d Rarotonga in which the portrait is so much out of register that a broad white band shows beneath, giving the appearance of the value being omitted.

DANZIG.—A number of provisional stamps of high values have been made by overprinting lower denominations, first with a pattern of wavy lines covering the whole stamp, presumably as a prevention against forgery, and then with new values. The following is a list of those we have seen:—1, 1½, 2, 3, 5 and 10 marks, surcharged on 30, 35, 7½, 2 and 7½pf stamps respectively. A correspondent sends us the following translation of an article on this subject which appeared in the Danziger Zeitung:—

"All day long the Post Office counters are besieged by long queues of the public clamouring for the third Danzig issue in good time. Very soon certain values were sold out and many of the values exceeding 1 mark can today be obtained with luck, in single stamps only. More than three-fourths of the stamps sold have been diverted from their proper postal traffic by collectors and speculators, and scarcely one-fourth remains for postage purposes, although many of the first issue are still on sale. The senior Post Office authorities have therefore been obliged, as we reported, to overprint every old 'Germania' stamp they have been able to lay hands on, to prevent the words 'sold out' figuring over the counters."

POLAND.—Owing to the low rate of exchange, the postal rates have been considerably increased, so that stamps of low denominations are not now required, therefore the stamps of 3, 5, 10, 15 and 20 fennig have been withdrawn from use and the lowest value now current is that of 25 fennig.

SAMOA.—The New Zealand Victory stamps have been overprinted "Samoa" and we are including a set in our October distribution. There are several minor varieties of overprint, the most important of which is an inverted "V" for "A", which occurs once on each sheet of the 1½d value. Other varieties are small stops, square top to "O", etc.

SLESVIG.—In order to celebrate the return of Northern Slesvig to Denmark, the Danish Post Office will shortly issue special commemorative stamps of three denominations only, 10, 20 and 40 øre. They will bear reproductions of Kronborg Castle, Soenderborg Castle and Roskilde Cathedral. The issue will be a limited one and the stamps will be on sale for a short time only. —Whitfield King's Monthly List.

LOCOMOTIVE POSTAGE STAMPS.

By E. G. YOUNG.

(About two and a half years ago in the editorial section of the WEEKLY the suggestion was made that some "expert in engine construction" should write up the locomotive stamps of the world. I wrote a few comments in letter form on the engines on our own stamps which you were considerate enough to publish in the WEEKLY of January 5th, 1918. Personally and through the columns of the WEEKLY, I received several additional bits of information, and after reading Mr. Ward's article on "Ship Stamps" I feel inclined to do the rest of it, mainly for my own satisfaction as a write-up for my own collection of this type of stamp, but perhaps the results you will consider worthy of your columns.)

It seems a very appropriate thing to make a locomotive picture part of the design of a postage stamp. Doubtless nine-tenths of the world's mail travels behind a locomotive in the course of its journey, and probably nine-tenths of this amount in turn travels only by mail train, post office auto truck, and the carrier's pouch. Indeed, it seems remarkable that the list of locomotive stamps should be no longer than it is. One reason for its not comparing favorably with the list of ship stamps is obvious: many countries and colonies carry the ship on their seal, and the seal forms an important part of the design of numbers of issues. However, if the list of ship stamps be reduced to pictures which "pass muster" technically it is very much abbreviated—so also with the list of locomotive stamps.

Perhaps the ships have the best of it from another standpoint. If a classification is made between pictures of ships or engines which are really representative, there is a percentage of well-drawn boats much larger than the corresponding number of locomotives, provided we omit those used on the seals. In studying the locomotive pictures then, it seems well to make a three-fold classification:

First, technically accurate pictures. Second, those which are intended to be accurate, but which fall short in a greater or less measure.

Third, more or less nondescript pictures, in many cases simply used to fill up a blank space, and in other cases simply indicating the engraver's lack of knowledge or a good picture to work from.

A fourth class might also be suggested, where the locomotive is merely incidental to the main picture and perforce too small to be detailed.

The first instances of the use of locomotive pictures in America are some of the early issues of private local stamps, and the examples are decidedly in the nondescript class—so much so as to deserve no further mention. The three cent of 1869—familiar little classic!—carries the picture of a machine intended to typify the growth and modernization of the postal service. Doubtless the intention was to have the most modern sort of a locomotive, but it was a failure in this respect,—the characteristics of the picture being those of the period 1850-55. The most notable obsolete details are the close spacing of the wheels of the leading truck, the balloon stack, and the location of the cylinders above the running board. This picture may be said to fall in the middle range of the second class above.

It is queer how a mechanical nondescript can help to make a philatelic aristocrat, isn't it? That is the case of the three cent Centennial envelope which, by the way, seems to be the pioneer of all the rest of the commemorative stamp issues of the world. The embossing process did the postboy and his pony generous justice, but the locomotive is a failure, beyond its suggestive value. The cab—the wheels,—but it is too nice a stamp to "roast" this way. Microscopic examination of sharp copies fails to show any basis for a rigid date on the picture. The writer would hazard the guess that the engraver must have looked (though surely not very long) at a picture of a brand new machine, as few diamond stacks were in use prior to 1875.

Next in order is the gem of the series: the two cent Pan-American. It is a fine engraving from a fine photograph. I was informed through the WEEKLY columns that this was No. 827. This was one of Mr. Buchanan's famous pets, of which 999 is best known—epoch making locomotives for 1893, but pigmies compared with the big "Pacifics" which pull the "Empire State" today. The three engines so far mentioned are all of the "4-4-0" type—that is, they have a four-wheel leading truck, four driving wheels, and no trailing wheels under the firebox. This is commonly called the "American type" because of its predominance on the railways of America up to 1890. It has been entirely superseded since that time, as it has neither starting pull nor high-speed pulling capacity to meet the demands of other than branch-line service at the present.

The fourth locomotive is at the opposite end of the scale—the engine on the five cent Parcels Post. Issued in 1911, the whole thing is literally impossible. The engine is of the Mogul type, with a single pair of leading wheels and six drivers, a type not used in fast service. The coupler is of the "bull-nose" link and pin type, antiquated fifteen years at that time. The cylinders are leaking steam at a rate that would horrify the officials, and the pilot ("cow-catcher"), cylinders, lack of a running board, tender trucks, tank flange, etc., are all fearful and wonderful. (There are also two inaccuracies in connection with the mail crane. The engineman would not be leaning from the cab window as the crane was passed, and the clerk should be in the car door with the catcher hook ready for action.)

One addition must be made to the U. S. catalog—notice the canal lock "mules" on the two cent Pan-Pacific stamp. One shows up towing the dreadnaught, and the other—well, perhaps it is imagination, but there should be two or more towing the big boat, and I think I see the traces of another. This would of course fall in the fourth class—too small for detail.

We go abroad. The first stop is with the Belgian parcel stamps. The issues of 1882 to 1906 (Scott types PP2 and PP3) have a nondescript picture which is largely covered by the value tablet and ornaments. No loss, apparently. The PP6 type, issue of 1915 franc values, has a very good picture, evidently reproduced from a photograph. The wheel arrangement is 2-4-2, with inside cylinders, outside cranks and the standard Belgian open-type cab, in which the engineman and fireman are not allowed to sit down. The locomotive is not as modern as the date of the stamp, however, as in recent years the growth of locomotive boilers has produced "ingrown" smokestacks, much shorter relatively than that shown.

Under "Canal Zone" we have the 24c 1917 surcharged on Panama, type A24 showing the "electric mules" again, and this time quite plainly.

The low values of the current issue of China shows a picture of the fourth class in the background—nothing can be determined on account of its small size.

The Colombian Republic offers one stamp, 50c Santander of 1904, Scott type A17. A small mogul (as can be judged by the man standing between the engine and tender) of decidedly American lines—vintage of 1890, perhaps.

There is a tiny "incidental" on the bridge of Costa Rica 1 colon 1901—type A36,—it is mostly smoke.

Ecuador type A55, 1 centavo 1908, carries one of the best pictures in the whole list. The engine is a "ten-wheeler"—4-6-0 type, with a four-wheel leading truck and six drivers. The features of the design are entirely American, and the size and appearance very modern. The work having been done by Waterlow, it seems probable that it was made from a photograph furnished by the Railway Dept. of the republic.

Guatemala has three series of stamps with locomotive pictures, types A13, A21, and A24. They are merely "corner ornaments" in each case, and beyond the wheel arrangement (4-4-0 type) nothing can be determined. These cover all the stamps issued from 1886 through the first of the surcharged revenues of 1898.

The Honduras issue of 1898 shows a locomotive on all values. As it is "posed" head on, nothing can be said of its design, except that from the diamond stack it is evidently a wood-burner. The picture shows a track so wide that the engine might almost fall through it, and as practically all Central American railways are narrow gauge, the picture is evidently entirely fanciful.

Mexico 1 peso 1895 (type A24) shows a much smaller picture, but one similar in general effect to the foregoing of Honduras. That the picture is fanciful is indicated in the same way. The engraver hasn't discovered in most cases what the designer of the engines well knows—that the locomotive is twice or more as wide as the track on which it runs.

Over the title "Camino de Ferro" Mozambique Co. type A19, 15c 1918 shows a fine little picture of a train which has apparently (due to the good "pose" and the escaping steam from the safety valve, also the fact that the smoke and steam shoot vertically upward) been halted to be photographed. The picture is beautifully made, but due to the position from which it is taken the wheels of the engine fail to show, and we lose the most important single piece of information. From the general arrangement of running board, etc., this is evidently a European built locomotive. All of the Mozambique railway is of the narrow gauge (4'2").

New Brunswick type A2, 1c 1860, bears a picture of a 4-4-0 locomotive in a general way similar to that on the U. S. 3c '69. There are several essential differences: the cylinders are inside of the frames, a construction never very popular in America, though at that time universal in England and often copied in the colonies. This engine lacks the pilot—a characteristic American institution—and has a fence around the running board in place of the usual hand-rail on the boiler. In general it is a much more accurate representation than the 3c '69, indicating either fidelity to his copy or considerable knowledge on the part of the engraver.

Nicaragua type A5 carries a locomotive and a telegraph instrument—issue of 1890, all values. But for some very peculiar looking wheels under the tender, this could be classified as a first class picture, and it is one of the few pictures where the engine shown was really up-to-date, relative to the issue of the stamp. The engine is entirely American in appearance—the wheel arrangement 4-4-0, and the details are well executed, as the picture endures magnification well. Nicaragua type A14 has a picture of a dirt train on the proposed

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

For some weeks two interesting additions to the series of Stamp Collecting handbooks have been awaiting our attention and we now refer them to our readers with a few words of commendation, not alone for the subject matter of the booklets, but as well for the publishers who are providing moderately priced pamphlets that are a worthy contribution to our literature. "Penny Blacks Plated," by F. Wadham, is a study covering over twenty pages with plentiful illustrations. The penny black of Great Britain is an illustrious stamp,
as it is the "first" of all "firsts."

While it has been esteemed for many years in Great Britain, it has been only recently that it has had the acclaim that it really deserves in its country of origin. Like our five cent, 1847, it has decidedly come into its own in the last ten years or so. The penny black is a famous stamp, bristling with points of interest and distinction and not a few collectors here are paying it homage.
The check letters on each of the 240 stamps making up the plate are not the plating index, although sheets with the full sequence of letters are said to be reconstructed; but the engraving characteristics of each stamp, so to say, on each of the eleven plates are the plating guides.
For instance, an illustration shows the stamp with the lettering "H I" in the plates, one to eleven, from which the stamp was printed. Plate 11 is the rarity, and specimens from it are worth having. Of course, the identification of the products of the different plates is the feature of the work. The relative values of the stamps from the different plates, give a practical cast to the little book, to which we shall devote some study in order to be able to recognize the plate-marks, so to say. Price,
2 shillings 6 pence: "Stamp Collecting,"
89 Farrington Street, London, E. C. 4,
England.

From the publishers just named, "A Study of the Stamps of Sarawak," by Major R. H. D. Lockhart, F. R. P. S.
L., may be had for 2 shillings. This is a remarkably intensive study of the stamps from the first issue of 1869 to that of 1875, inclusive, in particular.
The plating possibilities of the lithographed stamps are carefully presented by the author who shows himself as a student capable and we should say enthusiastic. Page after page is devoted to a description of means of identifying the stamps; and as we may know, the differences are slight but none the less interesting to the specialist. Detailed information is given of the succeeding issues, and all in all, we cannot conceive of more exhaustive treatment of the stamps of Sarawak, all the issues of which are priced within reach.

AIR MAIL BIDS WANTED.

Postmaster General Burleson has asked bids for hydroplane mail service between Seattle, Wash., and Victoria, B. C., about 84 miles and back, from Oct. 15, 1920, to June 30, 1921. A single trip each way carrying not exceeding 600 pounds of mail will be required. Bids will be received until September 14.

Under this plan the incoming mail from the Orient arriving at Victoria would be advanced for delivery at Seattle one whole business day over the present steamer service, and the outgoing mail now arriving at Seattle several hours late for the morning steamer dispatch to Victoria for trans-Pacific connection would avoid delay in final delivery in the Orient, in many cases two or three weeks, by reason of catching the vessel at Victoria.

A NEW NEW YORK CITY FIRM.

Kelton & Sloane is the name of a new firm that has succeeded to the business of the late George R. Tuttle of New York. This is an important announcement and means an addition of importance to the auction dealers in the metropolis. Their first sale will be held on Nov. 27, and the advertisement elsewhere in this number should be noted.

ORGANIZE A STAMP CLUB.

The Kansas City Stamp Club was organized last night at the Hotel Baltimore by thirty collectors here. Permanent club rooms will be secured and furnished, it was announced. Membership is open to all stamp collectors.

Wilson D. Wood, treasurer of the People's Trust Company, was elected president of the organization. Other officers named are: W. C. Michaels, an attorney, first vice-president; Allen Logan, president of the Logan Brothers' Grain Company, second vice-president, and H. C. Warren, 1017 Van Trump
Court, secretary and treasurer.

The stamp club succeeds the Kansas City Philatelic Society, which was disbanded because of the war. There are several collections in Kansas City valued at more than $1,000 and many stamps rated at from $300 to $400 each.
—Kansas City Times.

10c FOR A PRICE LIST.

It is rather unusual for a stamp dealer to make a charge for a price list
but this is what the Marks Stamp Co.
is doing, as will be noted by the firm's advertisement in this number. Evidently the firm has faith in the list that it offers, and is confident that every investor in this big wholesale price list will feel that he has received a good bargain.
Moreover, the firm offers a rebate on a $2 order. In these days of extraordinary cost in all kinds of production it is not to be wondered at that the advertiser must protect himself against mere curiosity fans.

STAMPS FOR SHUT-INS.

(We are very glad to insert the notice below and trust our readers will co-operate with this most worthy movement. If any of our subscribers wish to help in this good work, gifts of stamps will no doubt be acceptable,
as well as the co-operation in procuring the names of worthy shut-ins. Address all communications to W. F. Slusser, Fort Washington, Md.—W. O. W.)

The American Stamp Dealers Association, during the coming Christmas week, will distribute a number of packets of stamps to deserving stamp collector "shut-ins," and we ask your cooperation in giving this matter publicity to the end that a sufficient number of names, properly vouched for, may be submitted to us.

The members of this Association have been asked to contribute these packets of stamps, and a final report showing the extent of the contributions, the names of the contributors, and the names of the recipients will be published in the A. S.
D. A. Bulletin, and a copy of this report will be furnished you for such use as you deem proper.

The information we ask for should be furnished not later than December 15.

EDITORIAL.

Prospects—We are assured of an active stamp season from the fact that never before have we seen so marked an interest shown by collectors in all the concerns of philately. We arrive at this conclusion simply enough. The indicator is the large volume of mail received from readers discussing subjects ranging from intimate to remote in their relation to our pursuit. When a busy man will write several pages in long-hand to present with becoming modesty, his opinion of this or that phase of collecting, we know that philately is a part of him; and when letters in good number come conveying tidings covering the widest range of philatelic endeavor,—then we know that all is well with our world.

Publicity—The idea of publicity for philately is one that continues to engage the minds of some of us and a good many suggestions have been received, and while none of them is exactly new, we think that practical and progressive plans will be developed. Some time ago Mr. Max Casper, who several years ago was on the publicity committee of the American Philatelic Society, wrote: "I am in a position to have films made by co-operating with the Harcol Film Company of New Orleans who understand my ideas and desires for gaining philatelic publicity by means of moving pictures. One phase of the plan is to mount selections of stamps that will attract the attention of non-philatelic on-lookers. These pictures on the film-roll will be one-fiftieth of the actual size of the stamp but when thrown on the screen in page groups will be enlarged one hundred times or more their actual size. Of course, at present, I shall use only foreign stamps, but I am writing to find out if there is any possibility in the near future of showing our own beautiful designs." We trust that Mr. Casper has been prosecuting his plan to some advantage; and at any rate we commend his enterprise, as all of us know of the great advantages to be derived from film advertising.

Cautious—One of our friends sends us a rubber stamp impression used by a bidder on stamps in an auction sale, which reads: "Every stamp to be good condition, well centered, no straight edges, full O. G." That is a very large order and our only comment is that philatelic life is becoming more and more complex.

Ah—"I shall acquaint you with a discovery that I have made that deserves a place in the curiosities of philatelic literature," writes an old-timer. "I see (slang for 'lamp') in a circular letter that one of the national societies distributes that some of its departments are under the management of 'experience collectors.' For sixty years I have been collecting experience but I must admit that while long on experience I am short on stamps." Tread lightly, friend, as we know too well how impish the type can act on occasion; and even on surcharged stamps a dropped "d" is not a seven-day wonder.

Alabama—The following letter has been received from Mr. Peter A. Brannon, Curator of the Department of Archives and History, State of Alabama: "There has been some controversy during recent years as to whether Alabama State Tax on Seals revenue stamps were issued rouletted and perforated. I have just recently found among some state archives a sheet of the rouletted, O. G., in fine condition. The stamps appear to have been cut by hand rather than by machine, inasmuch as some stamps are narrower than others. The American Bank Note Company printed the original issue but I am not certain about this issue, apparently a second one, as the stamps were discovered with a state voucher of 1885. An Act of December 3, 1884, repealed the law requiring the affixing of these stamps." We have several copies of the dollar red and one specimen of the $2 blue but all our stamps are perforated. However, Sterling long ago listed the one dollar as imperforate and rouletted, respectively, and our assumption is that the sheet Mr. Brannon mentions is the imperforate, rouletted by hand or the "regular" rouletted, that is, if the sheet is of one dollar stamps.

Alternate—Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz writes: "The W. T. Rawleigh Company of Freeport, Illinois, is using documentary stamps to pay the tax on its toilet preparations. You may recall that some time ago I wrote to you about the Maybelle laboratories doing the same. I have several 'covers' showing the use of this provisional of the documentary stamps as proprietaries."

When—We are informed by a correspondent that domestic reply postal cards were first issued in sheet form to facilitate economical printing by purchasers in 1909, when a Buffalo concern ordered 2,500,000 such double cards, which were delivered in a carload lot. He tells us also that in 1905 the postmaster general said that the popularity of commemorative issues was abating, supporting his statement with the following statistics of quantities issued: Columbian, 2,014,230; Trans-Mississippi, 251,532,440; Pan-American, 324,065,000 and Louisiana Purchase, 287,992,100.

West—It has been many a day since we have seen a copy of the three cent green Centennial envelope, with its interesting reference to the development of a section of the country, on the reverse of the envelope. We believe that the envelope under notice is a variety so far as the following inscription on the face is concerned, as the wording is different from that on the envelope on record. On the face, we find:

"Sidney Short Route. Clarke's Centennial Express to the Black Hills. In consideration of the 10 cents paid for this envelope, and of which payment its possession bears evidence, the undersigned agrees to carry it from the Union Pacific Railroad at Sidney, Neb., to Custer City, and Deadwood, Dakota, (and such other places as his route may supply), or from above places to the Union Pacific Railroad at Sidney, without additional overcharge. H. T. Clarke Care of H. T. Clarke, Sidney, Neb."

The reverse side reads thus: "Sidney Short Route. The Black Hills. The New 61 Span Truss Bridge over the Platte River, 40 Miles North of Sidney, is now open for travel, and, with the Road, is Guarded by the United States

FRENCH COLONIES

I have in preparation a list of hundreds of French Colonials which I am offering at 50% of catalog price. Practically all the stamps of current issues unused, included, as well as many of the older both used and unused. Current French Colonials at half catalog are a buy. This makes the franc values only about 18c on the franc.
 A copy of this list will be sent to anyone interested.

A VOLLEY OF TRUTH
If one stops to think—PRICE in itself means NOTHING—it's what one gets in REAL VALUE only in QUALITY goods that SPELLS a BUY.

FRENCH COLONIAL POSTAGE
Stamp collections assembled from Powell's stock means the FINEST the market has and POSITIVELY will please you. SHOW You Can't Lose, as, it's "MONEY" if you want it without quibble or argument. Merely deposit the amount to your examination and approval. Such arrangement cannot be improved upon—it—have one of these real EYE-OPENERS sent to you and let it sell itself to you in its own MERITS. These collections contain SELECTED postage stamps ONLY. Many better kinds, higher surcharges, higher values and occupation stamps throughout. Fully TWICE as GOOD as the ordinary run "variety" sets. Mounted neatly in set and colony or ready for quick transfer to your collection. 100 DIFFERENT (regular $50.00) special set $30.00. 500 DIFF. (regular $17.50) goes at $8.00. 300 DIFF. a dandy lot $3.00. 200 diff. for $1.75. 100 diff. unmounted for 60c. 10 for $5.00. or $40.00. Real satisfaction-givers for re-seller.

SEASONED BUYERS WRITE:
I have bought most of Powell's offers—comparison shows them to be by far the best in all respects and surely are the best in the long run."—Dallas G. Bray, New York City.
I found 198 new varieties from the 500 Col. for my collection of 25,000 which is remarkable. Send me two more."—Ralph L. King, Waukegan Ill.
I had recently a 500 Fr. Col. pack and another, your 1000 Fr. Col. collection good and of such immense value, I can't say so much better grade than the 500."—Freiber, Pres., Products Corp., Buffalo, N. Y.
I matter if others ask TWICE as much INVITE COMPARISON—you'll never find GOOD lots again NEAR SO CHEAP so have your order today.

BOUTELL & MAYNARD.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

In all philately's realm where is there to be found a stamp so odd and with such a curious history as the match stamp which is the subject of this little sketch? A stamp designed and partially prepared for one purpose and, after a lapse of several years, slightly altered and issued for an entirely different purpose!

Among other taxes named in the internal revenue law of July 13, 1866, was a tax on certain canned goods that included canned vegetables. The rate was one cent of tax for each can weighing two pounds or less, and one cent per can additional for each pound or fraction in excess of two pounds. The tax became effective October 1, 1866, but on March 2, 1867, it was altered so as to apply only to canned fish, sauces, syrups, mustard, jams and jellies. Only one private die revenue stamp was ever issued under this tax but another stamp was designed and the die for it prepared. The never-issued stamp was intended to be used on canned corn and die proofs of it show that the central feature of the design was an ordinary corn can labelled in two lines "Winslow's—Green Corn" with "J. W. J."—the initials of J. Winslow Jones, the proprietor, in manuscript between the lines of that inscription.

The Boston Book states that the Jones die was bought by Boutell & Maynard and the changes which cost $150, were ordered made on August 5, 1873. The following data is given regarding the new die and the issued stamps:—

Die approved, August 22, 1873.
First issued, September, 1873.
Last issued, August, 1875.
2,140,000 issued in black on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size. In the center an irregular panel with ornaments at each corner contains a cylindrical can standing on end which bears an oval label inscribed in two curved lines "Boutell &" at the top and "Maynard" at the bottom, with "Matches" in a straight line across the middle. Straight marginal labels on the four sides of the stamp read "U. S. Inter. Rev." at the top, "Proprietary" at the bottom, and "One Cent" at either side. Each of the side labels is broken in the middle by an oval containing a colorless numeral "1". The design is rather neat and effective, altho almost entirely lacking in ornamentation.

The firm was composed of Paul D. Boutell and J. R. Maynard, neither of whom are listed in the St. Paul directories before 1871, or after 1874. The directory for 1874 lists P. D. Boutell & Co., wholesale and retail stoves, tinner's stock and supplies, etc., and also the firm of Boutell & Maynard, match manufacturers, the address of the latter being Western Avenue at the corner of Goodrich Avenue. In this directory Gaylord Boutell, foreman of Boutell & Maynard, Herbert Boutell and Walter Boutell, match makers, are also listed and all three resided at 76 McBoal St., which was also the house address of J. R. Maynard.

The Boutell & Maynard is one of the two match stamps issued in Minnesota and is one of the three match revenues on which the word "Proprietary" appears. The two Goldback stamps issued in Richmond, Va., are the only others that bear this inscription, altho many of the private die medicine revenues have it. The revenue law did not require the use of this word on private die match stamps, and probably the only reason it is found on the Boutell & Maynard adhesive is because it was on the original Jones canned corn stamp die and nothing was to be gained by removing it when that die was altered into a match stamp for the St. Paul firm. The original Jones die was engraved by Butler & Carpenter in Philadelphia. The alterations in it and the Boutell & Maynard plate were made by Mr. Carpenter there, and all the stamps were printed at his establishment.

The stamp is surprisingly hard to find and if we are to judge by the prices asked for it twenty and thirty years ago, it was just as scarce then. Except in 1896-98 when the Scott quotation was $1.25, and in 1900, when it was priced 75c, the St. Paul stamp has been quoted at $1 ever since 1895. Sterling valued it at the same figure way back in 1888. It is indeed difficult to believe there is a supply sufficient to justify such a moderate price today. In the writer's opinion it would take something like two hundred years to buy one hundred different copies at $2 each.

THE E. & E. CO.

The Columbus, Ohio, stamp company with the rather mystic initials of E. & E., has made itself known to the philatelic public in recent months, and the WEEKLY has been used as a medium. Several large advertisements have been used. The proprietors of the firm are J. M. Bobb, Jr., and Walter English, Jr., both of Columbus. The firm has been in business three years. The two partners were both collectors and took up dealing as a side-line, but it has now become the mainstay of their philatelic activity. A general stock is handled and the firm has a particularly good supply of New Europe.

Did you receive a copy of this "what-is-it"? No. Well then you are not a subscriber to my new issue service for they all received it at the regular advance over face. If it turns out to be an error they have a nice little item. If it turns out to be a new issue, they still have one of the first printings, in excellent condition, which they have obtained at the regular rates. Some other wonderful things went out with my last lot of U. S. new issues. Just twice as many subscribers received the second sending as the first. All of those who want the new U. UNITED STATES.—Mr. Percy M. Mann has shown me a copy of the current $2 bi-colored stamp, unwatermarked, perforated 11, in a carmine rose and black instead of the familiar orange and black as first issued. I cannot definitely state at this time if the change is intentional or not. Personally I can see no reason for the change, and it is my personal opinion, although I may be far wrong, that when the printer started his work he was of the impression that the $2 stamp had been printed in these colors and used the rose carmine ink accordingly. After the run had been completed, the change was noted, but rather than destroy all of these stamps they decided to distribute them. I hope to be able to give definite information on the subject next week. I might mention that this is positively not a changeling, for I have since seen an entire sheet and they are all in this color.

1920, Unwatermarked, Perforated 11.
$2 rose carmine and black.

Mr. George P. Smith has located another 2c on 2c red, error provisional surcharged envelope, this time a Die A on white, size 3. This envelope has the imprint of "Zeno G. Logan, M. D., Ophir, Utah," and was found mixed among the 3c surcharged envelopes of the same size. The envelope was sold with a couple of the 3c surcharges to one who desired to write a letter at the post office. When he started to address the envelope, he noted the imprint in the corner and returned it to the clerk as he did not care for a second hand envelope that had been made for someone else. This copy has the Philadelphia overprint.

Mr. Mann has also located another Philadelphia error, namely the 2c on 2c red, Die F, size 13 on white. This bears the imprint of the Texas Company of Philadelphia and Mr. Mann tells the following history: It seems that some months back this company had redeemed a number of 3c envelopes and at the same time happened to return a 2c envelope which was defective. When the post office started their revaluing, the different offices, in accordance with instructions from Washington, offered back to the firms turning in these 3c envelopes the ones with the value changed. The Texas Company took up theirs and in this lot there happened to be this 2c envelope which the clerks did not notice. When the Texas Company started to use this, they again noticed that the envelope was defective and had it again redeemed. This time the obliging clerk knew what he had and Uncle

Samuel has received 2c for which he will not have to work.

Mr. H. W. Lindemann kindly sends a number of new Chicago provisional 2c on 3c envelopes that have not been noted heretofore. Mr. C. S. Ernst has found a Seattle on buff, while Mr. Clarence A. Bartlett finds a new one in Philadelphia. Mr. E. H. Draper shows me another buff from Des Moines, mixed in with the die A chronicled before. Three new ones have been received from Frederick with the little home-made surcharge, chronicled in our issue of October 23rd. While speaking of Frederick I might mention that through error the two size 9 listed in the October 23rd WEEKLY should have been with high backs instead of with low backs. Messrs. Smith and Bartlett have also found a few new ones in New York.

Mr. D. T. Sanders sends one of the new 1c on 2c provisional postal cards from Des Moines, Mr. H. D. Watkins one from Atlanta, while Mr. James Hays finds them on sale in Seattle. It may be of interest to our readers to know that most cities surcharging postal cards have overprinted both the first issue of 2c as well as the later redrawn card.

While we do not as a rule list pre-cancelled stamps, nevertheless Mr. F. F. Bott sends for inspection three such interesting varieties that we feel called upon to mention them. He has found on sale in Detroit the 6c, 16c and 24c aeroplane stamps with the Detroit cancellation. The 6c is in one type and reads up, while the others are in a different type and read down.

We wish to thank Dr. Alfred P. Lee as well as Messrs. E. J. Smyth, F. S. Wist and J. R. Cumbie for information and clippings.

ALLENSTEIN.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit copies of the 15pf violet brown Germania type stamp surcharged "Plebiscite Olsztyn Allenstein" in three lines and also the same value with the same overprint as the set described in issue No. 1543.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the current 1/2c stamp is being printed on paper watermarked Large Sun.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman advises us that the stamps issued in com-

Dealer Caught With Large Old U. S. Postage Stamp

Must Sacrifice to Realize on them at Above would be fine if true, but it is a dream for most dealers are caught a few good old U. S. to offer, and a waiting list of customers asking for st they can't supply.

Fortunately I am pretty well fixed most of the scarce ones, at present I supply Scott's Nos. 17, 28, 29, 34, 36, 44, 51, 52, 53, 54, 67 (all shades), 70, 72, 95, 99, 100, 101, all the '69 issue, all Columbian and Trans-Miss. issue and every thing of lesser value from 1847 to date.

I have them all in three grades, very good, ordinary; there is a big difference in price between ordinary and very fine state which kind you wish to see.

I still have a few of the rare 2c imp. surface print, Die 1, at $7.50 for a pair for a block. Very fine in every way. Get this when you can, only a few saved. Address

RESULT OF AEROPLANE FLIGHTS.

All 3 of the aeroplanes that started from Cristobal in the morning of October 6 to fly to Kingston, one with the intention of continuing to Washington, were forced by a severe storm over the Caribbean south of Jamaica to return to the Isthmus. The 2 naval planes, equipped with radio, were warned of the storm from Cristobal and returned after getting out about 200 miles. The army plane, piloted by Lieutenant Austin, with Washington as his final destination, was not equipped with radio and ran into the storm when about 400 miles out. The pilot attempted to drive through it, but trouble with his propeller compelled him to give it up, and he struck back for Cristobal, arriving there at approximately 4.20 p. m. He had been flying continuously for 10 hours and 25 minutes, and had traveled about 900 miles.

While the flights were unsuccessful in reaching the goal, they are considered successful in experiment. For several months the Naval Air Station has been securing and recording data on air currents and storms over this section, and the observations made are of value not only to aviation but to shipping.

Weather conditions at this season are not the most favorable for the flight to Kingston, and the effort to fly to the United States will be deferred; the naval aviators, however, expect shortly to make another attempt to reach Kingston.—Panama Canal Record.

STAMP COLLECTING AND GARDENING.

(Charles H. Miller sends us this clipping from "House and Garden" in which it appeared as an editorial. We suspect that it is from the pen of Mr. Teall, who from time to time has given philately notable publicity through the columns of this publication. Mr. Miller writes: "This magazine used last spring a splendid illustrated article on philately, and stamp collectors should thank the publishers for the splendid publicity that 'House and Garden' is giving our hobby."—W. O. W.)

Stamp collectors have many pleasant habits, but the pleasantest of all is their custom of writing to other stamp collectors.

The four stamp collectors in this office, for example. They are busy executives, burdened with responsibilities and constantly pushed for time. Each day big baskets of correspondence go out from their desks. And yet they tell me that quite their most enjoyable correspondence is written to brother stamp collectors in foreign lands.

One of them has been in communication with a Belgian philatelist for ten years. During the war the letters stopped. Now they are coming again, for Belgium is already sufficiently recovered to allow her tired business men to take up the relaxation of their stamp albums. Another correspondent lived in Kiev, and letters came through regularly, bearing their tales of personal experiences and stamp ventures, until the Bolsheviks laid low that fair mother of towns. A third is a planter in South America. There were others in Germany, for the Germans are great philatelists, and some in France.

Think what this means, this welding of a bond of a common hobby. For a common hobby forms a more dependable bond than can any amount of commerce. Commerce presupposes competition and competition raised to its highest degree means war. But the things that bring contentment and innocent pleasure, that delight the eye and quicken the brain to fine and far-flung imaginings, these things create a camaraderie not easily forgotten or readily shattered.

There is also the flavor of romance and adventure about gifts from overseas, even about humble, everyday postage stamps. Though their intrinsic value be small, one prizes them above others because of the spirit that prompted their being sent and the distance they have traveled.

Of course, not all stamp collectors ride their hobby this far afield. Some are content to buy and exchange duplicates with neighbors, and let it go at that. But the mark of the real devotee, the finished, the complete, the hardened philatelist is his foreign correspondence. And, as the enthusiast above has said, it is the pleasantest part of stamp collecting.

Garden lovers could well learn a lesson from the philatelist. They could, by correspondence with garden enthusiasts in other countries, make their gentle art much more of an international affair than it is.

All gardens today are more or less international. Scarcely a country under the sun but finds its representative in the perennial border, the rockery, the bog garden or the pool. The hollyhock brings a message from China, the anemone speaks of Japan. The long spurred columbine represents the Rockies and the vulgaris types Siberia. Transylvania has given us the bellflower and Armenia the star thistle. The Peruvian lily comes up the continent to us and the yellow day lily travels from the far-off Amur Valley. Hot Asia Minor is represented by one kind of poppy and the arctic regions by another. Thus every complete garden has come to be a map of the world blossoming in color and varied foliage.

This map could be made more interesting, more of a personal reality, if garden lovers corresponded with others in those countries from which these plants have come. There would be several desirable results. First to the plants themselves. As we have them today, foreign plants are usually hybridized a long distance from the original. Nurserymen have been so anxious to satisfy the American desire for novelties that much of the old, simple, native beauty of the original flowers has gone. The lily has been gilded out of all recognition, and many of our boasted double varieties cannot compare in simple loveliness with the original specimens. Letters from gardeners overseas would bring in their quota of precious seeds harvested in other hands. The next year those plants would furnish a vast amount of interest, enjoyment and study to the amateur here and, in many cases, would give him the old strain so much desired.

We are compelled to decline stamps as remittances on amounts over 50c and urge dealers to make the same rule with their patrons. A dollar bill should be used when possible and any small amount remaining can be enclosed in stamps. Checks or money orders should be used on all remittances of $2 or over.

PHILATELIC SMILES.

By SMITH C. MCGREGOR.

ONE INTERPRETATION.

"Consider the postage stamp," shouted the lecturer. "It sticks to one thing —" "And gets a black eye for doing it," interrupted the hoarse voice from the gallery.

TOO QUARRELSOME.

Dealer: "Where were you employed last?"

Clerk: "Woozle and Wuff. I left because they were too quarrelsome."

Dealer: "Too quarrelsome?"

Clerk: "Yes, quarreling all the time. If it wasn't me and Woozle, then it was me and Wuff."

WHY HE STOPPED.

Square: "I hear Shorty has stopped collecting."

Hedde: "Yes. His flivver stalled on the track just ahead of the express."

TAKING NO CHANCES.

Absent-minded Specialist (entering drug store by mistake): "I want a packet of Jamaica waterfalls."

Clerk (looking wise): "Sorry, but there's too many enforcement agents around."

HIGH SPEED.

Mrs. Dugan: "My son, Jack, has an airplane stamp that came from Chicago in two hours."

Mrs. Riley: "That's nothing. I got a telegram from San Francisco the other day, and the envelope wasn't sealed fast yet."

ONE ENOUGH FOR HIM.

The meek looking man approached the clerk and whispered: "I want a packet of mixed stamps, but be sure there are no phonographs pictured on any of them."

"That is rather unusual," remarked the clerk.

"Not at all," answered the meek one. "I married one."

A MATTER OF COLOR.

Willie was looking at the 1910 Gabon issue, and suddenly burst into tears.

"What's the matter?" asked his mother.

"Oh-h-h," sobbed Willie, "if my face was that color you wouldn't know when I needed washing."—Roessler's Stamp News.

ALEXANDER'S MATCHES.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

T. H. Alexander & Co.
Orange—1c—Blue.

Regarding the first Alexander match stamp the Boston Book states:—(1), that the firm name was T. H. Alexander & Co. and the business was located at Covington, Kentucky; (2), that this concern ordered no stamps after November, 1866, and on May 7, 1867, Mr.
Alexander wrote to Butler & Carpenter from Baltimore, Maryland, offering the die for sale; (3), that in 1868 the die was sold to J. J. Macklin, also of Covington, Kentucky, and he received stamps from it from May, 1868, to July, 1869, inclusive; (4), that from that date until March, 1874, no stamps printed from the plate were delivered. The present writer is unable to find any trace of the Alexander firm in Covington and has been informed by a son of J. J. Macklin, who was associated with his father in the match business, that he had never heard of Alexander, or any match factory other than his father's in Covington, or in the vicinity.
Across the Ohio River in Cincinnati
the city directories make no mention of Alexander.

Referring to the directories of Baltimore, however, we find Thomas H.
Alexander listed there in 1864 as a government employee and in 1865-67 the match factory of T. H. Alexander &
Co. is listed at 8 Saratoga St. Mr. F.
H. Eastman was in partnership with
Mr. Alexander at least part of the time.
The 1871 directory does not list Mr.
Eastman, and Mr. Alexander appears therein as a salesman. The firm is not listed after 1867.

Possibly Alexander went from Baltimore to Covington in 1864, and while operating a factory there ordered the first stamps, which, of course, were sent to Covington, and the factory was moved to Baltimore in 1865, having been in operation in Covington too short a time to become listed in the Covington or Cincinnati directories. The writer is informed by a philatelist who formerly lived in Louisville that while living there the latter became acquainted with a man who knew both Macklin and

Alexander and had worked in the Alexander match factory in Covington.
There appears no connection between Macklin and Alexander altho perhaps they were acquainted in Baltimore.
Macklin made matches in Baltimore about 1860 and went from there to Covington.

The Alexander stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size. A central oval contains a rooster facing to the right with "Alexander's" following the inner curve of the oval above him and "Matches" similarly below. A five-pointed colorless star occupies a square of color in each corner of the stamp and between these corner squares are straight marginal labels inscribed "One Cent" at top, "1 Cent 1" at bottom, "U.
S. Inter." at left, and "Revenue" at right. A double triangular ornament fills in each of the four triangular spaces between the central oval and the marginal labels. A curious fact about this design is that Macklin had been using the likeness of a rooster as a trademark in Cincinnati and Covington as early as 1861, and his own private die stamp issued a few years later bore a similar device. According to his son, Macklin had the rooster copyrighted
for his sole use as a trademark.

The Boston Book gives the following data regarding the orange stamp:—

Die approved, July 30, 1864.
First issued, August, 1864.
Last issued, July, 1875.
8,329,200 issued on old paper.
2,343,500 issued on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The Alexander die was engraved by Butler & Carpenter in Philadelphia and all of the orange stamps were printed there by that concern. The later printings on old paper were used by J. J.
Macklin in Covington, but so far as the writer knows they cannot be identified from the earlier printings used by the Alexander firm. This adhesive is one of the few match stamps printed in orange, and altho many of the copies now in existence are oxidized, their original color can readily be restored, and when so restored each one is indeed
a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

are entirely unperforated at top and sides and vertically between.

1906-07, Sower 5c (Scott's No. 134) double pane of 25 each (equals 50 stamps) with Plate No. 9 and margins on 3 sides, very rare and interesting error, one vertical row of 5 stamps in the left pane have entirely missed printing and the spaces are quite plain. Part of each of the 2 rows at right and left are also partly printed only.

Particulars of these rare pieces will be sent on request to serious amateurs.
I have a fine stock of other French

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

old paper have never been scarce and even the really perfect copies are not often obtainable, still, they are not in the impossible class. This charming adhesive has done its full share to make and keep the collecting of private die U. S. revenues reasonably popular.

England & Bell.

Orange—1c—Blue.

This firm was composed of Jos. H. England and Henry C. Bell and is listed at 282-284 West St., in the Baltimore directory for 1875 only. It appears to have succeeded to the match business previously owned by Weedon, Armistead & Co., which was then known as the Maryland Match Co. Jos. H. England is listed in the directory for 1874 as gen'l manager of the Episcopal register, in the 1876 directory without occupation, and not at all after 1876. Henry C. Bell was a partner in the Maryland Match Co. from 1872 to 1874 and is listed as a box manufacturer in 1874, which is the last year the firm of Weedon, Armistead & Co., or the Maryland Match Co. appears. Mr. Bell is listed without occupation in 1876 and not at all thereafter. The firm of England & Bell was in existence less than two years, and it is of interest to note that the Swift & Courtney & Beecher Co. first appears in the Baltimore directories in 1877—not many years after England & Bell had gone out of the match business.

Referring to the England & Bell stamps, the Boston Book states that under date of March 5, 1874, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Mr. J. W. Douglass, wrote Mr. Carpenter as follows:

"I have to inform you that the private die of T. H. Alexander has this day been transferred upon the books of this office to Messrs. England & Bell of Baltimore, Md. The necessary change will be ordered at once, but until such change is made, stamps from the present die will be furnished. An order will probably reach you on Saturday next, and as the parties desire their stamps at once, I will thank you to be prepared to fill the requisition on its receipt.

"The necessary change spoken of above was never made but England & Bell received stamps from the original plate from March, 1874, until December, 1875, when it passed into the possession of J. W. Eisenhart."

On May 15, 1875, England & Bell wrote Mr. Carpenter as follows: "We find that the color you use in printing our stamps (red) undergoes so great a change by the chemical action of our phosphorus as to turn them to a dirty brown. Would it be putting you to too great trouble to ask you to change our color to a blue which, like drug paper, undergoes no change whatever."

Mr. Carpenter's reply was to the effect that, after exhausting the balance of the orange stamps then on hand, he would furnish them in blue, which was done.

Now, by referring to the dates of issue of the various printings, it is clear that all of the 2,343,500 Alexander stamps in orange on silk paper were used in Baltimore by England & Bell, but he record of the blue "Alexander's" is not so clear because the statements in the Boston Book indicate that England & Bell received blue stamps after August, 1875, until December of that year, and this does not agree with other data given regarding the blue stamp, which is:—

First issued, July, 1875.

Last issued, August, 1875.

198,000 issued on silk paper.

The list of private die stamps turned over to the government by Mr. Carpenter at the expiration of his contract August 31, 1875, does not mention any "Alexander's", and if England & Bell received any stamps after August 31, 1875, such issue must have come from a printing by the National Bank Note Co. It is possible, but exceedingly unlikely, that there was a printing by the National Co. in orange from the Alexander plate but no National prints in either orange or blue from that plate are known to exist. Probably the blue stamp was last issued in August, 1875, and the total issue did not exceed 198,100 stamps—about 943 sheets. It is and always has been far too rare for us to credit a larger issue.

The orange stamp used by England & Bell is five to ten times as scarce as the Alexander on old paper and copies in better than ordinary condition are difficult to find. The blue color is fully as rare as the catalog quotation indicates, and most stamp collectors have a better chance of obtaining a million dollars than of capturing a perfect specimen of this rarity. Many of the blue stamps came from a small lot stated to have numbered seven copies, which was found in Baltimore by an old-time dealer who was located in Washington at the time. These seven were all somewhat damaged and the writer has not been able to locate more than seven or eight other copies. Of the entire known supply only two or three are without defects and some of the others are so poor they would not be rated even "fair" if good specimens were at all plentiful. In the past five years several ordinary copies have changed hands at $25 to $40 each. The following catalog quotations on the two varieties used by England & Bell may be of interest:—

	Orange.	Blue.
1888 Sterling25	$25.00
1895 Scott25	30.00
1896 Scott30	30.00
1898 Scott30	40.00
1900 Scott50	50.00
1903 Scott	1.50	50.00
1906 Scott	2.00	50.00
1910-20 Scott	2.00	60.00

None of the stamps bearing Alexander's name are known to have been used in multiple, and if any pairs or blocks exist they have not been noted.

J. W. Eisenhart.

In regard to the last stamp printed in the design originally used by T. H. Alexander & Co. the Boston Book States:—

Die approved, Dec. 13, 1875.

First issued, January, 1876.

Last issued, May 16, 1881.

210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

9,046,000 issued on silk, pink and water-marked paper.

This stamp might readily be mistaken for the rare blue Alexander's, as the only difference is the change of name at the top of the central oval. It now reads "J. W. Eisenhart's". For many years the place where it was used was not generally known and the present writer has some recollection that at one time it was credited to Baltimore. Perhaps it was first used in that Maryland city, but such evidence as is available indicates that the entire issue was used where most of the stamps certainly were used—in York, Pennsylvania.

John W. Eisenhart lived in York for more than thirty years and in the York directory for 1877 the firm of J. W. Eisenhart & Co., match manufacturers, is listed, the address being on Queen Street near the railroad. About 1881 Mr. Eisenhart sold the match factory to the Diamond Match Co. who paid what was then considered to be a very generous price, and the York factory was closed to eliminate its competition. Apparently Mr. Eisenhart was not interested in a later enterprise called the

CLOSER RELATIONS NEEDED.
By L. H. B.
The old adage of "There's two sides to every story" holds true even in philately.

Chapter I.
Much missionary work has been done, especially by MEKEEL'S, in behalf of the dealers on such matters as the payment of return postage by collectors on small orders and bargain offers, the prompt return of approval selections, etc.
Very good, this is only fair to the dealers and is their due, but why not let the dealer set an example of fair dealing by using the collector in the same manner?

The writer has made purchases from over 40 dealers in the past two months, many of the orders sent being taken from current ads in MEKEEL'S: Some of the dealers—not all—on not being able to fill an order complete, have instead of making a refund, issued a so-called "credit slip," this is to be used as part payment "on your next order".
If we should send someone to the store for a pound of pork and a pint of beans and give them a dollar to pay for the goods, would we thank the grocer to send back word that he was entirely out of beans but was keeping the change, "which he would credit on our next purchase"?

No, we'd expect our money back. We might never have occasion to make a second purchase at this store and would be still less likely to after such treatment, but we would demand our money back.

Generally speaking, a person wants what he asks for and if he can't get it, expects the return of his money. Should we be obliged to make a second trip to the store for this money, or be obliged to write the dealer a letter requesting the return of it? A collector's time and postage mean as much to him as does the dealer's.

Play fair, dealers!

Chapter II.
Hinges! What a lot has been said on the subject of hinges. Dealers advertise a hinge more than any other philatelic accessory. The stamp collecting public is educated to the advisability of using nothing but the highest grade of "peelable, tapioca gummed, transparent, thin paper hinges", etc.

Write for a dozen selections of stamps on approval from as many dealers selected at random from any philatelic periodical and you will find some dealers using anything but "thin peelable" hinges. The writer has been receiving selections from dealers who use common heavy white semi-glue coated paper several times the thickness of the stamp itself. Endeavor to remove this "hinge" and you take half of the back of the stamp with it. One dealer which the writer has in mind advertises on the flaps of his envelopes "American Hinges".

What kind of an opinion from an experience of this nature would the boy collector form of the "American Hinge"? He would perhaps not yet know the difference and would naturally consider the dealer "practised what he preached", or rather used what he advertised.

Chapter III.
The proper mounting of stamps sent out on approval is also one of the biggest factors in recommending a dealer and his stamps to the trade.

How many of us have met with the sad experience of finding the entire top, or at least a corner of an A1 perfectly centered mint copy, stuck down on the sheet as tight as the hinge itself that is supposed to fasten it there? Be as careful as one may in trying to remove a stamp in this "fix", it can seldom be done without scraping the gum or stamp and it is then "good-bye perfect mint copy." To be sure, the dealer himself may not personally be responsible for these short-comings, but his clerks are, and it is to him that they are responsible.

Chapter IV.
"Please handle with care and keep this sheet clean". Ever see that plastered all over an approval selection? Sure, we all have.

Did you ever receive a mounted selection of approvals that had the appearance of an Indiana cyclone having recently traveled over them; stamps soiled or in bad condition; others "squ-geeged" to the right, some to the left; mounted high in this space, low in the next one; half of one lapping over into its neighbor's space; crossed out values; figures made over—what's the use, we've all witnessed this blight on philately countless times.

Neatness in stamp collecting has the greatest appeal of any of the eleven virtues. Neatness displayed in and by others can cultivate it in those of us who have not yet acquired the habit.

Take the boy collector again. We all started with the little note book for an album filled with pages that were covered with grimy finger marks from soiled hands, the stamps glued or pasted down tight in grand disarray with absolutely no semblance of order or arrangement. Then came the first neat, clean selection from the dealer who took as much pride in the appearance of his "penny" sheets as I did in his higher priced ones. Didn't this lot of stamps wake us up and cause us to look somewhat with questioning and disgust upon our own little collection which prior to this we "found no fault in".

Example, we are told, is the greatest teacher of all to the young. The slogan nowadays is "We need more teachers". This is true not alone in the public schools but also in the great ever-widening field of philately.

Let us have a closer and more friendly relationship between collector and dealer and still more important, better—cleaner—stamps to pass on to others.

EDITORIAL.

Where—One of the questions commonly asked of stamp dealers by outsiders is: Where do you get your stamps? It is a companion query to the one that is propounded to collectors: What do you do with the stamps after you get them? The dealer usually has his stereotyped answers to the question which he delivers with more or less enthusiasm and with varying effect on the inquirer. This observation is suggested by a paragraph or two in the "Introduction" of Stanley Gibbons' Priced Catalogue of the Stamps of the British Empire, recently issued. We quote: "Now, in order to make profits, we must have the goods to sell. There are more buyers than ever, but each year it becomes increasingly difficult to find stamps for our clients. In the last twelve months our Mr. Charles J. Phillips made no less than three journeys to the United States to purchase stocks, and, to a great extent, he cleared out the New York dealers and others of the more desirable stamps of the British Empire, and also in the older European issues.....But we see very clearly that the great increase in the number of collectors has caused the demand for stamps to largely exceed the supply, and as this seems likely to continue, we cannot help but think that the better and sounder groups of stamps—such as the older issues of the British Empire, the issues of the United States up to 1890, and all the earlier issues of the European countries—are as sound an investment as anyone could wish to have." On this score and on that of recent auction prices at London and Paris, a somewhat general advance is made in prices, and moreover, the cataloguers reserve the right "to raise or lower" the prices without further notice.

Sources—As comment on the foregoing paragraph, we may say that the question of stocking the old issues, generally, will soon be one that cannot be answered idly. The truth is that the supply of old stamps is dwindling and the demand increasing. These conditions are unrelenting and it is axiomatic that price changes follow. The visible number of the old issues is shrinking—"the shrinkage of rarities," as Mr. Castle had it—and the additions through "finds" are becoming scarcer. The fact is that the enterprise of stamp hunters has pretty well tapped the reservoirs and great finds or wind-falls are now halting, at best. We have just heard of a professional stamp hunter, as we are justified in calling him, as having said that on his last quest he was somewhat dismayed to notice on several occasions that other stamp searchers had bested him in running down the quarry in places remote and unsuspected. He said that where once he could anticipate with certainty some reward for his expenditure of time and money, he now found that it was a case of hit or miss, with emphasis on the miss. If old stamps are increasing in value, the collector when he sells will get some of the larger price that dealers have to pay for such stamps.

Champion—One of our readers writes us every now and then, in mild protest against what he calls the undue prominence given the new stamps over the "faithful old stamps." He professes to see a partiality for the newcomers and insists that out of fairness we should not exalt them over the time-tried stamps. While we can understand the

World War Wonder Packets

Look it over carefully, and if you are not entirely pleased with it and well satisfied with the contents and the condition of the stamps, return it at once and get every penny of your remittance returned immediately.

500 All Different World War and New Europe Stamps

Every stamp a World War or New European issue. We made just fifty of these packets, all alike, and we know that this advertisement would sell double that number if collectors could see the packet. Our offer gives you an opportunity to see the packet for we will refund your remittance in full if you return the packet and request your money back. We know that no such value has ever been offered collectors before and we do not believe that we shall receive a single request for refund of money. For the collector or small dealer this is the biggest bargain that has been offered in the WEEKLY for many months. Recent offers of packets of War issues have quoted prices of $12 for 250 diff. and $47.50 for 500 Different. Our money back offer protects you and guarantees satisfaction.

HERE IS WHAT THE PACKET CONTAINS

8 Allenstein	1 Cilicio	59 Hungary	9 Sarre
3 Albania	38 Czecho Slav.	2 Jamaica	6 Schleswig
87 Austria	8 Danzig	9 Jugo Slav	6 Turkey
58 Bavaria	7 Esthonia	13 Latvija	16 Upper Silesia
14 Belgium	9 East Silesia	1 Malta	4 Wallis & Futuna
9 Bosnia	6 Finland	3 New Zealand	5 Ukraina
8 Bulgaria	10 Flume	31 Poland	5 West Ukraina
4 Ceylon	1 France	7 Roumania	12 Wurtemberg
2 Canada	22 Germany	15 Russia	500 All Different.

PRICE TEN DOLLARS

A total of 500 all different stamps. You can see that we have not loaded the packet with a mess of undesirables. In the packet are 383 unused stamps, 117 used stamps. A total of 199 stamps are unpriced in last Scott Catalog while the other 301 stamps carry a total catalogue price in Last Scott of $46.53. On this basis of over 15c per stamp catalog value, the 500 varieties would list over $75.00 Catalog value.

We have made just 50 of the packets, all alike and your money back at once if not satisfied. Get your order in quick if you want one of these.

George W. LINN Company, Columbus, Ohio

feeling of our critic, yet we know that his position is one that the facts do not uphold. We are partizans of all stamps and have no wish to slight any legitimate issues whatever. Naturally, the new issues have a timely interest and their appearance is deserving of notice. They must be recorded with all the information concerning them that is available. In their day, the old issues were news features and all attention was given them. When it is admitted that many of the early stamps have ascended in price as to be beyond the reach of the majority of the average collectors, it is natural and necessary that they turn their attention to the later stamps; and of these issues the buyers want all the details obtainable. It cannot be said that if attention is called to the desirability of collecting new issues on the score of profit possibilities that silence has been maintained on the subject of increased values of the old ones. We believe that collectors should esteem all stamps of fair origin and collect what appeals to them most without trying to influence others who pursue another course. The diversity of collecting ideas is a factor of strength in collecting and in a commercial sense, it makes a wide market. This market is an important requirement in collecting as once that a collector is convinced of the stability and firmness of the stamp market, he feels that it is consistent to buy with a degree of liberality, with faith in his investment.

Subtle—In Vogue, that advanced periodical that is consulted by so many clever women in particular we find an article, "The Importance of Trifles," combining philosophy and psychology with a trace of philately. Lis'en: "We take a certain satisfaction in getting our neighbor in a tight place, in ridiculing his especial weakness, in tripping up his pet vanity. And he resents it exceedingly. He might possibly bear with a certain stoicism our murdering his sainted mother or eloping with his amiably disposed wife. But the mortal and moral existences of these ladies do not excite us to the pitch of frenzy, and his pompous assumption of being the only man in the world who knows anything about pictures, or pigs, or postage stamps, does." Our experience with the real thing in advanced philately is that he almost is a modest violet in a secluded dell. Probably, his idea is that he who knows little and knows it, knows much. He would be the first to agree that he did not know everything about stamps or that he was not the only man in the world that knew anything about them. Philately teaches humility it must be or as the Old Testament has it: "He that hath knowledge spareth his words."

Fairs—We are pleased to receive announcements that prizes were offered at different county fairs for stamp collections submitted for competition. It is hoped that soon the stamp display will be regarded as a standard attraction. Too, state fairs are not going to ignore philately in their programmes if the example of the Texas State Fair is copied. From the Collectors' Gazette we learn approval selections contain medium grade and rare U. S. postage, revenue and foreign stamps priced reasonably, and are sent to really truly collectors who ask for them and submit satisfactory references. Almost any responsible collector willing to part with $5 or more at a time can receive these selections. I would gladly accept business in smaller units from good fellows who cannot afford to invest so much at a time if I could do so profitably. Just to help me serve you well; what stamps are you seeking?

U. S. $2 ERROR OF COLOR.

Yes, that $2.00 carmine and black is an error, for the P. O. Dept. state that they have not authorized any change in color. This is not a shade variety but is distinctly a carmine rose instead of an orange. The pressman in the Bureau probably had his inks mixed. Those belonging to my U. S. New Issue Service received this variety at the regular rate before others knew that it really existed. Just an illustration why you should join, if you want all of the unusual things.

For those not belonging I offer a limited number in mint condition at $2.75 each. Blocks at the same rate. I reserve the right to increase this price after fifty copies have been sold. Talk quickly, however, and you will not be disappointed. Fortunately, the stamps are fine and well centered.

A block of 12 showing the red and the black plate number at top with the top arrow, at $34. A center line block of four, at $12.

A check for $25 will start your subscription to my new issue block service and if you collect U. S. stamps in this shape you cannot afford to do without the service. You get picked copies of all the new things as issued at a uniform rate over face value. Send for a bulletin.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In my chronicle of last week I mentioned the discovery of the current $2.00 stamp in a distinct carmine rose and black instead of the former orange and black. These stamps are printed in sheets of 100, the same as the aeroplane stamps, and while they have margins on all four sides when they are printed, two margins are trimmed so that they may be packed in the standard size of package. As far as I know the left and the bottom margin are always cut off, although this might not always be the case. It was, however, the case in the sheet of these stamps which I had, and as the orange varieties were the same, I naturally assume that they are always trimmed in this manner.

I now learn from the Post Office Department that a change in color has not been authorized, consequently it must rank as an error. I have seen an entire mint sheet and it has been inspected by a number of others and there is not the slightest doubt in the minds of any of us that this is a distinct color and that it positively is not a changeling or shade variety. The carmine seems to be an aniline ink that gives it a pink back appearance similar to the pink back stamps that we had during the shortage of inks at the Bureau.

I have submitted copies of the stamp to the department for their inspection and will advise as to their findings later. These stamps had been in the post office since last summer, so that I imagine they were printed during the early part of the year.

In my recent notes I mentioned a new type, or rather subtype, of the 2c surface print, perforated 11, unwatermarked. At the same time I stated that I imagined that all plates from a certain number on would be of this type. Several have called my attention to the fact that this is not the case. Only certain plates are of this variety, and it will take a detailed study of the records of the Bureau in order to ascertain which is which.

Dr. William L. LeCron has sent us the first of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes on colored paper that have come to our notice from Milwaukee, while Mr. George P. Smith has located a couple new varieties from Columbus. Washington has been surcharging most of these envelopes for the surrounding territory, and Mr. F. F. Smith sends me a variety on sale in Cumberland, Maryland, with the fourth Washington overprint I understand that Kansas City, Mo., has started to surcharge, and it is hoped that we will be in a position to give a list of those overprinted very shortly.

Our readers will be interested in knowing that at the time these notes are written that the Pilgrim stamps have not as yet been placed on sale. It is expected that they will be issued towards the end of November. Quite a number of collectors have written to ask where these stamps would be sold. They will be on sale in all of the post offices, the same as any of the other commemorative issues.

We wish to thank Messrs. E. H. Dunseth, T. H. Goodspeed, A. S. Taylor, S. E. Knox and A. W. Filstrup for information of interest.

ALBANIA.—We are indebted to Mr. Henry J. Perry for the copy of the 25q stamp of new design at hand. In the centre is the rather crude picture of Scanderbeg or George Kastriot, the national hero of the country, and on each side is the Albanian eagle. At the top is "Poste Shoyptare" in a curved frame, while at the base is a peculiar surcharge and a cancellation of the lower word in the label. The color is blue green.

BULGARIA.—The Minister of Finances has given an order to Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. for a complete new series of postage stamps, in ten denominations from 10 centimes to 10 leva. Three of these values, 25c, 1 and 10 leva, will bear a portrait of King Boris, the others will depict views of Bulgarian scenery. The new stamps are expected to be issued early in 1921. The number to be printed is 140,500,000, so there will be enough to go round!—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

HAUTE-VOLTA.—The stamps designed for this new French Colony have yet to see the light, but will undoubtedly materialize in due course. The Colony has been formed out of the territory of Mossi and Lobi, places north of Dahomey and the Ivory Coast, with its capital at Ougadougou.—Stamp Collecting.

JAPAN.—Mr. L. J. Ragatz calls our attention to the post mark commemorating the 8th world's Sunday School Conference which opened in Tokio late in September.

LATVIA.—New stamps of 10, 20 and 30 roubles being required in consequence of an increase in the postal rates, the 1 rouble Jubilee stamps have been overprinted with these denominations, but in order to prevent the forging of overprints, the surcharged stamps are not sold to the public, but affixed to letters handed over the Post Office counter for posting.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. Frank F. Willis calls our attention to the appearance of the figure "2" on the right margin of the new printing of the 2c Caribou and is of the opinion that it probably refers to the second printing.

POLAND.—Owing to the low rate of exchange the postal rates have been considerably increased so that stamps of low denominations are not now required, therefore the stamps of 3, 5, 10, 15 and 20 fennig have been withdrawn from use and the lowest value now current is that of 25 fennig.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

ROUMANIA.—Mr. Felix Gruen, of Bucharest, forwards to the Philatelic Magazine a copy of the 50 bani in the Carol head type, which was re-issued in February last, and has now been suppressed. Only 200,000 copies are said to have been printed. The stamp is very indistinctly printed in pale rose upon almost pelure paper.—Stamp Collecting.

MAIL PAID BY METERS.

"Metered mail" is to be the next novelty in the rapidly developing postal system of the country. It has received the indorsement of congress and the post office department and is scheduled to make its appearance within the next two months.

Metered mail will be sealed, stamped and canceled by the individual owner of a meter. The mail then will be taken to the post office and placed immediately upon an outgoing train without necessity of remaining in the post office until handled in routine fashion.

Metered mail is provided for in a rider on an agricultural bill passed at the last session of congress. This rider grants to first class mail matter the registered permit privileges now enjoyed by second class mail. Instead of being required to stamp each letter a firm now will have the privilege of obtaining a mailing permit, thus expediting its mail.

Under the post office plan, which soon will be in effect, firms will be able to lease postal matters, that have been authorized for use by the postal authorities. The local post office authorities will register the meter and will issue a permit number to the firm.

The meter will be a rather heavy metallic box, about the size of a lunch box.
It will have two small doors which will be locked by the postal authorities and securely sealed. A firm will take the meter to the post office and buy a desired amount of postage. The postal authorities will adjust the meter so that it will stamp and cancel just so many letters and no more. The numbers of letters for which advance postage has been paid will be automatically registered on the lower of the two doors and the postal authorities will keep a record of the amount of postage sold to each meter owner, so that an absolute check may be kept.

The firm will keep the meter at its offices except when it is necessary to buy more postage. The meter will be operated by a small electric motor. The letters will be fed into the meter in batches and will be sealed, stamped and canceled at the rate of 250 a minute.
As the letters are handled the meter will automatically record the number of canceled letters on the upper door. The user will adjust the mechanism of the meter so that the time stamped on the letters will be one hour in advance of the time of delivery of the letters at the post office.

The meter, it is expected, will prove of great value to large mailers. In addition to saving time and labor, the meter will enable large firms to expedite their mail by at least several hours.
The meters will protect firms from loss of stamps through thefts or carelessness and will also give a mark of distinction to the firm's mail, all of which will bear a private permit number, a mark of big business. The metering of the mail also will lighten the work at post offices and will lessen the number of postage stamps needed, thereby making it possible to reduce government forces and expenses considerably.

Metered mail will not bear regular postage stamps, but merely a permit number.—Washington Herald.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—H. Tasker, who has resumed his advertising in the WEEKLY, after an extended vacation, informs us that he has taken over the stamp business of Joseph Chandler of Brooklyn. We hope Mr. Tasker will find that the WEEKLY has lost none of its virility
during his absence from our columns.

—The Stamp Trio is the name of a publication issued by Sears, Naschke and Hyde, presenting the merits of the wares of these three dealers. No. 3 is before us and it has sufficient news matter to make it worthy of perusal by every stamp collector. A sample copy no doubt on request, A. A. Hyde, Sherman, Tex.

—A 1920-21 pricelist has just been issued by the Fennell Stamp Co. and a fine line of stamp packets, albums and accessories is listed. The company sends us a press clipping announcing the issue of a set of new Spanish stamps for the use of the Spanish delegates to the International Postal Congress.

—"After over a year's advg. in the WEEKLY I have awakened to the fact that it is the finest medium in the field today. In direct results it is undoubtedly without a peer. Speaking from actual experience I can say that all of my ads have actually paid big in direct orders.
If other dealers have been as fortunate as the writer, then philately is indeed smiling on them."—HARRY IOR.

—The Ashley County Leader (Hamburg, Ark.) in a recent number published a clipping from the WEEKLY giving the particulars of the new Pilgrim stamps soon to be issued. The editor offers the boys of Hamburg a chance at 50c given for the first copy used or unused that reaches the Leader office. Clipping from E. W. Murray.

—We have received a clipping from the Dallas, Tex., News of October 12 giving the particulars of a collection of curios, etc. exhibited recently at the Texas State Fair. The News in describing the various features makes special mention of an exhibit by Mrs.
Max Casper consisting of a butterfly mounted under glass, and made from stamps of the United States. The colors are cleverly interwoven and the heads pictured on the stamps are ingeniously used to carry out realistically the butterfly markings. The significance of the use of the butterfly may be found in the fact that Mrs. Casper's name is Thekla, meaning "butterfly".

AERIAL MAIL NOTES AND NEWS.
Copenhagen-London Air Line.—The first aeroplane taking mails and passen- gers from Copenhagen to London left the Danish capital in splendid weather at 10 o'clock on the morning of Septem- ber 17th. Before the start Count Eigil Knuth, President of the Danish Aerial Navigation Company, made a speech dwelling on the importance of the occa- sion. While he was speaking a seaplane arrived from Malmö with the mails from Norway and Sweden, and shortly after- wards Prince Axel, son of Prince Wal- demar of Denmark, came on to the ground with the sealed bag of mail for Great Britain.
Starting from September 17th, a ma- chine will go each way daily. The route followed is Copenhagen-Hamburg-Am- sterдам-London (610 miles), so that, including the Norwegian and Swedish mail connexion, no fewer than six coun- tries are united by this service—namely, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Holland, and England.
Five air transport firms—British, Dan- ish, Dutch and German—are co-operat- ing in the service, and two others (Swed- ish and German) are assisting in the linking up of a network of air lines that will shortly spread over the whole of north-western Europe, including Norway and Sweden.
Passengers for Copenhagen will leave Croydon or Cricklewood aerodromes. Special provisional aerial postage stamps have been issued in Sweden and were chronicled in our issue of Oct. 2nd.
Banks Air Post.—A new daily air service between Croydon and Paris, de- signed to ensure for bankers the quick carriage and exchange of their securities, was started on Monday, Sept. 13th, by the Air Post of Banks, Ltd., with a Westland limousine machine piloted by Mr. F. C. Courtney, the winner of the Aerial Derby.
Carrying Foreign Office dispatches and one passenger, the Handley Page aero- plane D.H.9, which left Cricklewood on the morning of Sunday, Sept. 12th, ar- rived at Vienna on Monday morning, and is proceeding to Bucharest, a total flight of over 1,500 miles.
Mails in Bulk.—Mr. Harry Harper (Technical Secretary of the Civil Aerial are expected which may increase the postage between this country and the Continent from 2½d a letter to 5d lends special emphasis to the demand upon the Post Office that—the aeroplane having proved itself reliable—they should now send mails in bulk by air. It is understood that the first-class mail matter from London to Paris represents a load of something like 800 lb. to 1,000 lb. a day. Take it at 800 lb. If this load were put into the air at the rate now quoted for goods in bulk—i.e. 1s 3d a pound—and reckoning, as postal experts do, that thirty-five letters go to the pound, this makes the charge for air transport less than ½d a letter. This being so, one may assume our postal authorities should now be able to put the first-class mails from London to Paris into an aeroplane each day and cover the cost of air dispatch and routine handling on land out of the existing 2½d fee. They would save the cost of boat and train, and even after paying for aeroplane transport at 100 miles an hour—with all the saving of time to the public, and encouragement to the air transport industry, which would accrue—they would still have a spare 2d a letter for motor connexions between aerodromes and cities and postal collections and deliveries."

They Must Advertise!—"Modern Transport" (July 10th) says: "Messrs. Handley Page are to be congratulated on obtaining the air mail contracts to Amsterdam and Brussels, and it is to be hoped that the public will show their appreciation by patronizing the services. It is surprising how little notice has been taken of the announcement of the new postage rates. We have stated previously that not one person in ten knows anything at all about the air mails. Unless either Messrs. Handley Page or the general Post Office take steps to advertise the new services these will be even less known, despite the fact that the postage fee has been reduced to sensible proportions."

Saving Time and Money.—On the original air mail service to Paris a total fee of 2s 8½d per letter of one ounce or less was imposed. Later this was reduced to 2s 2½d, both charges including the normal fee of 2½d. Then Messrs. Handley Page, having secured the contracts for the carriage of air mails to Holland and Belgium, reduced the fee to Amsterdam to 5½d, and that to Brussels to 4½d, or only 3d and 2d respectively in excess of the fee for letters carried by boat or rail. The saving in time over these routes is very much greater than the saving on the Paris route.

New London and Brussels Service.—Handley Page Transport, Ltd., of Crickelewood, have secured the contract for the conveyance of mails by air between London and Brussels. The postal rates are less than those for the new Royal mail service to Holland. Having secured the two new Continental mail services, the directors announced an immediate reduction in the rates of freight already published for parcels and merchandise to be carried between London and Holland and vice versa. The reduced rates are as follows: Up to 10 lb., 2s per lb.; 10 lb. to 30 lb., 1s 9d per lb.; 30 lb. to 100 lb., 1s 6d per lb.; over 100 lb., 1s 3d per lb.; minimum, 5s. The service started on July 19th.—Stamp Collecting.

NEW YORK-HAVANA AIR MAIL.

We have visible evidence of a successful air mail trip between New York and Havana, and the particulars are at hand from Jos. A. Steinmetz, an air mail enthusiast. We quote from Mr. Steinmetz' letter a description of the markings of philatelic interest:—

"The Cuban aero mail seems to have been a success. Please note and return the enclosed cover, showing mail from New York, Oct. 30, 9 A. M., marked 'via seaplane' and back postmarked 'Havana Nov. 1. 6.30 P. M.' Also special postmark, in circle, Correo Aero—1° (Primero) Nov. 1920 Primer Viaje (First Trip)."

NEWS

-1920

1920

For over six years without interruption you have been informed by MEKEEL'S WEEKLY that I am supplying to all collectors unused New Issues all the British Colonies at the very small profit of only 10% over face value and that on application an explanatory prospectus will be sent you. There was no catch in this, as Thousands of varieties were thus distributed to all subscribers of my New Issue Service and I trust that many more will be sent out at the rate. You will also have noticed in my small announcements a line reading:

RARE STAMPS OF ALL COUNTRIES MY SPECIALTY!

and it is just this one line I wish to talk to you about today. There are Hundreds of advanced American collectors that are constantly in correspondence with me, yet there must be Thousands unaware of the fact that I do not only deal in New Issues of the British Colonies, but also hold one of the finest and round stocks of Rare stamps of all countries in Europe.

I cannot do impossible things, but I claim that my prices are moderate and reasonable throughout, that all stamps bought from me are guaranteed in every respect, perfect and free from all hidden defects. Owing to the Exchange I am able to quote really low prices for first class rarities, but examine the following list yourself and send me your order today to save disappointment. Many Thousands of other rare stamps ranging each from 5 to 500 Dollars are at your disposal. Selections on approval on receipt of Banker's reference.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE MOTHER OF STAMPS.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The Mother of Postage Stamps, the Penny Black, and her elegant little family, comprising the Twopenny blues, Penny reds, the Halfpenny and Three-halfpence of 1870 have been the subject of a thousand treatises, and the last word has possibly not been written yet on a subject so fascinating and absorbing to the stamp lover.

If the last word has not been written on the subject, it is not the fault of Mr. Edward Denny Bacon, M. V. O., the President of the Royal Philatelic Society, who has just given to the world the results of his labours and researches of many years on these stamps engraved and printed by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co. between 1840 and 1880. Mr. Bacon, who in spite of the suggestion aroused by his name, is no relative of the old Joshua Butters Bacon of the firm, has long been a privileged friend of the firm and has had full and free access to all their records. Of this privilege he has made good and valuable use in the interests of the world of stamps. In the past it has helped him to unravel the printings of our early Colonial stamps, and give us practically all we know of their interesting perforations.

Now in the completion of his greatest work we have the fullest documental, and explanatory, as well as philatelic record of the Great Britain stamps printed by the firm. It is a monumental work, filling two demy-quarto volumes totalling nearly 600 pages, entitled "The Line-Engraved Postage Stamps of Great Britain printed by Perkins, Bacon and Co.", and it is published by Charles Nissen & Co., Ltd., 63 High Holborn, W. C. 1, at £3 5s. With his gracious permission, the work is dedicated to His Majesty King George V, the honoured Patron of the Royal Philatelic Society, and philatelists the world over will owe an immense debt of gratitude to His Majesty for allowing the author to illustrate these volumes from specimens in his superb collection of the stamps of Great Britain. Many of these specimens here illustrated from the Royal Collection are of the highest degree of rarity, no other copies being known to have survived to the present day.

THE STORY OF THE STAMP.

In these two volumes we get the most intimate details of the history of the inception and the production of the first stamps. The story opens with the passing of the Act for establishing a Uniform rate of Postage in 1839 and the opening of a public competition in which the Treasury offered prizes of £200 and £100 respectively for the best and second best suggestions "as to the manner in which the stamp may best be brought into use." That competition attracted many proposals, but it did not discover the adhesive stamp as it was ultimately evolved. Mr. Bacon has traced the names of the prize winners, which have hitherto been wrongly given on the authority of Sir Henry Cole. Four prizes of £100 each were awarded, the recipients being:

Messrs. Bogardus and Coffin.
Mr. Benjamin Cheverton.
Mr. (afterwards Sir) Henry Cole.
Mr. Charles Whiting.

AN INCH WOULD DO.

Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co., whom Cole in his Autobiography gave as one of the prize winners in lieu of Bogardus and Coffin, did not compete. Their speciality was a fine process for transferring engravings, a beautiful but comparatively slow process, and they thought the Government would not be prepared to pay the cost of this class of work. Asked by Henry Cole why he did not put in for the contract, Mr Joshua Bacon said, "We cannot put in; . . . you want envelopes, and steel plates could not be made at the price the Government would give." Cole's reply, the first recorded indication of the convenient simplicity of the proposed stamp was "Oh, you are quite deceived; an inch would do for us." That inch, enabling Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Petch to get 240 of the stamps on one steel plate, brought their process into the range of usefulness in connection with the postage stamps. "You are probably aware," wrote the firm to Cole in December, 1839, "that having prepared the Original die, we could insure perfect facsimiles of it for a Century."

THE ART OF THE STAMP.

Several eminent artists were associated with Rowland Hill and Henry Cole in arriving at the simple and graceful first stamp design. William Wyon, engraver to the Royal Mint and Royal Academy, prepared a sketch in December, 1839, with a view to making a die, and the original sketch is now in the Royal Collection. Subsequently Henry Corbould was commissioned to make a drawing of the Queen's head, from the finely-modelled profile by Wyon on the "City Medal" of 1837, struck to commemorate her Majesty's visit to the City after her accession. Corbould's original miniature, probably in water colour, has never been traced, and is probably destroyed. From it the head was engraved by one of the Heath family, either Charles, or his son Frederick. Mr. E. D. Bacon examines closely all the documental evidence as to the actual engraver, and arrives at the verdict that the work was entrusted to the father, but probably on account of his failing eyesight, it was actually executed by his son. The records of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co. have now been so searchingly examined that Mr. Bacon is able to give the names of the engravers of the backgrounds, the transferers, and even the individual workmen at the presses, engaged on the production of the stamps. He gives precise details of the places whence the firm bought its steel, its presses, its paper, and even the gum or "cement", as it was quaintly called, on the edges of the stamp sheets. "In wetting the back be careful not to remove the cement," ran the official injunction printed on the margin of every sheet.

THE ROYAL COLLECTION.

A full sheet of the first stamps comprised 240 units arranged in twenty horizontal rows of twelve. Each stamp on the sheet is identical except that each has a different combination of letters in the lower corners. The design standing up in relief on a transfer roller was rolled 240 times into the plate, and the corner letters were subsequently inserted separately by means of small punches. This left a loophole for error, but the workers of those days were conscientiously careful, and during the forty years the line-engraved stamps were being printed by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co., only two notable errors (other than inverted "S's" and minor defects) occurred. One was on plate 77 of the 1d red stamp (1847), on which the letter puncher omitted to punch the letter in the right-hand corner of the first stamp in the second row. This stamp should have been letter B at the left and A at the right. The "B" was inserted, but the A space was left blank.

C. S. Watson Co., Inc., E. Dedham, Mass.

A copy of this rare error now in the Royal Collection is illustrated in the book. The other important error is much later date, the 1 1/2d stamp of 1896 plate 1, has letters in all four corners but the upper corners are merely a reversal of the letters in the lower corners. Thus a stamp lettered B A at the bottom should be lettered A B at the top. On the third stamp in the nineteenth horizontal row the letters at the bottom are P C; at the top they should be C P, but the engraver has made O P instead of C.P. This is not nearly so rare as the first error mentioned, unused copies fetching about £25 each. But the block of twelve of these 1 1/2d stamps, unused, including one of the errors "O P", photographed from the King's collection, is an item that would delight any philatelist. Indeed, the whole of the illustrations to this book reflect the completeness and thoroughness with which His Majesty has recorded in his Great Britain collection all that appertains to the history of the introduction of postage stamps and the early use in this country.

THE "J. P. S."

By MRS. H. P. TERRY, Hon. Sec.

The J. P. S.! Is there any other Hobby Society in the world which can show such an extraordinary develop-ment as this of Junior stamp collectors? Its progress has been forward all its life, and although some of the more conservative Collectors of the old school have been inclined sometimes to think it too "forward", this has proved to be not a fault but a virtue which American Juniors have appreciated.

The Society was inaugurated in 1899, and I had the honour of supping with the President after his election. I say "the President" because of course every-one knows there has been only one President and he is No. 1 in the Society. As the novelists say, little did we think in that year 1899 that the Society would be alive still in the year 1920, and very much alive and its membership multi-plied two-hundredfold. In those early days I believe any correspondence re-quired was delivered by hand, but I am thankful that this is not expected of the Secretary now. One of my ear-liest recollections of the advertising schemes of these youngsters was the finding of the lampposts in the vicinity of the residences of the members plas-tered over with a rather pretty green stamp, somewhat larger than the 1/2d British green with the name of the Society embodied in an artistic (?) de-sign. These stamps were very popular until it came to the ears of the Officials of the Society that a young enthusiast had put one on a postcard to see if it would go through the Post Office with-out a fine. The stamp passed the Post Office authorities but the deed was not appreciated by the Society officials and the young enthusiast was severely reprimanded. One of the chief aims of the Society has been to put down anything in the nature of sharp practice in the stamp world, and I venture to say that it has been wonderfully successful in this. We protect our Juniors, and the parents of our young members have frequently expressed their gratitude for the kindly interest taken by the more "aged" Juniors.

Philately to the outsider appears to be rather dry, but if I wished to pre-vent my friends from becoming keen on the Hobby I should certainly keep them away from the Junior Philatelic Society. At our 21st Anniversary and Welcome Home Banquet in May last a visitor informed me that if he had known it would be such a delightfully entertaining evening he would have brought his wife, but she had always scoffed at the dullness of the usual Philatelic gatherings. I am afraid I rather sympathised with her, for when I married I secretly congratulated my-self on the fact that I should get away from a house of stamp collecting. It was not my sole reason for marrying, but you can imagine my delight (?) on coming home one evening a little late to find my husband with the card table opened out and on it a soup plate of water and stamps, dozens of them, being soaked off and dried. I bowed the head and said nowt, and at last the goblins have "got" me. If you do not wish to be a Stamp Collector, beware of the J. P. S.

The subscription originally was 1s 6d per annum, but in 1906 it was raised to 2s 6d and even through the terrible years of the War it remained at this absurdly low figure; now, however, the increase in the cost of printing and postage has compelled us to raise the subscription once again and it now stands at 5s Entrance Fee, and 5s sub-scription. When I tell you that this year the increased subscriptions have come in faster than ever before and more than half of them accompanied by delightful letters expressing approval and pleasure in paying more, you will understand that there is a very real benefit derived by its members. It was extremely surprising to me to learn that we had only just a hundred members from so great a country as the U. S. A. Truly, they are very enthusiastic mem-bers; and having acquired some of your distinctive vocabulary, I would ask them to "hustle" and get me many more Juniors from their country. Remember the many privileges; you can send sheets for circulation in the packets; you can send stamps to be auctioned at our meetings; you will be entitled to adver-tise in the Stamp Lover at very reduced rates; you will be able to subscribe to various other papers at reduced rates; and above all you will receive the Stamp Lover post free. This magazine will cost you 10s per annum unless you are a member of the J. P. S.

If you have any pocket money after paying your subscription to MEKEEL'S, just go to the Post Office and send me a Money Order payable in London for, 10s if you are over 21 (this being 5s Entrance Fee and 5s subscription); or if you are under 21, subscription 5s only. Address, Mrs. H. P. Terry, Hon. Gen. Secretary, 22 Kempshott Road, Streatham, London, S. W. 16.

THANKS TO MR. MELVILLE.

Mr. Melville has modestly refrained from making any reference to his own philatelic activities in the article appear-ing in this issue. His advertisement, however, tells the story in a very elo-quent manner. We acknowledge our thanks thus publicly in recognition of his services in connection with this num-ber. Mr. Melville has just completed the serial "Cayman Islands", which has now been placed on sale by the Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co.

Mr. Melville's activities are many and varied. He is editor of the Stamp Lover and the Postage Stamp and president of the Junior Philatelic Society, a position which he has held during all the years of the Society's existence. To recount his literary achievements would require a large amount of space, such including a large number of handbooks as well as contributions to numerous magazines and newspapers. We hope to soon be-gin another serial from his pen.

THE WILSONS OF BIRMINGHAM.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

A chat with Mr. W. T. Wilson and his son and partner will be a most enjoyable excuse for a trip to "Brum", or Birmingham. Mr. W. T. Wilson is nearly, if not quite, the doyen of active English dealers, his association first as collector and then as dealer with stamps extending back for well over 50 years.

He does not look his age as he sits there, and pleasantly gossips about yestern times. Let us not interrupt him in his anecdotal vein.

"In 1862 I paid a special visit to Young & Stockall of Liverpool to buy the 3sk bco Sweden, the only stamp I wanted to complete my collection of Sweden. A small trap door about size of a pocket handkerchief was opened, through it I saw a shallow drawer with divisions just the width of a stamp with rows of the different values. All were very full except the stamp I wanted, of which there were perhaps half a dozen. It appears that this firm cut up all strips and blocks so that they should fit into the drawers—such was the butchery of those days."

Tales of Ferrari.

After a pause Mr. Wilson went on—"My brother, A. H. Wilson, witnessed a very comic incident when calling on Ferrari. When entering the large salon where the collection was kept, he found the great collector bathed in tears with a large silk handkerchief in his hand. At the table was M. Pierre Mahé looking like a whipped dog. Ferrari between his sobs explained that Mahé had lost a particular stamp recently acquired."

To listen to Mr. Wilson on the old times would hold us in Birmingham for many a pleasant hour, but we have come mainly on a business trip, to enquire into the well known business conducted under the name of the senior partner.

The senior partner, Mr. W. T. Wilson, has the almost unique distinction among active dealers of being a fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, which Mr. Wilson joined as an amateur in 1882. In accordance with the rules of the Royal Society, Mr. Wilson sent in his resignation on becoming a dealer, but the Society did not accept same.

Mr. F. E. Wilson, the son, is especially interested in the early issues of Belgium, and exhibited his special collections of same at Amsterdam and Vienna, gaining awards on each occasion.

Some Notable Purchases.

Among collections acquired by the Wilsons in recent years, may be mentioned:—

In 1913, a collection of old German States, including a matchless set of Oldenburg quite complete, used on original covers and all in superb condition.

1915, a very choice collection of unused Belgium in 2 Oriel albums, which was originally formed by the famous philatelist, the late Mr. M. P. Castle.

In 1917, Messrs. Wilson were entrusted with the disposal of the superb collection of India, Ceylon, Afghanistan and Cashmere and the wonderful accumulations of Indian and Indian Convention States, formed by the late Sir D. P. Masson, C. I. E., Vice President of the Philatelic Society of India.

F. E. WILSON.

Junior Member of the W. T. Wilson Firm.

1917, a unique collection of the first three issues of Holland of the very highest rank was handled, same being sold almost immediately en bloc; also a very choice collection of Belgium line engraved issues only.

The firm runs a New Issue Service for stamps of Great Britain, Colonies, Europe; and in the case of their European clients, the United States of America.

Original Covers.

Stamps on original covers have for many years past been a speciality of Messrs. Wilson, and they have gathered together a goodly stock of desirable items for the discriminating collector, the better items of which are housed in 11 substantial books of 60 leaves each, the lesser items occupying a large cabinet and a number of specially constructed boxes which are constantly having to be extended, in view of arrivals and acquisitions from all parts of the world.

Realizing the vast extent of the philatelic field, Messrs. Wilson limit themselves to the stamps of Great Britain and Colonies, Europe, Mexico, and the United States of America and stamps on original covers of almost all countries, with special reference to the early "classics".

Both partners are keenly interested in stamps altogether apart from their business interests, and it is frequently a matter of keen regret when a particularly choice piece has to be passed along. Mr. W. T. Wilson formed an extensive specialised collection of Mexico which obtained a gold medal at the Paris Exhibition of 1900.

Incidentally it may be mentioned here that Mr. Wilson is a keen sportsman and visited Iceland for several years, also Newfoundland, Spain, etc., in pursuit of his favourite hobby, which is salmon fishing.

THE WAR STAMP FIELD.

Right in the heart of London's most fashionable shopping district will be found the world famous stamp store of Mr. David Field, whose stock and reputation are second to none amongst British stamp dealers. All day long there is a constant stream of shoppers passing through the elegant Royal Arcade in Old Bond Street, where the busy house of Field is located. Very few of these passersby fail to stop and admire the attractive display of stamps that occupies two large window fronts on the ground floor, and a considerable proportion are tempted, by the many bargains offered, to come in and buy.

Always famous for rarities, the name of Field is also synonymous with War Stamps. Mr. Field was the first dealer to realise the unique possibilities of War Stamps, and his large purchases extending from the early days of the Great War enabled him to bring together a stock of these issues superior to any in the world. His investments in War Stamps during the past six years have amounted to a cash value of more than $1,500,000. Practically all of the great rarities in these popular issues have passed through his hands, including the unique 1 mark Togo overprinted "Occupation Franco-Anglaise", valued today at $12,000, also the extremely rare 2, 3, and 5 marks of the same series and the 3 and 5 marks "Anglo French Occupation", of which the present market value is something like $30,000.

Complete sets of Baghdad and Bushire occupation stamps, the latter in strips of ten and five, respectively, shewing the settings, and all the high values of New Britain, Marshall Islands and Samoa have been purchased at one time or another by the leading house for rare stamps.

That Mr. Field's faith in the future of the War Stamp is unabated is effectively demonstrated by his recent purchase of a magnificent collection, including also a number of unique items in the scarcer issues of New Europe pricing up to a total value of more than $60,000. Amongst other desirable items are noted complete sets of Baghdad, Bushire and Cameroons, Samoa, Marshall Islands and New Britain. The Togo section is complete except for the rarest Mark values, and contains a superb pair of the 10 pfennig "Franco-Anglaise" with inverted overprint. British Colonial War Tax stamps are equally complete, including many large blocks and nearly all the errors. In the New Europe section there is a magnificent range of proofs, essays, and colour trials, and out of the way varieties of overprint, etc.

It should not be supposed, however, that Mr. Field's business is entirely limited to War and New Europe stamps. His stock books provide also a choice of the classic early issues that it would be hard to beat, and are particularly strong in line-engraved British Colonials. They are constantly being added to by the purchase of large collections and single lots, for the firm is celebrated as a liberal buyer of anything fine in the way of stamps. A unique connection amongst the wealthiest and most exclusive connoisseurs of stamps throughout the world enables the highest prices to be paid for out of the way items.

The publications of the House of Field have gained for themselves a high reputation with active philatelists the world over. The West End Philatelist, now in its seventeenth annual volume, is a storehouse of philatelic knowledge, and a mine of information. It has been successively edited by such well known philatelic writers as Mr. B. W. H. Poole, Mr. A. J. Sefi, and Mr. Chas. H. Greenwood. A strong feature is made to-day of original articles on war and modern stamps generally, and each issue contains an up-to-date catalogue of the latest novelties. The companion series of W. E. P. handbooks on special countries constitute a valuable reference library.

The catalogue of "Postage Stamps of the Great War and After", compiled for this firm by Mr. Douglas B. Armstrong, is generally acknowledged as a standard guide to War Stamps. The second edition has just been published, and contains a wealth of new matter. Quite apart from the prices, which, being based on Mr. Field's unique stock, faithfully reflect the current value of war and New Europe stamps, the historical and other notes accompanying the lists of stamps are of superlative interest, and will prove of the greatest value to collectors for the purpose of writing up their collection. "War Stamps of the Allies", an historical record by Douglas B. Armstrong and Chas. H. Greenwood, is another of the valuable publications issued by this firm, and should be in the hands of all who are interested in these scarce and historical issues. Mr. Greenwood's handbook on Togo may also be said to represent the last word on that popular country.

Mr. David Field, who as a member of the Jury of the New York Exhibition in 1913, is well known to many American collectors, is still in the prime of life, having been born at Birmingham, England, in 1871. He has collected stamps since 1885, and is chiefly interested in Great Britain and Colonies, and rarities. He has travelled over the greater part of Europe, Canada and the United States. He is an excellent judge of stamps, and one of the keenest buyers in the philatelic market. Much of his time is spent nowadays at his seaside residence at Torquay, and the Bond Street business is largely conducted by his capable Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Greenwood.

Mrs. Edith Field, his partner in life and business, is well known as the foremost lady philatelist in Great Britain. She has specialised in the stamps of the Cape of Good Hope, whilst her fine general collection of the British Empire has gained eight gold and other medals at International Exhibitions.

A PHILATELIC "SEEING LONDON."

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

Twice have I escaped from London, the City of the Moon, to seek the delights of the New World, and I found them in goodly measure in Boston, New York, Washington, Philadelphia—and Wilkes Barre, which I suppose has been closed these many days ago. An hundred friends gave me a thousand delights, and all in good measure, and I have hoped ever that some day it might be my happy lot to show my American friends round London, in and out of its stamp shops, up to the auction rooms, and round the social meeting places of the fraternity of philatelists in the city that is built upon ye moat yclept the Thames.

Now the long awaited chance hath arrived, and in his wily, but winning way the Managing Editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS has put me in charge of his "Seeing London" special, and has placed the speaking trumpet of his record circulation at my disposal. So, along with me, good friends, and we'll see what we shall see. If my friend Undooley cometh, and sure he will! it will be a foul proceeding. There will be short stop and long stop varieties on the way, and if dear old reacheth his bunk with an inverted centre, or a trifle clipped at the top, he will not have any the less pleasurable memories of his sight-seeing jaunt round London.

Of course London has stood where it is these many centuries. Few people living today would care to take upon their shoulders the responsibility for having built more than a tiny fraction of it. But, such as it is, there are those of us who love it, and consider it as attractive a place to die in as it is to live in. It still bears signs of its ancient and honourable association with the ages that have passed, and even the comparatively young business of the stamp trade has gathered something of its verdant moss.

The stamp dealers' shops in London today may be readily sighted by their signs, which are as distinctive as the barber's pole or the chemists tricoloured globes—aye, even as the trefoil orbs that mark the shanties where when the luck is out your gimcracks go in.

So as we sight-see around London town, look out for the signs of the Right Worshipful Company of Stamp Dealers. As you come out from the Savoy or the Waldorf, after your bath, you will find them in plenty in the immediate vicinity.

At the Sign of the Three-Cornered Cape.

Right opposite the Cecil and Savoy Hotels is the Mecca of every true worshipper at the shrine of Philately. I once saw an American tourist remove his hat, as he approached the spot. It was very hot and the tourist sighed for an egg-phosphate. But this is the home of the Stanley Gibbons firm—not the "Inc." of Broadway, but the aboriginal concern, whose early beginnings go back beyond the memory of the oldest inhabitant of London stampdom.

Still one must not suppose that because the house of Gibbons has a pre-philippic history it is in any sense antiquated. There is not a more progressive and up-to-date stamp business in the world than this which is conducted at No. 391 Strand, at the sign of the Three-Cornered Cape.

The sign is appropriate; it recalls the now historic early purchase by the late Mr. Gibbons of the sailor's kit bagful of triangular Capes. The incident occurred in 1863 when Mr. Gibbons, then a young fellow of 23, (he was born in the year of the Penny Black) was carrying on his father's old business—a drug store—in Plymouth, and ran stamps as a profitable side-show.

One morning two sailors noticed the sheets of stamps in the chemist's window. They entered.

"Do you buy used postage stamps?" they enquired? Next day they brought a kit bag full of stamps from their ship, and were invited into the back parlour where they turned out the contents of the bag.

The stamps were all three-cornered Capes, thousands and thousands of them, many in large strips and blocks, and many of the so-called "woodblocks" amongst them.

While at Cape Town some ladies had persuaded the sailors to take a shilling ticket in a raffle, and as they explained "we won this ere bag of stamps which the ladies had begged all round Cape Town for the bazaar."

For some time afterwards Mr. Gibbons was selling triangular Capes at tenpence the dozen, and "woodblocks" at 3s the dozen.

History repeats itself. When I dropped in at the firm's fine premises at 391 Strand the other day, I thought they had just bought another sackful of triangulars. But not for the five pound note which Stanley Gibbons paid for the kit bag full in 1863. The truth was Messrs. Gibbons had just bought the Louis B. Smuts collection of Cape stamps, sixteen albums full.

Mr. Smuts is a nephew, I believe of the great South African leader, General Jan Smuts, and he has been collecting Cape stamps for many years in the Colony itself. He had a strong penchant for the triangulars, and eight of the albums were taken up with these three-cornered issues. The collection contained 3,623 triangulars, including 231 woodblocks, nine of the latter being the rare errors of colour.

The collection alone makes our halt at No. 391 Strand a notable experience. Here are proofs of the triangulars in pairs from the late Lord Crawford's collection, used and unused copies in blocks of anything from four to seventeen, without doubt the largest accumulation of three-cornered Capes since the original kit-bag of 1863.

Of course stamps like these do remain long in stock; there is a constant and increasing demand for these most other early British Colonial stamps. Messrs. Gibbons carry on a grand trade in all postage stamps, but make no secret of the fact that they regard the stamps of Great Britain and the British Colonies as the safest philatelic investments, save only perhaps one other, and thereby have a point of first rate importance to the U. S. collector.

Mr. Charles J. Phillips, the Managing Director of Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., second to none as a thorough student of stamps, and in his extensive knowledge of the early classic issues. He convinces me that he is at present working closely on the early stamps of the United States, which I have always considered to be the most attractive and test stamp issues in the world for the stamp lover. So, although Messrs. Gibbons are devoting a great deal of attention to British and Colonial stamps, their genius is working hard on early issues, and we may expect some interesting developments to result from his labors and from the application of his philatelic instinct to these classic stamps of the New World.

Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., have the largest capital of any of the British stamp firms, and employ upwards of 100 persons, excluding work done on contracts outside, such as the printing of their world-renowned catalogues. The large staff is ably organised, and covers every department of the stamp trade. Their administrative department is a very vast affair; they have worked up a great second-hand deal with the popular vogue in war armistice stamps.

Much to the regret of all keen philatelists, the firm suspended the publication of their splendid Monthly (edited by that dove of philatelic writers, Major E. B. Evans, R. A.)

The Stamp Salon of Mr. Hugo Griebert.

Passing on our way we must drop in and see Mr. Hugo Griebert, who hasn't been so well lately, but is naturally delighted at a very high honour of which he was the recipient. I was with him when the letter arrived and have his permission to print it.

The Royal Philatelic Society, London,
Hon. Secretary's Office,
13 Walbrook, London, E. C. 4.
9th June, 1920.

Hugo Griebert, Esq.,
170 Strand, W. C. 2.

Dear Mr. Griebert:

I have much pleasure in informing you that the Council of this Society have unanimously awarded to you the Crawford Medal for your work on "The Stamps of Spain 1850-54."

Please accept my personal congratulations on the well-merited recognition of your valuable work.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) HERBERT OLDFIELD,
Honorary Secretary.

Here again we have the busy head of a flourishing stamp business, who makes the study of stamps a labour of love, and confers a boon on all his fellow students by making his researches freely accessible to all in the printed book. It does not always follow that the man who does the spade work in philatelic study and research receives the reward his work merits, but Mr. Griebert may well feel gratified at being the first recipient of the newly instituted Crawford Medal, for philatelic research.

Mr. Griebert's writings are not built in a day. His two chief works, "Uruguay" and "Spain 1850-54" are substantial monographs which represent a very large share of his life's study. He has been working on them for years, and the result is that each of his books is today, and will long remain, the standard authority on the stamps dealt with.

When you go to see Mr. Griebert you will be impressed by the quiet but elegant style of his offices which occupy the whole of the first floor of No. 170 over the Colonnade, with large spacious windows to the Strand. Inside, everything is orderly and tempting. Nice jewels should have a nice setting, and it is pleasant to buy choice stamps amidst delightful surroundings. Mr. Griebert himself is reached through several intermediate doors to his spacious den where the noises of the Strand do not penetrate, and the famous dealer sits and smokes and chats with the fortunate ones who are admitted to the inner sanctum.

Life is full of contrasts. Mr. Griebert's passion is for the stamps of long ago; no one knows better than he the market in old and rare issues, and particularly the early Europeans, and South Americans, though not to the exclusion of any of the rest. If you are seeking items which will impart a tone to a collection of any European or South American country, you will find plenty to choose from here. A pair used on the envelope, a sheet, or a reconstructed sheet, proofs, essays—out of the way rarities, you will find chez Mr. Griebert. In his latest number of "Griebert's Philatelic Notes and Offers" (of which you can get a copy free by sending a postcard with your name and address to Mr. Griebert at 170 Strand, London W. C. 2), there is a list of 700 different rarities—a mere selection from his great stock—ranging from the 5c Antioquia of 1868 to the Virgin Island 6d perf. 15 of 1867. It includes such unusual items as an Austrian red Mercury (1851), for which he asks £80, a strip of three 9sch Hamburg 1864 for £50, a mint block of eight Hawaii 5c thin blue paper of 1853,

(£30), the Lubeck error twice in a block of 8 (£11), Newfoundland 1s 1860, and that classic rarity, the 3 pfennig Saxony 1850, £55.

But I had set out to mention the contrasts—when I was lured into a list of the beloved old stamps. Although Mr. Griebert's chief business is in old stamps and rarities, he conducts an excellent New Issue Service, so that he caters for the collectors of the old and the new. His New Issue Service supplies all newly issued British Colonial stamps at 10% over the face value or actual cost. If you are looking for a new issue service in Colonial stamps you could not have a better.

At the Sign of the Basle Dove.

At No. 359 Strand we are confronted by a large sign, and two smaller signs which cannot fail to catch the eye of the stamp lover. On one of the smaller signs, but still large enough to see a mile off, is an excellent painting of the dove stamp of Basle, and on the other is a Victoria registered stamp, rose and blue. They are admirable signboards for a house that deals in fine old stamps as does the firm of Frank Godden, Ltd. The third and largest signboard deserves a passing mention; it is probably the largest of its kind in London, and measures about 50 feet by 3.

Mr. Frank Godden himself is of more modest dimensions, and he and his partner, Mr. Harry Hiscox, have a happy way of making friends with any collector who makes a halt at 359. The firm makes a great specialty of the writing up of collections, and their style is the acme of good taste and discrimination knowledge in setting out a collection. No wonder that most of the "Great Moguls", many of whose signatures are illegible except to their bankers, entrust their collections to Messrs. Godden to have them arranged in this excellent fashion. The writing reminds me of an old yarn of a clerk in the contract office of the General Post Office, Washington, who took a pride in his penmanship. He was engaged by the Hon. Daniel Webster to copy a certain official document, which he did, and took it to the Senator.

"Why, Mr. —," said Webster, examining the Mss., "I did not desire it engraved. There was no necessity for such expense. I only wanted a written copy."

"It is a written copy," said the clerk. "A written copy!" exclaimed Webster in astonishment. "Well, upon my life, I thought it was engraved."

So it is with the collections that have been written up in the Godden manner. There are far more of them than I have space to tell of here, but I mention sufficient to show that it is fast becoming a vogue to have your collection arranged an inscribed in this elegant style. I have seen amongst other collections arranged by Messrs. Godden the "Rowe" Collection of Siam—a wonderful collection formed by the late colleague Harold Rowe and preserved by his mother to the British Museum; it occupies 22 volumes.

The Indian Museum Collection, Calcutta. The "H. L. Hayman" Collections, 10 volumes. The "Warren" Collection of Holland and Colonies, 16 volumes. The "Sparrow" Collection of Belgium, the finest collection ever brought together of Belgium, formed by Mr. B. Sparrow, but recently sold to a collector in South America.

The "De Worms" Collections of Great Britain and Ceylon (7 vols.). The "Monro" Collection of Great Britain and U. S. A. (20 vols.). These are collections which have passed through Messrs. Godden's hands for arrangement, which is only a part of the prosperous business conducted by the two partners who were associated together in their earlier years in the Gibbons business. Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd., go in for the "good goods" the stamps everyone wants, and which they find more often at Godden's than These 2 exceptional pieces were used from Bushire in August, 1915, from the correspondent who originally sent me the first consignment to reach England. They are in superb condition and have the English registered arrival postmarks (Sept. 17th, 1915). They are of peculiar rarity and interest used on covers, due to the very dangerous forgeries of the overprints, which have been made. Choice photographs of the above 2 rare covers 4sh post free.

F. B. SMITH, Ltd.

Foreign and Colonial Stamp Merchants

432 STRAND,

LONDON, W. C. 2, ENGLAND

Cable, Philasmit. Reference:—Any British Dealer or Stamp Journal.

in the lesser emporiums. Few London dealers have had so many "scoops" in the past year or so, since Frank Godden came home from the war, in which he served as a gunner in the Honourable Artillery Company. Now he is great guns on buying the collections of the big guns.

Amongst his most notable purchases of recent date there is Mr. George H. Worthington's splendid collection of Great Britain, a very fine collection which is going the way of all nice things—it is being disembowelled by the keen specialists in G. B. in this country, and soon there will be nothing but red pennies and other ordinary things in it. But long before that state arrives I expect Mr. Godden will have another British collection to break up.

Then there was the not less notable purchase by this firm of the Rodriguez collection of United States, which is a favourite country with Mr. Godden who is always on the look out for early U. S. He published the "Comprehensive Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of the United States of America", by Sir N. E. Waterhouse in 1916, a book which ought to be in the hands of every student of U. S. stamps.

Sir N. E. Waterhouse, the leading collector of U. S. in this country, was knighted after the war. I guess that was for distinguished war services, but some of my fellow devotees of U. S. stamps affirm that Sir Nicholas was knighted for giving us such a good book on U. S.

That may or may not be the case, but collectors in the States will be interested to know that Mr. Godden is about to publish a Catalogue of Prices of U. S. Stamps, up to date, the prices being the independent and studied estimates of a private collector, Sir Nicholas Waterhouse himself.

Before leaving Messrs. Godden's you may have occasion to note that it is not a "dry" house.

In the Roberts' Cave.

It isn't a cave, it is really a fine suite on the first floor at No. 60 Strand, but it conjures up thoughts, not of robbers, but of a cave where if you have the "Open Sesame" you can find the rarest of stampic gems. As I went in the other day, and sat at Mr. R. Roberts' table, I idly noticed a number of quite good things lying about. Only trifles (in size), but very precious trifles. There was a 5c Hawaiian "Missionary", and when I spoke of it, Mr. Roberts showed me another on entire. Then there was a 5 grana Sicily error of colour, the Naples Arms and Cross, an exceptionally fine copy of the double Geneva, used, a stamp which has gone up a great deal in recent years.

Mr. Roberts had just sold one of the rarest stamps in the world, when I called on him the other day. It was the 4d Western Australia with frame inverted, commonly spoken of as the inverted swan. This used to be reckoned a £400 stamp, but it is worth double that today.

Mr. Roberts has a fine showing in Capes, including the triangulars, the woodblocks, and some "peach" copies of the errors. Then his Sydney views, all chosen with special regard to their condition. Some of them had margins you could drive a coach and four round. Mauritius "Post Pairs" in various states of the plates, beautiful copies; and strips of the Mauritius "monkey heads", ugly caricatures of our late Queen, but precious in the sight of the stamp lover.

The stamps of Nevis, another of the classic countries, Mr. Roberts has a fine showing of. He has some of the pretty little sheets, unused, but what is much more exceptional to find, he has a whole series of reconstructed sheets of used stamps, which should be eagerly snapped up by some discriminating collector.

Mr. Roberts says that the old stamps are becoming almost impossible to get in fine condition. He is always being offered rare stamps which are not fine, but the demand is for perfect copies and the trade has to pay very highly to get copies that will pass muster with the cognisant amateur of today. The marvel to me was that Mr. Roberts or anyone else could have so many great rarities in fine condition in stock. But as he pointed out, they are here today, and gone tomorrow, whereas the poor copies, if a dealer is foolish enough to stock them, are always left on one's hands.

Mr. Roberts conducts a New Issue Service chiefly for British Colonial stamps, and publishes occasional lists of them, which may be had post free from No. 60 Strand.

Ye Bright Spot.

Another of the notable houses on which we must pay a call is "Ye Bright Spot," the home of the world-renowned firm of Bright & Son, whose name is second only to Stanley Gibbons in the universality of its repute. Messrs. Bright & Son occupy a fine and commodious building of four or five floors at 164 Strand, with a magnificent shop on the street level. It says something for the growth and stability of Messrs. Bright & Son's business, that after occupying these premises for many years they have recently purchased the entire freehold of these large premises on what is probably London's most expensive thoroughfare. So while some of the stamp firms may have in time to migrate from the Strand to other parts of London, "Ye Bright Spot" bids fair to be a "fixed star" in the constellation of the Strand stamp emporiums.

Messrs. Bright & Son's business is directed by Mr. Frank H. Oliver, one of the most highly respected and well-informed men in the London stamp trade, a man who has devoted much time to the study of stamps, and has given his services liberally and freely to the advancement of the best interests of both collector and dealer. He is one of the leading spirits of the Stamp Trade Protection Association, Ltd., of which he is a director, and is an inveterate enemy of the forger and of the unscrupulous folk who impose on either the dealers or the collectors. He is always accessible to the visitor from the States, and a stamp chat with Mr. Oliver is one of the delights of the philatelic visitor to London is recommended not to miss.

The business is an all-round and comprehensive one. You can drop in at Ye Bright Spot, and may rest assured of courteous attention whether you buy a shilling packet or a "Première Gravure". They have no limitations, but deal in all kinds of genuine postage stamps, British, Colonial, Foreign, including "Locals", and they are the only prominent firm which continues to maintain a regular stock of all stamped postal stationery, envelopes, wrappers and postcards, of which they publish a special catalogue.

I have said they have no limitations, but while that is correct enough in a broad sense, they have in recent times, and in the pursuit of a deep sense of patriotic resolution, firmly excluded all stamps originating from enemy countries since August, 1914.

The "A. B. C." catalogues published by Messrs. Bright & Son have a world-wide reputation, and are the only serious British competitors to the Gibbons' catalogues, to which they are valuable complementary works, and every British collector keeps his "Bright" catalogue as ready to his hand as his "Gibbons". Until a few years back the Bright catalogue was produced as a convenient single volume, but it became so bulky that it is now issued in sections.

At the time of writing we are all agog with expectation of the impending publication of the 12th edition of their A. B. C. British Empire Catalogue, which is due at the end of October, and should be published ere these lines appear in print. It is a substantial volume of 360 pages, bound in red cloth boards, and it sells for 4s (post free 4s 6d). It will undoubtedly startle many collectors abroad to find what enormous increases in price it has been necessary to record for the stamps of many of the colonies. The tendency has long been consistently upward, but within the past two years the rise in stamp values—especially for the better class early issues of the Colonies—has been little short of phenomenal. At the same time it is increasingly difficult for the dealers to obtain or hold stocks of these stamps even on the new price basis. The demand is constantly increasing and the supply is always getting beautifully less.

The A. B. C. Catalogues are particularly well illustrated, and in this respect alone are well worth having handy for ready reference. The U. S. collector will find a particular use for Part III "Foreign Countries: Extra-European and Colonies," which sells at 3s post free. This section gives very ample illustrations of U. S. stamps which are lacking from the American publications, which are precluded by the laws of the U. S. from illustrating these stamps.

The present position of the sections of Bright's A. B. C. Catalogues may be summed up as follows:

- Post Free.
- Part I. Great Britain and British Colonies (12th edition 1920) 4s 6d
- Part II. Europe and Colonies (out of print).
- Part III. Foreign Countries, other than Europe; (including U. S.) 3s 0d
- Part IV. Entires, Postcards, Envelopes, etc. (out of print).

In addition the firm publishes an excellent and well illustrated catalogue of "War and Armistice Stamps," now in its ninth edition, price 1s 8d post free. The firm has made a speciality of war and "Neurope" stamps (always excepting those hailing from enemy countries) and hold one of the largest stocks of these interesting issues in London.

They have given particular study and attention to the extremely interesting stamps which have been issued in all parts of the disintegrated Russian Empire, and their stock books of the complicated "Tridents" of Ukraine represent a very considerable capital value. The firm deserves every credit for the care and caution exercised in regard to the numerous types of these stamps, and they have made exhaustive inquiries into the bona-fides of all the types which they recognize or catalogue.

One might write on and on about the ramifications of this great business, but space precludes me from more than briefly referring to the more important divisions of their business activities.

The firm runs a well-ordered and most efficient "New Issue Service," based on a ten per cent charge over face value, or over actual cost, and I know personally many collectors who have expressed great satisfaction with the treatment they have received as subscribers to this useful and convenient organisation.

Finally there is a large wholesale business done by this firm, and no dealer, large or small, should be without a copy of Messrs. Bright & Son's "Wholesale List", a new edition of which has just appeared and is right up to date. It is sent "free, gratis and for nothing" to any stamp dealer, and no dealer in the U. S. or elsewhere can afford to be without it.

At the Sign of Ye Golden Penny.

At No. 432 Strand we enter the sanctum of Mr. Frederick Burgess Smith and his co-director, Mr. F. C. Penney, of the well known firm of F. B. Smith, Ltd. This is an important and distinctive business which negotiates very big transactions in the stamp trade. The directors are concerned in the high finance of stamps and have engineered more big deals than most of the dealers doing a retail business. They purchase big stocks and collections, and can handle an unlimited amount of them.

Each of the directors is an experienced philatelist with a wide knowledge of stamps, especially of the rare early issues, and they are thoroughly qualified to appraise collections or wholesale lots on a large scale.

The firm is supporting the "London Special" of MEKEEL'S handsomely with a page advertisement, but as they do but little retail business they are not extensive advertisers, and their name will not be so familiar to the small buyer as to the big collectors and the big dealers with whom they transact most of their business. But I gather that firm wants to get in touch with a sound American agent capable of taking and developing their connections in the United States.

Westward Hô!

From the Strand we can make a profitable trip into the more exclusive West End, where the philatelic interest centres in and around Bond Street. Crossing Trafalgar Square we need some excitement going on around the Nelson Monument, and recall that it is the anniversary of Trafalgar, where the base of the column is embedded in floral tributes. The philatelic enthusiast may reflect that this mighty column might have been depicted on a commemorative stamp, but for the fact that our Post Office does not hold with such things. Anyway it is too tall to make an effective stamp picture; it would require a vertical coil to itself.

Up the Haymarket and along Piccadilly we turn into Bond Street where, immediately on our right is the swaggy Embassy Club, a gay place for the fellows who sport themselves by day and night—tripping the light fantastic and surroundings of elegance and luxury.

On the first floor of this building, which occupies three street numbers, 6, 7 and 8 Old Bond Street, we find ourselves in the elegant and spacious auction galleries of Mr. H. R. Harmer. Mr. Harmer's sale room is the largest and most commodious sale room in London devoted exclusively to the auctioneering of rare stamps. Attached to it is a series of cosy offices, and there being no room at the moment, we find Mr. Harmer in the inner sanctum, fondling a choice pair of Sydney Views which has just come into his hands for disposal. He is a stamp lover himself, and the business of the piece is something to gladden the eye.

Mr. H. R. Harmer is an old philatelist with a long experience of rare stamps; he has travelled much of his life throughout Europe and has an expert knowledge of the good things which it would be hard to beat. He is about thirty years since he entered the field of philately as a dealer, and he has a wide knowledge of the stamp trade in all the European countries. It is only recently, however, that he took up the auctioneer's hammer, and established the important sale rooms in Bond Street, where he is devoting himself chiefly to the better class trade in rare and fine old stamps of Great Britain, the Colonies, United States, and Europe—in fact, all countries which have issued stamps of the classic kind that are now sought after so eagerly by the connoisseurs.

He favoured us with a peep at a magnificent lot of post paid Mauritius which are coming up for disposal at his next sale. While skimming over the lots we noted also a copy of the second issue of Sarawak, the small 3 cents of 1870 printed from an engraved plate instead of being lithographed. This is one of the rarest of stamps, of which only three or four copies are known. There is one in the Tapling Collection at the British Museum, one in my Sarawak collection and one, I think, in Mr. Lockhart's collection. The one now offered is, I believe, the fourth known copy.

Only the other day Mr. Harmer sold an even rarer stamp, the rarest of the Niger Coast provisionals of 1893, in black on 1s, of which only one was hitherto known. The second of which Mr. Harmer sold the other day was fully authenticated, its "pedigree" being unquestionable, and it was bought for £175, at which price it has been acquired for one of the most famous collections in the world.

These are only a few of the items noted in connection with the sale at the Old Bond Street galleries, but they are typical of the exclusive class

THE last edition of our British Empire Catalogue was published in 1916, since when we have been deluged with inquiries for a new edition. Shortage of skilled staff, in consequence of the War, has delayed publication, but the New (12th) Edition is

JUST PUBLISHED

Owing to the lapse of four years, coupled with increasing demands, we have had to revise the prices of practically every stamp in the Catalogue. There are increases in price in the enormous majority of stamps, in MANY INSTANCES amounting to 100 PER CENT AND MORE, so that the New Edition of the

will be indispensable to all Collectors. It is right UP-TO-DATE, including all War and Peace issues.

A WORD AS TO ITS COST.—When the last edition was published paper and print were cheap. Now these are several hundreds per cent. dearer, and the price which we have fixed for this latest production of the house of Bright is

BRITISH LINE ENGRAVED STAMPS

A most important and complete work, "The Line-Engraved Postage Stamps of Great Britain" printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co.

The full history of their production during the forty years, 1840 to 1880, of their issue; written by

MR. E. D. BACON, M. V. O.

The President of the Royal Philatelic Society, who has had the valuable assistance of Mr. DUNBAR HEATH, the present Managing Director of Perkins, Bacon & Co., Ltd., coupled with free and full access to the firm's unique records of their postage-stamp business.

Mr. BACON'S great work is in two volumes, of the same size as the "Royal's" books on various British Colonies, with fifteen sheets of collotype and other illustrations.

PHILATELISTS will be glad to learn that, by gracious permission, the work is dedicated to

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V.

business for which Mr. H. R. Harmer caters, rarity and condition, and at his sales, which are always well attended, you can rarely fail to recognise some of the notables present, for many eminent people in the West End are now enthusiastic about stamps, and it is becoming quite a fashionable event for them to drop in and have a cup of tea and secure a few choice additions to their collections on Mr. Harmer's sale days.

Mr. Harmer sends his auction catalogues gratis, and any reader of MEKEEL'S interested should send him a request for them.

In Fair Arcadia.

Across the street, a few yards further up Old Bond Street, we come to the haunt of ye Arcadians, where amid gorgeous shops of flowers, fruits, jewels and nicknacks, we come to the shop of Mr. D. Field, Nos. 4 and 5 the Royal Arcade, Old Bond St. This is probably the largest street-level window display of any stamp shop in London, and certainly is the largest west of the Mansion House. It is crowded with good things which make us halt quite a while before we venture inside. There is much to look at in the window, from choice old pieces to the most modern "skeleton heads" of d'Annunzio's regime at Fiume. But it is inside that we get an idea of the wide scope of Mr. D. Field's business, which caters for all classes of collectors, from the modest purchaser of inexpensive sets of packets, to the well-groomed lords and perfumed ladies whose accounts for their stamp collections with D. Field run into small fortunes.

Mr. Field's establishment is in the charge of a very capable manager, Mr. C. H. Greenwood, who is well known to readers of stamp journals as a fairly prolific writer in the philatelic press a few years ago. He showed us over the building, the whole of which is occupied by the firm, and opened out the contents of great safes, to allow us to dip into the long lines of stock books and albums full of stamps that we might look for anything we were interested in.

We peeped at his Great Britain, and some of the Colonial books which are rich in rare things. We also skimmed through a 20 volume collection which a client has entrusted to Mr. Field for extending and completing during the client's absence abroad. A number of Mr. Field's clients leave most of their collecting to him, and although in this way they may miss some of the joys of the more modest collectors, they find it a convenience when travelling to have their collections properly looked after and kept up to date.

Since quite early in the war Mr. Field has made a strong feature of war stamps, and his stock of these runs into some thousands of pounds. I should not care to hazard a guess at what his Togos would catalogue to in the mass. Togos, including many of the rarest varieties, Bushires, "G. R. I"-eties, are here in abundance and it would delight any war stamp enthusiast to spend a day dipping here and there into the well arranged stock books of war stamps in this fine shop.

The Philatelic Stores, Ltd.

A good way further up Bond Street we turn into South Molton Street, where at No. 3 we find "The Philatelic Stores, Ltd." This is a concern which has developed out of the business of Mr. Alexander J. Sefi, who is the Managing Director. The shop is a double fronted one, in window area, not far short of the great display in the Royal Arcade.

Mr. Sefi has a keen interest in the study of stamps and has specialised some out-of-the-way and difficult countries. His specialised collection of Kashmir is an important and wonderful one; it impresses one with the range of variety in these heathenish issues, which are only neglected nowadays by collectors because of the difficulty of intelligibly following the language in which they are inscribed. But with the older collectors they are still popular, and indeed these quaint stamps from the romantic East are exceptionally well worth studying, as Mr. Sefi has found. His Kashmirs have won golden trophies at philatelic exhibitions in London and Paris.

The head of the firm is still in love with his Kashmirs, but his general taste in stamps is for the classic issues, and there are few of the younger generation of dealers today who have a nice judgment nor a more fastidious regard for condition than Mr. Sefi. We never meet him but we like to get a glimpse at the "drawing room" pieces with which his pocket book is invariably bulging. Anything that is early and scarce, preferably the early imperforated stamps, in fine condition, is Mr. Sefi's aim, and we have often wondered where he finds these things not in single units but in strips or blocks, and what is equally to our taste, used on the original envelope.

Mr. Sefi edits The Philatelic Store Bulletin and every lover of fine old stamps should write for a copy of this interesting house organ. Remember the address: The Philatelic Stores, Ltd., South Molton Street, London, W.

At Ye Sign of Ye Hermes.

A call on Mr. P. L. Pemberton, 151 Strand, is a duty as well as a delight, for no American stamp lover would willingly miss a chat with the son of that brilliant young pioneer philately, Edward Louis Pemberton of the Stamp Collectors' Magazine, The Philatelist, and the Philatelic Journal days. Edward L. Pemberton died in December, 1878, at the early age of 31, and in his short life proved himself to be possessed of a veritable genius for philately. This happily has been handed down in his son, for Percy Louis Pemberton has the same instinctive understanding of stamps, and is a philatelic student in the best sense of the word. There is none in London who has made a more thorough study of the complexities of the Greek stamps than P. L. P., but that is only to mention the country that he has made peculiar his own in stamps. Throughout the whole range of stamp issues he has developed a wide knowledge, and even an American collector who does business with him need have no misgivings as to the accuracy of his descriptions or the genuineness of the stamps he sends out.

Mr. Pemberton's business is a general one; we have dipped into his stock books on many occasions to find something we wanted in a score or more of different countries, and have secured many nice things from him in European British Colonials, and War Stamp. His list of stock books is a long one and covers practically every country.

In another respect he carries on the tradition of his father. He publishes The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, our oldest living philatelic journal, and a great deal of its excellence lies in the studied contributions from his own gifted pen. If you do not know the "P. J. G. B.", send forthwith for specimen copy to Mr. P. L. Pemberton, 151 Strand, London, W. C. 2.

Ye Man with Ye Good Goods.

"If it's good I have it—if I have it's good." Thus runs the slogan of Mr. W. Houtzamer, whose address is 368 Strand, where you can test the value of the slogan for yourself. Many advertisers use catch phrases, but the effective value in a catchy line depends on whether you can support the claim it makes in fact. Well, it is common knowledge that if there is anything good going Mr. Houtzamer is the most likely man to have it, for he is the possessor of the most complete all-round stock of London; other firms' stocks may be larger, but I doubt if any are more comprehensive.

Mr. Houtzamer is a comparative

CONCERNING OURSELVES and, we hope, YOU

Since the demobilisation of our Directors we have been busy getting our business in smooth running order and so have been unable to devote the time we should have liked to the development of our American trade. Now, however, we are satisfied that we can invite your patronage with every confidence that we can be of service to you.

Under the personal direction of Mr. Alexander J. Sefi we endeavour to cater for every grade of Stamp Collector from Beginner to Advanced Specialist. We hold one of the best stocks in this country and can supply practically everything in British Colonies and in most other Countries. We specialise in the "Classic" issues of every country and our stock of all the early imperforates is extremely strong. As example we mention the following.

GREAT BRITAIN—Over 2000 1840, every 1d black being correctly "plated."

INDIA—Probably the finest stock of 1854 issues in the world—singles, pairs and blocks, on and off cover and several complete sheets. Of the 4as alone we have over 200 in all dies and settings, including 20 pairs.

VICTORIA—About 500 "half-lengths" and other imperforate issues.

GREECE—Over 3000 of the first type.

CAPE, AUSTRALIANS, GERMAN STATES, ROUMANIA, SWITZERLAND, SICILY, are all strong books but

We would emphasize the fact that we hold really good stocks of every British Colony and of most other Countries, from the early issues to the XX Century "King's Heads." We shall be pleased to send any book or smaller selection, however valuable

LONDON STAMP AUCTIONS

London is the Mecca of the stamp collector. There are 7 auctioneers in London who devote themselves wholly or partly to the sale of stamps. Hardly a day passes without a stamp Auction being held, and as many as four sales have taken place on the same day.

Although only established as a Stamp Auctioneer some 18 months ago, A. H. THOMPSON has succeeded in gaining the confidence of buyers and sellers alike. A proof of which is the fact that no other stamp auctioneer has sold as many lots during their first 18 months existence.

£2812 was obtained for the Marr collection, and many record prices have been obtained.

"How to buy stamps at the London Auctions, although thousands of miles away" is the title of a booklet for the collector, quite a new idea in stamp sales. Write for a copy.

As the majority of stamps received for sale are sold within three weeks of receipt, it is impossible to prepare catalogues sufficiently in advance for circulation beyond the continent of Europe, but U. S. A. and other more distant collectors can have their wishes interpreted as if they were personally attending the sale.

THE STORY OF THE "TAPLING." BRITAIN'S GREAT SHOW COLLECTION.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The Tapling Collection of postage stamps and postal stationery at the British Museum is a monumental accumulation of philatelic specimens. It contains probably over 100,000 stamps with a present market value of about £200,000; it is the best collection in this country, and the third, in point of value, in the world.

As is the case with every great collection, the Tapling display is the result of splendid enthusiasm and untiring activity. It was formed by the late Mr. Thomas Keay Tapling, Conservative M. P. for the Harborough division of Leicestershire. He was born in 1855, and when fifteen was at Harrow, whence he went to Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and graduated with honours in law in 1878. In 1880 he was called to the Bar at the Inner Temple.

The death of his father, in 1882, left Mr. Tapling the charge of an important business in London, into the conduct of which he entered with zeal and commercial acumen.

Twice he contested the Harborough division of Leicestershire, failing, in 1885, by 166 votes; yet succeeding the following year in the same division by a majority of 1,138. His political career was, however, short, for his death took place within five years of his election.

As a philatelist, his story is one of striking perseverance and almost unbroken continuity. Starting when about ten years of age he retained his interest in the pursuit while at Harrow, relaxing only temporarily during his residence at Cambridge. At Harrow he had the good fortune to receive a gift of £100, conditional on his spending and not banking it; the whole amount went on stamps, carefully and judiciously purchased, much to the improvement of his collection, which was even then assuming large proportions for a young lad.

While at Harrow, in 1871, Mr. Taping joined the Philatelic Society, then about three years old, and under the presidency of Sir Daniel Cooper.

About this time an incident occurred which shows how easily a special rarity can be lost to a great collection. An old established firm of dealers offered Mr. Taping, for £2, a 12d black Canada, 1851, on wove paper. The normal variety is on laid paper—the stamp on wove paper was until then unknown, and it was with the greatest reluctance that Mr. Taping, not being able to afford it, had to return it. He, however, referred the dealer to Sir Daniel Cooper, who bought the specimen for his own collection. (Sir Daniel Cooper's collection was sold to Herr P. von Ferrary, in 1878, for £3000.) It may be mentioned that the normal variety of the Canadian 12d black stamp is worth nearly £100, specimens having been sold at auction for as much as £75. This rarity is represented in the collection by a pair and a single unused and one used specimen. (See case I, slide 137.)

In 1881 Mr. Taping became Vice-President of the Philatelic Society in place of Mr. Victoriano G. Ysasi, a Spanish collector, resident in London, who had held the post since 1878. Shortly before Mr. Ysasi died, his collection, which was practically a complete one, was being sold gradually, and Mr. Taping acquired some of its most interesting sections. Mr. Taping retained the post of Vice-President until his death in 1891. The year following his election to this position Mr. Taping made a splendid addition to his collection by the purchase of one formed by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Image. This collection, originally founded by Mrs. Image after receiving a gift of some triangular Cape of Good Hope stamps, was taken over and greatly added to by her husband after her death in 1872. Nearly all the principal rarities were included in it, and it included postal stationery as well as adhesive postage stamps.

The collection lacked the famous Post Office Mauritius specimens, for while Mr. Image rarely let an opportunity go of adding a new stamp to his collection, he refused an offer of the Mauritius at £240. The price which Mr. Taping paid for Mr. Image's albums was £3,000, which is believed to have been a particularly advantageous deal for Mr. Taping.

The next great acquisition of this insatiable philatelist was the fine collection of European stamps founded by Mr. W. A. S. Westoby, one of the most prolific of philatelic writers, and a philatelist of the first merit. He was editor for a time of the Philatelic Record, and also of the Monthly Circular, and was author of The Adhesive Postage Stamps of Europe, and part author of an important work on The Stamps of Great Britain.

Although Mr. Westoby was a collector from 1862, it was not until much later that he started giving special attention to the stamps of Europe. A notable feature of his collection was the uniform perfection of his specimens. Retaining only his stamps of the United Kingdom, he sold his European stamps to Mr. Taping about the year 1884.

Although Mr. Taping did not purchase the collection of Mr. Maitland Burnett, first editor of the Philatelic Record and honorary secretary of the Philatelic Society, he acquired the chief rarities it contained when it was sold in 1885, notably a Cape of Good Hope triangular stamp, watermarked with a crown design and the letters CC. (case 1, slide 145).

Another collection from which Mr. Taping was able to extract the choicest specimens was a superb display of stamps of Mauritius, compiled by Major E. B. Evans, R. A., editor of Stanley Gibbon's Monthly Journal, and author of numerous philatelic works. Early Afghanistan issues, and a fine selection of the stamps of Portuguese and British India, were added to his great accumulation from the albums of Captain Weare, and some of the British Guiana rarities from the collection of Mr. B. Luard, of Georgetown.

One of the foremost collectors of the present day is Mr. M. P. Cast, J. P., of Brighton, who, starting in 1878, succeeded in forming a very fine general collection; after nine years, however, he decided to confine his attention to the stamps of British Australia, and so he disposed of the other portions of his collections. Many of the finest pieces in his albums passed into Mr. Taping's, who, during his last ten years, had the pick of nearly every fine collection that came upon the market.

The finest of his later acquisitions was undoubtedly a part of the great accumulation founded by the two brothers Georges and Martial Caillebotte, Paris. The combination of the two brothers, enthusiastically engaged in building up one gigantic collection, was remarkably successful, and in the course of ten years (1877-1887) they had one of the most magnificent collections in existence, not only of postal adhesive stamps, but of postal and telegraph stationery of all kinds. It was the collection comprising the adhesive stamps that Mr. Taping purchased in 1887, at Martial Caillebotte's marriage in the year having left his brother single-handed, and so unable to continue the great work. The price paid by Mr. Taping for the Caillebottes' adhesive was £5,000; so fine was it, both in specimens and arrangement that instead of extracting from it what his own album lacked, he used the Caillebotte collection as the foundation for a re-arranged collection, supplementing it from his own original albums.

But it must not be assumed that the Taping collection was solely accumulated by the purchase of large and portant collections; the founder of it was an assiduous hunter after individual specimens, and some of the finest portions of the collection are the result of his personal searching and knowledge. He corresponded widely in his endeavours to procure varieties he wanted in the country of their issue, and thus secured many of the very choice specimens of the early New South Wales stamps, which are now in the cases in the British Museum, and several of the older members of the Philatelic Society remember the real pleasure the late Vice-President took in displaying a new and valuable acquisition in the form of some fine block or single rarity.

The arrangement of the collection went through several changes, and after it had been mounted in the Caillebotte's albums, Mr. Tapling intended to adopt a more permanent system and one which would allow of its expansion without overcrowding any particular portion of it. A hundred handsome red morocco albums, each arranged to hold sixty detachable leaves, were purchased from Judge Philbrick who a few years previously had sold his chief collection to Herr von Ferrary, of Paris, for £8,000. The stamps were to be mounted each on a small card with a red margin, and then the cards were to be affixed to the leaves of the album. One of the obvious advantages of this system was: that the stamps could be re-arranged at will without remounting each stamp, and so handling it over and over again. The leaves of the albums were arranged like certain book files, and could be removed and re-arranged by means of a clasp.

The order in which Mr. Tapling intended the stamps to be mounted in the album was to show first a complete issue unused; following this the shades and varieties of each value in the set were to be treated separately. The advantage of putting one complete set first, is that it forms an index to the series, and shows at a glance how many values there were in the issue under examination. An important feature of the collection as it now stands is the inclusion along with many of the stamps of reprints, official imitations and forgeries, the last being particularly valuable for reference.

Mr. Edward Denny Bacon, M. V. O., one of the foremost of living philatelists, was an intimate friend of Mr. Tapling, and being an eager student of his friend's vast collection is said to have been better acquainted with it than was the owner himself. He was also fully acquainted with Mr. Tapling's desires in the matter of arrangement, and when the member for the Harborough division died in April, 1891, leaving his entire collection to the British Museum, he was the man most able and fitted to do the work of suitably arranging this monumental collection. The work was entrusted to him, and the task has taken him between seven and eight years.

Even before Mr. Bacon had completed the arrangement of the stamps, it was evident that a very great difficulty presented itself, in the matter of a convenient method for displaying the stamps to the public. It was at first proposed to place the thin cards, on which the stamps were mounted, in shallow glass or drawers; but the experiments with them did not prove very satisfactory, and led to the adoption of cases with vertical slides and glass on both sides, and each containing four cards of stamps, thus economising space—a matter of the utmost importance. In workmanship and suitability the cases are perfect. The slides draw out an ample distance to allow of a close inspection of every specimen, and cannot be detached from the case. Immediately the visitor has concluded his examination the slide is pressed back, and the stamps are preserved from the deteriorating effect of light. The three cases, so elaborate and perfect in construction, were made at a cost of about £3,600. Each holds 396 slides; thus there are 188 slides, containing 4,752 cards of stamps, envelopes and postcards.

Two commissioners are always standing close to the cases which occupy a conspicuous position in the centre of the King's Library; but even with this precaution, it has not been deemed wise to place the chief rara aves with the bulk of the collection. Less than a score of stamps, where individual value is represented in hundreds of pounds, are kept in a safe in the inner recesses of the library. This little selection of philatelic gems, consisting of Mauritius, British Guiana and Hawaiian stamps, forms a very choice display by itself, and may be inspected on application in the Cracherode room. The stamps are mounted in glass-covered hand cases, and are conveniently arranged for very close examination.

To venture upon an analysis of the collection itself would be out of the question. It is very nearly complete in all issues of postal adhesive stamps right up to the end of 1889. The collection is particularly complete in unused specimens, Mr. Tapling having always made a point of getting at least one such specimen of every stamp in all its varieties.

The section devoted to Great Britain is very fine, and fills 55 slides, or 220 cards; it contains nearly every variety of the stamps of this country known to the most advanced specialists. In addition to the ordinary issues, there are proofs and trial impressions of the original dies and plates in divers colours, and specimens cut from the imprimatur sheets deposited at Somerset House. There are also sets of stamps which would recall college memories to many a University man, who had quite forgotten the days (dating back to the seventies and early eighties) when various colleges at Oxford and Cambridge issued stamps for use on letters carried by the college messengers. These stamps, after an existence of fourteen years, were suppressed at the instance of a new postmaster general in 1885, as an infringement of the State monopoly.

In Mr. Tapling's collection there are, in addition to a good display of college stamps, specimens of other British local stamps. The Edinburgh and Leith-Circular Delivery Company, which started in 1865, was the forerunner of several similar enterprises in London, Liverpool, Birmingham, Glasgow, Dundee and Aberdeen. Specimens of the stamps issued by all these companies all of which were suppressed in 1867, are included in the very fine English section of the Tapling collection.

Mr. Bacon, who is more intimately acquainted with the collection as a whole than any other living philatelist, describes it as being singularly rich in the stamps of every country, and it is difficult to specify one which is more perfectly represented in it than another.

One feature of the collection, which has largely aided scientific philatelists in their researches, is the splendid series of re-constructed sheets of certain stamps, which, owing to the process employed in their production, are not all exactly alike on the sheet. The re-constructed or re-arranged sheets show the positions which stamps, slightly differing in type, occupied on the sheet as originally sent out by the post office.

A few of the chief gems of the vast accumulation may well be enumerated. In the Mauritius section there are two varieties which are deemed too valuable to leave in the cases. The first of these is the One Penny red stamp of 1847, bearing the words Post Office on the left hand side. The specimen, which is in perfect condition, used on the entire original envelope, should be worth between £800 and £1,000, and was the chief gem in Major Evans' fine lot of Mauritius stamps. A similar stamp, after having occupied a corner in the Earl of Kintore's album, was recently acquired by H. M. King George for £850; the companion stamp—the 2d blue "Post Office" Mauritius, is also represented by a superb copy (in this case unused) at the British Museum. This Mr. Tapling procured in exchange from Herr Ferrary, whose albums contain four specimens of these two stamps. It may be mentioned that the British Museum have made arrangements with Stanley Gibbons Inc., New York, by which the London House can, in future, deal direct with all clients in the U. S. A.

STANLEY GIBBONS, Limited, 391 STRAND, LONDON, ENGLAND

N. B. Now is the time for U. S. collectors to make their purchases in Great Britain. Our stamps are all priced in "pounds" but our pound can now be bought for about $3.60 in place of the pre-war exchange of $4.87, this being over 25% discount in favour of our U. S. friends.

Recent Purchases

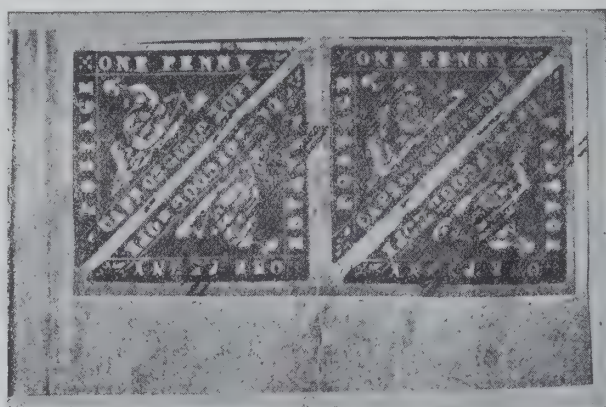

In addition to our large general stock we have recently made some very important purchases, from which selections can be sent to clients in the United States:—

General Collection of Sir J. Andrew Clark

This is contained in 44 large volumes, and prices up to over $150,000.00. There are 8 volumes of unused British and Colonials, and then 10 thick volumes of used Colonials, including single stamps, blocks and a large number of stamps on letters. This is followed by 26 volumes of Foreign Stamps, unused and used collected together. (See details and list of rarities in our Monthly Circular for Aug. and Sept., 1920.)

Cape of Good Hope

We have just priced the "Smuts" collection, of Cape Town, South Africa. This is the largest and most valuable collection of these stamps in the world. It is contained in 16 volumes of which eight consist of triangular stamps.

This illustration is that of a block of 4 of the 1d red "Wood Blocks". There are four of these blocks in the collection priced at £200 to £300 per block of four. There are 231 Wood Blocks in the collection of which nine are errors. The triangular stamps number 3623 including many pairs and large blocks of unused and used and hundreds of stamps on original covers. For full details and very interesting article on the Cape stamps see our Monthly Circular for October, 1920.

Confederate States of America

We have bought the famous "Curtiss" collection of these much undervalued stamps. All the large stamps of the first type are plated, and there are many extra large blocks of unused, hundreds of stamps on letters, rare postmarks, transfer varieties, plate flaws, etc. Superb lot of small stamps, many entire sheets, imprints, etc. These most interesting War stamps deserve much more study and should be specialized in by all really keen American Philatelists. For full details and interesting article see our Monthly Circular for July, 1920.

United States Stamps

We hold the finest stock of these stamps outside the U. S., as we have been buying them for some years, realizing that stocks in Great Britain and France are almost exhausted and thoroughly believing that the early Government issues of the U. S. (1847 to 1888) are among the most interesting to the specialist, as well as one of the best investments that the most careful collector could desire.

Unused United States

For years we have been selecting and putting in reserve, all the well centered stamps with full gum that we could obtain, the stamp without gum or less well centred being used in our ordinary stock.

Used United States

We have a grand lot of these, with many good postmarks in green, red, blue, violet and brown, also Railroad, Steam, Steamboat and other scarce cancellations. We have bought some good specialised collections of the 1851, 1c and 3c, and 1857, 1c and 3c, and can send many interesting and valuable pieces to collectors who care to pay a fair price for fine goods, but bargain hunters will find us of no use to them.

WANTED TO PURCHASE For Cash at Top Market Rates

Fine specialised collections of early U. S. stamps, rare stamps or letters, fine blocks of unused and anything fine, rare and out of the ordinary. Nothing later than 1888 wanted.

Canada, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick

We are open to purchase small or large collections of any of the above or any single rarities of stamps issued before 1880. We also want any "pence" issue on covers, bisected stamps on covers of all North Americans, and anything old and valuable in all the North American Colonies.

Sicily

Wanted, everything in this country, singles, unused and used pairs and blocks. High prices for fine pieces.

Send all on approval, cash or goods returned by following mail. ALWAYS MARK LOWEST CASH PRICE FOR ALL STAMPS SENT ON APPROVAL.

DEPARTMENT

We have the finest stock of postage stamps in the world. From the greatest rarities to the commonest varieties the GIBBONS stock is thoroughly representative. You need not cross the Atlantic to see it, (though we shall be very glad to meet you when you do), as our Approval Department exists for the sole purpose of sending you the stamps that interest you. You may have thousands of dollars to spend in your hobby, or only a few nickels. It makes no difference to us, as we give prompt attention and courteous treatment to all. We only ask you to let us know the class of stamps you want to see, stating name of country and whether you collect unused or used, singles, pairs, blocks, minor varieties, etc. Our expert staff will see that you get just what you want. If you are a beginner we can send you one of our NEW APPROVAL SHEETS of your pet country. Medium collectors have the choice of thousands of SMALL BOOKS; while advanced specialists get the pick of most of the FINEST COLLECTIONS ON THE MARKET. Only let us know what interests you and we will do the rest. WANT LISTS according to Gibbons, Scott, Yvert, etc., receive prompt and careful attention.

CALLS FOR

A High Class Loose-Leaf Album

Many of the world's finest collections are housed in our "Oriol", "G. H. S." or "Philatelic" albums. Every detail in these fine volumes has been carefully thought out and nothing has been left undone which can insure the safety and effective display of the stamps they contain.

"Sectional Imperial" Album

This album applies the instalment system to the purchase of a stamp book. Each country forms a separate section and is printed on loose leaves. The collector buys the sections for the countries which interest him, just when he requires them and keeps them in spring-backed binders specially made for the album. By this system the buying of unnecessary sheets is entirely avoided.

ILLUSTRATED GUIDE FOR STAMP COLLECTORS

Sent free to any address on request. This useful book gives many valuable hints on forming a collection and getting together a stamp outfit. It also includes full details of all our ALBUMS, PUBLICATIONS and ACCESSORIES, with illustrations and prices.

Fine British Colonial Collection

This is something quite out of the ordinary. 100 of the scarcer British Colonials, not "common as dirt" varieties, but real good stamps. Every purchaser has been thoroughly satisfied with these exceptional packets.

BRIDGER & KAY, LTD.

71 FLEET STREET, LONDON, E. C.

STORY OF THE "TAPLING."

specimen is only slightly inferior to the one the King purchased at auction in January, 1904, for £1,450—there are fuller margins round the King's stamp. In all the other early issues of Mauritius, the Taping collection unquestionably comprises a superb display.

Foremost among the Hawaiian specimens is the two cents of the first issue. This appeared in 1851, and within two days of its issue the General Post Office at Honolulu was burnt down, and with it was destroyed the stock of these stamps. Only a dozen copies are known to remain, and in 1889 a specimen was sold for £740. It is a very unpretentious looking type-set label, to which perhaps none but the trained stamp collector would give a second thought if it were encountered outside the precincts of the stamp album. A small reproduction is given here of the first page of the Hawaiian portion of the collection, including the specimens of the rare two cents. This serves not only to give a general idea of the arrangement, but also to show one of the most valuable pages in the whole collection, representing not less than £2,000. The two stamps at the top have, however, been removed, and are kept with the other great rarities. The page without the 2 cents specimens is to be seen in slide 398.

Another stamp of the greatest rarity is the 2 cents British Guiana, 1851. This consists of an ill-formed circle enclosing the type inscription "British Guiana, 2 cents," printed in black upon rose-coloured paper. So crude were these labels that, as a prevention against imitation, the postmaster initialled every specimen that was sent out. An unused pair of these stamps has fetched as much as £1,000. The 4 cents British Guiana, 1856, is also represented, its value being close upon £100. Both of these are in the Taping safe in the Cracherode Room.

Another remarkable stamp in the collection is the 81 paras Moldavia, 1858, which is worth a very large sum—a specimen was sold at auction for £320, but copies have been sold since for considerably less amounts. Of this gem there are no fewer than four copies, two unused, two used. One of the latter is on a piece of the original cover. These are to be found, along with other valuable stamps of the same issue in slides 744 and 745.

The collection is very rich in triangular Cape of Good Hope stamps, which are particularly popular with all classes of collectors; a 1d so-called "Woodblock" specimen is illustrated here (slide 144).

The 12d black Canada, 1851 (slide 137), is of great rarity, and usually fetches from £70 upwards when offered at auction; the Tuscany 3 lire of 1860 (slides 1009, 1010), is of about equal value; so also is the stamp issued by the postmaster of Brattleboro', in the United States, in 1846, some months before the Governmental issues appeared (slide 1011).

The two Réunion stamps illustrated, the 15 centimes and 30 centimes, worth £50 and £60 respectively, are represented by ten copies in slide 738; Nova Scotia's 1s violet of 1851 (slide 646), the famous Swiss "Double Geneva" of 1843 (slide 937), the Zurich 4 Rappen, also of 1843 (slide 936), and the Connell stamp, bearing a portrait of Postmaster General Connell (slide 585), of New Brunswick, are worth approximately £20 apiece.

The collection also contains a very fine series of telegraph stamps and embossed envelopes, newspaper wrappers, and postcards. Of particular interest are the Sardinian letter sheets of 1818 and 1820 (slide 1121), two decades earlier than the introduction of the adhesive postage stamps in 1840; these are sheets of paper impressed with a circular stamp enclosing a design of a mounted post-boy blowing his horn.

New South Wales was before the

"Mulready" envelope of 1840, with its "Sydney letter sheet," which is also shown in the collection (slide 1125). This appeared in 1838, and the sheets were sold in packets of a dozen for 1s 3d, and did postal duty locally in Sydney.

The "Mulready" envelopes and letter sheets are well represented (slides 1116, 1117), and an interesting, though not very rare specimen, is the "balloon post" (slide 1114) letter sheet, on which messages from the Parisians were carried by balloon during the siege of Paris; fifty-four balloons leaving Paris between September 19th, 1870, and January 28th, 1871, carried nearly two and a half million messages.

Only a small portion of the collection of post cards, envelopes and other postal stationery can be seen in the slides, but the cupboards which are provided in the base of each of the cases contain a collection sufficient to fill another entire case of slides. It is to be hoped that this section may before long be available for public inspection in all its completeness.

These are but a few of the points of interest in this bequest. It is to be regretted that the trustees of the British Museum cannot continue the collection in the interests of philately and of postal history, to say nothing of the other utilitarian value which such an encyclopædia of engravings must prove to artists, designers, printers and colourists. The collection, so far as it goes, is practically complete, but it stops at 1890. It had been Mr. Taping's intention not to include stamps issued in 1890 and later, thus closing his collection with the issues of the year 1889; but now that the collection occupies a distinguished position in the British Museum, and is available for reference to all, its value would be vastly increased by bringing it up to date. Want of space, probably, more than anything else, is responsible for the reluctance of the trustees to add to the collection, for philatelists themselves would be ready to provide a permanently complete collection, the expenses of which would not be great, as the specimens could, in the case of the Colonial stamps, be supplied from the Crown Agents, and, in the case of foreign stamps, from the headquarters of the Postal Union at Bern.

As the collection stands, however, it is a monument to the perseverance and magnanimity of Mr. T. K. Taping, whose splendid bequest has made his first name among philatelists, and stamp collectors are indebted more than they can well appreciate to the skill and ability with which Mr. E. D. Bacon has prepared the stamps for their edification and pleasure.

WAR STAMPS IN PACKETS

Two Entirely New Series of Packets of War Stamps have been prepared. Both kinds are of sterling value, every stamp is in good condition and guaranteed genuine. Series A Packets contain only mint stamps, and included in these are very many stamps of high catalogue value seldom or never found in made-up Collections. They are made up purely and simply from lines that we happen to have in stock regardless of rarity, and do not consist of the cheapest kinds that can be accumulated. Series B are excellent Collections and contain both used and unused. They are wonderful value, and most attractive European stamps are represented.

All Stamps in both Series are guaranteed genuine and in perfect condition.

SERIES A

- Packet A 1.—100 British Colonial War Stamps, all different and mint $7.50
- This is a splendid nucleus for a collection of these historic and rare stamps, and, in fact, is almost a collection in itself. No minor varieties are included, and many of the scarce Occupation stamps are to be found in it.
- Among the stamps included are:—"G. E. A.," set of 9; New Britain—surcharged German Colonial Stamp; North Borneo Red Cross Stamps; "N. F.," two catalogued $2; Palestine, rouletted; Cameroons Ex. Force on German Colonial Issue; Nauru, complete set up to and including 1sh value.
- A 2.—200 Foreign War Stamps, all different and mint, including a fine selection of French Red Cross, Lettland, Czecho-Slovak, Jubilee, etc., etc. Splendid value $10.00
- A 3.—75 Foreign War Stamps, all different and mint, including many scarce provisionals. Fine quality 3.50

SERIES B

- B 1.— 40 different British and Colonial War Stamps, used and unused75
- B 2.— 100 different War Stamps, British, Colonial, and Foreign, used and unused60
- B 3.— 200 different War Stamps, British, Colonial, and Foreign, used and unused 2.50
- B 4.— 300 different War Stamps, British, Colonial, and Foreign, used and unused 5.00
- B 5.— 500 different War Stamps, British, Colonial, and Foreign, used and unused 13.00

Postage Stamps of the Great War and after 1914-19

A Descriptive Priced Catalogue and Guide for Collectors

Profusely illustrated. Price 50c
2nd Edition Now Ready

One of the finest stocks of Postage Stamps in the World is at the disposal of Collectors at home and abroad.

WAR STAMPS are our specialty. We hold the largest, the most complete, and the most valuable stock of these issues in existence. Practically all the greatest rarities have passed through our hands. Our present stock of War Stamps includes a recently acquired $40,000 Collection.

This is now being priced, and can be seen at the Royal Arcade or separate countries will gladly be sent on approval to serious buyers.

KING GEORGE COLONIAL STAMPS. In view of the many changes in colour and shades that are occurring, collectors are strongly advised to keep pace with these issues. We hold a wonderful stock of EDWARDIAN and GEORGIAN COLONIALS, including the highest values, such as CEYLON 100 rupees and 500 rupees, STRAITS SETTLEMENTS 100 dollars, NORTHERN NIGERIA £25, etc.

OLD ISSUES OF BRITISH COLONIAL STAMPS. Here again we carry a large stock—always being rapidly depleted and replenished. Many great rarities have recently passed through our hands, e. g., Nova Scotia, 1sh mint, New Brunswick, 1sh mint.

GREAT BRITAIN. Some of the greatest rarities are for sale, including most of the "starred" plate numbers.

We are particularly desirous of purchasing a collection of unused Great Britain at the moment. Top price paid for the right goods, but the condition must be fine.

Serious collectors cannot afford to be out of touch with us. Prompt and courteous attention to all inquiries, verbal or written.

STAMPS IN THE SALE ROOM.

Romance of Auctioneering.—It is nearly fifty years since the first stamp auction was held in London. That was in 1872 at Sotheby's. The enterprise then was a little in advance of the progress of philately, for there was a long interval before the experiment was again tried.

Sixteen years after that initial auction there began the custom which has ever since held popular vogue in the stamp world—that of buying and selling stamps in the sale room. For many years now London has enjoyed more stamp sales to the week and to the season than any other of the philatelic capitals. It may be said that there is a stamp sale held in London practically every day during the season.

Influence of Stamp Sales.—The very prevalence of stamp auctions—all of them doing good business—augurs well for the state, present and prospective, of the pastime which gave this lucrative business its birth. The constant passing of stamps from seller to buyer, from collector to dealer, and dealer to collector, imparts an impetus to the hobby compared with which there is no approximate influence at work in any other collecting hobby.

Stamp auctioneers have therefore more than a raison d'être; they perform a function necessary to the stamp collecting of today, and provide movement and life—to say nothing of "unearned increment" to the objects of our dilettantism or connoisseurism.

The History of a Firm.—Among the auctioneers making a specialty of sales of postage stamps few are better known to readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY than Messrs. Harmer, Rooke and Co. This business, which originated in 1901, under the name of Martin, Ray and Co., has of recent years made rapid strides. For the first four years of the firm's existence the amount of work achieved was not very considerable. In all, between 1901 and 1905, there were held eighty public sales of stamps. The sales were then conducted fortnightly.

In 1905 new blood was introduced into the business in the person of Mr. E. G. Harmer, who has since acquired the sole interest in the concern. From the coming of the new proprietor dates the era of progress and prosperity which, as we shall see, is not inconsiderable.

But let Mr. Harmer tell the story, for he has himself wielded the hammer at over six hundred sales; he has sold over 300,000 lots, and as to the number of times he has enunciated the fateful dirge from the rostrum of "going, going, gone", it baffles our mathematical capacity to estimate.

A Record of Steady Growth.—"Since I came into this business," Mr. Harmer tells us, "each year has seen a steady increase in the volume of the work done. Our turnover is perhaps the best guide to the progress we have been making, and we have no hesitation in publishing it—we are in fact proud of each successive year's advance."

Saturday Stamp Sales.—"How did we do it? Well, if one is to make progress and the business does not grow of its own accord, any manager in his right senses would set about to find some way of making things 'move'. Actually our trouble was this—there are only so many weeks in the year and the number of Mondays in twelve months is limited. And you can't lengthen the Monday sales abnormally to accommodate more lots, because an allowance must be made for the frailty of even the keenest of stamp men. Nearly every other day was already taken up with a stamp sale, so it would not have been good business to start a competing event. "Then an idea occurred to me that I thought would catch on. Stamp collecting is a hobby with most people—they have only their spare time to give to it. The rest of their time they are tied up in their offices and cannot get away to attend a sale and make sure of getting the lots they particularly want.

"I started our popular Saturday afternoon sales which have from the first been a very successful addition to our work. They are attended by numbers of business people who are glad to get the chance of buying stamps at auction. It opened up for us quite a new clientèle in the number of people who attend on Saturday after business hours who could never get to our Monday sales. This season we are inaugurating 'lunch hour' sales to still further cultivate our great clientèle of business people.

Sale Room and Offices Under one Roof.—"We moved from our old home in Chancery Lane in 1907 and came to our present quarters in Fleet Street. We took the entire floor and converted it into an auction room providing seating accommodation for from fifty to sixty visitors, and two offices.

"We find it a great advantage to have our offices and sale room under one roof. There is no chance of the occurrence of such incidents as are occasioned by the assistants leaving some of the lots behind at the offices. I have occasionally heard auctioneers say 'this lot was too bulky to bring along with us'. Every lot we sell is in the room and on view at the time of the sale. The rooms are conveniently together in other ways. Collectors and dealers are constantly in and out examining the lots, of which there are plenty nearly every day on view, owing to the frequency of the sales.

Philatelic and Other Refreshment.—"We have always endeavoured to make the sales popular with both dealer and collector. Our Saturday afternoon sales are a feature of this policy. They commence at two o'clock and are generally over by five. But the time is passing pleasantly enough, for we provide our visitors with tea and other refreshment.

"Most auctioneers require lots to be sent in some months in advance of the sale, but we pride ourselves on our guarantee of early inclusion in the sale and upon the not less important feature to the vendors of settlements in ten or fourteen days after the sale.

"Collections? Yes, we have dispersed many fine ones, but our chief feature is the sale of large consignments of whose sale lots received from India, Morocco, Italy and the United States. We conduct wholesale sales several times every month, and have sold dealers' stock running into four figures.

Advertising that Pays.—"Yes, we believe in advertising. We have advertised now consistently in MEKEEL'S with success. Where most people in the stamp trade fail with their advertisements is that they lack the pluck to keep pegging away by means of advertisements. It is not so much that the copy is bad, as that they are only content to insert the advertisements spasmodically. We advertise also in India, the United States, Australia, Germany, France and Holland, and in the general newspapers. Even in novels we find a profitable source of new business, and the little post office stamp booklets have circulated our announcements to millions of people.

"Our correspondence is considerable, and for an auction firm we have maintained a good number of assistants, clerical and philatelic. Talking of correspondence, I had a letter the other day from a lady who said that her daughter had 'gathered' some stamps and would like us to provide her in place thereof with a piano or a Shetland pony. It is although we could not supply the latter with her particular desires we often bring with them what we are mainly here for, namely, good business."

London Stamp Club.
ore we leave the "Philatelic Mile",
h extends from the Strand to Lud-Circus, we must drop in at the ion Stamp Club, the one-year-old venture of Mr. F. H. Vallancey, the proprietor of our only philatelic newspaper, Stamp Collecting. The Club premises adjoin the offices of the newspaper at 89 Farringdon Street, and consist of a large club room, with a smaller office adjoining it, in which the Secretary, Mr. Whittard, sits at the receipt of custom, and ready to welcome any visitors who may drop in. In the smaller room too is housed the fine philatelic library, the most accessible library for the philatelic community in London. The privilege of access to this fine library alone should be worth the modest subscription of 10sh per annum.

The large club room is laid out as a reading room, where you can read the recent issues of MEKEEL'S and a hundred other stamp journals from all over the world. On certain evenings the club room is crowded with members for the popular meetings, at which various members of the Club exhibit choice collections for the entertainment of fellow members.

"Stamp Collecting".

After an inspection of the club rooms
we must look around the offices of Stamp Collecting, the only philatelic weekly at present published in the United Kingdom. Its editor is Mr.
Derek Ingram, who is one of the brightest jewels in the crown of the Junior Philatelic Society, in whose ranks he and several others of our most prominent philatelic journalists took their degrees. His facile and gifted pen, coupled with Mr. Vallancey's business capacity and unbounded energy, have brought Stamp Collecting—the newspaper—to a position in British philately which has never been surpassed or equalled by any of our philatelic journals in regard to influence and circulation. It is chatty, readable and brimful of advertisements, and it is something for Mr. Vallancey to have achieved that Stamp Collecting is probably the first British stamp paper which has proved a really profitable enterprise to its owner.

Ye Old Booke Shoppe.

Mr. Vallancey has done something else in recent years for which I must accord him a meed of praise. He has developed in the philatelic public a keener appreciation of the vast treasure house of philatelic literature. In the earlier years of my library labours, the author's sole remuneration for a substantial monograph was a dozen or half a dozen copies of the work when published. It was rare for a book on a specialised stamp subject to sell more than 100 to 150 copies. During the run of the Melville Stamp Books I had the satisfaction of seeing some of them run to 8,000 or 9,000, but the average sale for a stamp book (other than a priced catalogue) is even today not in four figures. But at 89 Farringdon Street you can see vast stores of philatelic books and papers, which are being made to live again, and render up the knowledge and the ideas they have accumulated during the six decades in which men—and women—have written on stamps. Many of these works are now rare, and a single copy fetches more than the original author got for the whole of his work.

If you are wanting to get hold of most of what has been written on the stamps of your pet country, you cannot do better than write to Vallancey about it. He will not only find the references for you, but in most cases he will be able to furnish—at a reasonable cost—actual copies of the book or article.

OLD BOND STREET GALLERIES

6, 7 and 8 OLD BOND STREET, LONDON, W. 1

HIGH CLASS STAMP AUCTIONS

In the heart of the most fashionable and exclusive business street in London and directly opposite Agnew's famous Picture Galleries in Old Bond St., where one can buy a Reynolds or a Gainsborough for a trifle of $100,000.00 or so, you may find the most brilliantly lit, the largest and best appointed, and by far the most comfortable Stamp Auction Rooms in the Whole World.

There, four or five times a month, are offered many of the greatest of London's Philatelic Gems, and prices are realised that astound the uninitiated and delight the happy owner.

Quality Not Quantity

As an example—in the last sale, were offered no less than

40 OF THE FAMOUS MAURITIUS POST-PAIDS

and such desiderata as the 1 franc Vermilion of France on piece (realised £85), 27 paras Moldavia, a trifle thinned but good enough to bring £130, a strip of three 1d Sydney Views £42.

In the previous sale which realised a total of nearly $15,000.00 in about five hours, was sold the famous 20sh black Niger Coast provisional of which only one other copy exists, and such gems as Switzerland complete, early British Guianas, Ceylon imperf. complete, Old German States complete, superb "Wood-blocks", one of which, a 4d, of excellent colour, but not the dark blue, brought a record price of £38.

"Rubbish" is Rigidly Excluded

Owners of valuable and rare stamps suitable for the London market are invited to send them to Mr. H. R. Harmer, preferably with some idea of the price desired.

Commission charged for selling is 12½% of the Amount Realised

Collections are also sold by private treaty and collectors having important Collections particularly when highly specialised, are requested to send full details and particulars.

£5000 was obtained for a collection of British Colonials recently sold by private treaty.

Auction of Wholesale Lines are held from time to time and notice is given of an Important Sale of a Well-Known Wholesale Dealers Stock

which will be offered for unreserved sale in the course of the next two months.

Another Important Sale of a famous collection of British War Stamps

containing most of the great rarities will be offered shortly.

Catalogues of these two Sales, which will be posted in ample time for American buyers, will be sent post free to anyone interested. More catalogues, and of infinitely higher quality, are issued per sale, than by any other Auctioneer in London.

Lane. This is one of the oldest firms of philatelic auctioneers, and handles every year a large number of really important collections. They hold a two or three days' sale every week during the season, and it is wonderful where they get so many important collections to disperse to the delight of the seeker after rarities, and not less to the satisfaction of the vendors.

Just the other day they were selling the first portion of the "Bambridge" collection, rich in Canadians, Capes, Ceylon, Mauritius, Sicily, France and United States. In October their first sale included a fine lot of Baghdads, another great lot of Canadians, including 60 of the "Pence" issue, Capes, including upwards of 200 triangulars, over 140 Pence Ceylons, and last but by no means the least interesting, a specialised collection of Great Britain 1840 and 1841. In a few weeks' time they have to disperse the magnificent specialised collection of French stamps formed by Mr. Edward Jenkins. To give you a small idea of its great extent, I may mention there are over 600 of the first issue, and over 1000 of the Bordeaux in the collection.

The firm's catalogues are always interesting, and well illustrated, besides which when the cataloguing is done by experts like Mr. Hadlow, the bidder who sends his bids from abroad can rest assured that the stamps are in the condition described, and are to be depended upon for their authenticity. The catalogues will be sent to MEKEEL'S readers who write for them to Messrs. Plumridge & Co., 61-62 Chancery Lane, London W. C. 2.

Mr. J. Stanley Telfer of this firm is the genial and popular Hon. Secretary and Treasurer of the Permanent Executive Committee of the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain and Ireland.

At Ye Sign of Ye Queen's Head.

We have not yet exhausted the long list of calls we ought to make on a philatelic trip round London. Of course we must drop in and see Mr. Charles Nissen, the man who has made British stamp issues his life work and life study. No one who is collecting English stamps can do without Mr. Nissen, for he has been steadily absorbing all the fine things in British. Somehow, if anything nice turns up in English, it flies to Nissen as steel filings fly to a magnet. He has dwelt and moved and got his living out of British stamps, and I dare swear no living man has had so many penny blacks and two penny blues (no lines) through his hands as "Charlie" Nissen.

The study of British stamps presents many complexities, and some of the problems, like the plating of penny blacks (there were 11 plates each of 240 stamps), present to the ordinary collector of Great Britain almost unsurmountable difficulties. Think what loving labour and keen perception have gone to the enabling of Mr. Nissen to be able to tell the plate of a 1d black at sight. His eyes are extraordinarily keen for variations in stamps, and he will pick out slight variations in the gauge of perforations without ever needing to measure them.

Little wonder then that most of the discoveries made in English stamps in the past 20 years have been made by this extraordinarily gifted young philatelist.

What is that huge stack in the corner of his office? It is the newly published book on the "Line Engraved Stamps of Great Britain Printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co.", by E. D. Bacon, Esq., M. V. O. This great monograph by the President of the Royal Philatelic Society is referred to elsewhere in this London Special, but we may note here it is a tribute to the philatelic genius, the high character, and the unstinted devotion of Charles Nissen to the study of British stamps that he has been singled out by the President of the Royal Philatelic Society to publish this magnum opus on the "Mother of Stamps" and her next-of-kin.

At Ye Sign of Ye King's Head.

Let us skip along to the City, where we shall find the British Empire Stamp Co., at 42 King William Street, London E. C. 4. This is one of the most popular stamp stores on the street level in the city, with a window full of stamps old and new, which the casual passer can scarcely fail to stop and look at. Within we find the genial proprietor, Mr. W. Pugsley, who has a well-merited reputation for fair and square dealing, and is one of the most respected dealers in the city. His trade is in stamps generally, but he makes a speciality of King's heads, and issues a very handy catalogue of Edwardian and Georgian stamps of the Empire, which he will send free on request.

In Suburbia, Mr. Thomas Allen.

Writing of King's heads reminds us that we must take a run out to W. instead where at the pleasant villa "Craigard" in Blakehall Road, we shall find Mr. Thomas Allen. He is one of the newer school of dealers, and lines himself pretty closely to British Colonials, especially the rare ones. He is a true stamp lover, and his stock boxes are almost as sheer a joy to look upon as his private albums which contain his own collections. Condition is everything with "Tommy" Allen, and it would not need to be told that if you were to glance at any of his boxes He makes a speciality of nice things for the specialist in British Colonials, if you want to round off your pet collection of any British Colony drop a note to Thomas Allen and ask him what rarities, errors, proofs or essays he can furnish you in your favourite colony.

Mr. A. H. Thompson, The Collector-Auctioneer.

Although the last in the field of London stamp auctioneers, A. H. Thompson's connection with stamps dates back to the early days of collecting. His father, J. H. Thompson of Dewsbury, was a stamp dealer in 1840.

Mr. Thompson is well known as a specialist in the stamps of Great Britain and he does not confine his energies to the normal issues, being a collector of locals, College stamps, envelope stamps, Railway Letter stamps, etc. His writings include notes on the line-engraved issues and Booklets of Great Britain. He also has a specialized collection of Paraguay.

His immediate success as an auctioneer he attributes to the fact that he has in personal touch with most of his clients and always endeavours to satisfy both buyers and sellers alike.

He is evidently a rising young man, and his progress will be well worth watching.

Chez-Moi.

Finally, if you will spare the time, and do me the honour of a visit, take a bus from Wanstead to Brixton; descend therefrom before you reach the gaol, and drop in at 14 Sudbourne Road, Brixton. Here, if you are so inclined, you may dwell for a spell amid the shades of the pioneers of philately in my stamp den entirely surrounded by the books and catalogues and journals comprising the vast storehouse of philatelic literature. It has been my privilege and joy to welcome many American philatelic friends to my den, and to show them my literary treasures; it is my hope that I shall have such privilege and pleasure on many occasions in the future.

DON'T REMIT IN STAMPS.

We are compelled to decline stamps as remittances on amounts over 50c and urge dealers to make the same rule with their patrons. A dollar bill should be used when possible and any small amount remaining can be enclosed in stamps. Checks or money orders should be used on all remittances of $2 or over.

THE HOUSE OF CHAMPION.

The Managing Editor upon his recent visit to Paris had the distinct pleasure of being shown over the extensive premises of Theodore Champion at 13 Rue Drouot, and was greatly surprised at the extent of the operations of the firm. No fewer than fifty clerks were found in the various departments and three floors are used in operating the business. The store is situated near the grand boulevards and is easy of access.

Mr. Champi n, the proprietor of the business, became a collector at the age of six years, and started in business in Geneva, Switzerland. Some twenty years ago he became located in Paris, beginning business upon a small scale. Owing to his thorough knowledge of stamps, his indefatigable labor, and prodigious memory, combined with a natural ability for doing business, he succeeded in building up the business of his firm to its present enviable position.

Mr. Champion is not only a well known dealer, but he is also a most enthusiastic collector of stamps. His collection is one of the finest in the world. He has but recently acquired the two Mauritius stamps, for which he paid the record price of 160,000 francs. The house of Champion is known throughout the world from its association with Yvert & Tellier in the publishing of Yvert & Tellier's-Champion's General Catalog. Philatelists of all countries make use of the price quotations found therein. This standard catalog has appeared regularly for twenty-five years, and this too in spite of the terrible war. Its completeness and regularity in publication helped to sustain the firm's belief that no other catalog is quite so efficient as an universal guide.

A specialty of the firm is the well known Monthly Bulletin, a supplement to the catalog and which contains not only a chronicle of all new issues, but many interesting bargain offerings. This publication supplements pricelists of wholesale goods, sets and packets that are frequently issued. Quite recently a new complete catalog of postage stamps relating to the war and issued since Aug. 1, 1914, by both belligerent and neutral nations, has been placed on the market.

This firm has been a regular advertiser in the WEEKLY through all the years of its being in business, and it has a first class clientele here in the United States which will rejoice in Mr. Champion's success. We are very glad to pay this deserved tribute to the enterprise and prosperity of the business of Theodore Champion.

"THE PLEASURES OF COLLECTING."

(This book by Gardner Teall is reviewed in the Boston Herald. While no mention of postage stamps is made in the list below, we feel very certain that Mr. Teall has given our hobby a proper place.—W. O. W.)

The Pleasures of Collecting, by Gardner Teall; The Century Company.

It was Charles Lamb who said: "The mighty future is as nothing, being everything. The past is everything, being nothing!" In that spirit the collector of antiques exalts the virtue of his hobby. "The contentment to be found in the acquisition and in the contemplation of the things that are dear to the heart of the antiquarian and the art lover is a contentment that is a gift of the gods."

Furniture, china, Sheffield plate, samplers, wax portraits, hand-woven coverlets, delft ware, Wedgewood, Sevres porcelain, European enamels, Italian Majolica, Chinese and Japanese lacquer, engraved gems, glass flowers, antiques of Persia and of India, embroideries, drinking glasses—whatever be the object of the collector's hobby, he will find information and inspiration in Mr. Teall's book. The many illustrations themselves are almost enough to make a collector out of one who has never before felt the pulsing of the fever.

10b	10 lep. orange on blue "1"
	of "10" inverted		£12
No. 10 is known in a deeper shade without numerals at back, but has never been found used. It is therefore regarded as a proof.
The Paris prints may be distinguished from all subsequent issues by the delicacy of the impression. The lines of shading on the cheek are broken at the ends into dots and dashes, whereas in the Athens prints they are continuous. The 5, 20, 40, and 80 lep. are also distinguished from later prints by having no numerals at back, and the 10 lep. by having larger numerals than on the Athens prints. The paper is also very highly surfaced; it varies somewhat in thickness, especially in the case of the 20 lep., which occurs on pelure.
ATHENS PRINT.
1861. Fine impressions. No numerals at back.
11	1 lep. deep choc on cream	75 0	—
12	2 lep. pale yellow-bistre on cream	—	10 0
13	2 lep. fawn bistre on cream	—	—
14	20 lep. Prussian blue on bluish	—	£10
No. 11 is the exact shade of the Paris print, from which it can only be distinguished by the lines of shading on the cheek being continuous. No. 12 is the yellowest of the 2 leps. It is a fine delicate print; the paper is almost as deep a cream as that of No. 77, but is thinner. No. 13 is in a very distinctive colour. The spandrels are rather pale but mottled. No. 14 is found on medium and thin paper, the spandrels are generally rather light, the lines of shading on the cheek are sometimes broken in the centre.
1861-62. Fine impressions. With numerals at back measuring 6 to 6 1/4 mm. in height, that on the 5 lep. being Type I.
15	5 lep. deep yellow green on greenish, yellowish on surface	—	20 0
16	5 lep. yel grn on greenish	40 0	15 0
17	5 lep. blue grn on gr'nish	60 0	20 0
18	10 lep. yel ochre on gr'nish	—	30 0
19	10 lep. yel or. on gr'nish	50 0	8 6
20	20 lep. deep Prussian blue on bluish	—	40 0
21	20 lep. steel blue on bluish paper with a yel surface	—	15 0
22	40 lep. red lilac on blue	—	15 0
23	40 lep. red lilac on blue paper with a yel surface	—	60 0
24	80 lep. rose on cream	40 0	13 6
25	80 lep. deep rose on cream	60 0	17 6
Error.
18a	5 lep. green on greenish, double "5" at back	—	—
The yellowish appearance on the surface of the paper in Nos. 15, 18, 21 and 23 is a peculiarity which is difficult to account for. It is most distinct on the 10 and 20 lep., less on the 5 lep., and even less on the 40 lep. Nos. 15, 16 and 17 are at once distinguished by the type of the numeral at back. Nos. 18 and 19 are delicate impressions, the latter generally having pale spandrels. No. 20 is the deepest and richest of the blues, generally has pale spandrels and lines on cheek slightly broken. No. 23 is a good impression, but not so fine as 22, which closely resembles the Paris print. Nos. 24 and 25 may be easily distinguished from all other prints by the colour of the numerals at the back, which is vermilion instead of carmine.

TWO MEN AND SOME STAMPS.

Beginning of a Business.—About the middle of the last decade but one—and this is history—two young Civil servants concocted a plan by which they should free themselves from the toils of the Circumlocution Office for good. Both were young men, and each was a stamp collector. The plan they conceived was to start a business for themselves and be independent of old age pensions and of cynical friends who always pretend to believe that the Civil servant spends his life observing men and matters from the exalted window of a palatial office.

And as some have left the Civil Service to distinguish themselves in literature, art, or science, these two Civil servants meant to make their mark in their new occupation of postage stamp dealing.

The Partners.—The young men were Mr. E. J. Bridger and Mr. A. B. Kay, whose names are now familiar to every reader of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in the title of their firm of Bridger and Kay. It was no little risk to leave the sheltered and secured career of the Service, especially in the case of one of the partners who had achieved the top of the list of successes in the competitive examination for what is known as the Second Division. But the step once taken there was no turning back and the two friends have maintained their business connection and achieved their philatelic successes together.

It was in 1898 that the two embarked upon the business of Bridger and Kay. Mr. Bridger had all along been a keen collector of stamps, and, as a boy, his stamps used to be the envy of all the young collectors in his neighborhood. Mr. Kay too has been collecting as long as he can remember and has continued his connection with stamps without a break from his earliest boyhood days. He ultimately achieved a victory which comes to few boys in converting his father from the darkness of unbelief into an enthusiastic philatelist.

Interested in All Lines.—Mr. Kay has more of the student in him than the dealer, and his own collections have attained considerable importance. He is a well-known authority on fiscal stamps, and his collection of forgeries and reprints is of considerable magnitude. The latter is housed in six large albums and is now used chiefly as a reference collection in the business, in which it constantly proves its utility in deciding ticklish problems for the customers of the firm. It is to Mr. Kay also that is due the broad outlook the firm has on philately, not confining its efforts to supplying the stamps which are the fashion of the hour, but catering for all classes even to the studious but retiring collectors of the out-of-the-way classes of stamps, such as fiscals, telegraphs, locals, and entires.

Mr. Bridger is the business man of the firm, and in that capacity he has his hands too full to do much private collecting in these days. The firm buys very largely at auctions, more largely in fact than most of the London dealers, and Mr. Bridger is a very familiar figure in the auction room.

Something of Everything.—The stock of stamps held by the firm is very large and very comprehensive. The partners endeavour always to keep something of everything in the British Colonial line. Of course the great rarities cannot be kept in stock; there are always buyers ready and eager for most of the very rare stamps. But of the lesser rare stamps there are usually upwards of a hundred "Sydneys," several score of Mauritius "post paid," and other stamps of similar class are constantly being replenished in their stocks. Through the entire run of British Colonies the firm's stocks are very extensive and are constantly receiving additions by purchases made at the auctions or of large lots from other sources.

Some Notable Purchases.—The firm has bought a good number of fine collections and broken them up for their stock. In the last year or two several important collections have been acquired.

A £5,500 Collection.—One of these was a collection of British Colonies only, and cost £5,500. While it comprised a very fine lot of all the colonies, some of the countries were highly specialised. In Newfoundland, which was practically complete, used and unused, there were both the shillings unused and a fine range of shades of both the scarlet and orange issues. The portion of the collection dealing with the Cape of Good Hope contained a splendid lot of the triangulars, including blocks of thirty of all the stamps in the original remainder. Mr. Bridger showed me the receipt for the famous deal in triangulars. The price paid by Mr. J. R. Turner for the remainder had been £1,200 for 240 (a sheet) each of the 1d, 4d, 6d and 1sh dark green, and 10 of the 1s emerald. The lot was first mentioned to the firm of Bridger and Kay by one of their earliest clients, I. Lyon, but the firm did not pursue the matter very much, as their client had only inquired what sheets of triangulars would be worth and the dealer thought he was joking. The sale of the remainder took place in January, 1898.

Collection Bought for £3,750.—Another of the firm's purchases was a general collection of all countries for £3,750. It was not remarkable for particularly rare individual items, except the fine complete sheet of the first issue of Brazil, 90 reis, which is unique. I remember the interest it attracted amongst the visitors to the Berne Exhibition where it was shown by Mr. L. Pack, in whose collection this choice item now reposes. Brazil was very strong in this particular collection as there were no fewer than ten complete sets of the slanting figure type, used and unused. The Brazils were sold en bloc to a well-known American collector, doubtless that voracious collector everything that is rare in his pet countries, Mr. Pack.

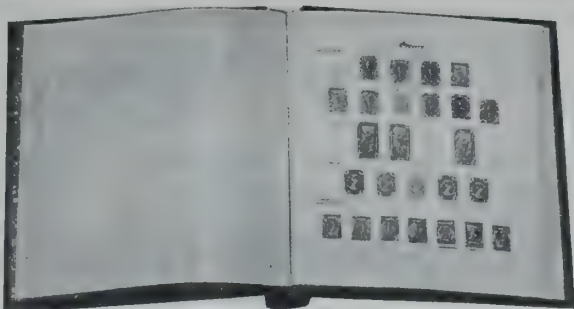

The Midnight Deal.—Messrs. Bridger and Kay have had no fewer than three of the Imprimatur collections of Great Britain. The first one they acquired for £850. One of the three collections was sold to a collector in Austro-Hungary, and Mr. Bridger who travelled thither to carry through the deal had rapid experience and did some quick business. He arrived at his prospective customer's house at midnight to find that the client was packed up and was leaving at 4 o'clock in the morning on a big game expedition to the Rock Mountains. But the claim of a stamp deal is paramount with the true philatelist and the deal was concluded before the collector set out on his long expedition.

The mention of Austria reminded Mr. Kay that within a month of Mr. Bridger's visit he, Mr. Kay, had to visit the same country but to a different town and in connection with a wholesale dealer running into four figures which was successfully brought off and paid for in cash. That was, of course, before the war.

Impressions of Stamp America.—Both partners do a great deal of travelling in connection with the business and have visited all the nearer capitals of Europe. Mr. Bridger a year or two ago went on a business trip to America with which country the firm has extensive connections.

I asked Mr. Bridger to give me his impressions of American philately. "What impressed me most about the collectors," he said, "was that they are not nearly so advanced, taking the generally, as in England, and though the average collector is more particularly about condition the difference between 'very fine' and 'superb' is not so much appreciated as here. I found real superb copies of good stamps quite reasonable to purchase and so I bought a good lot to bring back with me.

"Then as regards the dealers," Mr. Bridger went on to say, "they hold, of

THE ECONOMIST BLANK LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

We have tried for a number of years to perfect an album to supply the varied needs of collectors, and we have at last succeeded in producing the finest loose leaf album on the market. NO NAME OR ADVERTISING ON THIS BOOK.

It is finely half bound in morocco leather and comes in two colors, either dark green or dark blue. It is neatly decorated with gold which makes it a fine and rich appearing album. The pages contained therein are of the best quality of linen paper, with quadrilled lined background. They have the finest gold edge and will not tarnish. Each page is linen hinged and when open the leaves lie flat. The binder is patent peg style which is a vast improvement over the spring back. Each page is interleaved with a glossy issue sheet for the protection of the stamps. There is a front and back fly leaf for the protection of the pages. A felt lined box to match the color of the binder is furnished with each album.

This album is made in two sizes.

Binder size 10 1/4 x 10 3/4 inches contains 50 leaves size 8 1/2 x 10 1/4 inches. The quadrille lined background for mounting is 7 x 8 1/2 inches. The price of this size album as above described is $13.75 postage or expressage extra, additional leaves are 14c each. Binder Alone $6.75 (with box).

Binder size 13 3/4 x 14 1/4 inches contains 40 pages size 12 x 14 inches. ECONOMIST STAMP CO.,

87 Nassau Street, N. Y. City

As they say 'carry', much smaller stocks. Hardly any except perhaps two or three of the leading dealers have stock books, and their trade is mostly done with want lists."

Going—Going—Gone to Mr. Bridger. The firm's expenditure at the London auctions is very considerable and I asked Mr. Bridger if the auctions were proving as good a source of supply as they were a few years back. He replied, "We are the largest purchasers at the auctions in this country, and our purchases are not falling off. Already this season we spent upwards of £400 at the sale. The exact amount was £414."

The Cult of the Block of Four.—Asked as to any special methods the firm adopted in catering for all classes of collectors to the extent that they do, Mr. Bridger said, "We make a special feature of our handy and convenient block books. They are not very bulky and practically every country is represented by one or more such books. They are easily slipped into an envelope and despatched so that clients have no trouble in returning them. We generally aim at keeping four or eight copies of each stamp in the stock books so that the customer has several to select from. The books so contain a large number of blocks of four, and pairs. We were the first dealers to put blocks of four in our books as a regular practice. Then we so include in our stock books complete sheets where they are interesting to collect in that form, and such countries as Gambia and Labuan are well represented in the small sheet issues by complete sheets."

Scarcity of Good Stamps.—As this is actually the beginning of the season, perhaps you will give the readers of MEKEEL'S your views on the present and prospective state of the stamp market, Mr. Bridger?"

"Prices are going up," spake the oracle. "They are going up all round, and good stamps are getting scarcer and scarcer. We are always open to give high prices for collections and single rarities and have a large number of want lists to be filled with rarities of all countries."

Reference Collection.—Before I left the two partners to their callers, already two deep in the outer office, both asked me to say that the firm's reference collection of forgeries, containing many thousands of specimens arranged by Mr. Kay, is always open for the inspection of students for examination and identification of specimens. It is a very interesting collection and contains many frauds that have deceived even the elect, including a Great Britain ninepenny "hair lines" for which £60 was once paid at auction. It is now safe from further harm and is doing penance for its sin in being set up as an example and a warning.

In the way of publications the firm has not produced much. But they have, I believe, issued a catalogue of fiscal stamps, and at intervals publish a useful list of Colonial stamps on sale. The latter list is very comprehensive and the firm can generally supply all the stamps priced in it at the prices marked. Our readers are already familiar with "B. & K. Items," an occasional circular which the firm issues at intervals.

The fiscal catalogue is practically the only recent one in English, and Bridger and Kay's is one of the very few haunts of the fiscal collector in London. Mr. Kay, whose knowledge of these interesting emissions is as extensive and peculiar as Mr. Weller's knowledge of London, long held the office of Secretary to the Fiscal Philatelic Society, and took an active part in organising the one and only London Fiscal Stamp Exhibition in 1905.

An Historic Site.—As I left the building at 71 Fleet Street, I looked up at the walls of the comparatively new building thrust back from the street in conformity with the coming widening of Fleet Street, but I looked in vain for the mark of the Historic Houses Committee of the London County Council. Here surely, or almost on the very spot where B. & K. sell old postage stamps to philatelists, Perkins, Bacon & Co. were working double shifts in 1840 to turn out penny blacks for the multitudes of the philistines of those days.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The 1921 edition of Endle's Directory has just appeared. It is compiled and published by S. Utton, 74 Canterbury Rd., Croydon, England, price 2s 6d. The copy before us is the 29th edition and it is revised and corrected to June, 1920. Our readers are quite familiar with the scope of the book and it will be found valuable from many standpoints. A list of stamp clubs and societies is furnished, together with a directory of the philatelic "business world", stamp papers, etc. The WEEKLY office has no copies of the book for sale.

1560—1561—1562—1563.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1560 to 1563 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

Netherlands

We announce the purchase of a wonderful collection, issues of 1852 and 1864, highly specialized, a full volume of each issue canceled. Also a number of each value in mint condition, including a block of 6 of the 10c "Horn variety." Every stamp is absolutely perfect, over 3000 copies.

The following will roughly summarize the contents:

1852 Issue

367 copies of the 5c. 585 copies of the 10c. 182 copies of the 15c

1864 Issue

675 copies of the 5c. 883 copies of the 10c. 160 copies of the 15c.

This collection also contains a small and choice assortment of 1867 issue, also some proofs and essays including a complete sheet of 100 10c 1852 in orange, which we believe is unique.

The Following Pairs and Strips are Included

1852 Issue

29 pairs, 3 strips of 3, 5 strips of 4 5c value
96 pairs, 8 strips of 3, 3 strips of 4 10c value
12 pairs, 1 strip of 3, 1 strip of 4 15c value

1864 Issue

43 pairs, 2 strips of 3, 4 strips of 4, 2 blocks 5c value
16 pairs, 6 strips of 3, 1 strip of 4 10c value
19 pairs, 2 strips of 3 15c value

There are also many interesting covers and a beautiful range of cancellations. Last, but not least, are a marvelous lot of retouches. The collection is properly arranged and classified. At present we only wish to offer it as a whole.

In the event that we break it up, it is advisable to communicate with us immediately if interested. Full particulars will be gladly sent upon request. Price complete outfit $4,500.00.

Since the purchase of above, we have acquired 4 strips of 5 each of the 15c orange 1852 Issue in superb condition, which we will include in the collection at a small advance above cost.

"UNNECESSARY ISSUES": A DEFENCE.

By STANLEY PHILLIPS.

There are many subjects on which the philatelic press delights to hold controversy, the colour problem, the standard catalogue, used versus unused, are good examples of such hardy perennials, but the butt of the nastiest remarks, the most biting sarcasm, the most penetrating wit, is that much maligned fellow the "Unnecessary Stamp." My championship of his cause is not due to any sympathy for the "under-dog," for he is far from being this, in fact, like Johnny Walker, he will be still going strong long after his present detractors are laid in their graves. I myself have dealt him some shrewd blows, as I thought, only to see them rebound off his hardened hide, and if for a moment I range myself on his side, it is because the undiscerning application of the term "unnecessary" to so many new issues of the present day, tends to mislead and confuse the collector, and to put him off his guard against the real black sheep of the philatelic flock.

For the issue that is proved to be unnecessary, that is to say, that serves no purpose other than that of extracting money from the pockets of stamp collectors to line those of a clique or government, I have no good word to say. But the proof is difficult to obtain, and many of those who pen diatribes on this subject, require no proof other than their own imagination can provide. Not every modern Seebeck gives himself away as did the purveyors of the Liechtenstein trash and the two commemorative issues of Lithuania which I had the pleasure of exposing in the pages of Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Circular this year, and it is not fair to tar every stamp, for which one personally has no use, with the same brush.

Take the modern Jove who thunders against the humble war stamp. Has he ever taken the trouble to weigh up the evidence for or against them? No!

He is stealing a few moments from the plating of the "one escudo" of Patagonia in order to tell lesser lights in the philatelic firmament all about stamps which they have been studying with interest for many months, while to him they are little but names. Again, who is the man who sneers at the beauty of many of the modern commemorative stamps? Is he not some spectacled pedant who spends his time poring over the poorly lithographed abominations of the first issue of Timbuctoo, if perchance he may find another speck or mote which shall aid him in completing his jig-saw of the "quarter doubloon" with ten hairs in the beard! These are the men, my masters, who presume to dictate to you what, or what not, you shall collect. In the words of our greatest poet "What about it?"

SEEBECK A BENEFACTOR.

As a matter of fact, an unnecessary stamp is just one for which the person discussing it has no use. So might the rabid footballer talk of hockey as a "game for girls" or the intrepid hunter of the night-stalking moth, turn up his nose at the seeker of water-beetles. Let us try to clear our minds of the results of cant and prejudice for a moment and look at the situation clearly. Many years ago there was a bad man called Seebeck, and a lot of very green and juicy stamp collectors. Seebeck wanted money, as some folks do today, but unfortunately without his hopes of getting it. He had a pull and managed to fix up quite a nice little deal with certain South and Central American Governments, by which he gave them a nice new issue of stamps every year, and in return was allowed the use of the plates to make reprints for collectors. Of course, a country which issues an entirely new series every year, without any excuse at all, may rightly be labelled an issuer of unnecessary stamps, and Seebeck's reprints were even more unnecessary; in fact collectors, once they realized what was afoot, raised such an outcry, that the game was impossible in that open form. Seebeck had showed collectors their weakness, and having been bitten so neatly and effectively at the first attempt, they were inclined to cry "mad dog" (or its philatelic equivalent "Seebeck") whenever anything in the shape of a pretty stamp turned up.

For Seebeck, in spite of his misdeeds, was a public benefactor. His stamps were not ideal, but he evidently realized that the collector wanted something little better than the early monstrosities in which specialists delight, and he delivered the goods. He taught the world that a stamp could be picturesquely effectively coloured, and what is more important than all, that it could serve as a memento of some event.

ART OR CADGING?

So, we have the would-be mentor of the "young idea" in philately, with the Seebeck theory firmly fixed in their heads, i. e., that any stamp which is pretty, brightly coloured, or commemorative of any event whatsoever, was a "unnecessary issue," and in this country in particular they were able to go about thanking their stars that there was none of your—Art about our stamps. On the other hand, we find many of the governments of the world awaking to the fact that in the postage stamp they had to their hands the most effective instrument of national advertisement and propaganda that could well be forged an instrument so small and insignificant that people would read its message without even realizing that they were being influenced by it, yet so wide-spread that it would reach to the remotest corner of the civilized world. So we have the growth of the commemorative and pictorial stamp, and along with a senseless and often absolutely unfounded campaign against every fresh

LATVIA.—A magnificent collection comprising no fewer than 96 complete and different maps (each of 228 stamps), sumptuously bound in specially designed album. Undoubtedly the most complete collection of diff. maps known. Price £425.

"I THOUGHT I KNEW SOMETHING" about Stamps", writes Mr. Alexander Cowen, General Agent of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. "I now know how little I knew. I would like you to know that I consider your third lesson worth all you charge for the entire course. The subject it treats has been foreign to me until now, and the lack of knowledge of it has caused me endless bother and annoyance. Now that you have enlightened me on this very important point I feel much happier. Will look forward to my next lesson."

THE IDEAL HOME HOBBY.

The writer of the above letter is taking the interesting and valuable postal course of instruction in stamps as designed by the world-famous expert, FRED. J. MELVILLE for THE PHILATELIC INSTITUTE, the only college of Philately in the world. We undertake to teach you the art and science of Philately in ten weekly lessons by post, and the moderate fee of £2.2s for the course includes upwards of 600 diff. stamps in illustration of the lessons.

Send 4 cents stamps for free booklet giving full particulars or send £2.2s and start right away. (Cheques, etc., payable Fred. J. Melville, Ltd.)

manifestation of it. As a matter of fact, many philatelists were, and are, suffering from swelled head. Did they think that when a great nation like the United States issued stamps to commemorate its past history and to advertise the great international expositions which were held within its boundaries, it was stooping to cadge for their misrepentance? Do they think France considers their money, paid for her colonial stamps, of more importance than the education of her citizens to a knowledge of the characteristics and resources of her overseas empire? Can they fairly expect to a new nation seeking to inculcate national pride and feeling in a recently liberated population by the issue of stamps commemorating their independence? If, by any chance, their own Government departed from its tradition and issued stamps to commemorate Trafalgar or Waterloo, would they resent the suggestion that it was doing so to raise money from Polish or other stamp collectors, for the benefit of the British Exchequer? Let us, as usual, be fair, and admit, that while commemorative and pictorial stamps have been abused in some instances by being issued purely for the behoof of the collector, yet, in the majority of cases it had a prior reason for existence—national advertisement or propaganda, if money has been received from collectors through its agency it is purely a fault.

For the amusing part of the affair is, that, strive how they will, the philatelists cannot stop the sale of the stamp, or the stamp with the historical interest. For good or ill the campaign has been going on for years, and the cry of "Seebeck" has resounded, daily, fortnightly, or weekly, from the editorial or journalistic watchtower, and there are more stamps of this kind sold to-day than ever before in the history of the hobby. When will the minutes of the philatelic world realize that they cannot hold back the waves, and organise an effective boycott of the stamps that really are rubbish, and leave the rest alone?

Where would the philatelic propagandist find ammunition for his battle were it not for the pictorial and commemorative stamps? Why, the hobby owes its continued growth, nay, its very existence, to these despised "scraps of paper."

Traces of "philatelic swelled head" are just as evident in the treatment meted out to many provisional issues. Those who could not realize the appeal of the commemorative stamp to the flamboyant Latin temperament of certain races, naturally could not be expected to understand the happy-go-lucky way in which postal affairs were carried on in these and other countries, resulting in the lack of method which meant continual, and usually unforeseen shortages of stamps, with their concomitant provisional substitutes. Here again it would have been better to tackle effectively the proved bad cases, rather than to waste energy and ink on diatribes which flowed forth automatically at the sight of a surcharge or overprint.

NEW EUROPE.

As for the much maligned war stamp, together with its cousin from New Europe, it seems to me that several facts have been overlooked in this connection. First, if there had never before been abuses of the custom of issuing stamps, they would certainly have risen in the state of chaos to which everything was reduced at the outbreak of war. Secondly, it is not fair to shout against war stamps as a class, because of isolated instances of abuse. Thirdly, as regards New Europe stamps, several of the new states are composite.

For example, Poland and Jugo-Slavia represent between them six or seven clearly defined groups, most of which for racial reasons or reasons of currency, have had their own issues of stamps.

In these same new states allowance must also be made for the period of unrest and lack of central control, which necessarily followed on the declaration of independence, as also for the desire of the new governments to use every possible instrument, and among them, of course, the postage stamp, in order to inculcate the idea of national unity and patriotism among their heterogeneous populations. Here again there have been abuses, but let us try to discriminate.

What shall we say, my Masters? Shall we send the pedant back to his plating, the hair-line specialist to his hairy-linear specialities? Shall we, in short, tell him to mind his own business? Shall we say that henceforth a stamp which, in our own considered judgment, based on reliable evidence, we deem to be unnecessary, shall be anathema to us, but that we are going to use our own wits in the task of discrimination, and, having made a decision, to stick to it in spite of all the ink that ever flowed in Stamp Land? If so, I have not broken a lance in this tilt at the windmills in vain, even though I get my own head broken as a reward. On my own head be the result, good or ill.—Philatelic Magazine.

DRAFTS ON LONDON.

This issue is devoted particularly to exploiting British philately from the dealing standpoint, and our readers will no doubt admit that we have done a very good job. Please note that the rate of exchange just now is very favorable to the purchasing of drafts. The market quotation is around $3.60 to the pound. In sending orders for stamps priced in pounds, shillings and pence it will be a very easy matter for you to buy a draft at your bank and thus profit by the very favorable rate of exchange. Every advertiser in this issue is absolutely reliable to the very best of our knowledge and belief.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Periodically, we pay tribute to British philately by a special number of the WEEKLY to mirror the advance of collecting in Great Britain. One of our very first big issues, so long ago as 1898, was devoted in great part to the firm of Stanley Gibbons who bought many pages of advertising in the Special, to make the business acquaintance of American stamp buyers. Several years later, we published a large London Special with a cover showing a fine photograph of the Prince of Wales, now King George. A third Special came within the memory of many of our readers and now we present another celebratory number that has been made possible by the recent trip of our managing editor to England. Aside from business considerations, we are actuated in producing this issue by a sincere desire to rejoice over the present high estate of philately in Great Britain through circumstances of different kinds but which after all, mostly are based upon the intelligent capacity for philately and, too, their fealty to it, of our friends overseas. From 1869, let us say, when the Royal Philatelic Society, London, was organized to the present, the progress of philately in Great Britain is the story of the rise of stamps the advanced philatelic world over.

Over a century ago, in 1818, Sydney Smith, "that overwhelming son of Heaven," as Byron dubbed him ironically, said: "But why should Americans write books when a six weeks' passage brings them in their own tongue our sense, science and genius in bales and hogsheads? Prairies, steamboats, grist-mills are their natural objects for centuries to come. Then, when they have got to the Pacific Ocean, epic poems, plays, pleasures of memory, and all the elegant gratifications of ancient people who have tamed the wild earth and have sat down to amuse themselves. This is the natural march of human affairs." We have got to the Pacific, at any rate, and now instead of importing all of our printed ideas from abroad, we have a few of our own. As for the philatelic press of Great Britain, we wish that our collectors would do more to bring it here. Speaking generally, it is truer to its subject than our own and more solid in many respects, and it is a reflex of conditions there. Here we have a stamp journalism that does effective work, yet not in the regulated way of that of the older country. However, in their distinctive phases, our papers are the result of the demand of our collectors in the manner that the British press meets the expectations of its readers.

A number such as this shows that while there are some general differences between British and American philately, they are not irreconcilable. Certain underlying ideas and impulses are common to both and the division lines are faint. We have "fit men doing a fit thing", as the annals of recent years prove. While England has preceded us three hundred years in civilization, she and America began the philatelic course together and our progress compares rather well with hers, considering fundamental advantages that rest with her. Yet we are well on our way, if we give credence to the ingenious argument made by a dealer to us the other week to the effect that if general business slows up here, philately will be benefited, as then many collectors who have been unrelaxing in attendance on the mart may take time to give to their albums and fill spaces. What we want to say is that the typical collector there is of the same genius as the one here and it follows that English dealers may look upon this country as a fair field for trade cultivation and American dealers may be able to do some business with collectors in the British Isles.

The big pond is no formidable barrier to philatelic trade relations and the same language is a bond of communion. It is a laudable ambition to want to enlarge the market at the beck of the American buyer and an issue such as this is calculated to do so. A broader outlook is to the advantage of all when it may be gained without sacrifice or inconvenience. Rightly, American dealers are seekers after world trade and do not hesitate to enter foreign markets and it will enliven collecting interest for foreign dealers to seek entry here. Still, it is scarcely meet to call the English dealer an outsider as he is near us in his methods and business conduct. It need not be said that almost without exception his principles in a trade sense and his treatment of customers are of the best. With the currency differences of the two countries adjusted and reduced to a common denominator, the sole point of variance is disposed of, and American collectors may establish their trans-Atlantic connections with every confidence in the disposition of the dealers of Great Britain to fill all contracts of proper kind, be they actual or implied.

For many years we have had the privilege of running regularly the advertisements of a number of English dealers and their constancy has been gratifying to us. Our conjecture is that, at first, returns were scanty but their faith in the possibilities of our pages was steadfast and must have prevailed. To these pioneers our consideration is due, and they have it. The present issue is eloquent of the flourishing state of philately in the British Isles and, too, of the responsiveness of the dealers to co-operate to make the number possible. Our managing editor who broached his plan received all encouragement to work out his idea. He can refute, as well, the observation of an English wit on his brothers that "when there is no selling or buying, or no business to settle, they prefer being alone and looking into the fire." Both at business and pleasure, our traveler found the British philatelists most competent, let us say. Stamp interests there and here are interwoven as it is and we hope that this Special will knit them closer. We know that a better understanding will follow our effort.

Years ago we wrote several sentences on stamp advertising that were quoted by others. One was that no paper could always make every ad in it pay as, if it could, the amount of advertising offered it would be too great to carry. Another was that the paper which, in itself, is a success, is the one most likely to make the advertising it carries successful. It is well to advertise but better to advertise well and where competition is keen, the race for preferment must be decided by the results. We extend our thanks to all of our advertisers in this issue but we hope that they will be better paid. Some, we think, will be when the returns come in. There is no reason why the dealers abroad may not find it profitable to do business with our collectors and for our dealers to bid for the patronage of the British collectors. To promote this understanding is an object well worth while and one that when carried out will be to the advantage of all concerned. As the philatelist develops his ideas expand, and he becomes desirous of opening up new sources of supply. In fact, the buying of the stamps may be made one of the most attractive features of stamp collecting.

The strides made by philately in America during the last decade have been remarkable and we now have students in some number who are as acute and intelligent as any the world over. Though usually they are busy men, they are devoting more and more time to their specialties. They are alert to gather material in furtherance of their labor of love and are watchful of opportunities to buy. As time goes on, the ranks of our serious collectors will be augmented and the achievements of today will be multiplied. The future of American philately is assured and our collectors will be a decided factor in universal philately. The conviction is deep that felicity comes not alone from the possession of stamps but from wisdom concerning them. They will have the stamps and they will study them. This circumstance means that there will have to be an increased supply to meet the demand, and it is advisable for the dealers who have real stocks of stamps to make public announcement of the fact. The welfare of dealer and collector is the consequence of an understanding between them founded on a regard one for the other.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We have received from Silas Weatherby a new pricelist, also the November number of Phizzletelic Phizzle. Specimen copies of each can no doubt be obtained upon application at Medina, O.

—The first W. T. Robey Auction Sale was held recently at the office of the Stamp Shoppe, Washington, D. C., and a good deal of interest was shown. It is expected that the Washington philatelic public will give favorable consideration to this feature of the commercial side of stamp collecting. Harry B. Mason of the Stamp Shoppe acted as auctioneer and acquitted himself with credit. 463 lots were run off in two hours and brought a total of over $2100.

—The Kansas City (Mo.) Stamp Club has been organized with Wilson D.
Wood, president; W. C. Michaels, vice-president; Allen Logan, second vice;
and H. C. Warren, secretary-treasurer.
Thirty philatelists were present at the organization meeting, such well known philatelists as W. C. Michaels, Ora E.
Stark, Simpson Yeomans and S. H.
Barnes being present. Permanent club rooms have been secured. If interested, communicate with Mr. Warren, 1017
Van Trump Ct., Kansas City, Mo.

—Several of our subscribers have sent us clippings dealing with a stamp exhibit at the Newark (N. J.) Museum.
The exhibit consisted of a collection of war stamps, belonging to J. E. Hardenbergh, a New York newspaper man.
Considerable space is given to describing this notable collection, consisting as it does of Red Cross, occupation, reconstruction period, peace, commemorative and aeroplane stamps.

—Franklin Smith showed a portion of his unique collection of precanceled United States revenue stamps at a recent meeting of the Montclair (N. J.) Philatelic Society. At this meeting two awards were made to Gordon Gavan and Alan Bassett, respectively, for exhibits of best general collections of not more than 2500 varieties.

—Any stamp club desiring copies of the WEEKLY from No. 1147 to date can secure them from H. H. Watterson, North Hermon, Mass., upon application. There will be no charge excepting carriage.

—Apropos the "2300 B. C. Postage Stamp" we have received the following:
"Those of your readers who confine their collecting of stamps to early issues
I feel sure will appreciate the discovery of a new local from Ur of the Chaldees. Of the antiquity of the stamp described there can be little question, as it still adheres to the original wrapper."
—A. T. GESNER.

—Monroe Nash makes a suggestion that has for its purpose the placating of the lady of the house when pieces of stamp hinges are inclined to litter up the table cover and floor. It is a box of ordinary size with a hole in the top large enough to take in the stray bits of paper and hinges as they accumulate.
No doubt the collector can prevail upon his wife to give him one of the empty boxes that came to the house filled with chocolates.

—F. W. Reid of Sydney, New South Wales, after ten years' absence from this country will shortly return to Denver, Colo. Mr. Reid will be remembered because of his dealing proclivities and he writes us that he will return with a big stock of stamps and will once more advertise regularly in the WEEKLY.

—C. A. Pitkin of Montpelier, Vt., who advertised in the WEEKLY from 1912 to 1915 is about to resume the use of space. He plans to do a general business in foreign stamps only, featuring as formerly "Arrow Approvals".

CLASSIC SPIRIT OF PHILATELY.

By ALEXANDER J. SEFI.

In the present hurly-burly of war stamps, new issues for new states and other so-called attractions that are too readily brought to the stamp collector's notice, it would be well to pause and to consider the spirit, the tradition upon which Philately has attained its present strength.

It is human nature to collect: The object may be desirable for its artistic beauty, for its historical associations or for its rarity, but whatever the class of object may be there will be a period of production which will be termed "classic" by collectors and upon which they will build the foundations of their hobby.

In 1840 Great Britain issued the first adhesive postage stamp, to be followed in 1843 by the Swiss Cantons of Zurich and Geneva and by Brazil; in 1844 by Finland and another Swiss Canton, Basle; in 1847 by Mauritius, Trinidad and the United States of America; in 1849 by France and Belgium and in the succeeding decade by the major part of the rest of the world.

These early stamps were issued for the one definite object of prepaying postage; they were prepared with attention to their purpose and generally with an artistic perception that they should be,
not novel or effective, but fine and noble.
If they are rare their rarity is intrinsic and not created with an eye upon the stamp collector's purse.

Here we have the "classic period" of stamp production, upon which is based the classic spirit of collecting which always will be the key-stone of our hobby.

The classic spirit, as I understand it, is the search for perfection of idea;
it is the love of clearness and reasonableness and above all the love of permanence and continuity. All this we can adhere to even in a collection brought right up to date. It must not be thought that I claim the old tradition as immutable. All I ask is that each step we take shall show us the old idea and the old charm but from a wider view, and that modern collecting, whilst adding link to link to the chain of Philately, shall not suddenly break away and expend its force on objects not worthy of the undivided attention of a serious collector.

RETIRING FROM BUSINESS

Owing to other business of great importance, which prevents me from putting the necessary time needed to attend to stamps,
I intend to sell off my stock of United States stamps at the earliest opportunity.

I will send you anything that you may need in United States issues at prices that you cannot equal elsewhere providing same is in stock.

Do not forget the references if you have not had selections from me before and remember the "EARLY BIRD CATCHES

Almost any responsible collector willing to part with $5 or more at a time can receive these selections. I would gladly accept business in smaller units from good fellows who cannot afford to invest so much at a time if I could do so profitably. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—At the time of the writing of these notes the set of three Pilgrim stamps, issued to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the Landing of the Pilgrims, have not been placed on sale. They, however, will no doubt have been issued by the time these remarks appear in print. They will be distributed throughout the country and there will be ample supply for all.

I have before me a copy of the Foreign Trade Bulletin for November, issued by the American Express Company, and I note that at the meeting of the Postal Union Congress held in Madrid during October, the various committees reported favorably to the General Committee on the following:—(1) The establishment of international payments for the transit of mails on a gold dollar basis. (2) The fixing of an increased maximum rate for postage on international mail, but with the proviso that the United States and other countries may retain the present rates or fix their rates according to their own ideas, so long as they do not exceed the maximum accepted by the Union. (3) In the future Congresses only parent countries will have voting power, colonies being excluded from voting, although they may send delegates. (4) The creation of a Pan-American Federation.

It is more than likely that the second recommendation will be acted upon favorably, for most of the European countries desire an increase in the international postal rate, which is now universally 5c. While under this ruling this country would have the privilege of advancing the rate, it is hardly conceivable that this will be done, for the United States has not been in favor of the increase. If, however, the new administration should think differently and the rate should be changed, then the color of the stamp of the new international rate must be blue, in which case the color of the 5c stamp would change.

Mr. Edward Stern of the Economist Stamp Company has called my attention to some sheets of the 24c aeroplane stamp that he has located, showing top and right margins, with both the blue and the red plate number in their proper place but with the word TOP in blue only. As our readers will possibly recall, two plates were made for engraving these two colored stamps. One plate prints the red frame only and the second the blue center. When these plates first went to press they had the usual arrows and cross lines but had no imprint nor any inscription in the margins other than one plate number at the top. When the stamps were printed the finished sheets showed two plate numbers at the top, one in red and one in blue. After the inverted center variety occurred, in order to minimize the likelihood of more such errors, the two plates were taken and the word TOP engraved on each somewhat near the plate number. With the inscription it was assumed that the girl in checking the work could readily see the two words TOP, and if one were missing would realize that the center would be inverted. Those that Mr. Stern has located are evidently the result of some sheets being partially printed at the time the plates were inscribed TOP and then were later finished with the changed plate.

It would be interesting to know if any of our readers have ever found a sheet from the first printing with the two plate numbers only. In the first issue the top margins were trimmed off, leaving the finished sheet without any plate numbers whatsoever. It is possible, however, that some of these may have been trimmed in an inverted position, in which case we would have the variety just described.

This week we have the pleasure of recording another error of the provisional envelopes, a 2c on 2c red with the first Chicago overprint. Mr. F. B. McGown kindly sends for inspection such a variety which he purchased in Toledo, having found it among a number of the 3c envelopes which had been overprinted in Chicago and sent to Toledo. The envelope bears the card of a Cleveland firm, and no doubt was mixed in with the 3c envelopes by the manufacturers.

Mr. R. H. Mason kindly sends a new amber window envelope used by a firm in Utica although surcharged in New York. Mr. Ward R. Chapin has found a new variety on amber from Detroit, while Mr. D. E. Graham locates an old friend with a new watermark bearing the Seattle surcharge.

BRAZIL.—The Bulletin Mensuel announces the appearance of a new 100c commemorative stamp. The color is carmine and shows the portraits of two men of prominence, one in the dress of an officer of the army and the other a civilian. The stamp is oblong in shape and at the top has the figures "1920" in a small frame. The perforation is 12.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—According to The Times, a special "Peace" stamp, face value 2 cents, recess-printed with the King's Head and Colonial Arms, will shortly be issued in this Central American appendage of our Empire. —Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—We are indebted to Mr.
E. H. Gammans for showing us a copy of the 2m stamp, the color being a greenish blue.

GRENADA.—We are advised by Mr. L.
Meister that he is in receipt of the 6d stamp in dull violet and violet (no more red-violet) and the 1sh on bright green paper, which may be, Mr. Meister adds, the beginning of a general issue on such paper. The stamps look much better than on the old dark paper.

INDIA.—Our Indian confrère notes a new shade of the current 15 rupees value—viz., blue and distinct dark olive.
The original shade was blue and olive.
—Stamp Collecting.

LIBERIA.—The Bulletin Mensuel
chronicles the appearance of two provisionals for this country. The 1c and 2c stamps of the 1918 issue have been surcharged "1920 Three Cents", and "1920 Four Cents", respectively. Each overprint is in three lines with a double bar at the base of the stamp. These also exist with double surcharge and the surcharge inverted.

NEW HEBRIDES.—We received a supply of 1d on 1sh black on green, 1d on 2sh purple on blue, and 1d on 5sh green on yellow. The stamps used for surcharg-ing are the current British issue of New Hebrides, watermarked Mult. CA. We also received the following on the "Nouvelles Hebrides," Condominium (overprint) issue: 5c on 50c red on yellow, and 10c on 25c blue on green overprinted.—Aust. Phil. Record.

SAMOA.—Mr. L. Meister informs us that he has received the 3d George stamp typographed.

SIAM.—Mr. H. H. Hall kindly submits a mint copy of the 6sat rose, surcharged for the "Scouts' Fund," with the overprint inverted.

Our Amiens contemporary adds the following to the regular current series:
2sat brown on yellow.
10sat black and orange.

Our Penang correspondent, Mr. L. K.
Seng, sends for our inspection an envelope posted in Bangkok towards the end of September franked with the following values in the new portrait
design:—

2sat brown on yellow.
3sat green on pale green.
5sat red on pink.
15sat blue on blue.

We may mention that the portrait of the Siamese ruler is looking to the left and is enclosed within a heart-shaped frame, surmounted by what appears to be a mask of Buddha, with wings in the upper spandrels and inscription at the foot of the stamp—in native characters on the left and "Siam stg" (and numeral) on the right.—Stamp Collecting.

SYRIA.—Referring to our recent chronicle of the 25c stamp of France surcharged "O. M. F. Syrie 2 Piastres", Mr. Chas. A. Dann, Jr., advises that he has received the 5c and 10c stamps surcharged "3 milliemes" and "2 Piastres", respectively, only in black. Also the 2c surcharged "T. E. O. 2 milliemes" in black.

NOTES AND NEWS.

Bahamas.—The remainders of the London printed "War Tax" stamps of this colony have been officially destroyed.
They comprised the 1d, 3d, and 1s, overprinted in one line, and the ½d, 1d, 3d, and 1s, with "War Tax" in two lines.

Brazil.—A special postage stamp in honour of the visit of the King of the Belgians was to be issued by the Brazilian post office on September 24th, in the denomination 100 reis. The design, printed in red, is rectangular in form and shews side by side the portraits of King Albert and President Epitacio Pessoa. Beneath the portraits are displayed branches of coffee and tobacco plant, whilst at the top of the stamp is the date "1920". This commemorative stamp will only be available for internal postage during a period of three months.

Denmark.—The Cathedral of Roskilde which is represented on the 40 øre value of the new Schleswig commemoration stamps, stands in the city of that name on the island of Zealand, which was at one time the capital of Denmark.
Built in the XI century, it contains the tombs of the early Danish kings.

Saar Valley.—M. A. Montader, official artist to the French Colonial Ministry, has been commissioned to prepare a series of characteristic pictorial designs for some new postage stamps, which are to replace the present overprinted German types in the Saar Valley administration about March, 1921.

Serbia.—It does not appear to be generally known that there have been three distinct printings to date of certain stamps in the double headed type of October, 1918. The first printing was made by Messrs. Aspiotis Freres at Corfu, and the second and third by the Serbian National Printing Establishment at Belgrade.

Towards the end of 1919 the postal administration discovered that the stock of 1, 15, and 20 paras and 1 dinar stamps had fallen so low that it would be necessary to provide a further supply; this notwithstanding the fact that in order to conserve the stock, wholesale orders from stamp dealers were refused. In this printing the impression of the design was fainter and in colours quite distinct from those of the original issue, whilst the paper had a greyish tint and the perforation was more irregular.
The number printed of the 1 para in grey-black is unknown, but of the 15 paras in red-brown, 53,000 copies were printed; of the 20 para lilac, 117,000;
and of the 1 dinar yellow-brown, 65,000.

The 2 and 50 paras were the next values to be exhausted, early in August, 1920, and fresh printings of these were made at Belgrade in sheets of 50 instead of 100. As in the case of the other Belgrade printings, the impression is faint and the colours quite distinct from those of the Corfu series. The 2 paras olive comes on greyish pelure paper and the 50 paras in pale lilac on thick paper with white gum. A total of 150,000 copies of this stamp is said to have been printed, but the printing of the 2 paras is still in course, pending the advent of the new general issue for Yugo-Slavia in November.

Togo.—On October 1st, 1920, the administration of the whole of the former German Colony of Togoland was formally transferred to France. Consequent on this change the overprinted Gold Coast postage stamps have been obsolete since September 30th, 1920.—West End

PHILATELY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

By PERCY C. BISHOP.

In Durban, now my home, there is no stamp dealer and no stamp journal, but there is a very live and enthusiastic Philatelic Society, whose monthly meetings at the Durban Y. M. C. A. attract attendances that will compare very favourably with those of the average Society at home.

On the invitation of the Hon. Secretary, Mr. Norman Welsford, I attended a meeting of the Philatelic Society of Natal shortly after landing in this country, and was very heartily welcomed by Mr. W. Percy Williams, the President, and the other officers and members of the Society. The business of the evening was only of a general nature—an auction sale of members' duplicates, the handing round of new issues, and so on—but a most interesting evening was passed, and those present did me the honour of electing me to membership by acclamation. At the October meeting, which will be the ninth annual meeting of the Society, I have promised to contribute a paper on "Varieties and their Importance in Philately," more or less apropos of the debate at the British Philatelic Congress on Sectional Catalogues for Specialists.

From the Pretoria Philatelic Society I have had an extremely cordial letter, signed by the Chairman, Mr. Obermeijer, warmly welcoming me to South Africa and conferring upon me an honorary membership of the Society. I shall look forward to meeting my fellow-members of the Pretoria P. S. at some time in the future, but the Administrative Capital of the Union of South Africa is a matter of 500 miles distant from Durban!

This is a country of big distances and not over-rapid railways, and consequently there is less cohesion among the scattered units of philately than we look for at home. The absence of any real propaganda, designed to encourage stamp collecting among the juniors, is another hindrance to the growth of philately in the Union. This, however, is a matter that will be attended to in due time. The existent Societies are unquestionably doing excellent work, and one evidence of such activity is the very readable column on "Stamp Collecting" contributed weekly to The Latest, a popular Durban Saturday night newspaper, by the Philatelic Society of Natal.

Although Durban has no stamp shops, one sees many cheap packets and sets displayed for sale in the news-agents' and stationers' windows; and, though these are of poor quality, they are proof that the popularity of the hobby is known and appreciated by the trading community. But a person with £10 or £20 in his pocket, and desiring to spend the same on stamps of medium rarity, would find a difficulty in getting rid of the money in Durban. So far as my investigations go, he might cover the whole town and still keep about 90 per cent. of his cash in his pocket.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

PHILATELIC STORES, LTD.

By W. O. W.

The writer visited a number of stamp stores in London, but nowhere was he received more graciously than by Mr. Sefi of the Philatelic Stores, Ltd. If one were at all suspicious as to the number and quality of the stockbooks available, his mind would be quickly disabused after spending a short time in Mr. Sefi's company. His stockbooks were a revelation of beauty and rarity.

The keynote of the firm is to supply good stamps in good condition and to give courtesy and attention to every inquiry, however large or small. Mr. Sefi explained at length the principles on which he has built up his business, indicating his belief that undue advantage had sometimes been taken of collectors by the enormous prices at which New Europe issues had been marketed. Mr. Sefi insists that he has no time nor inclination to deal in such of this flood of new issues as are considered speculative, and at a financial loss the firm has protected its clientele. The policy of the firm has been to build up a strong stock of the early classic imperforate issues of all countries, and these they consider the soundest field for collecting and investment. From the earliest issues through the King's heads their stock of British Colonials is practically complete, and this is also the case with most other countries.

I had the opportunity of seeing book after book of line engraved and other early English, Victoria half lengths by the hundreds, Swiss cantons, early German States and superb pieces of many other countries.

The collection of Kashmir formed by Mr. Sefi is probably the finest of its kind extant, and is gladly shown to interested collectors. It represents fifteen years' work and study.

Apart from stamps the Philatelic Stores carry a stock of all accessories and the firm publishes the "Classic" loose leaf album.

MY FRIEND THE PENNY BLACK.

By CHARLES NISSEN.

British stamps have been more to me than a hobby, more than a business, during the past twenty-five years. They have been my constant friends and com-panions. They have filled my thoughts and monopolized the larger part of my time and energies.

The Penny Black in particular, the most written about and talked about, the most famous and fascinating stamp in the whole length of the catalogue, has claimed and held my close and eager attention for a full quarter of a cen-tury; and, although a great deal more is known about the Penny Black now than in 1894, there is still much room for further study of this alluring stamp. Very grudgingly has it yielded up the secrets of its plate varieties. Only by unremitting study on the part of a few enthusiasts has it been possible to eluci-date the many problems, line by line, I had almost said "scratch by scratch."

But that has been the lure of this ever fascinating stamp, the source of all its charm and value to the student. Lacking the glamour of great rarity—for it is a stamp which even now is "Gibbonsed" at no more than 4s to 10s for used specimens according to "state"—the stamp still wields a sway over philatelists that very few other issues can even approach. And it is the mother of all stamps—the beautiful mother of a somewhat varied brood!

The question has often been put to me by the Doubting Thomases of the hobby: "It's not worth while beginning a collection of British now, I suppose? Prices have about reached top, haven't they?"

I remember the same question being asked in 1894, and in every successive year since; but one thing I have never seen, and never look to see, and that is a set-back, even a temporary one, in the market values of mint or "fine used" copies of British stamps. The history of this branch of the philatelic hobby is not calculated to encourage the fears of the timorous. The course of prices has been ever upward, and from 1894 to the present year—the period covered by my own personal experience of the market—there has been a cumulative and con-tinuous appreciation in price.

It would seem to be a bold step to predict a further advance in the face of the present high level of values; but I have not the slightest doubt that those who think the "British" have now "touched top" will find their views falsi-fied in the near future. So it was in the "nineties"; so it has been through-out the twentieth century. There was always, and I believe there is still, a failure to realize the real scarcity, and therefore the real value, of mint and "fine used" British stamps.

One thing there stands to the credit of the Penny Black which I think few other stamps can claim. Throughout the years it has been "worth more than catalogue" for specimens in anything like fine condition. "Any change in the price of the Penny Black?" has been a common question on the publication of each successive catalogue. Some think that its minimum "used" price in the current catalogue should be more than 4s, but perhaps that is too much to say. There are Penny Blacks and Penny Blacks. I should be inclined to state its full range of philatelic value as from 3d to £5, and in that estimate I think you have the full measure of the unique position held by this stamp in the affec-tion of philatelists—the abiding hold upon the public fancy of "my friend, the Penny Black."—Stamp Collecting.

A MARYLAND EXHIBITION.

By C. LAT. WILHELM.

(We are indebted to the Baltimore American for the following excellent story of a stamp exhibition held in Baltimore on October 30. It is from the pen of C. Lat. Wilhelm, which accounts for its newsy makeup. We are tempted to remark that exhibitions such as these go a long way in promoting and advertising philately.—W. O. W.)

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the stamp and coin exhibit held October 30 at the Maryland Academy of Sciences by the Philatelic and Numismatic sections of the academy was that it presented concisely the features of philately that interest the public and at the same time teach the value of stamp collecting. The exhibit was largely attended.

The Numismatic Section showed a large number of coins, paper money, medals, etc. Coins in silver and gold were on view, also specimens of odd and curious designs, such as the obang of Japan, and porcelain coins of Siam.

Awards made were: First, the diploma of merit of the academy, for the exhibit best showing the scientific and educational advancement of philately, to Mr. Howard C. Beck. For the exhibit best showing the educational aspect of philately, blue ribbon, to Dr. J. Fred Emerson. The most complete exhibit, red ribbon, to Mr. T. Carey Bailly. The best mounted exhibit, white ribbon, to Mr. Riggan Buckler.

The junior section of the academy had an attractive exhibit and awards made were: Academy ribbon, Goetzke; blue ribbon, Watson; red ribbon, Kilian; white ribbon, Snoops, and honorable mention, Miller.

The committee judging the exhibits was composed of Dr. Francis C. Nicholas, curator and director of activities of the academy; Dr. Edward F. Plummer, a member of the philatelic and numismatic sections, and C. Lat. Wilhelm, chairman of the philatelic section.

The diploma of merit of the academy, awarded Mr. Beck, will be presented to him at a full meeting of the academy. Mr. Beck's exhibit showed deep research, dealing with the first revenue issues of the United States, effective July 1, 1798, the stamps being impressed on paper. The second issue, act of April 2, 1800, was also well represented in the exhibit, also a number of early English revenue stamped documents.

Dr. Emerson, who received the blue ribbon, the second award, made an exhibit of Brazil, which demonstrated considerable research work. The exhibit was elaborately written up, beginning with the big numeral issues of 1843 and going right through the following issues, dealing with methods of printing, history, etc.

Literature shown was from Edouard Locher, Zurich, Switzerland; F. Hugh Vallancey, Fred. J. Melville, Stanley Gibbons, Bright & Son, London, England; Theodore Champion, Paris, France; included, being weekly and monthly publications, catalogues, etc. Albums and catalogues were shown from Scott Stamp and Coin Company, New York City; United Stamp Company, Chicago, Ill.; Bright and Son, London, Eng.; MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Portland, Me., was on view.

The awards were made by a committee composed of Dr. Francis C. Nicholas, curator and director of activities of the academy; Dr. Edward F. Plummer, a member of the philatelic section, and C. Lat. Wilhelm, chairman of the philatelic section.

Mr. Beck announced that he would present his prize exhibit to the academy and the frames used in the exhibit were also presented to the academy by the philatelic section.

Among other interesting exhibits were Precanceled U. S. A., Mr. Up-de-grove; British Colonial War, Mr. Spence; Native India, Mr. McColgan; Official Seals and Registered, Captain Smith; Educational Aspect of Philately, Mr. Leslie; Old German, Mr. Schilling; U. S. Department on India Paper, Mr. Pitts; Plebiscite, Mr. Schnick.

THE AERIAL MAIL.

Through the swamps and the deserts,
the canyons and creeks,
And forests where lurked in the shade
The moccasin brave, with his war bonnet on,
And blood on his tomahawk blade, Disputing the trail with the panther and wolf,
In sunshine and rain, and the stress
Of the snow and the blow, and at 40 below,
Went the venturesome pony express.

A banner of smoke and a feather of steam,
A clanking of piston and wheel,
And the wilderness shook to the thunderous flight
Of the train on its highway of steel.
The clang of its bell and the shriek from its throat
Sent clamorous echoes afar
As it flashed by the depots and crossings and tanks
With its shiny new postoffice car.

There's a speck in the sky and a drone
on the wind,
A sound as of harpstrings and drums,
With its struts and its wires humming
sweetly in tune,
In the path of the eagles it comes,
A man-made and marvelous bird of the air.
The country's glory and boast,
The plane that through cloudland triumphantly bears
Aerial mail to the coast.

—MINNA IRVING, in Detroit Free Press.

THE GOLDEN GATE ACTIVE.

The San Francisco Stamp Society is making a place for itself in the philatelic world by the progressive methods used by this young Society. Organized in 1915, it has gradually grown till it now numbers over 100 members on its roll.

Lively meetings are held on the first Monday of every month at the cosy club rooms, 2233 Larkin Street, and are well attended by members and visitors.

A monthly Auction Sale has been inaugurated after the regular meetings, and the first one held in November proved to be a great attraction considering the number of stamp enthusiasts who crowded the club rooms, while the bidding for the 217 lots offered was exceptionally brisk. Among the lots offered were 65 lots of fine U. S. A., which were eagerly bid for by those present.

Auction Sales will be held at the club rooms on each regular meeting night in future and the Auction Sales Manager announces that he will offer a fine number of lots each month that will gladden the heart of the fortunate collector who bids the highest.

The Officers of this Society for the ensuing year are: President, E. B. McPherson; Vice President, Chas. Hackmeier; Secretary-Treasurer, Donald Piercy; Librarian, W. G. Wilson; Auction Sales Manager, H. J. Seiler.

A MAGNIFICENT GENERAL COLLECTION

OF

BRITISH COLONIALS

(CATALOGUE VALUE £8,000)

including 4,000 mint blocks of four, many large blocks, pairs, etc., mostly unused, and a vast number of medium to rare stamps. Sydney views, Capes, Ceylon imperf. and the West Indies are particularly well represented and Great Britain very complete. Every colony well represented. The fine condition of practically every stamp is remarkable in so large a collection. Strong in K. E. issues, especially in blocks. Special price made for any country required. Want lists solicited. All the stamps are priced separately and ready for inspection, at very reasonable prices.

PALESTINE, 5m on 1 piass., rouletted, printed without gum

Block of 4 with control C 18 B, wmk. G v R (G B type), £20.

The printing of this duty bearing the control C 18 B were issued ungummed; 2,640 stamps were thus issued, i. e., 22 sheets of 120. Only 22 of these controls were issued, so the above block must be of considerable rarity. I do not know of any way to distinguish the ungummed issue of the 5m on from the gummed, excepting by the controls (which are C 18 B and D 18 C respectively), as, of course, the gum can be easily washed off. The control, therefore, is the only sure means of identification.

ASSAU STAMP CO.

16 Nassau St., New York City

NEWFOUNDLAND — 1920 — PROVISIONALS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Irregular direct steamer communication with England, and inability of Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., of London, to care for the demands made upon them, combined to make necessary the provisional postage stamps issued by the Post Office Department of Newfoundland, in September of 1920.

From the beginning of the year, difficulty had been experienced to keep stocks of 1c, 2c and 3c stamps in condition to care for local demands. There are no remainders of these values in previous series to be drawn upon in emergency. Cabot remainders exist, but the lowest values are 6c and 8c, and these have been in daily use since exhaustion of these values in the Caribou series.

To understand the situation, it is necessary to consider the use to which these three denominations are put.

Inland circulars are carried for 1c per 2 ounces; this rate also applies to newspapers leaving the island.

Newspapers, magazines and books passing within the Colony are 2 cents per pound, save when under 4 ounces, they pass free. The 2c is also in great demand fiscally—for receipts, checks, notes, bills of lading, shipping receipts, etc. Town letters are 2 cents, while those for any place in Newfoundland and the Labrador, not exceeding 1 ounce, are 3 cents. "This rate is applicable to letters posted in one settlement for delivery in another, a mile or more distant." This 3c letter rate also applies to Great Britain, the Dominions and Colonies, and the United States of America.

At the beginning of April, 1920, the stock of 2c was down to 100,000, and to conserve these, none was sent to the outports; by April 30th they had exhausted. A new lot received shortly after, was placed on sale May 12th.
Two weeks later a small consignment of the 3c arrived, followed by 1c and 2c in June. In July a quarter million 3c was received, a like quantity on August 9th, and later in the month, 70,000 2c.

By September 1st the 2c had exhausted; the 1c was down to 800,000, and the stock of 3c was so low that it was reserved for foreign postage.

Commencing September 4th, town letters (2c rate) and inland letters (3c rate), were taken by the Post Office clerks, with cash, and rubber stamped, in carmine:—

POSTAGE PAID

G. P. O.

St. John's, Newf'd.

The envelopes were then postmarked as usual. In the case of letters from the outports, these with cash were sent to St. John's, and the rubber stamp there applied.

A second variety of rubber stamp was also used, larger than that first mentioned, reading:—

Postage Paid

G. P. O.

St. John's, N. F.

This is usually found, applied in green, on letters received at St. John's, from the outports.

With the 1c down to 800,000, and the 3c Caribou exhausted during the following week, there was no alternative but to surcharge. Fortunately, there were available remainders of the Cabot series, which had been in the vaults for over 23 years, coming into use from time to time, as corresponding values in subsequently issued series exhausted.

So it was that 500 sheets of the 15c scarlet, Cabot series, showing a group of seals, were sent to J. W. Withers, the Government Printer, with instructions to reduce by overprint, to 3 cents.

The first delivery of overprinted stamps was made to the G. P. O. at 5.30 on the afternoon of Saturday, September 11th, and consisted of 21,000 stamps.
Just previous to closing hour, a local bookseller, who also retails postage stamps, sent up for 500 3c stamps. Not desiring to cause inconvenience to those with letters for Sunday's mail, 500 overprinted stamps were furnished. At 6
p. m. the G. P. O. closed for the day, but as hundreds of requisitions from the outports had accumulated, running into thousands of stamps, a clerk in the Wholesale Department worked until quite late that night, filling and dispatching. All day Monday one clerk was kept busy working on the accumulated orders from the outports. The requis-

A BARGAIN IN COILS.

In the past few weeks, I have handled many want-lists of government part perforates or coiled stamps. It is surprising how many collectors have neglected them.
Here is a chance to enter that interesting field at a reduced price.

Mint pairs, well centered of Scott's Nos.
323c, 323d, 324d, 326c, 326d, 327c, 327d,
338b, 338c, 338d, 338e, 339b, 339d, 339e,
340c, 341a, 342a, 355c, 355d, 356b, 356c,
369a, 369b, 369c, 369d, 370f, 370g, 370h,
371b, 372a, 372b, 373a, 373b, 389b, 389c,
390b, 390c, 391b, 391c, 391e, 392a, 393a.
42 pairs (regular price $6.88) all classified on cards. Special price $6.00.

Joint and Guide Line Pairs—Attractive prices on lots for those who have none.

Want-lists of coils in any shape solicited.
My stock is as large as the largest in the country. [59&62]

GIVE EMCO PACKETS FOR XMAS

A GIFT THAT WILL BE SURE TO PLEASE

A new lot just made up which we are able to offer at a net saving of 10 to 25 per cent. due to recent enormous purchases of stamps abroad at low prices. We pass this saving on to you. Remember every packet is guaranteed to satisfy, otherwise you return it at our expense. Fair enough? Well then note following and order NOW—for tomorrow may be too late for Xmas. All prices strictly net cash with order. Remit by check, bank or Express Co. draft or Money Order (U. S. customers sending money orders please have same payable at New York City instead of Toronto.)

5000 VARIETIES AT $55.75

Similar to our 4000 packet but with 1000 added varieties. Think of adding 1000 new stamps to a 4000 collection at a cost of 14c per stamp. It is a marvellous packet for the cost.

Try one on the return duplicate plan if your collection is under 8000 stamps.

Packet 5000 varieties—"The Mapleleaf" only $55.75

6000 VARIETIES ONLY $86.20

Well filled with hundreds of the older scarce issues as well as 20th Century varieties. This packet gives a new collector the start for a real collection and it cannot be duplicated under $110.00.

If desired this packet can be made up without any United States stamps at an additional cost of $10.00. Why not try this packet on our return of duplicate plan as described below?

Packet 6000 varieties—"The Marvel" at $86.20

8000 VARIETIES SPECIAL AT $182.00

Worth considerably more considering the class of stamps usually included in a packet of this size. Many really scarce 19th and 20th Century included as well as an exceptional variety of WAR and new issues.

Catalogue value will run very high and this is just the packet for you if your collection is under 15000 stamps.

Why not try this packet on our return duplicate plan? Cost per stamp will be found exceedingly low.

Packet 8000 varieties—"The American" at $182.00

10,000 VARIETIES FOR $295.00

This is the packet that made EMCO packets famous. It was for years our largest packet and everyone sold has met with entire satisfaction—a fact that speaks for itself.

Practically all stamp issuing countries are represented; strong in old issues, new issues, etc., etc. Over 800 War varieties alone and other countries in same proportion.

Packet 10,000 varieties—"The 9th Wonder" only $295.00 Net

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

tions, so far as the 3c was concerned, were not filled in full quantity; only sufficient for immediate needs being sent, as the S. S. Sachem, by which a further lot of 3c Caribou was expected, was due within ten days.

At 8.30 on the morning of Monday, September 13th, the 3c on 15c was available at the G. P. O., but limited from the start to five copies to a person; during the morning this was reduced to two, and one, and by noon, as the demand continued, the clerks were instructed to sell none at all. Letters requiring this rate were to be handed in with cash, and the stamps applied by the clerks, providing the letters were for abroad. Inland mail was to be rubber stamped.

The setting, THREE CENTS, in two lines of Roman caps, with a horizontal bar above and below, was of 25 subjects (5x5), necessitating quartering the sheets of 100, for overprinting.

As first set up, the horizontal bars (above and below THREE CENTS) were spaced 11 mm. These were intended to cancel the figures of value on the stamp (appearing twice in the upper part, and twice in the lower). The upper bar was correctly positioned, but the lower bar did not cancel the numerals in the lower part of the design. About 3000 stamps were printed off from this setting, and then a change was made—the bars being spaced 14 mm. The balance of the 21,000 stamps in the first delivery was overprinted from the changed setting, as were also subsequent deliveries on Monday, on account of the 50,000.

Requisitions from the outports and local demands quickly exhausted the 3c on 15c, and with 50,000 of the 15c Cabot overprinted, the remainder stock of this value was exhausted. Recourse was then had to the 35c red, Cabot series, showing an iceberg off St. John's. A like number of sheets (500) was sent to J. W. Withers, and overprinted from the second setting of the THREE CENTS overprint, though the lower bar was not necessary, for this stamp does not have the numerals repeated in the lower corners.

The 3c on 15c, wide spacing, was available at the G. P. O. from 8.30 a. m. September 13th, until 3 p. m. the following day, the 14th, when the 3c on 35c appeared. This, like the 3c on 15c, was not sold to the public, and letters of this rate leaving the island were taken with cash, and the stamps attached by the Post Office clerks.

The overprinting was very carefully done, and no varieties have been found in the two settings of the 3c on 15c. However, with the 3c on 35c, the 15th stamp (5th stamp, 3rd row) in some blocks of 25 is without the lower bar, and the 14th stamp has the bar partially missing. This is not due to insufficient inking, for the upper bars of these stamps, as well as those immediately under, are quite heavily inked. The probability is that the bar became depressed in the course of printing.

Meanwhile, the 800,000 1c stamps were fast disappearing, being used for fiscal purposes, and for postal, as well, where the public insisted upon stamping their own mail. To relieve the strain, 500 sheets of the 30c slate, Cabot series, Seal of the Colony, were reduced by overprinting to TWO CENTS, and became available at 8.30 a. m. September 23rd.

Town letters were still treated with the rubber stamp, but the 2c on 30c had to be sold to the public, being in great demand for receipts, etc. Five could be secured at a time; when lots of 100 stamps were wanted, a permit signed by the Deputy Minister of Posts and Telegraphs was required. However, there was nothing to prevent the 2c on 30c being used for local or foreign letters. The writer has a block of four of the 2c on 30c, and several copies used in combination with the THREE CENTS surcharges, used on registered letters from St. John's to Pittsburgh; also single copies used on letters which passed within St. John's.

The setting of TWO CENTS was of 25 subjects, as for the THREE CENTS overprintings, but the arrangement changed, the 30c being a stamp whose vertical measurement is greater than horizontal. TWO CENTS appears in two lines of Roman caps, with a horizontal bar above, cancelling the original value. This bar is not separate for each stamp as in the case of the THREE CENTS surcharges, but continuous (106 mm.) for the five horizontal stamps. Normally, the "O" of "TWO" appears over the "T" of "CENTS", but on stamps 2, 7, 12 and 17 (of the block of 25), the "O" is over the "S" of "CENTS".

Two blocks of 25 of the 2c on 30c are known with inverted overprint, and one block with the overprint diagonally, due to improper feeding at press.

The S. S. Sachem arrived on Saturday, September 25th, with a consignment of the 3c Caribou, and on the 28th was placed on sale, and the 3c on 35c withdrawn.

The 2c Caribou did not arrive until the 29th, by the S. S. Digby. On October 4th these were on sale, and the 2c on 30c withdrawn. Rubber stamping of town and inland mail ceased also.

The remainders of surcharged stock consisted of 8000 2c on 30c, and between 3000 and 4000 of the 3c, and these were taken in charge by the Deputy Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, and apportioned among the orders received through the post. But in no instance was order completely filled, due to limited stock.

It is conservatively estimated that 80% of the THREE CENTS surcharges was used on matter leaving the island, so that mint stamps, especially in blocks, are very desirable items.

OUR DAY OF PUBLICATION.

"I have been a subscriber to your paper for several years and until the past six months received it either on the date of publication or the next Monday. For some months I have not received it until the following Friday or Saturday, making it one week late. Cannot this condition of affairs be remedied?"

Our Delhi, N. Y., subscriber has voiced a regret in which the publishers join. It is true that during the past months the WEEKLY has not been going into the mails on its regular publication day. It should be in the mail on Saturday but due to a combination of circumstances Monday or Tuesday of the following week has been the real day of publication. This will explain to many readers the situation, which we hope to remedy in the coming weeks. The Lon-

AMERICAN MATCH CO.
Amsterdam.

The writer regrets his inability to add much to what little is known about this stamp. The Boston Book credits it to Amsterdam, New York, which is now a city of over 30,000 people in the Mohawk valley, some thirty miles north-west of Albany, but all efforts to find trace of a match factory or such a concern in Amsterdam at the time the stamp was in use have so far been fruitless. The Boston Book states the stamp was ordered September 30, 1867, and:—

Die approved, October 4, 1867.
First issued, November 21, 1867.
Last issued, August 19, 1869.
1,298,000 issued on old paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The design forms an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size with irregularly curved edges and the principal feature is a transfer or very exact copy of the central design of the "Eagle" carrier's stamp of 1851-60. This device is a trifle too long for the irregular oval in which it is placed and the tips of the branch on which the eagle stands poised for flight, project into the border at the left. "Match Co." appears in colored capitals curved above the eagle and "One Cent" similarly below him. A curved label following the top of the central disk reads "American" and a similar label at the bottom of the stamp is inscribed "U. S. Inter. Rev."—both in colorless letters. Each corner is occupied by a horizontally shaded rounded projection on which appears a colorless numeral "1" placed diagonally. The detail of the corner design strongly suggests the 1c American Match Co. stamp of Cleveland which was first issued just about the time when the Amsterdam stamp went out of use. If there is any connection between these two facts or these two concerns it has not yet been uncovered.

The engraving of the Amsterdam stamp is skillfully executed and the stamp is more than ordinarily attractive in spite of the sombre black color in which it was printed. If it were as common as it is supposed to be it would surely be very popular but, unfortunately it is so scarce that many a collector has had a long hunt for it. Few match stamps catalogued at $1 or less are so difficult to find and the condition of a large proportion of the available supply is so poor that the stamp quite deservedly has acquired a notorious reputation. The centering is usually bad and often worse!

The stamp is found only on thin old paper and the entire supply was printed in Philadelphia from a plate engraved by Butler & Carpenter. The writer has never seen nor heard of a block, but pairs and strips are known and these were taken from boxes on which a 3c tax was paid, usually no doubt, by a horizontal strip of three. The Amsterdam is one of the few match stamps that beyond question was used in multiple. The concern never had any 3c private die stamp and so were obliged to use their 1c stamp in strips of three to pay the tax on boxes containing over 200 and not over 300 matches.

For twenty years the Scott catalog has consistently undervalued good copies of this stamp and for most of that time specimens in the usual deplorable condition have been consistently overvalued.

Sterling's price of $1.50 in 1888 was more nearly correct and in 1915 the Yvert & Tellier gave practically the same quotation—7.50 francs. The Scott prices were $1 most of the time from 1886 to 1898, fifty cents in 1900, and 75c in 1895 and from 1903 to date. Really fine copies are perhaps as rare as any U. S. postage stamp that catalogs $75.

MILWAUKEE ON THE JOB.

Eager to justify the compliment paid Milwaukee when the American Philatelic Society chose our city for its 1921 convention, the Milwaukee Philatelic Society has begun preparations for the affair nearly a year in advance of the time when it will be held.

As soon as we learned that we had been honored with the 1921 convention we began to raise an entertainment fund, and at the first meeting of the Society enough money was pledged to provide a program which will make visitors long remember their visit to Milwaukee with pleasure.

Every activity of the Society for the next ten months will be planned with the convention in mind, and to the end that the maximum benefit to Philately may be derived from it. A comprehensive program for the year has been arranged.

Feeling that no more important work can be done for our hobby than interesting the young in it, the Society has been instrumental in the formation of a Junior Philatelic Society which is flourishing. It is composed of enthusiastic youngsters, some of whom have excellent collections. Several events particularly designed for the instruction and entertainment of the young collectors have been made a part of our program for 1920-21.

Our secretary, Mr. Ira Edwards, having resigned to accept a position with the University of Texas, Mr. Fred W. Noske was elected to fill his place for the balance of the year.

We ask stamp collectors to watch us this year. We feel that we shall set a pace for philatelic societies.—A. B. ROSENTHAL, Publicity Sec.

OUR REBUS CONTEST.

On age 628, Nov. 27, is a half page illustration presenting a rebus designed by George A. Hunt. We offer it to our readers as a means of diversion from their stamp collecting and to enliven the study we offer six prizes to those who send in the best lists of answers, as follows:—

1st.—British and Colonial Postage Stamps, by Douglas B. Armstrong. (Cloth).

2nd.—Stanley Gibbons' 1920 Catalog of Foreign Countries.

3rd.—Yvert & Tellier-Champion Catalog for 1920.

4th.—Bright's 1920 catalog, Stamps of the British Empire.

5th.—Togo, by Charles H. Greenwood.

6th.—Grenada, by A. J. Sefi.

The illustrations represent stamp-issuing countries and the designer has been a bit arbitrary in some of his drawings. We shall not attempt to settle any differences of opinion. Charles E. Severn will pass upon the entries and the time limit for their receipt will be Dec. 20. It will afford you a good deal of pleasure to see how correctly you can interpret Mr. Hunt's designs.

the last two stamps. The 90c was conspicuous by its absence, the few copies offered or shown being notably damaged, with one or two exceptions.

"About 1870 the postal rate to France was reduced to 10c per half ounce, and the 10c brown of 1870, without grill, came into use. Of the issues of 1870-79 few stamps of value were found, though from one shop several blocks of the 10c with colored cancellations found their way into my book.

"It is interesting to note here that the French dealers do not separate the soft paper of the American printing from the hard Continental paper, though they readily distinguish the Continental from the national.

"The reprints of 1857 are seldom recognized by the French, the few copies seen being offered as regular issues unused. The reissues and special printings of 1875 are likewise not acknowledged, except the 1869 reissue, which they readily distinguish by absence of the grill.

"The French shops are favorable fields for odd cancellations, sub-varieties such as the 10c, 1851-1857, recuts, and to a lesser degree, the reissues of 1875. A few of the scarcer types of the 1c, 1851, may be seen, though I fear my good friend, Dr. Carroll Chase, whom I met in Paris in 1918, left little in that line for the post-war searcher.

"There are several hundred stamp dealers listed in Paris, and the search for their shops was of unfailing interest. They were scattered all over the city, often on the fourth or fifth floors of houses with rear court entrances. It often took two or three trips to locate the place. Occasionally drawn shutters would be found, often with a written inscription on white paper pasted on the shutters or door. The pathos of those varied inscriptions will never be forgotten—'Mon. B. il amot' (Mr. B. is dead). 'Mon. B. il a tombé sur la front' (Mr. B. has fallen at the front). 'Will open during next leave,' and many others equally pathetic, all suggestive of the great struggle in progress only fifty miles away.

"In this search for stamps in Paris," concludes Mr. Babcock, "one sees much of Parisian life that never appears to the ordinary tourist. Every arrondissement has its shops, some on the street, others in the basement or attic, the latter necessitating a climb of four or five flights with many turnings. In order to know Paris one must live in Paris, and in order to find these shops one should know Paris well. Greeks, Italians and Moroccans may be found selling the elusive bits of paper, and Breton, Gascon and Bordelaise may be met and heard in your peregrinations. French you should understand and speak and often your linguistic abilities are put to a severe test by the dialects and accents of this great and cosmopolitan city."

M. NOACK

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. PHILADELPHIA 1926 EXPOSITION.

By JOSEPH WARD.

The Pilgrim Tercentenary celebration now being held near Boston is to be marked (in philately) by a special postage stamp emission. This naturally makes some of us speculate as to the philatelist's chance of seeing new exposition stamps in 1926, which would be issued in connection with the Philadelphia celebrations.

The Quaker City's 1926 Exposition now stands the chance of being a carried-on project. Recently one hundred and fifty citizens of that city met in the office of the Mayor, Hon. J. Hampton Moore, and resolved to set in motion machinery for signalizing the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, thereby launching an ambitious enterprise.

In all previous celebrations of this kind philately has been remembered and there need be no fear for this. The Centennial, also held in Philadelphia in 1876, proved an immense impetus to mechanical development. The Chicago Fair produced a marked effect upon architecture all over the West. The Buffalo Exposition of 1901; the Saint Louis, commemorating the Louisiana Purchase; Jamestown 1907, and the Panama Pacific held in San Francisco, marking the opening of the Panama Canal, not only pleased thousands of visitors but helped powerfully in expanding America's knowledge of its own resources and past development.

No other five decade period in all history has witnessed a larger march forward in various lines of human progress than the one that will close in 1926. Certainly in no other period of like length did the United States develop more rapidly. Our population has doubled, and the wealth of the country has grown faster than the people.

As Philadelphia is the spot where the signing of that famous document took place in the summer days of 1776, so Mayor Moore recently said:

"The matter of celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing (etc.) has been under consideration for some time. Philadelphia is a logical place for such a celebration. There is still plenty of room in the city for buildings and grounds, and six years' preparation ought to result in a demonstration of the world's products and activities that will inspire the pride of the Nation."

A municipal appropriation of $50,000 is called for by the Mayor, and Philadelphia Congressman George P. Darrow is at this time drafting a bill, known as the Darrow Bill, providing a federal financial aid to the extent of $550,000, and this is to come up for consideration in the House Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions, when Congress convenes next month.

Hon. Alexander H. Revell, a member of the executive committee of the Columbian Exposition, has offered his aid and fifteen other surviving members of the World's Fair executive committee for the project. This offer was made in a congratulatory letter to Mayor Moore by Mr. Revell.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Home—The editor finally despairing of finding any accommodations at a resort for the tired business man in exchange for stamps or advertising space in the WEEKLY took a week off at his own expense. However, our sentimental journey had its collecting side as we took a pale philatelist with us. We sought to engage rooms at Nutt Knoll, but old Doc Twodrops wrote to say that it would be impossible to say when reservations could be made for us. He is enthusiastic over the prospects for a great season and he intends to enlarge his "club" by adding a wing or two. As it is, his guests have to sleep in shifts but they do not seem to be much inconvenienced as they stay up all night talking stamps, anyway, Doc says.

* * *

Branches—We have seen several interesting things in U. S. issues. Professor H. H. Schroeder exhibits a marked shade in the three cent booklet pane that we did not have in our collection of the three cent purple. The stamp is described as purplish blue and while this term may fit the case, it scarcely does the color justice. Plate 11495 of the current two cent in addition to the monogram, O. A. M. on the upper margin of the sheet has "R. S. W." scraped above the initials.

History—In the Wisconsin Magazine of History, a publication of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, Madison, September, 1920, we find: "Identifying An Early Postmark." The question is asked by Mr. Wm. F. Goerner, Edgewood, Rhode Island, a specialist, whom we met at the Providence convention: "Can you identify a company which had a post office around 1856-57, the postmark of which reads, 'G. D. D. & Min. P. Co.'? It may possibly have been in the vicinity of Pepin or North Pepin." The answer is given: "The postmark for which you enquire was that of the Galena, Dubuque, Dunleith, and Minnesota Packet Company, which plied the steamboats on the Upper Mississippi during the decade of the fifties. It was commonly spoken of as the Minnesota Packet Company. You will find an account of its history in George B. Merrick's 'Old Times on the Upper Mississippi,' Arthur H. Clark Co., Cleveland, 1909. The letter was posted on the steamboat and stamped with the Packet Company's mark, as is often done with the railway postal car letters. Vol. IV, No. 1, page 104." We are pleased to see a question of this kind handled so intelligently, and this excerpt proves that the various state historical societies may be consulted by philatelists in their research work, to advantage.

Rejoinders—Some time ago we printed an inquiry from an observant collector asking if in our opinion, the American Philatelic Society was justified in expending the considerable amount of money to produce the convention number of the American Philatelist, in view of the incorporation of the trivialities of debate and discussion, among other material, that habitually appears in verbatim reports. We straddled the question, as we felt that a good argument could be made either in the negative or affirmative. We have had several remarkable letters from those who uphold the present custom and we may say something about some of them later. One letter calls for attention just now in order that a balance may be maintained; we quote: "Can he name a handbook that would be of value to all collectors or every member of the Society? I think a handbook on any particular country would be popular with just about a dozen; one man would want a book on Bavaria, a second on United States and another on something else and you would not be able to interest enough collectors in any one handbook subject to pay for the paper used in printing it. My idea is that if the society ever got a sufficient financial foundation, it could print a catalogue annually with new additions and new prices and take the valuing of stamps away from the dealers. Then, it could be called an impartial book, whereas now so many collectors complain that the prices are fixed in the interest of dealers." On another phase, our astute correspondent says: "It is a fact that some of the things printed in the Year Book that were talked about on the convention floor could have been blue penciled, but yet where would you draw the line without giving offense?"

Catalogue—Any mention of catalogue leads us to consider the position that we are placed in by questions that are asked by readers who have a flattering, yet unjustified, regard for our opinion on price trend as reflected in the book under notice. For instance, some time ago, a Chicago man for some reason, or whim, if you will, that concerned no one but himself, started in to buy the seven cent Queen's head Canada and by systematically combing the market, has amassed a quantity of the stamps. Naturally, as he acquired the stamps, his payment a stamp was on an ascending scale. We need not undertake to learn why he is expending time and money to obtain the stamp, but we have to admit that the market price of the seven cent, No. 88, has stiffened greatly. This fact has led a number of persons to write to ask what the catalogue future of the stamp in question will be. Frankly, we have not the slightest idea what the cataloguer will do; the stamp may remain at its present figure in the next edition, or it may receive a decided boost in price. True, we know in a general way what the policy of the cataloguer is in price-making; but just how it affects certain stamps that have been surrounded with unusual conditions, we cannot pretend to say. We do know that the number of stamps issued enters into the calculations; but like circulation, it is important to know what becomes of the stamps that are printed. We suppose market conditions which with some sense of fairness may be said to be temporary are not accepted as indicating price until they have prevailed long enough to be considered permanent. We respectfully suggest that questions as to the policy of the cataloguer be asked directly of the publishers, who, we are sure, welcome suggestions and constructive criticism.

Annoyed—An old reader makes us the repository of his pet peeve which, briefly, is based on the tendency of many non-philatelic writers to ignore stamps in their descriptions of letters, in the course of their writings. He says: "You know that I have to review many books and I often am exasperated to notice how seemingly intelligent authors skirt around stamps without touching them and ignore the obvious. Perhaps, though, the philatelist has his subject too much in mind to be satisfied with the treatment of the unfeeling non-philatelist. For instance, young LaVarre in his interesting, 'Up the Mazarini for Diamonds,' begins his book in this wise: 'Here's a queer looking letter,' I said to myself, one day early in the spring of 1917. I could hardly make out the postmark. It was something of a surprise to receive a letter from British Guiana, as I finally deciphered it, but the contents were even more surprising.' Why didn't he say something about the striking stamps that were on the letter, which were plainly labeled British Guiana, instead of mystifying himself with that postmark stuff? There are a lot of these birds in the human aviary."

C. A. PITKIN RETURNS.

The firm of C. A. Pitkin & Co. returns after a lapse of several years and its announcement will be found in this issue. The manager, C. A. Pitkin, established himself in the stamp business in 1910 but had been active as a collector fifteen years prior to that time. The firm will feature foreign stamps only and will carry a large stock. We never had a complaint of any character against Mr. Pitkin during his former patronage of the WEEKLY. He is a member of various stamp societies, including the A. P. S. and the A. S. D. A. his membership in the latter being No. 1. The firm enters the WEEKLY with ample capital, plenty of experience and good foreign connections.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We quote from a letter just at hand:—"Will you kindly do me a favor and tell me the catalog number and value of the enclosed stamps. I am a new subscriber to your paper and an unfortunate shut-in, a rheumatic cripple, having been bed-ridden and helpless for six years. I cannot afford to buy a catalog but should like to know what these stamps are before I put them in my collection. My collection contains now about fifty stamps, but new copies are added every week." It is almost needless to say that in reply to this letter we sent a bit of Christmas cheer into the life of this shut-in and thinking some of our subscribers would like to do similarly we give his address, Andrew Moller, Infirmary Hospital 11, Oak Forest, Ill.

—If the subscriber employed by the American Steel and Wire Co., St. Paul, Minn., will send his name to this office we shall be pleased to send the book "Range Tales" as ordered.

—The Sunday Oregonian of Nov. 14 contained a splendid feature entitled "World History Told by Stamps". The Oregonian is published in Portland and this story covers an entire page of the magazine section. DeWitt Harry is the author of the story and while we do not know this gentleman he certainly has performed a good stunt for philately in the splendid article which appears under his name. The story is lavishly illustrated.—Clipping from H. K. Carter.

—Congressman E. R. Ackerman was re-elected from the Fifth New Jersey District by a very large majority. This will be gratifying to his many philatelic friends.

—No. 2 of Poole's Advertiser is at hand. It is a 12-page booklet of offerings from B. W. H. Poole, Los Angeles, Cal.

—We have received Vol. I No. 1 of the Sudden Service Surcle. The name indicates that it is from St. Louis and the Fennell Stamp Co., the publishers. It makes a good house organ and anyone interested will no doubt be favored with a sample copy.

—A new advertiser appears in the WEEKLY in the person of John S. Borresen, Cedar Falls, Iowa. Mr. Borresen comes to us well recommended, is No. 5417 in the A. P. S. and specializes in approvals for the general collector. He has been collecting and dealing for over thirty years.

—Contributions received up to Nov. 24, 1920: 2,509 stamps, catalogue value over $195.00. The A. S. D. A. desires that names and addresses of worthy "shut-in" stamp collectors be submitted to the Secretary on or before December 20, 1920, to the end that proper distribution of the packets of stamps on hand may be made in time for Christmas. Address letters to: The Secretary, A. S. D. A., Ft. Washington, Maryland.

—The Frank P. Brown Co. have christened their new offices at 53 Bromfield St. with the purchase for about $21 of a wonderful copy of the Cape "error" One Penny in blue, superb color, large margins, and no defects! After all, the joke is on the house. Here is the story: Having decided to advertise their business with a picture of a stamp on the window, the only uncanceled Cape they had was a 1d red. When a photograph was made of this for the painter, it of course showed "One Penny", and behold, when it was painted in blue, the error! Mr. Pollitz says it is the finest copy he ever saw, either in England or America.

—1,843 stamps, catalogue value $127.54 have been collected by A.S.D.A. up to Nov. 19, 1920.—W. F. SLUSSER.

—"It may interest you that in Reval, Esthonia, Soviet or Bolshevik money is offered 1000 rubles for about 13c American money. Some time ago you were wondering why on a recent Russian cover they used 5 stamps, of 5 ruble values. To approximate our rates, they should have used about 100 10 ruble stamps! !

In my collection of Russian covers I have a registered letter mailed from Moscow June 16, 1920. It arrived in Palo Alto, Sept. 7, 1920, and was handed to me at registry window as any other registered mail. What stamps would you expect on it? You won't be able to guess, so I will tell you: Just a No. 110 Scott's Russian stamps 10Kop surcharged on 7Kop. No special surcharge on it nor any other stamps on cover! At the mentioned rate of Bolshevik money, this would equal about .0013c. Verily great are Thy wonders, Philately!"—P. TOBI.

THE ORANGES ORGANIZE.

We are very glad to hear from our correspondent, Malcolm N. Stone, that a new stamp society has been added to the already long list. It is called the "Philatelic Society of the Oranges", having reference, of course, to the several localities in New Jersey where philatelic interest has for a long time been very strong. Mr. Stone informs us that the society was organized some two months ago and now has forty-five members. Meetings are held every Friday evening in the rooms of the Orange Camera Club, Main and South Clinton Sts., East Orange, N. J., and nearby collectors are urged to attend. If interested, address Mr. Stone at 3 So. Grove St., East Orange, N. J. This item is given space in the WEEKLY with all the greater pleasure in that Mr. Stone's letter was accompanied by three new yearly subscriptions to our paper.

WHATEVER YOU NEED

this is the place to get it.

I have commenced breaking up a rather unusual collection of United States and Foreign postage stamps that contains many covers, blocks and unusual items, and can probably supply as high a percentage of your wants in 19th Century stamps as any dealer in America. The collection is also strong in 20th Century British Colonials unused and in certain other 20th Century issues, but is woefully weak in recent Europe, etc.

For the present, want lists of stamps worth less than $1 each are respectfully declined, but if you wish to invest $100 or more at a time, or are interested in purchasing an entire country, or group of countries, you will do well to communicate with me.

U. S. $2 CARMINE ROSE & BLACK

Printed with ink of the 2c stamp. An error of course, since a change was not authorized. Fine mint copies at $2.75 each, pairs and blocks in proportion. Get a copy while the getting is possible. Of course if you belong to my NEW ISSUE SERVICE you received your copy as soon as it was discovered. If you collect U. S. you cannot afford to pass my service by. While others are learning as to what has happened, my subscribers have the variety mounted in their book.

Am in the market to BUY panes of the 2c engraved stamp showing the tete beche variety. If you locate any in your post office advise me please. Best prices paid for the variety.

I require for my new issue subscribers some of every provisional envelope issued. If you have any that you do not care to sell will trade you others for them. Will exchange envelope for envelope. Send me one of each of your duplicates and I will tell you what I can use and send you others for those taken. Will trade a San Antonio Window provisional for a window from any other city. Only want unused entire.

If you have not started with these provisionals, now is the time. 25-200 varieties entire unused at 10c each.

THE STAMP SHOPPE

Rooms 300-301 1413 G St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—I learn on very good authority that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has made an error in entering one of the 2c subjects on the engraved plates of four hundred. The subject is inverted, giving us one stamp on one of the panes upside down. As a result we have tete bache pairs for the first time. I am unable to give the plate number nor position of the variety, but I understand that the department has been making every effort to locate the stamps and remove them from the sheets before they are distributed. As I have not seen the variety I would appreciate early information from anyone that is so fortunate as to locate one.

As I write these notes (November 24th) the Pilgrim stamps have not as yet been issued but information has been received from one of our valued Washington correspondents stating that they are expected this week. Collectors generally seem to be taking a great interest in this series, for every mail brings to hand letters regarding the varieties.

As for the $2 stamp recently chronicled as having been issued in carmine rose and black, on unwatermarked paper, perforated 11, we have advice from the Post Office Department stating that no change in color has been authorized. When a copy of the stamp was referred to the Bureau they stated that the red of the stamp was printed from the same ink as the current 2c stamp but that no change in the color of the $2 stamp had been made. We all know that the early stamp was in an orange shade, which in no way resembles the 2c stamp, and no one has ever seen a 2c stamp in any such shade. The fact that they admit that this stamp was printed from the ink of the 2c stamps when no change has been authorized is proof positive that the variety is an error. They may call them shades if they want to but their difference is vastly greater than the difference between the 3c and the 50c. If you desire to see the difference for yourself, simply put a current 2c stamp alongside of your $2 orange and black and ask yourself if the color is the same thing.

It will be recalled by envelope collectors that when the 2c circular die envelopes were first issued a variety was placed in issue known as the "rejected die" because the die from which these envelopes were printed did not meet with the approval of the department, hence was discarded. While it was the first die engraved, it was the third variety to be discovered by the envelope specialists, hence was designated as Die

C. Heretofore this variety which is scarce has only been known on white and those found came from Philadelphia. Mr. E. C. Brown has now located this die on blue. The variety on buff or amber is not known to specialists, although some of them may be in the hands of collectors unknown.

1915, 2c red, circular die.

Die C on blue, Size 5, Wmk. 20, L. B.

My Chronicle heretofore late would hardly be complete without a list of new provisional 2c on 3c envelopes. Since my last notes Mr. George P. Smith has been in Jacksonville and finds several varieties in that city which were surcharged locally. While in Charlestown, he saw the die in operation in that city, although they had been previously using those overprinted in Washington. Messrs. E. H. Draper and R. J. Tarpy have found some new Des Moines from the smaller outside towns. Portland, Me., has started to overprint and the Rev. V. M. Hansen sends early copies from that city. Mr. E. J. Howenstein has found a new Saint Paul and several Minneapolis. Mr. E. J. Newcomer several from San Francisco, Dr. L. G. Tedesche another from Cincinnati, while Mr. J. V. Nielsen finds a new Washington variety.

Mr. J. R. Allen Thomson has located several on colored paper from San Antonio, including a window variety. Of the blue, only 50 size 5 and 55 size 13 were overprinted. Mr. LeRoy Pratt has found a window type overprinted in Seattle for a Tacoma firm. Mr. G. H. Grinnell favors us with two new varieties from Los Angeles.

Provisional postals have been issued by Portland, Maine; Rev. Hansen favors us with a copy. Mr. Smith also found some in Jacksonville that had been overprinted in that city.

Dear Mr. Fennell:—

Thanks very much for letting me see your circular. (Halifax! Why didn't he say Sure!) Like most of your advertising it has strong marks of individuality.

Sincerely,

A. C. ROESSLER.

finding our approvals are all we say are. Are you? Just give us a trial. How about Zalvary and Zalvary Special? you have tried one of these, try the other; if you have tried both, why not add one as a Christmas present to a friend? We will do a little special on all very packets sold in December. A few weeks ago a few used 2fr Helms were in at a comparatively moderate price. I didn't begin to have enough to advertise they slipped out quietly to our approval buyers. Only one of the nice things we had. We have a fine lot of Old Belts NOW!

ANTIGUA.—The Stamp Collector's Monthly Circular report that after seventeen years' service the present Arms type is to be retired from service. A complete new series of Postage and Revenue stamps in an entirely new design is in course of preparation, comprising the denominations 1/2d, 1d, 2d, 1 1/2d, 3d, 6d, 1sh, 2sh and 2sh 6d.

AUSTRALIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us for chronicle a copy of the 2d stamp of this colony in an orange shade.

BERMUDA.—A first series of Tercenary stamps has been supplied surface-printed in a design showing the King's portrait on the right and the good ship "Sea Venture" on the left, after the manner of the present St. Kitts stamps. The second issue, in a design supplied by the Colonial Government, is in preparation, printed by the copper plate process. For this information we are indebted to the Stamp Collector's Monthly Circular.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—The Stamp Collector's Monthly Circular informs us that a new 2 cents Postage and Revenue stamp, which although intended to commemorate "Peace", is to be of a permanent character, is in preparation for this colony. The design shows the King's head on the right and the Colonial Arms on the left. It will be printed at one operation in sheets of 60 by the copper plate process.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—New Postage and Revenue stamps in the denominations 1 1/2d, 3d, 1sh and 5sh are being supplied, recess printed in a distinctive design, according to the Stamp Collector's Monthly Circular.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. forward to us copies of the 100d brown and 250d green of the type showing a woman kneeling with arms outstretched.

DENMARK.—We have been shown a copy of the 250 stamp of the type of Scott's A16 with the frame of brown and the centre figure dark grey.

ECUADOR.—The full series of commemorative chronicled in our issue for September 11th has been overprinted OFFICIAL in tall black Roman capitals. The Bulletin Mensuel informs us that the printing was a very small one, comprising not more than four thousand copies each of the values from 1c to 15c, and two thousand each of those from 30c to 1 sucre.—Stamp Collecting.

HONG KONG.—The Philatelic Magazine says:—"The 25c now appears in a slightly different form. It was discovered that the left-hand top Chinese characters displayed two cross-strokes, whereas there should only be one. The necessary correction has been made in the new supply, which is in dull purple. The original stamp was in bright purple."—Stamp Collecting.

PANAMA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 50c and $1 stamps of the new design which we mentioned in the Canal Zone item in issue No. 1553.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—"Specimen" copies are reported of the current 45 cents value with the King's Head printed in black on green paper, coloured throughout instead of surface-tinted as heretofore.—Stamp Collecting.

SWEDEN.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a copy of the 1100 stamp of the type showing a crown and post horn in the centre with "Kungl Post" at the top for use in coils. The color is dull blue.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

UNITED STATES.—The writer has recently obtained a block of fifteen (used) of the 30c Due on single-line wmk. paper, perf. 10. This should be number 2264, imperf. of the 50c which enjoys that number. The 30c perf. 10 having turned up, the question immediately arises, Does the 30c single line exist perf. 12? The block was brought in by a lad who found it in a rubbish heap!

CANADA.—The Customs Duty set has been augmented by the addition of a 10c blue. These stamps are used on printed matter entering Canada from foreign countries, principally the United States, and American firms find it necessary to buy them in large quantities. These stamps are as much entitled to inclusion in a postage stamp catalog as the Newspaper Tax Stamps of Austria (Nos. 309 to 311), Hungary (740 to 744), Tuscany (31), concerning all which stamps we read "These stamps did not pay postage, but represented a fiscal tax collected by the postal authorities on newspapers coming from foreign countries." (St. Cat. p. 109, 520, etc.). Canada, evidently, is too near home to be interesting.

The cancellation as required by law for the new revenue stamps consists of a 9-hole square, 3x3, holes a trifle more than a millimetre in diameter, and the nine covering about 1 sq. cm. As a cancellation it is neat and effective, and is guaranteed to produce acute philatelic anguish. Concerning the stamps, tax, and obliteration, the Montreal Herald of Oct. 29 says:

"New Regulations for Luxury Tax Collection Nov. 1.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29:—Applications for licenses as required by the new regula-

ALADDIN

We regret our inability to fill the many orders for Aladdin No. 1. We advertised "100 no more no less" but received orders for many more and were compelled to return money. Our Aladdin No. 2 contains 200 varieties of War Stamp and is worth more than we ask for it. There are just 50 of these packets and we will fill the first 50 orders as received for $2.50 a packet. If your money comes too late you will get it back.

We want to call attention to a few specials in Sets and Singles listed below. The prices are right and the stamps are all nice clean copies.

Orders for less than 50c respectfully declined as the cost of handling and mailing will not warrant us bothering with smaller orders.

The above stamps represent but a small part of my stock of the above named countries. A much larger line of them will be found in my "Exceptionally Fine Approval Selections" consisting of Books by Countries; each book of 200 stamps. Thus of Nicaragua alone there are 20 different books and so on. See my free Bulletin No. 8 for details.

Am also ready to send out "Exceptionally Fine Approval Selections" of any country that you collect. I certainly can help your collection if same has 15,000 varieties or less and you are accustomed to spending several dollars or more at a time.

LINDSEY BROS.

348 Webster Ave., Long Island City, N. Y.

tions under which the luxury taxes will be collected are being received in great numbers by the district Inland Revenue offices, and it is expected that there will be few merchants without their licenses when they open their stores for trading on November 1. On that date the new regulations will be in force and merchants, on selling an article on which the luxury tax is to be collected, must attach to the wrapper sufficient stamps to cover the tax. These stamps must be perforated in a special machine which is being supplied by the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue. Special stamps for the purpose have been forwarded to all banks and Inland Revenue offices, and it is expected that the collector of customs in each district will have on hand sufficient perforating machines to supply every merchant in his district. No charge is made for the use of the perforating machines, but every merchant must secure a license, the fee for which is two dollars.

On and after Monday, November 1, all merchants will be required to carry a sufficient supply of stamps, and use these for the collection of the luxury tax on articles sold by them. Penalties are provided for those who fail to observe the new regulations by trading without a license and without using the luxury tax stamps on and after November 1.

CARINTHIA.—The reason for the change of shades in the Austrian stamps overprinted "Kärnten Abstimmung" is found in the desire of the Austrian authorities to prevent any fraudulent surcharging. It is stated that 250,000 sets were issued and that they are sold at three times face value. There is reason to believe that this issue is more in the nature of a charity proposition than anything else (and most recent European issues are), because the province of Salzburg has recently suffered severely from floods, and requested the privilege of issuing its own stamps!

The stamps of Jugo-Slavia (newspaper stamps of 2 and 4h) have also been overprinted with various undecipherable designs, and are likewise sold at three times face. The letters "K. G. C. A." are prominent in this overprint, their significance being "Koriska Glasovna Cona A" or "Carinthian Plebiscite, Zone A." There are six types of this surcharge, values as follows: 5pa on 4, 15 on 4, 25 on 4, 45 on 2, 50 on 2, and 2 Dinar on 2.

The full list of colors of the Austrian issue is as follows:

5h	grey on yellow.
10h	red on rose.
15h	bistre on yellow.
20h	green on blue.
25h	violet on lilac.
30h	brown on cream.
40h	red on yellow.
50h	blue on blue.
60h	olive on greenish.
80h	red (instead of carmine-rose).
1K	red-brown (instead of black-brn.)
2K	milky blue (instead of deep blue).
2½K	garnet.
3K	blue on green.
4K	red and violet.
5K	blue.
7½K	green.
10K	green and red.
20K	violet and brown.

Values from 2½ to 20K are imperf.

FIUME.—In a recent consignment were two half sheets of Fiume provisionals, 10c on 45c, No. 61, and 15c on 45c, No. 63. The former contained five horizontal pairs, imperf. between, the latter one stamp with double surcharge.

ITALY.—A recent cancellation reads "Pregate I Vostri—Corrispondenti Di Aggiungere—All'Indirizzo Il Numero—Del Quartiere Postale", which, freely translated, means "Request your correspondent to include in the address the number of the postal district."

LICHTENSTEIN.—In addition to the long series of pictorials already chronicled, a set of three more has appeared to commemorate the 80th birthday of the reigning prince. The stamps are of large size, with central design similar to that of the Patrona Bavariae issue of Bavaria. Above the picture of Virgin and Child is a scroll bearing the Roman numerals MDCCCXXI MCMXX; below is the two-lined inscription "Fuerstentum Liechtenstein." Numerals of value in upper corners. 50h olive, 80h vermilion, 2Kr steel blue.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1560 to 1563 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

XMAS IS COMING

Give your friend or your boy some of these fine stamps. I will mail them special gift envelope, to reach on Day.

MAXWELL KRAUSE, Box 345, LEBANON

NEWFOUNDLAND PROVISIONALS.

J. E. GUEST.

We have heard many rumors and speculations regarding manipulations of provisional issues of certain West Indian Islands by postmasters and postal employees, but the handling of the Newfoundland provisional is rather resting.

From what can be learned these stamps were not sold to all comers but only to those who would hand in letters addressed and the clerk affixed the stamps. That sounds good, but really I ran a series of advertisements in local St. John's paper and from answers received which I cite below can readily see why the issue was short-lived, or rather so represented outsiders.

The first is from a collector friend. He states that the rule mentioned above was strictly adhered to so far as he was concerned but that a ruling was made by certain business firms, by securing certificate from a P. O. official, could a quantity, and therefore the clerks ordered large quantities of the stamps in the representation that they were going to be used for business postage. Out of the fifty or so letters received in reply to my advertisement to purchase, the following extracts may be of interest, especially to those who have yet been unable to secure the stamps: I am a P. O. official and have a rather large share of the stamps. Only out of 100,000 of the complete series were sold. I would be glad to send 100 stamps for $1.00 each."

A PAGE OF SPECIAL OFFERS

NOTE: Some of my customers, and no doubt a great many collectors who have never dealt with me, have had an idea that I handled very little business outside of my well known AUCTION SALES. While it is true that I have made a specialty of these PUBLIC STAMP AUCTION SALES, handling consignments and entire collections on commission basis, I also carry a very good stock of stamps for direct sales and no inconsiderable part of my business is from approval selections and filling of "want-lists," have a very complete stock of UNITED STATES STAMPS of all kinds and a representative stock of FOREIGN STAMPS both 19th and 20th Century.

Following is a list of some items, all of which I believe I have in sufficient quantity so that you may order without fear of it being sold out. I have thousands of other desirable stamps and shall be very glad to submit to responsible collectors anything I have that might prove of interest.

The stamps listed below are all in fine condition and anything not satisfactory for any reason, may be returned within 3 days after receipt and money will be cheerfully refunded.

AMERICA'S VIRGINS.

In the September issue of The Century, stock is taken of the American Virgin Islands, and some of their problems. There, as in the United States and in many other countries, the postal system leaves much to be desired. "The Islanders have one real kick on the state of their postal service. Under the Danes there were mail carriers in the towns, there were country post offices, and a certain amount of rural delivery; all school teachers sold stamps, and mail was sent by any safe conveyance that appeared. To-day there are only three post offices, no mail delivery, the country people must carry their own letters to and from one of the three towns; those living on St. John being obliged to bring and fetch theirs from Charlotte Amalie, and though a dozen steamers may make the crossing during the week, the mails must wait for the languid and uncertain 'Virginia' or 'Creole'. There are only four postal employes in St. Thomas in addition to the postmaster, a deserving democrat from Virginia who, in the local parlance, 'does nothing but play tennis and crank a motor boat.' When one of the mail schooners comes in, the population crowds into the post office in quest of its mails, disrupting the service, each hopeful citizen coming back again every half hour or so until he finds that the expected letter has not come. Yet carriers were paid only thirty-five dollars Danish under the Danes, and three or four of them obviated all this chaotic confusion."

AN INTERESTING POSTMARK.

We have received from L. H. Brigham an envelope bearing an interesting and curious cancellation. The cover has a 10 sen Japan stamp and the postmark bears the inscription "Sunday School Convention, Tokio, 1920." The color is red-brown. There is indeed a deep significance in this act upon the part of the Japanese Government, and we quote from Mr. Brigham's letter:—

"I enclose a cover which came to hand this morning. This cover bears a special cancellation, which, by the way, is the sole cancellation used and is in commemoration of the Sunday School Convention held at Tokio, Japan.

It is very interesting when we stop to consider it, that people of the Orient should see fit to prepare a special cancellation commemorative of a movement of this nature.

Various cancellations of an advertising nature have become quite common in the last few years. We have but to recall recent ones such as "Buy a Bond",
"Food Will Win the War", "Fourth Liberty Loan", "Join the Navy", etc., used in this country and the several cancellations used by the Canadians during drives of a charitable nature to raise funds for tuberculosis hospitals and the like.

This is the first time, however, that the writer has ever known of a cancellation pertaining to the spreading of the Christian religion being used by a government of the Orient.

From the above there seems to be some hopes for this old world after all,
and it goes to show that it has not been given entirely over to commercialism."

NOTES ON PRECANCELS.

By H. S. DICKKEY.

If you can show me a collector who isn't after 6c, 16c and 24c aeroplanes I'd like to know his address, and I would also like his photograph.

East Pittsburgh, Pa., is now using the tiniest type precancel, and Atchison, Kan., uses the same kind of tiny type as Kansas City, Mo.

Ponca City, Okla., used the 3c Victory precanceled down. It's rather scarce.

I got a 3c Shenandoah, Iowa, Victory
precanceled down today.

The Akron, Ohio's, are beginning to appear precanceled, 1c to 50c.

Omaha, Neb., and Oklahoma City are both pretty in the tiny type. All values are appearing.

Clinton, Iowa, in red ink, precanceled down, is a scarce new one.

Michigan is appearing with quite a few new cities: Hartford and Marquette, down, and Flint in purple ink;
colored inks are nearly always rare;
Dowagiac now appears in the tiniest type black.

I found a 7c New York 3-line type inverted today. That's the first inverted one I've seen, except the 1c and 2c surface prints. This is quite a pretty type, and I wish Chicago would get a type as pretty.

Torrington, Conn., (down) on the 1c surface print is the newest one I've found in surface prints.

I got some Canaan, Conn., precancels today. I always thought the land of Canaan was over near Jerusalem.

Danbury, Conn., are rare birds pre-canceled; I have 3c, 4c, and 5c.

Among my rarest precancels are a coil pair of 3c Ashville, N. C. I also have a 10c 1908 inverted horseshoe type, Cincinnati, Ohio, not catalogued.

I have a 1c surface print of St.
Mary's, Pa., up.

New Brunswick, N. J., 7c is pre-canceled in the tiniest type I've seen yet, and Clinton, Iowa, uses a uniform tiny type, all plain letters same size.

The 3c Stamp Booklets are gradually being used up by precancelling, and using on parcel post packages. Brockton, Mass., is precancelling them.

Among the unusual precanceled, THE OFFICIAL SEALS are now obtainable precanceled from Chicago as well as other big cities.

The 1c, 2c, 3c, and other Documen-

VERY SPECIAL OFFERS

I happen to have these items, bought in the regular way at reasonable prices, when these are gone I probably could not replace them myself for less than 15% to more than the prices I am asking, if I could get a number of them at all. Look thro the list carefully—if there are any of the items you need there will never be a b time to buy them! The Prices are VERY SPECIAL. I guarantee satisfaction for prices or money immediately refunded.

tary Revenues are precanceled by many of the big cities and used on parcel post packages; a check list of these would prove interesting I'm sure. I have about two dozen varieties.

The coil precancels are gradually becoming more plentiful. I have the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c Rochester, N. Y.; also the same of Des Moines, Iowa; and a new 1c, from Independence, Mo., inverted.

I picked up a beautiful Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, Special Delivery on part of cover recently. Fine Stuff.

I shall list a few of the new surface prints: 1c, St. Mary, Pa.; (up), Aurora, Ill.; (up), Mt. Morris, Ill.; in both black and purple ink. Menominee, Mich.; Kansas City, Kas.; and Salem,
Oregon; all in small type and pretty.

New surface print 2c are out from Atchison, Kas.; Waterloo, Iowa; Hammond, Indiana; Seattle, Wash.; Bridgeport, Conn.; New Orleans, La.; and Kalamazoo, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., is using the old rare
Mich. type as well as the Michigan type both at the same time. What's the matter with Detroit and Kansas City, Mo.?—Precancel Gazette.

THE FIRST POSTAGE STAMP SEAL.

(With all of the "first" postage stamps that have ever been brought to our attention we now have one that ante-dates them all. This particular stamp was issued 2300 B. C. and we have J. A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia to thank for the following clipping from the Philadelphia American. The Babylonian relic is believed to have upon it the oldest portrait of a human being, and is on exhibition at the Penn. Museum, Philadelphia.—W. O. W.)

Postage stamp collectors always have held the belief that the first postage stamp came into being about 1840, but along comes the University Museum with the announcement that the first postage stamp was used as far back as 2300 B. C. Well, there's always something new in the world, even tho it is old.

being to seal every package thus to guarantee the weight of measure.

The sack apparently was sent by the high priest of the Temple of Ur, in which it may be presumed that Abraham later worshipped, to one Shulpae, a banker, of whom there are many other records, and probably contained gold. It should be emphasized that banking 4000 years ago was so well established that Abraham, when he went to Palestine with his family, herds and flocks, took along letters of credit, bills of exchange, or other credits to pay his expenses. There were banks in Mesopotamia 1000 years before his time, and they were mostly conducted along prin-

THE FIRST POSTAGE STAMP.

Earliest known portrait of a human being used on a seal for a parcel post package "mailed" along about 2300 B. C. It has just been discovered among Babylonian tablets in the University Museum.

What is believed to be the oldest portrait of any human being by which is meant an artistic effort to reproduce features and countenance, has just been discovered in the University Museum's collection of clay tablets from Babylonia, by Dr. Leon Legrain, curator of the Babylonian section.

The portrait, says Doctor Legrain, is on what amounts to a postage stamp, apparently a registered parcel post package, dated 2300 B. C. or thereabouts. It is a portrait of Ibi-Sin, the last King of Ur (known to Bible students as Ur of the Chaldee), the city-state from which Abraham emigrated some two centuries later to found a nation in Palestine.

The stamp is one of many recovered from ancient Babylonia and differs in no respect from the wax seals our forefathers used, except that it is of clay. In Independence Hall, or other places, may be seen these seals attached with tape to documents, the impressions on them being coats of arms and so forth, of Penn or other individuals who signed the documents.

In the case of the Babylonian 'seal, which also served as a postage stamp, the holes thru which the strings passed may be seen. The seal closed a sack which could not be opened without breaking it, the custom in those days ciples regarded as modern today.

The portrait on the clay stamp was produced by rolling an engraved cylinder over the soft clay. But the remarkable feature of it is that it shows the king-god without a beard, it being the custom of all the Sumerians to shave their faces and sometimes their heads and leave the privilege of wearing beards to the gods. It is the only early picture which seems to be a real portrait.

Archeologists consider this an unusually interesting discovery because it probably gives a clue to the personal appearance of the Sumerians who were not a Semitic race. The seals of that day were cut in agate or other hard stone cylinders in intaglio so that rolling the cylinder over the soft clay made a fine bas-relief impression.

"CLOSER RELATIONS NEEDED."

By ALLEN SEARS.

(We are pleased to give insertion to Mr. Sears' views, but assert the editor's privilege to have the last word in an argument. We believe it unwise for a firm to make use of refund checks. A collector wants the stamp that he orders and if unable to secure what is ordered, he wants the next best thing, and that is his money back. Occupying a middle place between collector and dealer, we give it as our opinion that refund checks are not welcomed by the great mass of collectors.—W. O. W.)

With no animosity and with no idea to "start an argument" on the above subject but more to give, from a direct source, the other side of the question in answer to a well written article in this paper, of the November 20th issue.

As in the case of the author of the other article, being a collector, and fully experienced on the question from his side, so this is from a dealer, who, likewise, is experienced on the other side.

"REFUND CHECKS."

On the question of "Refund Checks." We believe that on proper investigation it will be found to be the practice of all Mail Order business to use such methods. The reason is not a hard one to fathom. There is in no line a more keen, and on the whole, a more honest, wholesome, competition as will be found in the mail order stamp business. There are hundreds of competitors, both large and small, companies with big organization and large capital, the little fellow with a small stock and no capital and the "sundown" dealer. All have their merchandise to sell with a certain percentage of profit that must be made. Now, then, to get rid of their wares they must resort to the medium of advertising. If a good prospect comes in naturally the dealer is ready to do anything to keep him on his list. Suppose there should be a few cents over, or perhaps it is the dealer's scheme to see that a few cents do come over, a little refund check certainly has a tendency to bring them back. In the case of the writer it is rarely used, but at times proves to be very advantageous.

"HINGES."

We must say that our experience as a collector was certainly the opposite to that of Mr. "L. H. B." regarding the hinging of stamps. As a collector we found that stamps of value were scrupulously mounted with care and precision, pains being taken that the stamp was correctly hinged in order to prevent any possible injury. We have never yet torn a stamp or sheet in taking it from its place. With peelable hinges more easily obtainable than others, there certainly should be no reason for a dealer using any other kind, especially at the cost price of 10c per thousand.

"NEATNESS."

Neatness covers a multitude of sins. We admit that there are dealers who are not neat in their work. We also affirm for every dealer who passes this essential idea by, there are many more collectors who do not properly regard the property intrusted in their keeping to the degree that he will take proper regard for it. Many times a dealer sends them out never more to return. And with all the notices, letters, threats, agencies, lawyers, etc., all to no avail.

In the shop of which I am a member we have diligently endeavored to put the dealing of stamps on that high plane set up today by all houses of big business. A customer gets a personal letter on the least provocation. Individual wants are zealously taken care of even to the extent of spending hours looking up want list of "particular stamps" in "superlative condition", to have them back intact by return mail. These are things to be expected and things that we never take time to worry about. Where one customer acts small there are a hundred who are big and human.

We strive to give our very best to the upbuilding of Philately the wide world over, and hail with sincere delight the opportunity to help along materially and with advice the deserving youngster in the play

FENNELL SECURES 34.

In the opening month of the new subscription year the Fennell Stamp Co. has secured 34 new subscribers, and has a clean lead over all the other contestants. The WEEKLY appreciates the work of all its friends and is well aware that limited opportunities must bring limited results. We are glad to have any co-operation that can be extended by dealers or collectors. We have neat subscription forms that list a score of premiums given to new subscribers, and we shall be glad to send you a supply to use in your daily mail. The form is a good publicity agent for our hobby and is just the size of an ordinary envelope.

The standing for November is as follows:—

Fennell Stamp Co., St. Louis, Mo., 34

ADVANCE OF PRICES

The publishers of the WEEKLY strongly maintain that any dealer advertising with us should, as far as stock goes, fill all orders that are received as a result of their advertising. We have in mind a particular instance of provisional stamps offered at a reasonable figure. A subscriber claims that his order was not filled and the excuse was

It is almost needless to say that we consider this practise unbusinesslike and we should seriously consider the advisability of closing our columns to any stamp dealer who advertises stamps and then fails to fill orders on the grounds referred to.

OUR REBUS CONTEST.

On age 628, Nov. 27, is a half page illustration presenting a rebus designed by George A. Hunt. We offer it to our readers as a means of diversion from their stamp collecting and to enliven the study we offer six prizes to those who send in the best lists of answers, as follows:—

1st.—British and Colonial Postage Stamps, by Douglas B. Armstrong. (Cloth).

2nd.—Stanley Gibbons' 1920 Catalog of Foreign Countries.

3rd.—Yvert & Tellier-Champion Catalog for 1920.

4th.—Bright's 1920 catalog, Stamps of the British Empire.

5th.—Togo, by Charles H. Greenwood.

6th.—Grenada, by A. J. Sefi.

The illustrations represent stamp-issuing countries and the designer has been a bit arbitrary in some of his drawings. We shall not attempt to settle any differences of opinion. Charles E. Severn will pass upon the entries and the time limit for their receipt will be Dec. 20. It will afford you a good deal of pleasure to see how correctly you can interpret Mr. Hunt's designs.

HAVE AD COPY IN ON WEDNESDAY.

We are through notifying advertisers that copy has reached us too late. Hereafter you will please note that the non-appearance of the advt. will be due to late arrival of copy. We cannot be held responsible for delayed mails.

Why wait until the last minute to prepare your ad copy?

EDITORIAL.

Stricken—The Chicago Daily News contained recently a remarkable "special cable" dated November 29th, from Berlin, Germany, that was given the dignity of double heads, as follows, "Philatelists Driven Crazy," and "Berlin Opens Insane Ward for New Nation Stamp Collectors." Tolls were paid on sixteen lines from the special correspondent, George Witte, to inform a waiting world that the Baltic and Balkan nations were indulging in an orgy of stamp making with the result that Berlin's most commodious hospital has installed a "philatelic section" for mad collectors who have become "locoed" by trying to keep up with the gruelling pace set by some of the countries. We are told that German collectors, with "characteristic thoroughness" try to complete their collections of these stamps, only to find that their task becomes so tantalizing that reason totters and finally falls. It is recorded that some of the little specks on the new map issue stamps "bi-monthly," with the idea of selling whole issues to dealers in order that depleted exchequers may be replenished. The ranks of German millionaires are alleged to have become recruited by many stamp dealers, as a consequence. The news is of painful interest to collectors universally, and concerned as we are in the weal of the philatelic citizenry of all countries, we give it prominence, in order that philatelists may know that the worst has come.

Argument—That the foregoing information has attracted the startled attention of collectors in good number is shown by the dozen of those who have sent in the clipping with comments ranging from grave to gay. Consternation, trepidation, amusement, irony and what you will, are reflected in the words of the correspondents. One reader says that our "judgment must have been prophetic" in view of our allusions to Nutt Knoll, the rest cure for pale philatelists, in this country. Only last week, we said that Doc Twodrops, the urbane and unctuous proprietor of the resort for tired philatelists, plans to add a new wing to his establishment, in anticipation of a busy season. As a philatelist, we have been accused ourselves, as being a little off-centered mentally but our traducers usually were those who were not in a position to cast becomingly, the first stone. Then, some great mind has said that "there is a pleasure sure in being mad that none but madmen know." Sometimes, the suspicion intrudes itself that stamp collectors were a bit too temperamental to be the best of play-fellows, but after experiencing for a time, life in one of the other spheres, we hasten back to the philatelic domicile and hug the conviction that the mental quirks and quiddities of stamp collectors are mild and engaging in comparison with those that characterized the followers of other pursuits. We think that the German collectors must be weak-minded in the first place to become crazy over the New Europe stuff. There is something heroic about getting mental strabismus from looking for Hawaiian missionaries and Mauritius Post Offices, but to allow the senses to become dethroned by the apologetic middle Europe stuff is not a misfortune,—it is a disgrace.

Royal—As a member of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, we have received with the compliments of the President of the premier society, his great work, "The Line-Engraved Postage Stamps of Great Britain Printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co." by Edward Denny Bacon, M. V. O. (President of the Royal Philatelic Society, London). Mr. Bacon's monumental work is in two volumes, the second of which is devoted to the "Appendices" and is a history of the production of the stamps during the forty years from 1840 to 1880, "mainly compiled from the records of the firm with the assistance of Mr. James Dunbar Heath, Managing Director." There are fifteen plates of collotype and other illustrations. Here we have over five hundred pages dedicated to stamps in a somewhat special field, including the first adhesive stamp the world had known. It is given to but few men to achieve their ambition so fully as Mr. Bacon has done in his book; and we are sure that the undoubted historical merit of the volumes will give them a currency outside of philatelic circles. The authority with which the work is written will make it the standard reference work on its subject. We congratulate the talented author and quite naturally we applaud his generosity in giving the fellows of his society each a copy of the books.

Premature—Our attention has been called to a sentence in the "Domestic Postage Rates," as on the cover of the booklet containing twenty-four one cent stamps of the current engraved issue, one cent, perforated 11, and issued since two cent postage had been restored. We quote: "First Class. Letters and sealed matter, 2c for each ounce or fraction, except one cent for drop letters." As we understand the rates, the one cent for drop letters applies only where there is no free delivery, and it would seem that the wording as given is misleading and grants a latitude that does not exist in reality.

Poser—He having read recent discussions on "philatelically used" stamps, we have received an interrogatory from Mr. John E. Lord, as follows: "Where would you draw the line regarding philatelically used stamps, say, for instance, for booklet pane collectors. They want used panes with top margins." Who but a philatelist, asks Mr. Lord, would take the time and trouble to pull the little staples and thus release the leaves with margins. However, it is our assumption that the term, philatelically used, is a somewhat elastic one, as while the booklet pane stamps in the condition desired by collectors of them can have the marginal appendage only when sent by a collector, yet the stamps pay the usual rates and no percentage of their postal value is wasted. There are many phases of "philatelically used", and Mr. Lord's instance is the most innocent one.

Repent—Our sins of omission pursue us unrelentingly. On occasion we can brazen the matter through, but the pressure brought to bear on us to notice a stamp twist that appeared in a story in the Saturday Evening Post of July 3rd, 1920, is too much to withstand. We remember having read the story whose denouement is that the tax paid stamp on a box of cigarettes proved that the murder had been committed before or after, we forget which, the time it possibly could have been by the one suspected of the crime. The intention was to mention the episode but it was crowded out and forgotten, but here six months after the story appeared, we receive a letter asking, among other things, why we never referred to the story. Previously, we had been asked the same question by several correspondents who seemed to think we had some motive for ignoring the philatelic incident.

A NEW $1 SAVINGS STAMP.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Two new Treasury saving securities will be issued during the coming year—a $1 stamp and a $25 certificate—the Treasury Department announced to-day. The $1 stamp will be non-interest bearing and will be bright red, and will bear the portrait of Alexander Hamilton. The $25 certificate will be similar to the $100 and INTERNATIONAL WHOLESALE STAMP CORP.

Member A. S. D. A.

102 EXCHANGE STREET,

PORTLAND, ME.

PORTLAND MATCH CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This concern and Willard T. Brown & Co. were one and the same. The Portland directory for 1865 lists W. T. Brown & Co. at Welchville and the Portland Match Co. at 24 Fore St., and the directory for 1866-67 lists W. T. Brown & Co. at 24 Fore St. In 1869 the firm is listed as Willard T. Brown & Co., commission merchants in groceries and provisions, at the same address.

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size bearing a three-fourths portrait of Mr. Brown facing right in the central oval. The frame is very similar to the 10c postage stamp of 1851-60, but not quite so similar to it as are the "Franklin" and 1c Ives Match stamps. A numeral "1" occupies the place of the "X" in each upper corner; the label between the numerals reads "Matches," and the arch of 13 stars on the postage stamp is replaced by a curved label inscribed "P. M. Co. Portland, Maine." In place of the wide label inscribed "Ten Cents" at the bottom of the postage stamp, the Portland stamp had a narrow label reading "U. S. Inter Rev.", and over either end of this label is a triangular ornament separating it from two short panels adjoining the central oval and parallel to it. These are inscribed "One" and "Cent", respectively.

Of this stamp the Boston Book states:

Die approved, March 16, 1865.
First issued, May, 1865.
Last issued, December, 1867.
5,867,000 issued on old paper.
210 per sheet—(14x15).

Under date of May 31, 1867, Mr. Brown wrote to Butler & Carpenter as follows:—

"Having sold out my business to Byam, Carleton & Co., of Boston, Mass., you will please deliver no more stamps from either of my private dies only to their order, who alone have authority to use them hereafter."

Byam & Carleton never ordered or used stamps from this die, and the other die referred to was that of the stamped wrapper.

The stamp exists only on the thin old paper and all were printed in Philadelphia. It is usually found uncanceled but occasionally copies overprinted "W. T. B. & Co.—Oct. 14, '64" in black in two lines are seen. These are the initials of Mr. Brown's firm and the date is believed either to be the date when he commenced to manufacture matches or the date when his first order for private die stamps was placed. No evidence to support either belief is now available.

Mr. Brown's stamp is not rare but is scarcer than many collectors realize and is difficult to find in nice condition, probably because most of the copies now in existence were used—and show it. The writer has seen a few multiples, but no blocks, and has no information that the stamp was ever used other than singly. From 1886 to 1899 the stamp was quoted at $1.50 but in 1900 the price was reduced to $1.00 and there seems to have been no attempt properly to revalue it since. It is one of the few scarce U. S. stamps that can be bought cheaper to-day than thirty-five years ago. Color, black.

WHATEVER YOU NEED

this is the place to get it.

I have commenced breaking up a rather unusual collection of United States and Foreign postage stamps that contains many covers, blocks and unusual items, and can probably supply as high a percentage of your wants in 19th Century stamps as any dealer in America. The collection is also strong in 20th Century British Colonials unused and in certain other 20th Century issues, but is woefully weak in recent Europe, etc.

For the present, want lists of stamps worth less than $1 each are respectfully declined, but if you wish to invest $100 or more at a time, or are interested in purchasing an entire country, or group of countries, you will do well to communicate with me.

ELLIOTT PERRY HIMSELF.

Box 323, WESTFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

1920 $2 CARMINE & BLACK U. S.

This is not a shade variety but is very distinct from the former $2 orange and black. The P. O. Dept. states they authorized no change in color so this must be an error. Can still supply fine mint singles at $2.75, pairs and blocks at the same rate.

Have you had 50 of those provisional 2c on 3c envelopes. Those ordering them now will receive a different assortment from those ordering a few months back. I offer 50-100-150 varieties all different properly classified, from many cities with a good mixture of colored papers at 10c each. Those taking 50 or more will receive at least one window variety, one albino surcharged and one double. Now is the time.

Did you obtain the rare 2c surface print, type I imperforate? Only a few sheets were sold to collectors through the Chicago Post Office and there is hardly enough to go round. While eight blocks last I offer them along with a block of Type II imperf., as well as the same two varieties perforated 11 at $15.00.

Am anxious to buy a medium sized collection of early U. S. in fine condition. Rather have the major varieties, not especially interested in cancellations, shifts, hair lines, etc. What have you to offer? Also in the market for late U. S. unused.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. John E. Lord has shown me quite an oddity, namely the 3c offset print, perforated 11, unwatermarked, showing several impressions. It seems that the rubber roller was somewhat dirty from previous use and that several very light layers of ink were left upon it, resulting in the stamp just described. At first glance the variety appears as if it were printed upon a violet coated paper, but close examination reveals the other impressions.

There was recently sold at public auction a stamp carefully described in the auction catalogue as the 3c engraved, perforated 11, unwatermarked in the color of the 2c stamp, that is carmine. A collector in this part of the country purchased the lot and as I surmised when I first received the catalogue, this is nothing more than a changeling. We would again warn our readers against buying any so-called errors of color, for outside of the famous 5c red, none exist. It is not likely that any others would turn up without our learning of them and after examining them inform our readers of the fact. It must be remembered that the purple stamps, such as the current 3c, the Victory variety and others, may be readily turned to red or to blue, the 1c may be turned blue, black or yellow, the 6c, and any other orange or yellow stamp, is easily oxidized and changed to a brown. Whenever you see such an error, the first thing to consider is what inks are the stamp in the correct color made from. Then remember that if the color is made up of two or three primary colors, one or more of these may be dissolved by fumes or acid that do not necessarily affect the gum or paper, and we have left the other color unaffected. Then remember that the inks may be oxidized giving still a different appearance. Take the 1c green, for illustration. We learned in the grammar school that green is made from two primary colors, blue and yellow. All right, the blue inks and the yellow inks are made from different ingredients so that something may be found to dissolve one that will not dissolve the other. Hence we may obtain a 1c in yellow or blue. If the stamp is oxidized we have a black. I have dwelt upon this subject at great length because so many of these fakes are about, some of them being in the hands of those who are offering them to the unsuspecting collector. I have in my reference collection quite a few of these and have not as yet found a single copy that would fool anyone making a close study of the subject. If any of our readers at any time should run into a copy that they really believe to be an error I will gladly examine it for them.

More of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes have been received this week, including the first from New Orleans. Mr. Cassius L. Clay is entitled to thanks for sending us promptly copies of those placed on sale. Mr. A. H. Hoffman tells us that Butte has started to overprint not only the envelopes but the postals as well, and sends us the first we have seen. Mr. R. H. Mason calls our attention to another variety of the Frederick provisionals that has not been heretofore chronicled. Mr. J. William Harmon kindly sends us another lot from Oklahoma City, including the first that we have seen on amber. Mr. Harmon tells us that but one package of 25 was on hand to be surcharged. Mr. Allen H. Wright sends several new Los Angeles bearing return cards of San Diego firms. Messrs. C. L. Douglas and V. M. Hansen have located more from Portland, Me., Mr. R. J. Tarpone from Des Moines and Mr. H. W. Lindaman another from Chicago. Mr. H. M. Southgate has found an unlisted window variety from New York. We chronicled the San Antonio postal some weeks back but at that time only had the one variety. Mr. W. J. Prinzing has located the two types. We refer to the two types of the 2c red postal which has been overprinted, not to two types of surcharge.

rates, replace the present 1 1/2d stamps.

Presumably the new value is in the same type as the 1/2d, 1d, 1 1/2d, 4d and 5d K. G. stamps.

Meanwhile the 2 1/2d Kangaroo has appeared in a new shade—bright indigo. —Stamp Collecting.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has submitted to us for chronicle the following recent issues, of the parcel post stamps: 20c green, 25c blue, 35c brown and 1.10frs light blue. Mr. Hooreman also informs us that with these values all 1920 parcel post set is complete, unless new values as 15 and 20frs should appear. The new issue, Grand Duchess Charlotte, will probably be issued at the end of December.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—Guest's New Issue Service submits for chronicle the 50h crimson, which they advise was placed on sale the 18th of October.

DANZIG.—Mr. Albert G. Gurney advises that the following varieties, known as issue No. 4 of Danzig in the following values: 2pf, 2 1/2pf, 3pf, 7 1/2pf, 10pf, 30pf, 40pf, 50pf and 80pf German stamps surcharged diagonally "Danzig". The first five values are overprinted in blue, while the other values are red surcharge. Mr. Gurney adds that these are very rare and bring high prices, as most of the values have been surcharged with the additional values.

ESTHONIA.—Guest's New Issue Service has shown us the imperforate 35p rose surcharged "1 Mk" in black. Mr. P. Tobl has shown us the Soldier's stamp of 70p value, blue and brown, surcharged "2 Mk" in black. Also the 15p red, imperforate stamp, overprinted "1 Mk" in black. At the same time Mr. Tobl shows us the 25p green and 2.50mk blue in the current type, imperforate.

JAMAICA.—We are indebted to Mr. J. A. Galbraith for a copy of the new 1/2d stamp of this colony. It is issued in commemoration of the Jamaica Exhibition of 1891 and is of oblong shape with the figures of value in the upper left and right corners. In the centre is the likeness of a large exhibition hall. The word "Jamaica" is between the two figures of value and at the left is "Postage" and at the right "Revenue". Below the central picture is "Jamaica Exhibition 1891". The frame is olive green and the centre grey green.

ROUMANIA.—Mr. Arthur Lebovici, of Braila, sends us specimens of two new values, which have been added to the current postage stamp series bearing the head of King Ferdinand in accordance with the revised rates of postage, viz., 3 bani, grey, for newspapers, and 30 bani, mauve, for inland letters. Philatelic Magazine.

SILESIA (Eastern).—A few days before the Czech stamps, overprinted S. O., were withdrawn from circulation, the 500 and 1,000 heller values, with portrait of President Masaryk, were similarly treated. Stamp Collecting is informed that very few of them came into use.—Philatelic Magazine.

which we feel sure will be appreciated by our numerous friends and patrons. Our stock of some of these is limited and we recommend an early reply, of others we have ample quantities to go round. We send SELECTIONS ON APPROVAL to collectors who are known to us, or to those furnishing business references. OUR STOCK IS VERY LARGE, there is something suitable for every purse, from the little 25c packet or set up to the rare varieties costing many dollars each. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED, but NOT WANT LISTS. We confess we cannot handle WANT LISTS properly, and do not wish to pretend to do something we cannot fulfill. 72-PAGE LISTS FREE.

OUR STOCK IS VERY LARGE, the total catalog value of our stock of single Stamps, Lots, etc., runs considerably over ONE MILLION DOLLARS—so there ought to be something suitable for all, except the very great Rarities, which we handle only occasionally. Address:

THE C. E. HUSSMAN STAMP CO., Incorporated
2600A OLIVE ST., ESTABLISHED 26 YEARS. ST. LOUIS, MO.

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

THE DAILY MAIL.

"BRAD'S" B't O' Verse.

Bill Bluffem walks with lordly gait along the village trail. He wears a front that's truly great; he's going for the mail. He talks about it with a boast in loud, sonorous tones; you'd think he owned the parcel post and all its miles of zones. The tenderfoot who comes to town looks on with fearsome awe and marvels at his darkling frown, the squareness of his jaw. Not e'en a Sunday passes by but, steady as two

GERMAN COLLECTOR'S CRAZY.

(Under the heading of "Stamps of New Nations Drive Germans Crazy." George Witte sends a cable to the New York Globe and Chicago Daily News which we reprint. We are quite sure that U. S. collectors have shown no tendency to go "daffy" over these stamps, but nevertheless think it wise to sound a word of warning.—W. O. W.)

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 30—The new Baltic and Balkan countries have been putting out so many stamps that "Charite," Berlin's biggest hospital, has just opened a philatelist section for collectors who have gone crazy trying to keep their war stamp collections up to date. Cases of this kind are very numerous, and are attributed to the characteristic German thoroughness.

15 DIFF. UNUSED HONDURAS FREE!

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Boston firm of Frank P. Brown Co. has removed to 53 Bromfield St. Our Managing Editor has been invited to call and inspect the new premises and he is no doubt permitted to pass this invitation on to all readers of the WEEKLY.

—Philip H. Ward, Jr., is circulating a leaflet dealing with the new issues service which he has inaugurated

—The Philatelic Publicity Bulletin, formerly published by E. W. Jukes, has been taken over by C. H. Hollister, Mukwonago, Wis., to whom all claims may be addressed. It will save time if they be forwarded directly to him instead of to the WEEKLY.

—Fred S. Martin of Greene, N. Y., holds an October 9 order from St. Louis, minus the name and address of sender.

—We have a letter at this office for Mr. E. G. Young and find ourselves unable to place him upon our mailing list. Will Mr. Young oblige us with his address?

—Two new postmark cancellations are at hand. One is from Washington, D. C., and reads in four lines:—"Mail—Early—For—Christmas." The other is from Detroit, Mich., by courtesy of Herman W. Boers and others, and reads in three lines:—"Address Detroit Mail—To New Street Numbers—January 1, 1921." This has reference to a re-numbering of the streets of the city which goes into effect upon the date referred to.

—I want to call your attention to a variety that I found in the current 2 cent surface print. In the lower left-hand pane, the third row from the bottom and the second row from the left, you will find in Plate No. 12157 a vertical line passing through the "O" of Postage. I have examined ten sheets with this plate number and found the same mark exists in each sheet. If you think this worthy of investigation you may use it for what it is worth.—HARRY G. REAM.

GERMAN AIR MAIL.

A regular air mail service was initiated between Berlin and Breslau during the Breslau Autumn Fair week, the distance between the two cities being covered in 2½ hours. The Fair closed on September 11th, but the service is likely to be maintained with a view to linking up with the projected Paris-Strassburg-Prague and Warsaw air line. Another interesting development is contemplated in connection with the Berlin-Königsberg air service, continues the Aerial Age Weekly, which is intended to extend to Reval and Helsingfors, possibly with an eye to Petrograd in the near future. The German postal authorities are also in communication with the Swiss Government with a view to the early establishment of a daily air mail between Frankfurt-on-the-Main and Basle. Air mails have been running daily between Berlin, Bremen and Wangeroo, and no accident has occurred.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1560 to 1563 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

COLONIAL WATERMARK CHANGED.

HARRY E. HUBER.

For several years there have been rumors of a change in the type of watermark in paper used for stamps of the British Colonies requisitioned through the Crown Agents for the Colonies, in London,—and now, the rumor has become a fact, for the new paper has been used for the 1d and 2½d stamps of Bermuda's celebration series, commemorating the 300th anniversary of the first assembly in that island, issued on November 11th, 1920.

The multiple Crown and CA continues, but the Crown is changed as to shape and is somewhat larger, while the letters CA are in script type lettering as for the GvR of Britain's stamp paper.

It is needless to say that this change will be far reaching in its effects, and on this side of the Atlantic alone, over 200 varieties will make appearance during the next year. For some of the Islands new series are in preparation, and the change in watermark will not affect stamps in the current design.

Antigua.—The new series of stamps from here (½d. to 2sh 6d inclusive), which will be smaller in size than the present Arms type, will appear on the new paper. No change is contemplated in the design of the current 5s George, so that any further printings will be on the changed paper.

Bahamas.—George, small size, ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 4d, 6d, 1s, 5s and £1. Queen's Staircase, 1d, 3d, 5d, 2s, 3s. It is not improbable that some values of the Peace series will require reprinting—on the new paper.

Barbados.—Victory series. These stamps are to be on sale for a year, and due to the great demand, stock of some values is lowering. New printings will necessarily be on the new paper; whether all values will appear, remains to be seen. This recalls a similar happening at the time of the Nelson Centenary stamps. The commemorative stamps first appeared (1906) on the Crown CC paper; in the following year the ¼d, 2d and 2½d were reprinted on the multiple Crown and CA paper. The large size, 1916 type, showing George and the Seahorses, will probably not appear on the new paper, due to the new series of postage stamps (smaller in size), which is in preparation, for issue when the Victory stamps are withdrawn.

Bermuda.—Sea Venture type, ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 1d and 1d WAR TAX. King George, 2s, 2s 6d, 4s, 5s, 10s, £1. The 2s and 4s having only recently been issued, will have short life on the old paper.

British Guiana.—George and Arms. 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 12c, 24c, 60c, 72c, 96c.

British Honduras.—A new series of stamps has been expected from here for some time, and it is probable the 1913 George type will not appear on the new paper. The 2c of the new series is intended to commemorate Peace, being of the combination George and Arms type,—it will be printed from recess engraved plates. The other values of the series are to be in the Nyasaland and keyplate type (as used for current Jamaicans), with the higher values in large size.

Cayman Islands.—The present design stamps will not come on the new paper, for a new series is in preparation following the design of the George stamps of New Zealand, copper plate printed 1½d, 3d, 1s and 5s stamps have already been printed, and will appear early in the New Year. Other values will be requisitioned as stock in hand exhausts.

Dominica.—View of Roseau (½d to 2sh 6d); King George (5s). The 1½d (in black on 2½d orange), the 2s and 2sh 6d on blue paper, will have short life.

Grenada.—Rumor has it that a new series is in preparation for this island—to replace the present D. L. R. stock type.

Jamaica.—It has been decided to have an entirely new series of stamps for this Island, and the 5s in allegorical design has already been ordered. It is quite probable that some of the lower values in the present design will appear on the new paper before the complete new series is in readiness. The recently issued 10s Lord of Jamaica is to form one of the new series; therefore, the

"PHILATELY'S BEST RECRUITING SERGEANT"

Such was the very true description of the Triangular Cape of Good Hope Stamps, used by the famous Philatelist, the late Mr. M. P. Castle. The singular shape and beauty of design must always make a strong appeal, both to the philatelist and to the Philistine.

These stamps have always been very scarce USED ON THE ORIGINAL COVERS, which is the most interesting condition. I CAN OFFER THE 4d IN THIS STATE, FROM $4.00 upwards and have a variety of same, also the 1d and 6d values, which I can submit to American amateurs on receipt of the usual references.

A JUNIOR COLLECTION.

By ROLAND S. ST. PIERRE.

The time has come in the history of philately when to form an interesting general collection is almost an impossibility for the younger collector. So many, many stamps have made their appearance in recent years, and the market is continually being flooded with more, that the junior philatelist who attempts to fill enough spaces in his album to make his collection beautiful, artistic, or anywhere near completion, will find it a mighty task indeed.

As a young collector, and of only modest means, I very soon saw the uselessness of trying to fill enough of the more than 37,100 spaces in the 19th and 20th Century albums to make a showing. My 3500 varieties were lost in a maze of blank spaces, and living in a small town that boasts few other collectors, I was forced to rely on my friends for audience when showing my collection. It is a perfectly natural desire for a boy to want to display his stamp treasures, but I found so few interested in them, that since stamp collecting is so interesting, I decided the fault lay with me.

My problem was to form a somewhat complete collection that would satisfy my philatelic craving, give my "pals" pleasure and arouse their interest, and yet that would be within my means financially.

So I laid aside my two big albums and bought a small loose leaf blank page book of the sort that can be procured from any large dealer at prices from $1.25 to $7.00. I decided to begin with a menagerie. My 3500 variety collection yielded over a hundred stamps showing various animals. A great many countries have issued stamps depicting animals native to their climate, chief among these being Congo, Liberia, North Borneo and the Portuguese colonies. My object in this collection was not to complete sets, pay big prices for high values, or rarities. It was simply to show a fairly complete menagerie of the animals of the world. There are more of them shown on stamps than most of us would believe, they are for the most part inexpensive, and can be procured unused, which gives a collection of the greatest beauty.

About six months of my menagerie and I could have put Ringling Bros. to shame. I mounted my animals on the right-hand page and on the left-hand page opposite a short, neat description of the animal, the number of the description corresponding to the number under the stamp. It is a neat, tasteful and beautiful little collection, which gave me the satisfaction impossible in a general collection, of having completed something. And most important of all it has aroused untold interest among my friends. I have achieved!

Another blank album was secured, and immediately began to show the interesting scenes and great moments of history. By way of example the United States Columbian issue yielded me the following:

1c, Columbus in sight of land.
 4c, Fleet of Columbus.
 5c, Columbus soliciting aid from Isabella.
 6c, Columbus welcomed at Barcelona.
 8c, Columbus restored to favor.
 10c, Columbus presenting natives.
 15c, Columbus announcing his discovery.
 30c, Columbus at La Rabida.
 50c, Recall of Columbus.
 $1, Isabella pledging her jewels.

On the opposite page was a short description of the meaning of each scene.

And so I might go on with a list of the types of collections I have formed or that it is possible to form, but I can see the editor frowning over the length of this manuscript now, so I will end it with a suggestive list of possible collections. These give much opportunity for originality in the selection and arrangement of the stamps. A Scott's catalog is indispensable as an aid in this type of collection. Give it a try, fellows, it's loads of fun.

ACKERMAN TALKS.

The Plainfield (N. J.) Stamp Club had recently a very enthusiastic gathering of members and guests to hear an address delivered by Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman of that city, who for years has been a keen philatelist. Congressman Ackerman brought with him a small portion of his large collection and during the evening exhibited many interesting specimens of stamps and original covers. He said in part:—

"Perhaps it would be interesting to know how I became attracted to stamp collecting. It was away back in the days shortly after the department stamps were first put forth by the U. S. Government, nearly fifty years ago. My father was a patent attorney, and I frequently brought his mail from the local post office, and observing the large envelopes with the fifteens, twelves, threes, twos, etc., I was attracted to them and my father gave them to me. Afterwards I had a few foreign stamps given me and that further excited my interest.

"A short time after that I obtained a Scott album, issue of 1875, and I still have that album with nearly 2,000 of the original collection in it. My interest then in geography was very much accentuated and I wanted to travel and see the world.

"The opportunity came in 1880 when I went abroad with my friend, George Vincent, then of this city, who is now president of the Rockefeller Foundation. His father was Bishop Vincent of the Methodist Church. George and I were schoolmates, and it being the year of our graduation and toward the close of school term, we were allowed to go. I didn't know at first how I could raise the money to go, but my mother loaned me the money on the stamp collection to pay my expenses abroad." One of his "finds" on this trip, he said, was a two-shilling brown issue, which is now quite valuable.

In his trip around the world in 1895 Congressman Ackerman devoted most of his time in stamp collecting, visiting first Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, where he had letters of introduction to President Dole. Here he obtained at the post office a large assortment of stamps with the heads of the kings on them. They were in sheets, but stuck together and it took some time to separate them.

The speaker then told of visiting Japan, where the first thing that comes to your attention are sheets of facsimiles of stamps that are sold everywhere. In China, especially the cities of Hong Kong, Canton, Shanghai and Peking, there are post offices of many countries. There you will find the Russian, Austrian, U. S. and British post offices each issuing different stamps. In Singapore they are very entertaining, and the post office officials urge the sale of stamps especially to the tourist collector. Visits in the interest of philately to South America, Europe and other parts of Asia were touched upon by Congressman Ackerman.

While in Buenos Aires Mr. Ackerman obtained the largest envelope cover that he possesses and displayed the specimen to the audience. The cover is almost the size of a mail bag and carried an issue of bonds between Moscow and Petrograd, Russia. There were 196 stamps on the cover. A rare stamp in his collection, known as the one penny Transvaal, with inverted surcharge, which the speaker said he got through an exchange and recently sold in England for 100 pounds.

In closing, the speaker said: "Now having had a business experience of many years and meeting with many vicissitudes in life, I have never failed to find quiet and peace of mind by turning over the pages of my stamp albums. Therefore, as a solvent for the complete retention of one's faculties when upset by sudden changes in this life, I believe I am qualified to speak for the hobby as possessing the highest virtues."

As souvenirs of the occasion Congressman Ackerman distributed to the club members and guests blocks of Honduras stamps which recently were used as wall paper in the room in his home that was partially destroyed by fire last summer.

The evening's program closed with an auction of stamps conducted by the club.

Among the out-of-town guests was a delegation from the Philatelic Society of Orange and included Vice President A. C. Bode and Messrs. J. E. Skiff, H. H. Butler, F. C. Brown and C. E. Cowell of Milburn, sales superintendent; Edward Weiss, secretary of the New York Philatelic Society; Elliott Perry of Westfield; Thomas J. Gabriel of New Brunswick, and others from Newark and Red Bank.

The Plainfield Stamp Club, although organized less than a year, has nearly sixty members with more prospects to be proposed at the next meeting. The officers are: President, Frank Hadley; Vice-President, Ralph Daniel; Second Vice-President, Geo. Rockfellow; Secretary, Edward Tomson; Treasurer, William Judisch; Manager, Charles E. Cowell; Manager of Foreign Affairs, Jack Daniel; Librarian, Walter Judisch.

JULIUS PILLER—WARNING.

H. E. Harris of Boston sends us a warning concerning one Julius Piller, 20 Hackengasse, Vienna 15, Austria. Mr. Harris gives us all the particulars over his own signature, and all patrons of the WEEKLY will find it to their profit to put this party upon their black list. Piller has no stock of stamps. is not a stamp dealer, but has a system of getting deposits on the strength of his advertising. We hope this notice will be sufficient to protect our readers.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

D. Field, 4 Royal Arcade, Old Bond, London, Eng., submits a review copy of the second edition of "Postage Stamps of the Great War and After". The price is 2sh 6d. The publishers call attention to the fact that certain portions have been entirely re-written, including Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Ukraine, and Jugo-Slavia. The entire book has undergone a revision and additional illustrations are noted. A large amount of descriptive text is distributed through the book and the publishers are to be congratulated upon their contribution to the catalogs of the day. There is a fine large map of the world which indicates the territory where war stamps have been issued. We have a limited supply of the book on hand at the WEEKLY office and can furnish copies at 50c.

A report of the Seventh Philatelic Congress of Great Britain held at Newcastle-upon-Tyne in May comes to us from F. H. Vallancey of Stamp Collecting. The publishers' notes indicate that Mr. Vallancey is responsible for the book and is bearing the cost of the same. The price is 2sh 9d and it may be obtained by addressing 89 Farringdon St., London. Much of general interest is scattered through the pages of the pamphlet, but the book will deserve special consideration at the hands of those who are members of American philatelic societies.

A booklet reaches us which bears the title "A Brief Record of the Visit of His Royal Highness, The Prince of Wales, to Grenada". The book is written by Lady Haddon-Smith and the price is 1sh. Copies may be obtained from the Home Industries Building Fund, St. George, Grenada. A photograph of the Prince adorns the book as a frontispiece and the details of the Prince's visit are covered in every particular.

BALLSTON LAKE, N. Y.

PLAN TO REVIVE 3c POSTAGE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11.—Strong efforts will be made at the coming session of Congress to amend the tax laws in two important particulars.

First, to restore the rate of first-class postage to three cents an ounce, and second, to put a stamp tax upon bank checks and other business instruments that heretofore have escaped taxation.

The object of this movement is twofold. It would provide much needed additional revenues to replace the expected loss in income and excess profits taxes and would obviate the apparent necessity for general revision of the tax laws at this session of Congress.

The two proposed taxes are favored because they would be good revenue producers, with a fairly definite rate of return, and because being "popgun" measures, extended hearings would not be necessary and a promise would be inveighed to repeal them when a general revision was undertaken, should they prove too burdensome.—(Clipping R. E. WADE, JR.)

NEW HAVEN (CONN.) ACTIVE.

An old correspondent, Edwin R. Slater, calls our attention to the activities of the New Haven society, which meets the second and fourth Thursdays of each month on Court St. in what was the old Music Hall but is now owned by the Order of Moose. The club-room has been refurbished and very enjoyable meetings are held, with such specialists as Dr. Chase with his U. S. 1851; H. P. Atherton and his "Black Jacks"; O. H. Clark with Civil War envelopes; Edgar Nelson entireties and others. J. A. Ritchie, the cancellation authority, was the attraction Dec. 9, and visitors were present from Hartford, Bridgeport and Milford. Other good things are planned for the future. THREE ESSENTIALS IN ADVERTISING.

1—Make the copy attractive enough so it will not be passed unnoticed.
2—Make the statements so convincing that they will carry enough weight to bring replies.
3—Be able to deliver the goods that are offered.

If this ad fails to bring results, I shall try again, but if my point is made, let me hear from those who are interested in stamps of the following sorts:—

Old U. S., Post., Rev., scarce Br. N. A., better grade of Br. Cols., early issues of Europe, S. A., W. I., Australia, etc. Only high grade stamps in my approval books, unless you wish to buy cheap, when I have a line of slightly defective copies (not culls at that) which I have marked at low prices.

Many of the readers of the WEEKLY are my customers, but I can always take care of more, so don't hesitate longer, I know I can give satisfaction, and the only way to find out is to give me a chance.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Herman W. Boers, c/o L. Black Co., Detroit, Mich., is very desirous of obtaining a copy of the WEEKLY dated Feb. 22, 1919. We find ourselves unable to supply the same and would ask some subscriber who will co-operate with Mr. Boers in a commendable bit of publicity to send him the number desired. Our office supply is exhausted.

—Edwin B. Hill has changed his address and is now located at Ysleta, Tex.

—The New York dealer, D. Taussig, formerly located at 10 W. 28 St., may now be found at 101 W. 42 St., where he has moved his extensive wholesale stamp business and where callers will be received by appointment.

—A Bargain sheet is at hand from Morgan W. Taylor of Hartford, Conn. It will be sent to any collector upon application.

—The Fennell Stamp Co. has just purchased the collection of A. C. F. Meyer, president of the Lafayette Southside Bank of St. Louis.

—E. W. Jukes of Philadelphia has turned over his Philatelic Collecting Agency to C. H. Hollister, Mukwonago, Wis., to whom all claims should be sent. Dealers will please note that the WEEKLY does not advertise frauds until the facts have been passed upon either by Mr. Hollister or by some collecting agency.

WOMAN WANTS MR. AZERBAIJAN.

GENEVA, Dec. 3.—"Boy, page Monsieur Azerbaijan."

A woman walked up to the clerk in a Geneva hotel where delegates to the League of Nations are quartered and asked for "Monsieur Azerbaijan." She had read in a newspaper that Azerbaijan was not to be admitted as a member of the league, and she had come to solicit his autograph. She already had the signatures of most of the delegates in her book, she said, but somehow had missed "Monsieur Azerbaijan," who undoubtedly was here, seeing that the newspaper spoke of him.

"Call for Monsieur Azerbaijan, call for Monsieur Azerbaijan," stuttered the page all over the place.

For ten minutes the lady waited patiently.

Finally an elderly delegate, emerging from behind a huge armchair, came to her rescue.

"Madame," he said, "excuse me, but if the Azerbaijan you are looking for doesn't happen to be lost, you'll probably find him on the map somewhere between the Black Sea and Arabia."

TWO ISSUES MERGED.

We merge this week the issues of Dec. 18 and 25 in order that we may start 1921 on time. During the past year we have been sorely beset by various office difficulties, and this fact, coupled with many 16-paged issues, made the situation very acute and has set back our day of publication. Our subscribers will receive their full number of copies subscribed for as our Whole No. will show.

SEVERN-WYLIE-JEWETT CO.

EDITORIAL.

Approved—The London Special number was delayed for some days but we are safe in saying that our readers found it worth waiting for. The congratulatory words that we have received upon it are echoing pleasantly in our ears. It was something of a mechanical feat to accomplish an issue of forty pages where so much detail entered into the task. We think that the number was well presented, and now that it is off our hands, we shall institute effective measures for earlier mailing of the WEEKLY with the new volume, and it looks as though we may depend on the post office department for an improvement in handling second-class mail.

New—The new Pilgrim stamps will be welcome as a conservative issue of this kind does not seem inappropriate, now that stamps are established as a means for marking celebrations, anniversaries or what not. About eight years have passed since the last commemorative set appeared in this country and the Pilgrim stamps will be received favorably by the public and philatelists alike. We have the one cent documentary issue, current, with the surcharge, in black, in two lines, "Cigarette Tubes." It is explained that these special stamps are used on packages of cigarette tubes which the buyer fills with tobacco instead of "rolling his own."

Seen—It is odd how the word "stamp" looms forth to those who are ardent philatelists. Whenever "stamp" appears in print, it hits the yearning eye of the true believer. For instance, in scanning an autograph letter from

SCOTT'S MONTHLY JOURNAL

THE PHILATELIC MAGAZINE IN AMERICA.

We admit it is best, but what is more important, our readers confirm our opinion.

$1.00 PER YEAR.

SCOTT STAMP & COIN CO.

33 WEST 44TH STREET,

NEW YORK CITY

Jefferson Davis written to Francis F. Browne, editor and founder of the Dial, that splendid journal of literary criticism and discussion, and himself, a brilliant man of letters, we find the postscript: "The postoffice stamp on your envelope is Chicago. I will therefore address any answer to you 'via Chicago'." The letter was written at Beauvoir, Miss., June 13th, 1887, and was sent to Mr. Browne who lived in Hyde Park, which was then a suburb of Chicago. The "stamp" as written stood forth so prominently, it seemed, that it gave us a little thrill, and from the number of stamp clippings that are sent in to us by readers we know that they find their eyes arrested by the word.

Confirmed—We frequently have spoken of persons who occupied political positions who pursued philately in the noiseless tenor of their way and were unhonored and unsung, so far as the collecting world was concerned. Our friend Lowell J. Ragatz, to whom we are indebted for many editorial favors, presents another instance of the quiet quest for stamps on the part of a one-time cabinet officer and governor. We quote: "That Jeremiah M. Rusk, Secretary of Agriculture and three times Governor of Wisconsin, was a postage stamp collector, was learned here recently when the private papers of General Rusk were transferred to the Wisconsin State Historical Society of Madison by his daughter, Miss Mary E. Rusk, mistress of the Rusk home at Viroqua. The papers and the stamp collection had remained undisturbed in a wooden trunk for more than twenty years. The papers cover correspondence between 1882 and 1889, when General Rusk served three terms as Governor, and from 1889 to 1893, when he was called into the Harrison cabinet, as first Secretary of the Agriculture. They are reported to be very valuable material for both state and American history and now being worked on by the Society's research staff. The stamp collection is a general one, contained in an 1886 (8th edition) Scott album and about two thousand varieties of stamps, envelopes and wrappers are represented. There are many spaces from which copies have been removed. However, it has been noted that these by no means are the most valuable ones. Judging by the type of stamps that have been taken out, it is believed that the General removed them to give to buy friends, of whom he always had a good number. The collection will be kept intact as part of the Historical Museum stamp collection which, under the direction of Professor Charles F. Brown, has grown to be one of the largest publicly-owned ones in America." This is all very interesting and it is to be said that a collection of two thousand varieties in 1886 was a rather fair collection because at this time some of the big dealers advertised "four thousand varieties constantly in stock." The collector who had over fifteen hundred different stamps forty years ago had to work a bit to reach this goal.

Experts—It is some time since we have seen new prices advertised that could give us an idea of any increased cost of stamp expertizing. A circular comes from Mr. J. Stanley Telfer, secretary to the committee, announcing that the Stamp Trade Protection Association, Ltd., a sort of relation of the American Stamp Dealers Association, has instituted an Expert Committee, whose honorary members are the following: W. Hadlow, W. Houtzamer, F. H. Oliver, P. L. Pemberton and A. J. Sefi. Certainly these names have a genuine ring and we believe that the "detecting" abilities of these gentlemen should receive the highest mark. We may add that stamps under five pounds in catalogue price are passed upon for two shillings and six and so on until the maximum is reached,—21 shillings is the cost of an opinion on any one stamp catalogued at over 20 pounds.

Jarred—The Washington Star recently contained a stamp story that hit collectors squarely between the eyes. The clipping, which appears in another column, told how an army officer helped himself to revenue stamps on deeds in the Recorder's office at Washington without receiving permission to do so. Needless to say that the officer's liberty was not considered the less unwarranted because he had brought a cup half-filled with water and a supply of blotting paper, thereby showing that he was an exponent of philatelic preparedness, indeed. In the parlance of the reporter, he was made to disgorge the stamps that he had taken from the documents, and as he denied any intention to wittingly appropriate something of value, he was allowed to depart, probably somewhat chastened in spirit. The mistake that the collector made was in doing the work surreptitiously, and we can scarcely blame the court officers for being in high dudgeon at his colossal assurance. Here we may add something about the removal of revenue stamps from documents, say, with the permission of the proper officers. Occasion has been had to consider the subject at different times in the past and we have printed the opinion of a prominent attorney-at-law to the effect that the removal of the stamps did not impair the validity of the instrument. Many a find has been made in old court-houses by collectors who have been permitted to take off the revenue stamps from the documents so long as they obeyed the injunction not to harm or deface the instruments in any way. In fact, we have just seen the spoils of a stamp hunter who was given access to the archives in a court house and among the revenue stamps were some well worth having.

USED BLOCKS OF FOUR

Having collected nothing but used blocks of four for more than 12 years, I now have a supply and a knowledge which warrant my offering some for sale. Let me know in what countries you are interested or what special blocks you want. I have no bargains to offer. My prices are based on cost and on rarity in blocks. The early applicant gets the cream!

PORTLAND, MAINE.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—I have received several letters from our readers asking if the $2 stamp, perforated 11 on unwatermarked paper, recently discovered in a rich rose-carmine and black is an error of color or simply a change. The Post Office Department has stated that no change has been authorized, therefore I cannot see how this can be other than an error. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing tells us that they were printed in the color of the 2c and that if there is a difference it is nothing more than a shade variety. We all know that it is more than a shade variety, and those who have seen the former stamp in the orange and black will certainly agree that we have never had a 2c stamp in any such color.

So that future historians will have the official data for their records, I take pleasure in quoting the following two letters from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, both letters being addressed to your editor.

"November 5, 1920.

Mr. PHILIP H. WARD, JR.
P. O. B. 4216, Germantown, Phil., Pa.
Dear Sir—Your letter of November 1st is received.

So far as known, no change was made in the color of the current $2 postage stamp. Possibly some slight change of shade might have occurred in the red ink, and if you will submit one of the stamps to which you refer for examination, the matter will be given further attention. Send it by registered mail addressed:

Third Assistant Postmaster General, Attention of Supt., Div. of Stamps, Post Office Department,
Washington, D. C.

The stamp will be returned to you.

Respectfully,
(Signed) W. J. BARROWS,
Acting Third Assistant P. M. Gen."

As per their request, a copy of the stamp was mailed them and the Division of Stamps very courteously and promptly submitted the variety to the Bureau, resulting in the following letter:

"November 15, 1920.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 9th is received.

It was referred to the Director, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who reported as follows November 13:

"Referring to the letter of Mr. Philip H. Ward, Box 4216, Germantown, Pa., brought to this office by representative of the Post Office Department, Mr. Stewart, relative to change of color in the $2 postage stamps, I beg to state that the frame of the present issue of $2 United States postage stamps has always been printed with red ink, but the first printing was of a slightly different shade of red from that which is now being used, which is the same as the 2c shade. These stamps were never printed with an orange colored ink."

The canceled $2 stamp which accompanied your letter is returned.

Respectfully,
(Signed) W. J. BARROWS,

We chronicled some months back a precanceled envelope, the second variety that had been seen used in this manner. Mr. Roy Curran now shows us the current 1c and 2c envelopes precanceled in black, between two horizontal lines, "Carrollton."

And still they come, with the efd not yet in sight. One would have thought that by this time all of the 3c envelopes could have been overprinted for use as 2c, but it seems that some very substantial stocks remain to be surcharged. Mr. R. F. Morean has sent a wonderful lot of new varieties from Minneapolis and of the amber but 41, and of the buff but a thousand were on hand to be overprinted. A Washington overprint sold at Roanoke, Va., has been kindly sent us by Mr. Robert Loeb. Mr. H. M. Norton and Mr. C. C. Keller have found new ones from Saint Paul, while Mr. R. A. Lynch used from Peoria a Chicago variety that we have not previously seen. Mr. H. W. Lindemann has located still another from Chicago, which city, by the way, is giving New York a hard race for first honors. We have seen no windows as yet from the former city. Mr. C. A. Bartlett hands us fifteen varieties recently purchased in New York from which we glean one novelty.

WITH FEW EXCEPTIONS.

I can now supply more than 90% of the stamps listed by Scott or Gibbons—both U. S. and Foreign. The exceptions are mostly recent war issues and countries whose stamps are in little demand.
Many very fine early Mauritius, New South Wales, Brazil, Hawaii, etc., and a magnificent lot of pairs, strips, blocks and covers from all over the world will be ready to submit soon. I believe my stock of U. S. is second to none in the world and I can supply many of the rare carrier stamps in addition to rare shades, cancellations and blocks in the general issues—postage only. Whatever you want, your best chance of getting it is right here.

But of course I have not fifty copies of everything and if you delay your order long enough probably I will not be able to fill it. The first orders get the first pick. No prices will be quoted on anything—remember that—but the stamps will be submitted on approval to responsible collectors who mean business and customers who have favored me with their patronage in the past will be given the preference.

a great number of letters have come to hand enclosing anywhere from one to eighty copies of the provisional envelopes which I have been asked to classify. While I am always glad to give our readers any information at my command and to help them in any reasonable way with their United States stamps, it must be remembered that my time is limited and I cannot afford to spend hours in classifying envelopes which, as one reader says, "could not be classified by the dealer from whom I purchased them, as he did not have the time." Remember there are about 40 types to date and none of us have as yet become so familiar with them that we can classify them by cities without a lot of reference work.

BRITISH COLONIES.—The Philatelic Magazine on the authority of Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd., is able to publish the exclusive information that a new water-marked paper is about to be introduced for British Colonial stamps. This is in the form of a "multiple" design as at present, with the difference that the crown is of an entirely different shape and larger, while the letters "C.A." beneath are in the same type of script lettering as used in the "G v R" water-marked paper used for British stamps. As the "C.A." paper is used for practically all the issues of the Crown Colonies and the new paper will be brought into use as new supplies are required, it is highly probable that many stamps now current, and which would otherwise have undergone no change, will have a very short life.

BULGARIA.—Mr. W. T. Wilson shows us copies of the 30st and 50st of the set just issued to commemorate the 70th birthday of the Bulgarian National Poet wosoff. The first value is in rose and the latter green. In addition to the values noted Mr. Wilson advises that he has also received the 1, 2, 3, and 5l all in different designs. He also adds that the information is given that the set will only be in circulation 15 days.

Thanks to the courtesy of Mr. Albino, we are able to chronicle a series of six beautifully engraved labels issued by the Bulgarian Post Office in commemoration of the jubilee of the national poet Vazoff. We have no knowledge of that worthy's life and attainments, and we care less, especially now that he is the excuse for a bold attempt to rake into the impoverished coffers at Sofia a hoped-for subsidy from stamp dealers.

Three hundred thousand are stated to have been engraved and printed of each of the following denominations:—30 and 50 stotinki, and 1, 2, 3, and 5 levas. These were issued on October 26th and remained in circulation for four days only.

We have called the stamps handsome, for indeed they are as regards their execution, having the appearance of mezzotints, although the actual designs are poor. They are on thick, unwater-marked paper, perf., and of large format. The 30stot, which is transverse oblong, has what we take to be either a deserted battlefield or a graveyard, with two or three figures whose purport is not clear to us. Underneath this design is an antiquated gun-carriage and what we presume to be a howitzer of the 'seventies.

Vazoff, be it noted, was born in the same year in which Bulgaria obtained autonomy from Turkey (1870).

The 50stot, in slate has the effigy of a peasant soldier brandishing a rifle, and is of upright rectangular format.

The 1 leva pale brown, oblong, has portraits of Vazoff as he was in 1870 and as he is to-day, nicely framed in medallions. Excellent idea this; we must bring it to the notice of the famous lady who said "Here's me!"

The 2 levas, sepia, upright, has a portrait of the poet in a circular frame, and the 3 levas grey-black, oblong, shows two buildings—presumably one Vazoff's birthplace and the other his 1920 mansion.

The 5 levas Prussian blue, upright, is the most striking of the series. It depicts an aged man holding a scrap of paper—the poet with a rejected manuscript perhaps! Or is it a Bulgarian Rasputin?

Each of the six stamps is inscribed in Bulgarian characters; the 30stot and 1 leva have the years "1870"—"1920" at top, and the 3 levas has them below the view.—Stamp Collecting.

CASTELLORIZO.—Nearly five years have elapsed since the French occupied the island of Castellorizo, which is near the southwest corner of Asia Minor (the date of their landing there, to be exact, was December 29th, 1915), and, when the Greek Government protested, the French authorities replied that the occupation was temporary and was necessary for military reasons it being intended to use the island as a base. However, our Gallic allies remained in possession until recently, and they have now transferred the island to the Italian Government. As a parting gift, they have bequeathed us three distinct sets of provisional postage stamps, thus philatelically perpetuating their "temporary" occupation of Castellorizo.

The first of these sets appeared towards the middle of June last, when the following values of the current adhesives for French Levant were issued with the overprint B. N. F. CASTELLORIZO, in two lines (the quantity overprinted is indicated in parentheses after each value):—

1c (2,300).	25c (300)
2c (1,800).	30c (200)
3c (2,000)	40c (150)

J. O. MOORE,

RHEIMS, N. Y.

after, June 22nd, in accordance with a decree of Naval Lieut. Le Moigne, Governor of the island. It comprised stamps of the same Levant series overprinted "O. N. F. Castellorizo", in two lines, the initials signifying "Occupation Navale Francaise". This overprint is in black, except on the 25 and 30c, which has it in red, while the 5c has the overprints in both colours, the black one being much the rarer. The values and numbers overprinted of this series are stated to comprise:—

1c (5,100).	25c (2,170)
2c (3,400).	30c (640)
5c (875).	40c (825)
10c (2,300).	50c (1,220)
15c (700).	1f (350)
20c (392).	5f (245)

In addition, a certain number of the 2f stamps are reported to have been overprinted "in mistake", these being suppressed.

The third issue was effected on the arrival of the steamship "La Provence," in September, a small quantity of the current postal adhesives of France, taken from that vessel, being hand-stamped locally with the superscription O. F. CASTELLORIZO (Occupation Francaise). The values and numbers so earmarked are stated to be as follows:—

5, 10, 20, 25c (500 each).
50c and 1f (200 each).

The handstamp was subsequently destroyed in the presence of a Commission appointed by the Governor, and, of course, all these enterprises of Lieut. Le Moigne are now obsolete.—Stamp Collecting.

CHINA (Italian P. O.).—Apropos of our chronicle of the Shanghai surcharges, we now learn that, during the flight by aeroplane from Rome to Tokyo, early this year, an experimental aerial mail service was made by order of the Italian Consul at Shanghai. It was for this purpose that the Italian adhesives were overprinted with the word "Shanghai" and new value in cents, diagonally, as already chronicled. It appears that the quantity so surcharged was extremely limited (we must invent a monosyllable word for this expression—it would save such a lot of space!), viz.:—

40 stamps of 2c on 5c (25 used)
30 stamps of 4c on 10c (22 used)
25 stamps of 8c on 20 on 15c (10 used)
10 stamps of 10c on 25c (6 used)
13 stamps of 20c on 50c (1 used)
5 stamps of 40c on 1 lire (1 used).

All mail bearing these adhesives was duly delivered to destination, and the overprinting stamp was destroyed by order of the Italian Consul, who remitted to the Minister of Posts at Rome the value of the stamps surcharged and used by the returning aeroplane.—Stamp Collecting.

Mr. S. R. Sheldon sends us the following newspaper clipping regarding the additional cost of postage in this country:—

"The public is hereby notified that, in order to assist in raising funds for the relief of the famine in North China, the registration fee for all local and domestic mail matter will be increased from 5 cents to 6 cents for one year from December 1st, 1920, to November 30th, 1921 and that during the same period an additional one-half percent will be added to all domestic money order fees. Further, postage stamps of the values of 2 cents, 4 cents and 6 cents surcharged with the values 1 cent, 3 cents and 5 cents, respectively, will be on sale during the same period in addition to the postage stamps now on sale. The surcharged stamps will be sold at the original value of the stamp, but for the purpose of franking mail matter or parcels, both domestic and international, they will be accepted only at the surcharged value. The use of the surcharged stamps for franking mail matter is optional."

DAMASCUS.—Mr. Ashley C. LeDuc has shown us two stamps, presumably of Turkish origin, that he advises are for use in the city of Damascus. One is red and has the figures "1920" at the base, while the other is somewhat smaller and of a light brown shade. The latter also has the same date as the first one mentioned.

ESTHONIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us a copy of the 35x10p soldiers stamp with the surcharge "1 Mk." and ornaments obliterating the former value 35p. The overprint is black.

FIUME.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us a set of four stamps that they advise were issued in commemoration of the first year of occupation. At the top of each stamp is the inscription "Poste de Fiume" and directly beneath "XII Septembre MCMXIX." Each stamp shows a different centre and each has the value at the base. The value and colors with the type is as follows: 5c green, sword cutting knot; 10c red, water flowing from a vessel; 20c orange, likeness of a man with a crown of thorns upon his head; 25c blue, five hands holding daggers.

GERMANY (Surcharged "Saargebiet").—The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted to us the following new colors with the surcharge mentioned above: 5pf brown, 10pf orange, 20pf light green, 40pf red.

PALESTINE.—In forwarding specimens of the new Palestine provisionals, Mr. S. B. Kenyon informs us that they were overprinted locally in the printing press of the Greek Convent at Jerusalem, and owing to the inferior type used, there are many minor varieties. They were first placed on sale on September 1st, but only the piastre values were on sale to the public, and in the case of the 1 piastre (overprinted in silver) not more than five copies could be purchased by each applicant. The millieme values were affixed by the postal authorities between September 1st, and 22nd, when a second printing was placed on sale, and they are now available in any quantities. The 3 and 5 milliemes values of the second printing are in distinct shades, that of the 5 milliemes being burnt orange instead of orange-yellow.

Amongst the stamps which franked Mr. Kenyon's letter was a 3 mils, E. E. F., overprinted O. P. D. A., 2½ mm. This is a fiscal stamp, but apparently available for postage.—Philatelic Magazine.

RUSSIA (Gen'l Wrangel Occupation).—Mr. Frank P. Brown and the Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 5k stamp Scott's A14, both perforate and imperforate, with the surcharge "5" and two lines of Russian characters in black; also the 20k blue and red, Scott's A6, with the same overprint but in heavier type. At the same time they also advise the 35k light blue stamp of South Russia with the same surcharge as the 5k first mentioned.

SALVADOR.—Three new provisionals are reported viz:—15c on 29c black (75,000); 35c on 50c grey (20,000), and 60c on 1col black and blue (20,000). Of the 29c value ten thousand copies have also been surcharged as a 26c provisional.—Stamp Collecting

SPAIN.—Mr. Joseph A. Steinmetz has shown us the 25cts value of the new set recently placed on sale to celebrate the Seventh Universal Postal Congress being held in Madrid. This value is blue with the portrait and central figures in black and across the centre has the inscription "VII Congreso U. P. U." In the lower left corner is "25", while the lower right "Cts". Between is the "Madrid 1920". At the top of the stamp is the head and shoulder of the King, while below is the picture of a large public building, presumably where the congress is held.

SPECIAL OFFERINGS!

Never before in the history of stamp collecting has there been such a demand for cheap and medium stamps in quantity. We are listing a few choice lots below and shall be glad to submit new offers to interested parties upon request:

SWEDEN

Over ONE MILLION stamps, many varieties, cataloguing from 1c to 20c each; all off paper, bundled, and in good condition. An accumulation of merit and the greatest buy ever offered to the trade. Total catalogue value almost $20,000.00.

Net Price, $400.00 Postpaid.

AUSTRIA, HUNGARY, ETC.

Between 275,000 and 300,000 stamps, cataloguing 1c to 4c each and containing over 30,000 of the 5 and 10 filler charity stamps. Every stamp in this lot is a selected specimen and all are free of paper and in transparent envelopes of 100. We don't know the catalogue value of the lot, but guarantee absolute satisfaction or money back.

Net Price, $125.00 Postpaid.

PORTUGAL AND COLONIES

Over 125,000 stamps, including Azores, Angra, Angola, Cape Verde, Funchal, India, Ponta del Gada, Lorenzo Marques, etc., 110 varieties cataloguing 2c each and up. Portuguese Colonies have been off the market for several years and this is an excellent buy for either the wholesale or retail dealer. Will sell entire or singly at the option of the buyer. List and prices on request.

AUSTRIA, FIELDPOST TWO

Scott's Nos. 472-98. These stamps are among the scarcest of Austrian issues and are practically impossible to obtain in quantity. We bought the entire stock of a Vienna dealer. The lot consists of about 50,000 stamps, mixed values both used and unused and containing 400 mint copies of the scarce 10 kronen value. Catalogued nearly $8,500.00. Will sell entire or singly. Prices on request.

4,000 VARIETY PACKET

Contains a wide range of countries and each stamp is neatly mounted in a blank book, mostly by countries. These packets are guaranteed to be of a higher quality than the usual run and are sold with an absolute "money-back" guarantee. As good a buy for the dealer as for the collector.

Price $45.00 Postpaid.

10,000 VARIETY COLLECTION

A general collection of value made up by a collector abroad and mounted in loose-leaf albums. All countries are well represented both in old as well as new issues. This is the greatest bargain ever offered and sold with the same guarantee of money refunded if not satisfactory. We expect the collection early in January and the first letter received will take it.

Price $250.00 Postpaid.

DEALERS!

OUR WHOLESALE APPROVAL DEPARTMENT is Ace-High. We send out stamps of superior quality and at lowest market prices. If you have never done business with us write at once. We can prove it!

COLLECTORS

Through our foreign connections we often obtain single stamps and sets of medium and scarcer value, both of New Europe and of the older issues. We are not retail dealers and never intend to be, but would be glad to dispose of the occasional items we obtain at a small per cent. over cost. Write us if interested.

Written for MEKEEL'S.

N. F. CARIBOU PLATE NUMBERS.

HARRY E. HUBER.

In a recent issue of the M. W. S. N., the opinion is expressed that the figure 2 in the right margin of a sheet of the new printing 2c Caribou, probably refers to the second printing. By "new printing" is probably meant the stamp in the pale red shade received by the S. S. Digby September 29th, and placed on sale at the G. P. O. October 4, 1920. But this is by no means the second printing of this stamp, being rather the fifth printing. The second printing was received in May, the third in June, and the fourth in August of 1920.

However, as to the figure "2" in the right margin, this appeared in the first printing, as well as subsequent. It is a plate number.

All values of the Caribou series are issued in Post Office sheets of 100 stamps (10x10), but plates for the 1c, 2c, and 3c consist of two panes of 100 subjects each, arranged side by side—the right pane is numbered 2, and the left 1. The sheets from the press are of 200 stamps; these are cut apart, and then perforated.

Surrounding each pane of 100 stamps, there are two marginal lines (4 mm. apart), the first of which is 10 mm. from the stamp design. In the right margin of the right pane, outside of the marginal lines, and opposite the tenth stamp of the fifth horizontal row, there appears this plate number 2. The figure "2" in the 2c is much smaller, and in different type, to that for the 1c and 3c.

THE EXCHANGE STAMP COMPANY,
(formerly of New York & S. Francisco)
AUBURN, CALIFORNIA.
Largest Auction Concern on Pacific Coast.

For the left pane, numbered 1, of the three values (1c, 2c, and 3c), the plate number is positioned in the left margin of the pane, outside the marginal lines, and opposite the first stamp of the fifth horizontal row.

For convenience in quartering the sheet of 100 stamps, there are arrow marks at the proper places in all four margins; these also are used as a guide in perforating.

From all appearances the perforating of all values of the Caribou series, save the 5c, is done by means of a comb machine, gauging 14, which perforates the top, bottom and right-hand side of a vertical row of ten stamps at one time. The perforation never passes through the upper, lower or right margins of the sheet. For the 5c, however, a single line perforating machine is used.

Not all sheets of the 1c, 2c, and 3c Caribou stamps have the plate numbers, for many sheets have the margins trimmed down to the outside marginal line; on others, the appearance is that ink has not been applied to this portion of the plate.

1560—1561—1562—1563.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1560 to 1563 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

Learn Stamp Collecting by Post

Now that there is a recognized School of Philately no collector however distant from the centres of philatelic activity, need lack the knowledge and understanding which makes the "Complete Philatelist."

Efficiency is everywhere recognised today as the key-note to success. To become a successful philatelist the path of the aspirant is now made easy and interesting by the Course of Instruction specially designed by Mr. Fred. J. Melville for the Philatelic Institute.

We should like to tell you all about this interesting course, and so we ask you to send for our free booklet, "Stamp Collecting for Pleasure and Profit." Send no money, only 4c stamp for postage to [C3]
